SUPERVISORS REVIEW

Conversion Law Eyed Favorably

A proposed ordinance to regulate the conversion of apartments to condominiums was received favorably yesterday by Marin County supervisors, who returned it to the planning commission for further refinement. (Other supervisors stores, page 10.)

The ordinance, which has been in the works for nearly a year, is intended to protect both existing tenants and future buyers of converted units. It also seeks to maintain a minimum 1-to-3 ratio between rented and owned dwellings in Marin.

The provision presents a legal question of how to keep such units from being resold or rented at the higher "market rate" after first being sold at the reduced rate.

"When selling below market value, there's presently no way of keeping it in that price range beyond the first owner," Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini said. "A fundamental point of law is that a person has the right to freely transfer property . . . and move on."

The question has been discussed for years by county officials who have considered requiring "the right of first refusal" on any sales, among other things.

In referring the document back to the planning commission, supervisors asked County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to research ways of restricting future sales of such units.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere said he opposed proposals "to legislate housing mix" but agreed with the rest of the ordinance.

It protects tenants by establishing guidelines under which the county will approve or disapprove conversion requests.

It says the county can turn down a conversion request if existing tenants "will have substantial difficulty" in finding comparably priced housing in the area. It also gives tenants 90 days before they must move if conversion is approved.

Conversion can be prohibited if the percentage of rental units drops below 25 per cent of the total number of homes in the county, the document says. Currently, rental units make up 30 per cent of the total.

To protect buyers, it proposes that a "condominium conversion report" be required, listing all housing, health and safety code violations — to be corrected prior to sale.

"The value of the ordinance is to protect tenants," Chairman Michael Wornum said at

Tomales Bay Park Funds Move Ahead

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A $2 million appropriation to expand Tomales Bay State Park has cleared its last major legislative hurdle. (See other legislative stories, page 25.)

The bill, AB 3401 by Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Loy Angeles, survived repeated attempts to amend it Monday in the Senate National Resources and Wildlife Committee. Several members of the committee attempted to add pet projects of their own to the bill, but failed.

The Marin portion of the park expansion is included in 28 proposed purchases totaling $25.9 million. The funds for Marin are aimed at purchase of the Herbert H. Angress property and Millerton and Tomasini points.

Priolo's bill went to the Senate Finance Committee, where approval is expected. Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, predicted the bill will be signed by the governor. The list of park projects was drafted by the Department of Parks and Recreation.

Criminal Justice Agency Head Scored By Former Secretary

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A former secretary in the Marin County Criminal-Justice Planning agency, complaining bitterly of her treatment while working for the agency's director, lost a round yesterday in her bid to win reemployment rights.

Marie J. Kniveton, who quit May 31 after more than three years with the agency, accused Director Bella H. Aaron of abusing her position, her employees and county personnel practices.

Her comments came in an appeal to the county personnel commission to override Mrs. Aaron's refusal to grant her reemployment rights with the county.

Reemployment rights, if approved by the department head, allow an employee to be hired by another county department without going through standard testing and interviewing procedures.

The system was set up years ago as a courtesy to employees with good records who have to quit because of some extraordinary situation, such as caring for a sick relative. They are granted for one year.

Commissioners questioned why Mrs. Kniveton had not filed a grievance instead of quitting. Commissioner Robert McCredie said he felt it improper to use the appeal of reemployment rights to raise the charges.

He also said granting the appeal would set a precedent for letting an employee simply quit on two days notice and be assured of reemployment rights. Commissioners John Ralph Thomas and Parnel A. Finn agreed.

Mrs. Kniveton can appeal the commission's decision to county supervisors.

Mrs. Aaron did not attend yesterday's session. She had earlier told commissioner Farlatti she refused to, and Farlatti, on Monday, issued a subpoena. It was not served, and Farlatti commented yesterday that she had successfully "ducked" sheriff's officers.

Mrs. Kniveton, who had received high ratings from Mrs. Aaron over the years, said she quit on two-days notice because "conditions had deteriorated and our relationship had become intolerable."

The short notice led to Mrs.

Turks In Massive Attack On Cyprus

Agreement Reported On Cease-Fire Pact

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Turkey overran much of eastern Cyprus today with massive air, artillery and tank attacks. The United Nations announced a cease-fire had been agreed between Greek Cypriot and Turkish forces in the capital of Nicosia tonight, but firing continued for an hour after it went into effect.

The Turkish forces surrounded U.N. troops holding the Nicosia airport, leveled much of the industrial area of Nicosia with heavy bombing attacks. They also drove to within five miles of the big eastern port of Famagusta and to within eight miles of the southeastern port of Larnaca.

The offensive which brought Turkey and Greece close to war meant the Turks controlled most of the northeastern third of Cyprus in what the Greek Cypriots said was a move to slice the eastern Mediterranean Island into Greek and Turkish Cypriot areas. Greece pulled its troops out of NATO in protest, threatening to collapse NATO's southern flank.

U.N. spokesman Rudolph Stadjuhar said the proposed cease-fire went into effect at 6:15 p.m. (12:15 p.m. EDT).

"We hope that tonight there is going to be a cease-fire in Nicosia city," Stadjuhar told newsmen.

One hour after the cease-fire went into effect, rifle fire could still be heard crackling through the city but by 7:15 p.m. (1:15 p.m. EDT) it had died down and the city was relatively quiet after the daylong bombing and strafing raids by Turkish warplanes.

Cyprus' acting president Glafkos Clerides protested to the U.N. over the Turkish offensive, said the Turks were extending the area under the control and called on the Security Council to intervene.

Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit announced a series of Turkish victories but said, he believed the attacks would not bring a Turko-Greek war.

The 14 other members of NATO pleaded with Greece to reconsider its action — which could mean the removal of U.S. nuclear deterrents from Greece — and called on Turkey to respect the cease-fire ordered by the U.N. Security Council. The pleas had no effect.

In Washington the State Department threatened to cut off military aid to both Greece and Turkey if war breaks out between them. A statement said the United States deplores the Turkish use of force and that Washington supports the U.N. call for a cease-fire.

The Geneva talks collapsed early today and Britain called an urgent session of the Security Council in New York at 3:30 a.m. EDT. The council required

Second Spot Choices To President

Ford's final decision had been expected this weekend, but the White House said his attention had been diverted to the new Cyprus crisis and his selection might be delayed beyond that point.

Presidential press secretary Jerry terHorst said Ford's secretaries took custody of the congressional envelopes, listing the selections of contributors in one-two-three order, and began opening them for Ford's perusal. No one else would see them, terHorst said.

A conservative vs. liberal campaign pushed two men — George Bush for the conservatives and Nelson A. Rockefeller for the liberals — well to the forefront of Capitol Hill sentiment.

But there was no indication Ford would be swayed toward either man and the White House said only that his decision may come sometime this weekend.

Ford set today as the deadline for Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott and House GOP leader John J. Rhodes to bring the sealed nominations down from Congress.

On Capitol Hill, Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., urged Ford to delay selection of a vice president until after the November elections provide a better guide to "the will of the people."

House Speaker Carl Albert and the Democratic whip, Rep. John McFall of California, opposed the delay.

A White House official said the President was leaning toward Bush, the Republican Party chairman, former New York Gov. Rockefeller and Sen. Howard Baker, R.-Tenn. But Ford has said nothing and his wife, Betty, told reporters she still has hopes he might choose a woman.

Ford, Kissinger Discuss Newest Crisis On Cyprus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, facing the first major international problem of his administration, discussed the renewed crisis over Cyprus with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other top aides today while Japan disclosed Ford would visit that nation later in the year.

In a day when Ford's attention to major domestic problems including the economy was temporarily disrupted, there were these developments.

The Japanese embassy said the new President had accepted an invitation to visit Japan "before the end of the year at the earliest opportunity." One Japanese official speculated the trip would come after the November congressional elections.

—Ford unexpectedly met with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. There was speculation the Russian envoy brought a message of congratulations from Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

An hour-long morning meeting between Ford and Kissinger followed Turkish air, ground and sea attacks on Greek Cypriot positions soon after the breakdown of peace talks in Geneva.

Jerry terHorst, Ford's press secretary, stressed the two leaders saw Cyprus as a diplomatic problem, not a military one, as far as the United States was concerned. TerHorst said Ford is "concerned but very hopeful" that further pressure could be exerted through diplomatic channels to get Greek and Turkish diplomats back to the conference table.

Announcement of the Japan trip was made through the embassy and the Japanese Foreign Ministry in Tokyo. Former President Richard M. Nixon had planned to visit Japan and the trip presumably will be Ford's first out of the country as president.

The meeting with Dobrynin — also a first for Ford as president —was not announced on the public schedule. Dobrynin was in the Soviet Union when Nixon resigned last week. He returned to Washington during the weekend. He met with Kissinger Monday.

TerHorst said Ford was giving Cyprus "urgent priority" and had to reshuffle his schedule, which included meetings with governors and mayors, to meet the situation.

There was no immediate White House comment on the announcement by Greece that it was withdrawing its armed forces.

Alan Bruce Is Named San Anselmo Manager

Former Marin County Administrator Alan Bruce was chosen last night to be the next city administrator and controller of San Anselmo. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 3.)

The 3-2 decision was made in an open session which followed lengthy discussion on the merits of closed sessions and a 3-2 vote that the council continue to meet in closed session when permitted by the Ralph M. Brown Act.

(The act — either directly or by court interpretation — allows the council to meet behind closed doors to decide whom to hire or appoint to a vacant position, to hear charges against an employee or appointed official, to consider firing someone, to instruct its representative in salary negotiations with employees, to discuss with counsel litigation contemplated or in progress, to discuss its bargaining position in the sale or purchase of property, to decide on emergency security measures for imperiled public buildings.)

Despite having decided to keep the option of having closed sessions, councilmen voted 4-to-1 (Kenneth Anderson dissenting) to make the city administrator choice in public.

In the 3-2 vote, Bruce beat John W. De Weerd, former city manager of Cerritos in Los Angeles County, who was favored by Mayor Martin G. Blinder and Councilman Pieter Toal.

Councilmen held no discussion among themselves, but opened the floor to citizens comments. Two spoke. One called Bruce an "excellent but arrogant administrator" who conducted his administration "like the Pope in Rome," and opposed his appointment. The other commented inconclusively on the merits of choosing employees publicly.

Blinder in a letter last week to the Independent-Journal said Bruce "would prove too aggressive and high-powered for a small town like San Anselmo," but after last night's voting said "I am behind him now, and we will work as a team."

Bruce, 51, has been a San Anselmo resident for 14 years. He was county administrator from 1960 to 1971, earning a reputation as a controversial

Congress Acts On Ford Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress moved swiftly today to provide President Ford the first weapon he sought to combat inflation — a stripped-down agency to monitor, rather than control, wages and prices.

Top administration aides stressed at congressional hearings that mandatory controls would not be revived and that no effort would be made by the new administration either to raise or lower taxes as a means of coping with economic problems.

Ford told Sen. Russell Long, D-La., during an informal picture-taking session at the White House that he was convinced he took the right action when he criticized General Motors Corp. for its planned 10 per cent price hike on 1975 models.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Evers Accused Of Tax Evasion

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Veteran civil rights leader Charles Evers was charged yesterday with three counts of evading federal income taxes amounting to more than $50,000.

Evers

The Fayette, Miss., mayor was served a criminal summons in Jackson.

The three-count indictment charges Evers filed false income tax statements for 1969, 1970 and 1971. His former wife, Nannie Laura Evers, was charged in two counts for filing with him in 1969 and 1970.

The charges said Evers had income totaling more than $179,000 for the three years and should have paid taxes totaling $56,236. Instead, it was charged that income of only $20,219 was reported and taxes of only $3,632 were paid for the three years.

Abortion Death

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — A former wife of President Idi Amin was found dead from an incomplete abortion in the trunk of a car belonging to a doctor who died of poisoning Monday, police said.

Police said an autopsy on Amin's ex-wife, Kay Adroa, showed she was three to four months pregnant when she died from bleeding caused by the faulty operation.

The spokesman said they suspected the doctor, Eter Mbaru, committed suicide by poison after performing the illegal and fatal abortion.

Saxbe To Stay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe says he has told President Ford he will continue to serve, and that the President has promised not to involve himself in day-to-day operations of the Justice Department.

After a meeting with Ford yesterday, Saxbe said the President told him he wanted the department, shaken by controversy and personnel upheavals from the Watergate scandals, to be run "clean and fair."

"He said he wanted it understood that he was not going to intefere in any manner, nor any of his people, with the orderly law enforcement and litigating activities of the Justice Department," Saxbe said.

Guerrillas Chased

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Agrentine army units chased fleeing Marxist guerrillas into the mountains near Tucuman province today in a drive to wipe out the highly organized underground band.

The fighting marked the first time the army was authorized to join police against guerrillas since a civilian government came to power last year after seven years of military rule.

On the political front, President Maria Estela Isable Peron presided over the first cabinet shake-up of her six-week-old administration, replacing the ministers of defense, interior and education.

FDA Raps Legislation On Vitamins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation designed to overturn government regulation of vitamins is a "charlatan's dream" that could legitimize consumer fraud, the Food and Drug Administration charged today.

FDA Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt said if Congress gives in to pressure from special interest groups on the issue it will have sanctioned the sale of "ingredients of unknown safety" and allowed "the fraudulent promotion of just about any article as long as it is labeled as a 'food supplement'."

Schmidt's attack came in testimony prepared for a Senate hearing on bills to limit the agency's regulation of vitamins. The FDA has already put high-concentration doses of vitamins A and D on a prescription-only basis because it said such doses are dangerous.

Beginning next year it wants to place in the drug category any vitamin, food supplement or food product containing more than 150 per cent of the recommended daily allowance of any one vitamin. The FDA also wants to outlaw certain combination vitamins it considers useless.

Classification as a drug would subject vitamin products involved to review for effectiveness and could result in their being put on a prescription basis, although the FDA contends that won't happen.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Melvin Laird, former Secretary of Defense and a close friend of President Ford, says he will serve Ford as a friend but will not hold a post in the Ford administration, according to a Milwaukee newspaper.

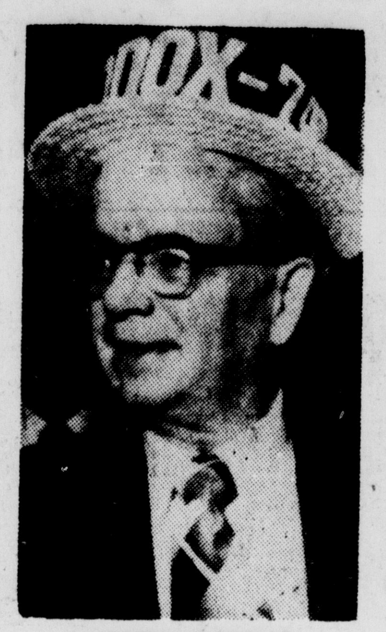
Lester Maddox In Runoff For Governor Nomination

ATLANTA (UPI) — Fiery Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox, trying to become Georgia's first repeat governor in 30 years, easily won a plurality of votes in the Democratic primary last night, but was forced into a runoff by the 12-man field.

The one-time ax-handle foe of desegregation held a commanding lead over his nearest challenger but failed to win the necessary 50.1 per cent of the votes to avoid a second race.

Maddox, 58, will face Georgia House Majority Leader George Busbee, 46, in the Sept. 3 runoff. Busbee beat out former State Transportation Director Bert Lance, who had the support of outgoing Gov. Jimmy Carter, in a fight for the second spot.

With more than 80 per cent of the votes counted, Maddox had 251,630 votes, or 34.8 per cent. Busbee had 157,609 votes to 106,736 for Lance. Former Sen. David Gambrell, D-Ga., was a distant fourth with 57,304.



LESTER MADDOX
Wins plurality

The Republican race for governor also went into a runoff. Macon Mayor Ronnie "Machine-gun" Thompson, a law-and-order advocate who ordered his policemen to "shoot to kill" felons, led the four-man chase, with converted Democrat Harold Dye his probable opponent in the second primary.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, easily won renomination to a fourth term over political newcomer Carlton Myers. Talmadges faces another newcomer, Republican Jerry Johnston, in the general election in November.

In the congressional races, the only incumbent in trouble seemed to be veteran Rep. John Davis, D-Ga., who was trailing Dr. Larry McDonald, an Atlanta urologist whom he beat by 3,000 votes in 1972.

Maddox, who sold ax handles as a weapon against desegregation in the 1960's, said he was not disappointed in being forced into a runoff, despite his campaign predictions that he would win in a landslide.

"I just think it's miraculous. We're more than double the next man," said Maddox, who served as governor from 1966-1970 and is seeking to become the first two-term governor since the late Gene Talmadge, father of Herman, in 1941.

Nixon's Private Beach Taken Over By Surfers

The beach below the Nixon oceanside villa was closed to the public whenever the Nixons were in residence while he was President. The Coast Guard kept two cutters stationed offshore to prevent boats from coming closer than a mile to the beach.

Although all beaches are automatically open to the public under California law, the President's security overrode the state law. Nixon liked to walk on the beach, relaxing and thinking.

When Nixon was not there, the beach was open. The surfers who favor the beach complained over the weekend that with Nixon no longer president, there should be no restrictions on their using the beach, which was closed when he arrived last Friday.

The Coast Guard patrol boats were withdrawn Monday, and lifeguards yesterday told bathers and surfers they could use the Nixon beach, by walking about three quarters of a mile south from San Clemente State Beach.

Nixon remained in seclusion. An aide said he went to his office on the Coast Guard station adjoining the estate early yesterday morning and met for a while with former Press Secretary Ron Ziegler, who has become his chief aide.

Lottery Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has approved a bill to block the Internal Revenue Service from imposing a 10 per cent federal excise tax on state lotteries.

Midwest Is Drenched By Showers

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Midnight thundershowers drenched Kansas, bringing small hail and heavy winds. More thundershowers hit from Idaho to Kansas and in the Texas Panhandle.

Earlier in the night, strong winds whipped Nelson, Neb., in the south central part of the state. Heavy winds snapped six-inch limbs from trees and hail the size of golfballs pelted the area.

Hail also struck Rosebud, S.D., and Lewistown, Mont.

Another line of thundershowers washed down the area from eastern Texas and Louisiana into southeast New York state.

Dense fog shrouded portions of northern Ohio, where extensive flooding washed out wires and downed trees yesterday. Police said the storm at Oberlin, Ohio, knocked out telephone service and similar damage was reported at Willington. In Parma, two girls were slightly injured when lightning struck a tree under which they were sitting.

Evers Accused Of Tax Evasion

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Veteran civil rights leader Charles Evers was charged yesterday with three counts of evading federal income taxes amounting to more than $50,000.

Evers

The Fayette, Miss., mayor was served a criminal summons in Jackson.

The three-count indictment charges Evers filed false income tax statements for 1969, 1970 and 1971. His former wife, Nannie Laura Evers, was charged in two counts for filing with him in 1969 and 1970.

The charges said Evers had income totaling more than $179,000 for the three years and should have paid taxes totaling $56,236. Instead, it was charged that income of only $20,219 was reported and taxes of only $3,632 were paid for the three years.

Abortion Death

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — A former wife of President Idi Amin was found dead from an incomplete abortion in the trunk of a car belonging to a doctor who died of poisoning Monday, police said.

Police said an autopsy on Amin's ex-wife, Kay Adroa, showed she was three to four months pregnant when she died from bleeding caused by the faulty operation.

The spokesman said they suspected the doctor, Eter Mbaru, committed suicide by poison after performing the illegal and fatal abortion.

Scouts Find Body Of Missing Socialite

HALF MOON BAY (UPI) — Boy Scouts, using ropes to lower themselves into a canyon in the chaparral-covered Coast Range Mountains, have found the body of a socialite who disappeared mysteriously.

The body of Mrs. Lois J. McNamara, 53, was discovered yesterday in a 170-foot deep canyon cut by Tunitas Creek, which during the rainy season flows into the Pacific Ocean 10 miles southeast of Half Moon Bay.

A divorcee whose ex-husband was dead, Mrs. McNamara vanished July 12 from her $140,000 home in Hillsborough, a swank suburb of San Francisco.

The search for her remains was concentrated along the Tunitas Creek Road because the body of a recently discharged sailor was found there Aug. 4.

Barry A. Brown, 21, of nearby Menlo Park, and his girl friend, Carol Campbell, 27, have been charged in San Mateo County with both the slayings.

Evans Feels VP Chances Slim

Evans hinted yesterday that if he was offered the job, however, he would probably accept.

"I really don't want to cross that bridge unless the question is asked," Evans said. "And I think the chances that the question will be asked are pretty remote."

But Evans added, "it would be pretty tough to turn down."

Complaints On Market Are Shelved

The San Anselmo City Council last night put off until its Nov. 12 meeting any action on citizen complaints about the around-the-clock operation of a local food market. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 1.)

Councilmen heard several citizens say that the situation has improved markedly at the Stop 'n Go Market at 807 San Anselmo Avenue.

Citizens complained July 10 that crowds of rowdy, beer-drinking juveniles gathered there after dark. A spokesman for the market said a guard had been hired in the meantime, and Mayor Martin G. Blinder noted, "many of your foes are impressed with the changes."

The San Anselmo City Council also:

MAILING — Appropriated $500 to cover increased costs of mailing copies of the general plan to residents and property owners.

DELAYS — Put over until its next meeting Aug. 27 at 8 p.m. the appeal of the planning commission's denial of a use permit for Winchell's Donut House and the request for a rate increase by Tele-Vue Systems, Inc., the cable television firm.

INTERTIE — Adopted 4-to-0 (Capurro abstaining) a resolution expressing "serious concern" about the Marin Municipal Water District's plans to build the North Marin intertie to import water from the Russian River.

KNOX — Voted 4-to-1 (Toal dissenting) to withdraw its previous support of the Knox Bill establishing a Bay Area Planning Agency.

PARKS — Announced that it had two vacancies on the parks and recreation commission following the resignations of Gerald A. DeVore and Laura Cann.

BOND ISSUE — Approved 3-to-2 (Capurro and Colteaux opposed) the Parks and Recreation department proposals to spend the $36,460 which will be available July 1, 1975, due to voter approval of the State Park Bond Issue. Dissenting councilmen objected to spending the money on seven small projects instead of one large one.

Reporter In Plane Crash

SHIDLER, Okla. (UPI) — A light plane crashed in tree-covered hills of North Central Oklahoma yesterday injuring two persons, including a Los Angeles Times reporter.

Tom Campbell, 32, of Arvada, Colo., the pilot and Bella Marie Stumbo, 30, of Los Angeles, were listed in good condition today at the Ponca City Hospital Inc. Miss Stumbo suffered a fractured right heel and a cut on her right ear lobe.

Highway Patrolman said the plane was en route to Harrison, Ark., from Garden City, Kan. Miss Stumbo was working on a series for the Times called "The American Mood."

EXECUTIVE — Priscilla Kelso, 33, of Healdsburg, former Peace Corps instructor and professor of English in the Philippine Islands, has been appointed program development director for the Sonoma State College Student Resource Center to work with campus clubs and on curriculum-related projects.

Scouts Find Body Of Missing Socialite

HALF MOON BAY (UPI) — Boy Scouts, using ropes to lower themselves into a canyon in the chaparral-covered Coast Range Mountains, have found the body of a socialite who disappeared mysteriously.

The body of Mrs. Lois J. McNamara, 53, was discovered yesterday in a 170-foot deep canyon cut by Tunitas Creek, which during the rainy season flows into the Pacific Ocean 10 miles southeast of Half Moon Bay.

A divorcee whose ex-husband was dead, Mrs. McNamara vanished July 12 from her $140,000 home in Hillsborough, a swank suburb of San Francisco.

The search for her remains was concentrated along the Tunitas Creek Road because the body of a recently discharged sailor was found there Aug. 4.

Barry A. Brown, 21, of nearby Menlo Park, and his girl friend, Carol Campbell, 27, have been charged in San Mateo County with both the slayings.

Evans Feels VP Chances Slim

Evans hinted yesterday that if he was offered the job, however, he would probably accept.

"I really don't want to cross that bridge unless the question is asked," Evans said. "And I think the chances that the question will be asked are pretty remote."

But Evans added, "it would be pretty tough to turn down."

Complaints On Market Are Shelved

The San Anselmo City Council last night put off until its Nov. 12 meeting any action on citizen complaints about the around-the-clock operation of a local food market. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 1.)

Councilmen heard several citizens say that the situation has improved markedly at the Stop 'n Go Market at 807 San Anselmo Avenue.

Citizens complained July 10 that crowds of rowdy, beer-drinking juveniles gathered there after dark. A spokesman for the market said a guard had been hired in the meantime, and Mayor Martin G. Blinder noted, "many of your foes are impressed with the changes."

The San Anselmo City Council also:

MAILING — Appropriated $500 to cover increased costs of mailing copies of the general plan to residents and property owners.

DELAYS — Put over until its next meeting Aug. 27 at 8 p.m. the appeal of the planning commission's denial of a use permit for Winchell's Donut House and the request for a rate increase by Tele-Vue Systems, Inc., the cable television firm.

INTERTIE — Adopted 4-to-0 (Capurro abstaining) a resolution expressing "serious concern" about the Marin Municipal Water District's plans to build the North Marin intertie to import water from the Russian River.

KNOX — Voted 4-to-1 (Toal dissenting) to withdraw its previous support of the Knox Bill establishing a Bay Area Planning Agency.

PARKS — Announced that it had two vacancies on the parks and recreation commission following the resignations of Gerald A. DeVore and Laura Cann.

BOND ISSUE — Approved 3-to-2 (Capurro and Colteaux opposed) the Parks and Recreation department proposals to spend the $36,460 which will be available July 1, 1975, due to voter approval of the State Park Bond Issue. Dissenting councilmen objected to spending the money on seven small projects instead of one large one.

A ROUND BUILDING?

AARON

Aaron's refusal to sign the reemployment rights document.

Mrs. Kniveton said she normally would agree that two-days notice is not adequate but she appealed to the commission to look at her working conditions.

"You may not be aware of the conditions . . . such as verbal abuse to which employees are subjected, the harassment and humiliation, the use of four and seven letter words, countermanding of instructions, changing of systems, etc."

She also accused Mrs. Aaron of using her employees for personal business, "such as hair appointments, usually for Friday mornings, medical and dental appointments, some correspondence pertaining to her former private legal private and contacting outsiders to promote the candidacy of some of her favored county office holders."

Mrs. Kniveton said she threatened to quit last December and was told by the director she would never work for the county again. She later said she requested a transfer and "after that, life was unbearable."

The verbal abuse from Mrs. Aaron was applied across the board to other employees and resulted in some resigning, Mrs. Kniveton said.

She also charged that Mrs. Aaron's work-day averages only six and a half hours and that two months out of the year she is on a leave of absence. (Mrs. Aaron's leaves are approved by supervisors.)

"I suppose everyone reaches a breaking point and I must admit that mine came when I tendered my resignation on May 29."

Her comments were supported by Jack Atkins, who formerly worked in the county personnel office and later with Mrs. Aaron. He said he lasted six months and now works as a private management consultant.

Don Manion, a consultant to Mrs. Aaron, told the commission "the atmosphere" created by Mrs. Aaron was in part due to the pressures of her job.

Another employee, Nadia Gillespie, a part-time secretary, supported Mrs. Aaron saying the director works long hours. "If a job is not well done, she tells it very bluntly . . .in four-letter words," she said, adding its not unusual for department heads to use secretaries for personal business.

Bring On The Girls

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — A 94-year-old tradition will end this fall — the University of Michigan will have a coed cheerleading group for the first time. Pom-pon girls will join the previously all-male contingent, mostly gymnasts and divers.

BRUCE

The proposal to shun the protective mantle of the Brown Act and meet in public on matters involving hiring and salary discussion was made by Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro, but drew support only from Blinder.

"The business that belongs to you people should be held up here in public," Capurro told the audience.

The council majority, however, accepted Anderson's view that "there are certain limited, good and valid circumstances when a closed session is valuable."

Toal argued that Capurro's proposal was inconsistent because it would not make public the discussions involving firing of employees. "This should be not halfway, but everything," Toal said.

He offered an amendment to include firing. Capurro initially agreed, but then rejected the amendment following persuasive argument by Anderson. Toal voted against the unamended proposal.

Anderson contended: "When you're talking about firings, accusations are made, and the council doesn't know if they're valid. You have rumors, cross-rumors, false accusations. It's beyond my comprehension that we can consider doing this in public."

Opposition to Capurro's proposal also came from Councilman John H. Colteaux, who argued, "Some things just should not be said in public. None of us here wants to hide anything, but we need the flexibility to discuss these matters as a group.

"If this passes, discussion will take place by telephone or memorandum instead of in a group. It's ironic, it's too bad, but it's inevitable."

Blinder, supporting the proposal, argued that public discussion would defuse any hostility the citizens might have toward local government. He said he was willing to let the discussions be public despite his fear of being misrepresented in the Independent-Journal.

Later, the council did go into closed session to discuss other ongoing salary negotiations with city employees.

Hospital Release Seen For Burns

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian George Burns, 79, who underwent open heart surgery last Friday, will be released from Cedars of Lebanon hospital in about 10 days, his doctors said.

Burns teamed for many years with his late wife, Gracie Allen. He was reported in good condition yesterday, able to move around and was busy reading the entertainment trade papers.

CYPRUS

only 10 minutes to pass a unanimous resolution asking for a cease-fire. So far the cease-fire has been ignored.

Turkish troops were moving eastward from the Kyrenia area toward the port of Lefka and eastward toward the more important port of Famagusta. The twin moves there and in the Nicosia area would effectively partition Cyprus by military force.

Beginning at dawn, wave after wave of American-made Phantom fighter-bombers of the Turkish air force streaked out of the sun to bomb and strafe the capital while Turkish artillery hammered Greek Cypriot positions in the Kyrenian mountain range about 15 miles to the north.

Radio Nicosia, monitored in Israel, also said Turkish planes bombed Famagusta.

Bombs burst through the industrial section at the east end of Nicosia. It burned for hours, sending up a tower of black smoke into the clear blue sky, and industrialists who took refuge in a hotel said the damage will cripple the island's economy for years.

The heaviest fighting centered at Mia Milea, two miles northeast of Nicosia, and near the airport about five miles southwest of the capital where strong Turkish forces cut off two vital road junctions and encircled the damaged installation, a U.N. spokesman said.

The eruption of renewed warfare following the July 22 cease-fire wounded 20 U.N. soldiers, including six Finns who have been under a constant mortar barrage at their camp near the airport, the spokesman said.

"The Turks are encircling the airport, which is still under U.N. control, while strong Turkish forces supported by heavy armor and artillery are pushing east of Nicosia toward the vital port of Famagusta," the spokesman said.

He said U.N. troops did not enter combat and they would not fire unless attacked at the airport, where four British U.N. troops have been wounded in Turkish bombing runs. U.N. forces took control of the airport following the three-day July war and said they would defend it even if attacked.

The Greek Cypriot government headed by President Glafkos Clerides filed a complaint to the United Nations describing the outbreak of fighting as a "dastardly, unprovoked aggression and indiscriminate bombing of Nicosia and its suburbs," the spokesman said.

Turkey had invaded the eastern Mediterranean island on July 20 in a move that almost brought war with Greece.

It said it did so to protect the approximately 125,000 Turkish Cypriots from the more than 500,000 Greek Cypriots following the Greek-led Cypriot National Guard coup.

one point while Roumiguiere maintained the value is "to protect buyers."

After several minor revisions, the ordinance drew support from the county real estate board, construction industry and League of Women Voters, among others.

A sister ordinance to legalize "mother-in-law apartments" in single-family residential areas, under certain conditions, was discussed briefly and postponed until Sept. 24.

The ordinance would permit homes to be remodeled or small cottages built provided the landlord accepts rent controls and leases only to moderate-income families.

If the landlord is of moderate income, the rent control provisions would not apply to either the main home or the "second unit." Nor would they apply when renting to a relative.

Such dwellings would be permitted under a county use permit, requiring adequate parking, utilities, protection of privacy for adjoining lots and similar concerns.

One speaker yesterday urged the matter be given wider publicity by the county. Supervisors responded by ordering copies of the document sent to various homeowners' associations.

A ROUND BUILDING?

Aaron's refusal to sign the reemployment rights document.

Mrs. Kniveton said she normally would agree that two-days notice is not adequate but she appealed to the commission to look at her working conditions.

"You may not be aware of the conditions . . . such as verbal abuse to which employees are subjected, the harassment and humiliation, the use of four and seven letter words, countermanding of instructions, changing of systems, etc."

She also accused Mrs. Aaron of using her employees for personal business, "such as hair appointments, usually for Friday mornings, medical and dental appointments, some correspondence pertaining to her former private legal private and contacting outsiders to promote the candidacy of some of her favored county office holders."

Mrs. Kniveton said she threatened to quit last December and was told by the director she would never work for the county again. She later said she requested a transfer and "after that, life was unbearable."

The verbal abuse from Mrs. Aaron was applied across the board to other employees and resulted in some resigning, Mrs. Kniveton said.

She also charged that Mrs. Aaron's work-day averages only six and a half hours and that two months out of the year she is on a leave of absence. (Mrs. Aaron's leaves are approved by supervisors.)

"I suppose everyone reaches a breaking point and I must admit that mine came when I tendered my resignation on May 29."

Her comments were supported by Jack Atkins, who formerly worked in the county personnel office and later with Mrs. Aaron. He said he lasted six months and now works as a private management consultant.

Don Manion, a consultant to Mrs. Aaron, told the commission "the atmosphere" created by Mrs. Aaron was in part due to the pressures of her job.

Another employee, Nadia Gillespie, a part-time secretary, supported Mrs. Aaron saying the director works long hours. "If a job is not well done, she tells it very bluntly . . .in four-letter words," she said, adding its not unusual for department heads to use secretaries for personal business.

The proposal to shun the protective mantle of the Brown Act and meet in public on matters involving hiring and salary discussion was made by Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro, but drew support only from Blinder.

"The business that belongs to you people should be held up here in public," Capurro told the audience.

The council majority, however, accepted Anderson's view that "there are certain limited, good and valid circumstances when a closed session is valuable."

Toal argued that Capurro's proposal was inconsistent because it would not make public the discussions involving firing of employees. "This should be not halfway, but everything," Toal said.

He offered an amendment to include firing. Capurro initially agreed, but then rejected the amendment following persuasive argument by Anderson. Toal voted against the unamended proposal.

Anderson contended: "When you're talking about firings, accusations are made, and the council doesn't know if they're valid. You have rumors, cross-rumors, false accusations. It's beyond my comprehension that we can consider doing this in public."

Opposition to Capurro's proposal also came from Councilman John H. Colteaux, who argued, "Some things just should not be said in public. None of us here wants to hide anything, but we need the flexibility to discuss these matters as a group.

"If this passes, discussion will take place by telephone or memorandum instead of in a group. It's ironic, it's too bad, but it's inevitable."

Blinder, supporting the proposal, argued that public discussion would defuse any hostility the citizens might have toward local government. He said he was willing to let the discussions be public despite his fear of being misrepresented in the Independent-Journal.

Later, the council did go into closed session to discuss other ongoing salary negotiations with city employees.

CYPRUS

only 10 minutes to pass a unanimous resolution asking for a cease-fire. So far the cease-fire has been ignored.

Turkish troops were moving eastward from the Kyrenia area toward the port of Lefka and eastward toward the more important port of Famagusta. The twin moves there and in the Nicosia area would effectively partition Cyprus by military force.

Beginning at dawn, wave after wave of American-made Phantom fighter-bombers of the Turkish air force streaked out of the sun to bomb and strafe the capital while Turkish artillery hammered Greek Cypriot positions in the Kyrenian mountain range about 15 miles to the north.

Radio Nicosia, monitored in Israel, also said Turkish planes bombed Famagusta.

Bombs burst through the industrial section at the east end of Nicosia. It burned for hours, sending up a tower of black smoke into the clear blue sky, and industrialists who took refuge in a hotel said the damage will cripple the island's economy for years.

The heaviest fighting centered at Mia Milea, two miles northeast of Nicosia, and near the airport about five miles southwest of the capital where strong Turkish forces cut off two vital road junctions and encircled the damaged installation, a U.N. spokesman said.

The eruption of renewed warfare following the July 22 cease-fire wounded 20 U.N. soldiers, including six Finns who have been under a constant mortar barrage at their camp near the airport, the spokesman said.

"The Turks are encircling the airport, which is still under U.N. control, while strong Turkish forces supported by heavy armor and artillery are pushing east of Nicosia toward the vital port of Famagusta," the spokesman said.

He said U.N. troops did not enter combat and they would not fire unless attacked at the airport, where four British U.N. troops have been wounded in Turkish bombing runs. U.N. forces took control of the airport following the three-day July war and said they would defend it even if attacked.

The Greek Cypriot government headed by President Glafkos Clerides filed a complaint to the United Nations describing the outbreak of fighting as a "dastardly, unprovoked aggression and indiscriminate bombing of Nicosia and its suburbs," the spokesman said.

Turkey had invaded the eastern Mediterranean island on July 20 in a move that almost brought war with Greece.

It said it did so to protect the approximately 125,000 Turkish Cypriots from the more than 500,000 Greek Cypriots following the Greek-led Cypriot National Guard coup .

The Fords Tour Their New Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and his wife Betty toured the White House yesterday, making plans for moving in.

"It's a great place," said Ford, standing on the Truman balcony with its view of the Washington Monument, the Jefferson Monument and the tidal basin.

He dodged other questions, saying "I'm not going to make any comment until I talk to my wife."

Mrs. Ford had a two-hour tour of the executive mansion yesterday with chief usher Rex Scouten as her guide. New first ladies are usually conducted through the White House by the departing presidential wife, but because of former President Nixon's resignation and the Nixons' sudden departure, that custom could not be observed.

"It's pretty nice to me," Mrs. Ford said after her tour. "I really don't consider it my house. I consider it the home of the people of the United States.

"I think it's a beautiful house and I am looking forward to moving in. It's in excellent condition. There is no one more delighted than I am."

The family is selecting the rooms they will use in the living quarters on the second and third floors of the executive mansion. Susan, the President's 17-year-old daughter, has decided to move into the room occupied by Julie Nixon Eisenhower. She plans to have the room painted bright yellow.

Susan turned down a pink second-floor room formerly occupied by Tricia Nixon Cox, saying she wanted to stay on the third floor with her brothers. The President's three sons will have rooms on the fourth floor of the living quarters, but since they are all grown, they'll only use them on visits.

The Fords plan to move into the White House by Monday. They are still living in the suburban Alexandria, Va., home they stayed in for 18 years, and, in a promise to their children, plan to keep the Alexandria house and rent it out. Mrs. Ford said much of her time was in getting the family's property ready for the move.

Mrs. Ford was asked whether the President could continue to cook his own breakfasts —a habit that has become well known since he was sworn into office Friday. She laughed and said he will because "all he needs is a toaster."

She ducked the questions on how many years she would like to live in the White House, saying, "that's a leading question."

The Fords Tour Their New Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and his wife Betty toured the White House yesterday, making plans for moving in.

"It's a great place," said Ford, standing on the Truman balcony with its view of the Washington Monument, the Jefferson Monument and the tidal basin.

He dodged other questions, saying "I'm not going to make any comment until I talk to my wife."

Mrs. Ford had a two-hour tour of the executive mansion yesterday with chief usher Rex Scouten as her guide. New first ladies are usually conducted through the White House by the departing presidential wife, but because of former President Nixon's resignation and the Nixons' sudden departure, that custom could not be observed.

"It's pretty nice to me," Mrs. Ford said after her tour. "I really don't consider it my house. I consider it the home of the people of the United States.

"I think it's a beautiful house and I am looking forward to moving in. It's in excellent condition. There is no one more delighted than I am."

The family is selecting the rooms they will use in the living quarters on the second and third floors of the executive mansion. Susan, the President's 17-year-old daughter, has decided to move into the room occupied by Julie Nixon Eisenhower. She plans to have the room painted bright yellow.

Susan turned down a pink second-floor room formerly occupied by Tricia Nixon Cox, saying she wanted to stay on the third floor with her brothers. The President's three sons will have rooms on the fourth floor of the living quarters, but since they are all grown, they'll only use them on visits.

The Fords plan to move into the White House by Monday. They are still living in the suburban Alexandria, Va., home they stayed in for 18 years, and, in a promise to their children, plan to keep the Alexandria house and rent it out. Mrs. Ford said much of her time was in getting the family's property ready for the move.

Mrs. Ford was asked whether the President could continue to cook his own breakfasts —a habit that has become well known since he was sworn into office Friday. She laughed and said he will because "all he needs is a toaster."

She ducked the questions on how many years she would like to live in the White House, saying, "that's a leading question."

THEY SAY GOODBYE

After a six-week stay in the Midwest to get away from the violence of their native Northern Ireland, 120 children from Belfast have left Minneapolis for home. As they departed yesterday many of them seemed to have become "Americanized." Their new headgear (above) included a baseball cap, a coon skin hat and a cowboy hat plus new sunglasses.

Summer Camp Sign-Ups Set

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sign-ups for the Sonoma County Young Men's Christian Association annual summer camp in the Santa Cruz mountains still are available, Executive Director James T. Bland said yesterday.

The camp Aug. 24-30 is for boys and girls 8 to 12 years old. Each of the camp's 10 cabins will be overseen by a counseler and a counselor trainee, Bland said.

A question-and-answer session for prospective campers and their parents will be held at the YMCA, 1111 College Avenue, at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Fee for Y members will be $58; for nonmembers $64.

Community Band Schedules Sign-Ups

Sign-ups for the College of Marin Community Band will be held at its first rehearsal of the 1974-75 season next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in room 75 in the Fine Arts Building on the college's Kentfield campus.

Membership is open to musicians of all ages. Rehearsals are held each Wednesday evening in the Fine Arts Building and the fall concert will be held Dec. 14 in the Fine Arts Theater.

The Perfect Host

Almaden Grenache Rose, 5th
Almaden Mt. Nectar Vin Rose, 5th

Frequently called an "anytime wine", a Rose wine would be a superb host to the silver salmon or Foster Farms Fryers that are featured this week.

Almaden Grenache Rose (pronounced Grenash Ros-A) is more dry than Almaden Mt. Nectar Vin Rose. Grenache Rose is a younger wine with just a trace of fruit taste. Mt. Nectar Vin Rose, on the other hand, has a subtle sweetness and a more pronounced fruit flavor. Both should be chilled three hours before serving.

Removal Of Drydock Walls Approved By Supervisors

The Sausalito drydocks, which arrived in Richardson Bay for "a temporary stay" in 1966, may soon be leaving for that Great Shipyard in the Sky.

Marin County Supervisors, who have considered even firebombing the huge structures to remove them, yesterday opted for a more conventional way of getting rid of them. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

They voted unanimously to accept a $15,950 bid from Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael to remove the drydock walls.

But supervisors, after eight years of trying to figure out what to do with the docks, apparently have decided that half a drydock is better than one.

They rejected a proposal from Claus Von Wendel who said he could remove the walls, refloat the rest of the docks (which now are mired in the mud) then tow them away for about $7,000.

But supervisors expressed skepticism about Von Wendel's scheme and decided to go along with the Ghilotti bid. "We have to have someone with the financial base and the equipment to get the job done," said Supervisor Michael Wornum.

Wendel submitted a bid in March to remove the docks free in exchange for salvage rights but the county public works department recommended against it because Wendel lacks a contractor's license.

Instead, the county accepted a bid of $2 from Howard H. Hanley Co. of Covina but that firm failed to provide the necessary insurance.

So the county readvertised the demolition project.

A spokesman for Ghilotti Bros. said that work will begin in the next few weeks. He estimated it will take between three and four weeks to complete.

Supervisors also asked County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to take curt action against the Hanley company to recover the costs of the drydocks removal since the firm failed to perform on its promise to do the work for $2.

Supervisors Angry With Hospital Board

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday reacted angrily to news that a representative will not be allowed to appear on the agenda of the next Marin Hospital District board meeting to discuss the relocation of Bon Air Road.

County Administrative Asst. Tracy Friedman told supervisors he had spoken to an assistant administrator at Marin General Hospital, asking that the matter be placed on the hospital board's agenda.

Friedman reported he was told "no" and it was suggested he write a letter to the hospital board's attorney.

(The hospital district has filed suit to force the county to proceed with realignment of Bon Air Road, which serves the hospital.)

Friedman told supervisors that the hospital district official also said there is no "open time" on the board's agenda for members of the public to bring up matters.

"I don't think their legal virginity would be affected" if hospital officials discuss the road matter with the supervisors, Michael Wornum, chairman of the board of supervisors, said angrily yesterday.

It was decided to write to the hospital district board, requesting time on the board's agenda for supervisors to appear.

Meeting Notice Policy Approved By Supervisors

Marin County supervisors agreed unanimously yesterday to give advance notice to the press of meetings by its various standing and special committees.

Adoption of the policy statement followed the bluepenciling of one paragraph dealing with "study groups, negotiating teams and similar assemblages of (two) supervisors."

The policy contains a disclaimer that announcement of committee meetings does not mean the meetings must be conducted publicly and open to the press.

Koreans Sentenced

SEOUL (UPI) — A military court sentenced another 36 persons to prison today in the latest series of mass trials to punish opponents of President Park Chung-hee, a government spokesman said.

Ordinance Approved To Slow Growth

An emergency ordinance to slow the pace of growth in the Black Point area was approved swiftly yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The ordinance, which covers ridges but not flatlands, received the required four votes to go into effect immediately. It will stay in force four months.

During that time, newly created building sites must be either two or five acres in size, depending on slope. Two-acre lots are required on lands of 25-per-cent slope or less, and five-acre sites on lands of more than 25-per-cent slope. Existing smaller lots are not affected.

County planning officials said the ordinance was needed to protect ridgelands which are listed as greenbelt-open space in the county general plan.

The Black Point Community Planning Group has proposed that the general plan be amended to show Black Point open space as the low-lying agriculture and flood plain lands but not the ridges.

Planning Director Werner von Gundell said he will recommend such a change later this year.

Until supervisors decide on the change, he added, the ridge should be protected from the large number of land divisions being sought. The ridgelands are generally zoned for half-acre home sites.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

AVIATION — Authorized Marin Aviation to land an airplane on the fairgrounds parking lot at Civic Center. The plane will be part of the firm's fair exhibit.

GRANT — Requested $60,000 from the North Bay Regional Planning Council for funding the county's Treatment Alternatives to Street Crime project, a drug diversion program.

ASSESSMENT — Tabled a proposal to allow reassessment of property damaged due to any calamity not the fault of the property owner. State law, allowing the reassessments during the year, is vague and creates a number of problems, supervisors said.

INSURANCE — Increased the county's liability insurance from $5 million to $10 million at a cost of $6,500.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $16,304 contract to Maggiora and Ghilotti of Corte Madera for road-related repair work in the Kentfield and Sleepy Hollow area.

LANDO — Rejected the appeal of Ellis A. Lando that he not be required to finance an environmental impact report as part of his application to divide a seven-acre site above Mill Valley into two homesites. The Marin Conservation League and others urged an environmental report be required because the site is on the face of Mount Tamalpais off Fern Canyon Road.

AUDUBON — Heard a request from the Marin Audubon Society that the county take steps to preserve the marsh lands in San Pablo Bay from China Camp to the mouth of Novato Creek.

HEAD START — Granted Marin Head Start $4,240 to pay for more health care for youngsters, including handicapped children, in the agency's program. The money will make it possible for a half-time health coordinator to become full-time. But the board refused to give the federal educational program an additional $20,000 it had asked to provide its employees a 10 per cent raise.

FIRE TRAILS — Agreed to ask the federal government to permit existing fire trails to remain in an area of the Point Reyes National Seashore which has been designated as wilderness area, a designation prohibiting roads or fire trails. County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli said such a prohibition would create extreme fire danger in the area since it would make transporting fire equipment difficult or impossible. It also could be a threat to Marin Municipal Water District watershed lands near the seashore, he said.

REZONING — Rezoned ridgelands in the upper Ross Valley and Corte Madera Creek watershed to conform with the countywide plan and to allow fewer dwellings than under previous zoning. The plan approved by the county planning commission was accepted by the supervisors with only a few changes on individual parcels.

Large Claim Rejected By Supervisors

Marin County yesterday rejected a $4.9 million claim which alleges inverse condemnation of the 48-acre Strawberry Spit and the 20-acre Strawberry Point.

The claim, filed by American Savings and Loan Association, maintains the county supervisors' recent action to rezone the land "drastically reduced" the value of Strawberry Point "and reduced to no value" Strawberry Spit.

The spit was rezoned in May to reduce the number of possible homesites from 109 to about nine. The point was "downzoned" from 160 homesites to about 80.

Such claims are routinely rejected by county supervisors but must be filed before courts will consider a case.

Julie Keeps Silent

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower, younger daughter of former President Richard Nixon, flew to Indianapolis yesterday to attend an editorial board meeting of Curtis Publishing Co., but declined to talk to newsmen about her father's resignation.

ROBBERY SCENE — San Rafael police — while waiting for wire cutters to free him — question pharmacist Elvus D. Regalia shortly after a robbery at Medico-Dental Pharmacy on D Street. Regalia was handcuffed by a gun-wielding bandit after being forced to turn over quantities of drugs.

San Rafael Pharmacy Robbed Of $450 Worth Of Drugs

A bandit with little interest in money entered a San Rafael pharmacy last night, pulled a cocked revolver from his belt and forced the firm's owner to hand over $450 worth of drugs.

San Rafael police said the man walked into the Medico-Dental Pharmacy at 711 D Street at 7 p.m. and confronted owner Elvus D. Regalia as he was counting the day's receipts.

The man waved a gun and handed Regalia a list of various drugs, telling him to put the pills in the bag, according to police.

Regalia loaded the bag with various quantities of valium, percodin, dexedrine, demerol and other drugs and was then handcuffed and bound by the bandit, police said.

The robber, saying he wanted drugs only, left about $150 in cash receipts lying on the pharmacy counter but about $40 was later discovered missing, police said.

The man was described as in his early 20s, having an olive complexion, weighing about 165 pounds and wearing a white helmet, blue coat, dark slacks and tan boots, according to police.

Police, alerted to the situation by an anonymous tipster, arrived on the scene moments after the bandit fled but could find no trace of him.

Non-Watergate Tapes Are Ruled As Private Property

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Nixon's taped conversations that are not relevant to the Watergate inquiry are his personal property, a White House spokesman said today.

President Ford's press secretary, Jerry terHorst, said the White House legal counsel's office, in consultation with the special prosecutor and the Justice Department, made the judgment.

Ford played no role in the decision but concurs with the ruling, terHorst said.

Specifically, terHorst said "the tapes not subpoenaed and not relevant to the Watergate inquiry belong to the President" meaning Nixon. The statement left unclear the status of tapes that have been subpoenaed and deemed relevant.

At the same time, terHorst said Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, had left the White House legal counsel's office as of today and had returned to Boston.

St. Clair has been taken off the White House payroll, terHorst said. St. Clair went on the payroll last January to help Nixon in his battle against impeachment at an annual salary of $42,500.

TerHorst said St. Clair left on his own initiative and he expects other members of Nixon's Watergate defense team will be leaving in a week or two after they wind up their affairs.

The subpoenaed tapes are in the hands of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who is reviewing them for relevancy in the Sept. 9 Watergate cover-up trial, or, in the case of those Sirica thinks relevant, with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Bids Are Cheap On Span Cable

Nostalgia comes cheap these days, judging from eager bidders who offered yesterday to buy the original suspender ropes from the Golden Gate Bridge for a cent a pound.

That comes out to about $6,000 for nearly eight miles of steel cables that supported the roaddeck from its opening in 1937 until last year, when they were replaced.

By contrast, new cables cost $1.36 a pound.

The bridge's senior engineer, Daniel E. Mohn, nevertheless said he will recommend the bids be accepted. "We just don't have room to store them," he said. The bridge board will consider the matter at 10 a.m. on Aug. 30 in toll plaza offices.

Five bids were received by yesterday's 2 p.m. deadline, including identical ones, those for a penny a pound, from Gene E. Shipps of Fairfield and Kalman Steel Products Co. of San Francisco. Mohn said the two may have to split the cable or draw straws to see which gets most of it.

Two other successful bids were by John A. Williford of Novato, who offered $82.50 for a 201-foot section of cable, and Les Scarlett of Cypress, Orange County, who bid $299 for a 965-foot section, the longest for sale. It weight 11,580 pounds.

M. J. Hughes of San Francisco bid $2.01 for a 201-foot piece, thus was outbid by Shipps and Kalman.

Mohn said Shipps plans to cut the cables into small pieces for sale as souvenirs, and that Williford intends to use his for some purpose at home.

Pilot Error Blamed For Airplane Crash

Pilor error was blamed today for the crash of a light plane near Novato on Monday in which a student pilot died.

A Federal Aviation Administration investigator said there was no mechanical failure in the single-engine Cessna being flown by James Sappington, 31, a Redding contractor.

Sappington was certified to fly solo across country but it is unclear if his student license permitted him to fly at night without an instructor, the investigator said.

"However, I doubt if it did," he added.

Sappington's wife, Marsha, said her husband telephoned her from Sacramento Monday evening and said he was headed home.

"We assume he was lost" when he crashed, the investigator said, despite the fact that Marin is nowhere near the flight path from Sacramento to Redding. "That's well within the realm of error."

Sappington's body was returned to Redding today for burial.

Full-Time Attorney Sworn In

Matthew L. Hudson has moved into Petaluma City Hall as the city's first full-time attorney.

Hudson, 30, was sworn in for the $21,000 a year post Monday. He has moved from Stockton where he was San Joaquin County deputy county counsel.

He is a graduate of Boalt Hall, University of California at Berkeley, and a veteran of six years' service in the Navy. He was born in Pasadena.

Hudson and his wife, Kate, have a son and a daughter. He was active in Stockton softball play.

The new city attorney said he will be legal adviser to the city council and all city commissions and will represent Petaluma in all suits filed by or against the city. He said he did not know what role he will play in Petaluma's continuing litigation over the growth limit policy adopted last year. Former City Atty. Edourd E. Robert and an Oakland attorney have been handling that suit and may continue, Hudson said.

Hudson's arrival coincides with extensive switching of office spaces in the city hall, with the city clerk, recreation, police investigator and other offices relocating.

Hudson now has a full-time secretary, Marjorie Irving, who formerly worked parttime in Robert's private law office.

The new city attorney also will have a new law library, to be shared with Municipal Court Judge Alexander J. McNamara, whose court is in city hall.

Session Tonight

The Marin County Disaster Council will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the board of supervisors chambers in the Marin Civic Center, to discuss a recent visit by council members to emergency operating centers in Santa Cruz and San Mateo counties. Also to be discussed will be a proposed emergency mobile command post.

Butterfly Film Scheduled Sunday

A notice in yesterday's Independent-Journal gave the wrong date for the showing.

$276,726 Budget Is Approved

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District last night adopted a 1974-75 budget of $276,729, up over last year's spending plan of $221,084.

The fiscal program will require a tax rate of 38 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, a six-cent hike over last year.

The budget reflects general across-the-board increases in spending by all departments due to an 8.2 per cent salary raise for district employees and higher costs for materials and services, according to Director Richard A. Drever Jr.

Board members also hiked sewer service charges from $45 to $50 per household per year, a result of increased costs for processing sewage by the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, Drever said.

Amid opposition from about 13 residents in an audience of 50, directors declared that development of Eastwood Park would have no significant effect on the environment, Drever reported.

Plans for the park include construction of a grassy playfield and two tennis courts.

CUT OUT CAREFULLY ALONG DOTTED LINES

Removal Of Drydock Walls Approved By Supervisors

The Sausalito drydocks, which arrived in Richardson Bay for "a temporary stay" in 1966, may soon be leaving for that Great Shipyard in the Sky.

Marin County Supervisors, who have considered even fire-bombing the huge structures to remove them, yesterday opted for a more conventional way of getting rid of them. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

They voted unanimously to accept a $15,950 bid from Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael to remove the drydock walls.

But supervisors, after eight years of trying to figure out what to do with the docks, apparently have decided that half a drydock is better than one.

They rejected a proposal from Claus Von Wendel who said he could remove the walls, refloat the rest of the docks (which now are mired in the mud) then tow them away for about $7,000.

But supervisors expressed skepticism about Von Wendel's scheme and decided to go along with the Ghilotti bid. "We have to have someone with the financial base and the equipment to get the job done," said Supervisor Michael Wornum.

Wendel submitted a bid in March to remove the docks free in exchange for salvage rights but the county public works department recommended against it because Wendel lacks a contractor's license.

Instead, the county accepted a bid of $2 from Howard H. Hanley Co. of Covina but that firm failed to provide the necessary insurance.

So the county readvertised the demolition project.

A spokesman for Ghilotti Bros. said that work will begin in the next few weeks. He estimated it will take between three and four weeks to complete.

Supervisors also asked County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to take curt action against the Hanley company to recover the costs of the drydocks removal since the firm failed to perform on its promise to do the work for $2.

Supervisors Angry With Hospital Board

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday reacted angrily to news that a representative will not be allowed to appear on the agenda of the next Marin Hospital District board meeting to discuss the relocation of Bon Air Road.

County Administrative Asst. Tracy Friedman told supervisors he had spoken to an assistant administrator at Marin General Hospital, asking that the matter be placed on the hospital board's agenda.

Friedman reported he was told "no" and it was suggested he write a letter to the hospital board's attorney.

(The hospital district has filed suit to force the county to proceed with realignment of Bon Air Road, which serves the hospital.)

Friedman told supervisors that the hospital district official also said there is no "open time" on the board's agenda for members of the public to bring up matters.

"I don't think their legal virginity would be affected" if hospital officials discuss the road matter with the supervisors, Michael Wornum, chairman of the board of supervisors, said angrily yesterday.

It was decided to write to the hospital district board, requesting time on the board's agenda for supervisors to appear.

Meeting Notice Policy Approved By Supervisors

Marin County supervisors agreed unanimously yesterday to give advance notice to the press of meetings by its various standing and special committees.

Adoption of the policy statement followed the bluepenciling of one paragraph dealing with "study groups, negotiating teams and similar assemblages of (two) supervisors."

The policy contains a disclaimer that announcement of committee meetings does not mean the meetings must be conducted publicly and open to the press.

Koreans Sentenced

SEOUL (UPI) — A military court sentenced another 36 persons to prison today in the latest series of mass trials to punish opponents of President Park Chung-hee, a government spokesman said.

Ordinance Approved To Slow Growth

An emergency ordinance to slow the pace of growth in the Black Point area was approved swiftly yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The ordinance, which covers ridges but not flatlands, received the required four votes to go into effect immediately. It will stay in force four months.

During that time, newly created building sites must be either two or five acres in size, depending on slope. Two-acre lots are required on lands of 25-per-cent slope or less, and five-acre sites on lands of more than 25-per-cent slope. Existing smaller lots are not affected.

County planning officials said the ordinance was needed to protect ridgelands which are listed as greenbelt-open space in the county general plan.

The Black Point Community Planning Group has proposed that the general plan be amended to show Black Point open space as the low-lying agriculture and flood plain lands but not the ridges.

Planning Director Werner von Gundell said he will recommend such a change later this year.

Until supervisors decide on the change, he added, the ridge should be protected from the large number of land divisions being sought. The ridgelands are generally zoned for half-acre home sites.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

AVIATION — Authorized Marin Aviation to land an airplane on the fairgrounds parking lot at Civic Center. The plane will be part of the firm's fair exhibit.

GRANT — Requested $60,000 from the North Bay Regional Planning Council for funding the county's Treatment Alternatives to Street Crime project, a drug diversion program.

ASSESSMENT — Tabled a proposal to allow reassessment of property damaged due to any calamity not the fault of the property owner. State law, allowing the reassessments during the year, is vague and creates a number of problems, supervisors said.

INSURANCE — Increased the county's liability insurance from $5 million to $10 million at a cost of $6,500.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $16,304 contract to Maggiora and Ghilotti of Corte Madera for road-related repair work in the Kentfield and Sleepy Hollow area.

LANDO — Rejected the appeal of Ellis A. Lando that he not be required to finance an environmental impact report as part of his application to divide a seven-acre site above Mill Valley into two homesites. The Marin Conservation League and others urged an environmental report be required because the site is on the face of Mount Tamalpais off Fern Canyon Road.

AUDUBON — Heard a request from the Marin Audubon Society that the county take steps to preserve the marsh lands in San Pablo Bay from China Camp to the mouth of Novato Creek.

HEAD START — Granted Marin Head Start $4,240 to pay for more health care for youngsters, including handicapped children, in the agency's program. The money will make it possible for a half-time health coordinator to become full-time. But the board refused to give the federal educational program an additional $20,000 it had asked to provide its employees a 10 per cent raise.

FIRE TRAILS — Agreed to ask the federal government to permit existing fire trails to remain in an area of the Point Reyes National Seashore which has been designated as wilderness area, a designation prohibiting roads or fire trails. County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli said such a prohibition would create extreme fire danger in the area since it would make transporting fire equipment difficult or impossible. It also could be a threat to Marin Municipal Water District watershed lands near the seashore, he said.

REZONING — Rezoned ridgelands in the upper Ross Valley and Corte Madera Creek watershed to conform with the countywide plan and to allow fewer dwellings than under previous zoning. The plan approved by the county planning commission was accepted by the supervisors with only a few changes on individual parcels.

Julie Keeps Silent

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower, younger daughter of former President Richard Nixon, flew to Indianapolis yesterday to attend an editorial board meeting of Curtis Publishing Co., but declined to talk to newsmen about her father's resignation.

Large Claim Rejected By Supervisors

Marin County yesterday rejected a $4.9 million claim which alleges inverse condemnation of the 48-acre Strawberry Spit and the 20-acre Strawberry Point.

The claim, filed by American Savings and Loan Association, maintains the county supervisors' recent action to rezone the land "drastically reduced" the value of Strawberry Point "and reduced to no value" Strawberry Spit.

The spit was rezoned in May to reduce the number of possible homesites from 109 to about nine. The point was "downzoned" from 160 homesites to about 80.

Such claims are routinely rejected by county supervisors but must be filed before courts will consider a case.

Nixon's Disbarment Before State Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Whether Richard M. Nixon is criminally prosecuted for Watergate offenses, he may be disbarred from practicing law in California.

Seth M. Hufstedler, State Bar president, says the Nixon case is in the hands of an informal, preliminary committee which can state charges to be heard by a formal committee.

"It is conceivable the (former) president might urge that he is exempt," Hofstedler said recently. "However, our counsel has advised us it is his opinion he is not immune from disciplinary proceedings."

Nixon need not be convicted by a court to be disciplined by the State Bar of California. All that is needed is a finding of moral turpitude.

This would result from "clear and convincing evidence" of actions "in the nature of a crime" — standards substantially less than required before a jury and a judge.

Nixon began his law practice in California as a young man. He has treasured his membership in the California bar enough to have paid $100 a year in dues while president.

Voluminous material, some sent by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, has been collected in the cases of Nixon and six others licensed to practice law in California.

They are John Ehrlichman, Robert Mardian, Gordon Strachan, Frank DeMarco Jr. and Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach. Kalmbach already has been suspended from practice.

Since the California Supreme Court issues licenses to practice law, the court has the power to suspend or revoke licenses of persons of moral turpitude, and who therefore are not trusted to handle clients' funds and secrets.

Short of disbarment, an attorney can be subjected to suspensions or public or private reprisals.

If Nixon is formally charged, he could avoid possible penalties by resigning from the bar. However, such resignations must be approved by the State Bar Board of Governors and the court, and the charges would remain pending in the event that Nixon applies for reentry.

Interest Is Hiked On Federal Home Mortgages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development raised interest ceilings to 9½ per cent on federally guaranteed home mortgages, effective today.

It was the fifth increase this year in the maximum rate on home loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration.

In a parallel action, the Senate voted 84 to 0 yesterday to approve an $11.1 billion housing and community development bill. The measure, a compromise between differing House and Senate bills, went to the House for expected approval.

Among the bill's provisions are a new housing subsidy program to replace one frozen by former President Nixon in January, 1973. It would also raise the ceiling on FHA-VA mortgages from $33,000 to $45,000.

FHA and VA were the primary sources of home mortgages until recent years when their share of the market fell to about 20 per cent. The government program, which allowed millions of Americans to buy homes in the 1940s, 1950s and 1960s, has failed to keep pace with home prices that have soared 14 per cent this year alone.

HUD Secretary James T. Lynn said the new 9.5 per cent interest ceiling on FHA-VA guaranteed mortgages should reduce closing costs —the money for down payment, insurance, title search and other charges a home buyer pays when he takes possession.

Lynn said some home buyers had been paying "penalties" as high as $2,640 on a $33,000 home because FHA-VA guaranteed mortgages at 9 per cent were substantially below the rate for conventional mortgage loans. The effect of the higher rate will be to spread the expense over the life of the mortgage.

The 9-½ per cent ceiling is a reflection of realities in the mortgage money market. The FHA-VA rate was 7-¾ per cent on Jan 1.

It was raised to 8-¼ on Jan. 8, to 8-½ on April 15, to 8 ¾ on May 13 and to 9 on July 8 to encourage money lenders to provide mortgages for home buyers able to pay the rate.

The effect of inflation on the home cost coupled with the rising interest rates has been to increase the monthly payment for the average house from $205 per month to $278 in the past 14 months.

ROBBERY SCENE — San Rafael police — while waiting for wire cutters to free him — question pharmacist Elvus D. Regalia shortly after a robbery at Medico-Dental Pharmacy on D Street. Regalia was handcuffed by a gun-wielding bandit after being forced to turn over quantities of drugs.

San Rafael Pharmacy Robbed Of $450 Worth Of Drugs

A bandit with little interest in money entered a San Rafael pharmacy last night, pulled a cocked revolver from his belt and forced the firm's owner to hand over $450 worth of drugs.

San Rafael police said the man walked into the Medico-Dental Pharmacy at 711 D Street at 7 p.m. and confronted owner Elvus D. Regalia as he was counting the day's receipts.

The man waved a gun and handed Regalia a list of various drugs, telling him to put the pills in the bag, according to police.

Regalia loaded the bag with various quantities of valium, percodin, dexedrine, demerol and other drugs and was then handcuffed and bound by the bandit, police said.

The robber, saying he wanted drugs only, left about $150 in cash receipts lying on the pharmacy counter but about $40 was later discovered missing, police said.

The man was described as in his early 20s, having an olive complexion, weighing about 165 pounds and wearing a white helmet, blue coat, dark slacks and tan boots, according to police.

Police, alerted to the situation by an anonymous tipster, arrived on the scene moments after the bandit fled but could find no trace of him.

Non-Watergate Tapes Are Ruled As Private Property

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Nixon's taped conversations that are not relevant to the Watergate inquiry are his personal property, a White House spokesman said today.

President Ford's press secretary, Jerry terHorst, said the White House legal counsel's office, in consultation with the special prosecutor and the Justice Department, made the judgment.

Ford played no role in the decision but concurs with the ruling, terHorst said.

Specifically, terHorst said "the tapes not subpoenaed and not relevant to the Watergate inquiry belong to the President" meaning Nixon. The statement left unclear the status of tapes that have been subpoenaed and deemed relevant.

At the same time, terHorst said Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, had left the White House legal counsel's office as of today and had returned to Boston.

St. Clair has been taken off the White House payroll, terHorst said. St. Clair went on the payroll last January to help Nixon in his battle against impeachment at an annual salary of $42,500.

TerHorst said St. Clair left on his own initiative and he expects other members of Nixon's Watergate defense team will be leaving in a week or two after they wind up their affairs.

The subpoenaed tapes are in the hands of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who is reviewing them for relevancy in the Sept. 9 Watergate cover-up trial, or, in the case of those Sirica thinks relevant, with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Bids Are Cheap On Span Cable

Nostalgia comes cheap these days, judging from eager bidders who offered yesterday to buy the original suspender ropes from the Golden Gate Bridge for a cent a pound.

That comes out to about $6,000 for nearly eight miles of steel cables that supported the roaddeck from its opening in 1937 until last year, when they were replaced.

By contrast, new cables cost $1.36 a pound.

The bridge's senior engineer, Daniel E. Mohn, nevertheless said he will recommend the bids be accepted. "We just don't have room to store them," he said. The bridge board will consider the matter at 10 a.m. on Aug. 30 in toll plaza offices.

Five bids were received by yesterday's 2 p.m. deadline, including identical ones, those for a penny a pound, from Gene E. Shipps of Fairfield and Kalman Steel Products Co. of San Francisco. Mohn said the two may have to split the cable or draw straws to see which gets most of it.

Two other successful bids were by John A. Williford of Novato, who offered $82.50 for a 201-foot section of cable, and Les Scarlett of Cypress, Orange County, who bid $299 for a 965-foot section, the longest for sale. It weight 11,580 pounds.

M. J. Hughes of San Francisco bid $2.01 for a 201-foot piece, thus was outbid by Shipps and Kalman.

Mohn said Shipps plans to cut the cables into small pieces for sale as souvenirs, and that Williford intends to use his for some purpose at home.

Pilot Error Blamed For Airplane Crash

Pilor error was blamed today for the crash of a light plane near Novato on Monday in which a student pilot died.

A Federal Aviation Administration investigator said there was no mechanical failure in the single-engine Cessna being flown by James Sappington, 31, a Redding contractor.

Sappington was certified to fly solo across country but it is unclear if his student license permitted him to fly at night without an instructor, the investigator said.

"However, I doubt if it did," he added.

Sappington's wife, Marsha, said her husband telephoned her from Sacramento Monday evening and said he was headed home.

"We assume he was lost" when he crashed, the investigator said, despite the fact that Marin is nowhere near the flight path from Sacramento to Redding. "That's well within the realm of error."

Sappington's body was returned to Redding today for burial.

Full-Time Attorney Sworn In

Matthew L. Hudson has moved into Petaluma City Hall as the city's first full-time attorney.

Hudson, 30, was sworn in for the $21,000 a year post Monday. He has moved from Stockton where he was San Joaquin County deputy county counsel.

He is a graduate of Boalt Hall, University of California at Berkeley, and a veteran of six years' service in the Navy. He was born in Pasadena.

Hudson and his wife, Kate, have a son and a daughter. He was active in Stockton softball play.

The new city attorney said he will be legal adviser to the city council and all city commissions and will represent Petaluma in all suits filed by or against the city. He said he did not know what role he will play in Petaluma's continuing litigation over the growth limit policy adopted last year. Former City Atty. Edourd E. Robert and an Oakland attorney have been handling that suit and may continue, Hudson said.

Hudson's arrival coincides with extensive switching of office spaces in the city hall, with the city clerk, recreation, police investigator and other offices relocating.

Hudson now has a full-time secretary, Marjorie Irving, who formerly worked parttime in Robert's private law office.

The new city attorney also will have a new law library, to be shared with Municipal Court Judge Alexander J. McNamara, whose court is in city hall.

The Marin County Disaster Council will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the board of supervisors chambers in the Marin Civic Center, to discuss a recent visit by council members to emergency operating centers in Santa Cruz and San Mateo counties. Also to be discussed will be a proposed emergency mobile command post.

$276,726 Budget Is Approved

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District last night adopted a 1974-75 budget of $276,729, up over last year's spending plan of $221,084.

The fiscal program will require a tax rate of 38 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, a six-cent hike over last year.

The budget reflects general across-the-board increases in spending by all departments due to an 8.2 per cent salary raise for district employees and higher costs for materials and services, according to Director Richard A. Drever Jr.

Board members also hiked sewer service charges from $45 to $50 per household per year, a result of increased costs for processing sewage by the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, Drever said.

Amid opposition from about 13 residents in an audience of 50, directors declared that development of Eastwood Park would have no significant effect on the environment, Drever reported.

Plans for the park include construction of a grassy playfield and two tennis courts.

CUT OUT CAREFULLY ALONG DOTTED LINES

Beef Situation Is Played Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials, in a campaign to reduce the emotional effect of reports that the price of meat will be going up in 1975, are saying that supplies will be plentiful for the rest of this year.

However, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, says the reports indicate a critical situation.

The reports are based on the latest estimates on the corn crop, a livestock feed which directly affects the price of meat. On Monday, the Agriculture Department said the Midwest drought means the corn crop would be 12 per cent lower than last year.

Yesterday, another government report called the outlook for livestock feeds "critical," predicting that producers would use 3.7 to 3.8 billion bushels of corn in the year beginning Oct. 1 instead of the 4.3 to 4.4 billion bushels in earlier estimates.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz called a news conference and admitted the crop report was "disappointing." But, he said, "this is no time for panic about the food situation." He said rains in the Midwest this week helped many corn crops — but in some areas the rains came too late and farmers are using their corn crop for silage.

"We have plenty of livestock for the rest of the year," Butz said. "We'll get a larger percentage raised on grass or small amounts of corn. We'll have an adequate supply of beef, probably at somewhat lower prices toward the end of the year than now."

An Iowa meat producer, Glenn Gregg of Hawarden, says many Midwest meat producers will be feeding their animals hay and silage because of the drought. This will mean there will be a lesser grade of beef, good for pot roast but not for steaks and roasts, he said.

"If the consumer will settle for something a little less tender, we can give her all she wants at prices she can afford," Gregg said in a telephone interview. "And besides, it won't have as much fat."

Butz pointed to the wheat crop as one of the successes of this year's harvest. Most winter wheat had been harvested before the drought began.

"The wheat crop is nearly 200 million bushels above a year ago and way beyond domestic needs," he said. "We're going to be able to meet a substantial share of the export demand."

The Agriculture Department also issued a dairy report today which said the July milk output was slightly higher than the 1973 figures — but that the dairy farmer's cost-to-profit ratio was 7 per cent higher than last month and 5 per cent higher than a year ago.

The report said 10.1 billion pounds of milk were produced in July, 17 million pounds more than the 1973 figure.

Talmadge, was not as optimistic as Butz. "The situation has to be labeled critical," he said yesterday in a Senate speech. "The potential to contribute to spiraling inflation is tremendous. The crop situation has forced us into a corner from which there is no easy exit."

He said meat producers were losing money when corn was $3 a bushel and said "the prospects of $5 or $6 a bushel is catastrophic."

Talmadge has supported export controls on crops to keep more of them in the country.

"We must put the people of this country first," he said. "It is imperative that we begin now to monitor more closely the stocks of wheat, feed grain and soybeans. Before it is too late we must considerable equitable measures to meet domestic needs without doing irreparable harm to our friendly trading partners abroad."

Quake Hits Southern California

SYLMAR (UPI) — An aftershock of the devastating 1971 earthquake that killed 65 persons rumbled across a wide area of Southern California today, swaying tall buildings and rattling dishes but apparently causing no damage.

The quake struck at 7:46 a.m. and had a magnitude of 3.7 on the open-end Richter scale, according to preliminary estimates by the Caltech Seismological Laboratory in Pasadena. The seismographic station at the University of California in Berkeley said the quake had a magnitude of 4.5.

Caltech said today's aftershock was centered in the same area as the Feb. 9, 1971, quake which had a magnitude of 6.4, caused widespread damage and left 65 dead.

Today's quake was noticeably felt in the UPI news bureau on the eighth floor of an office building in downtown Los Angeles 15 miles from here and also was felt along the coast from Santa Monica south to Long Beach and in Sherman Oaks and Pasadena.

A resident of this San Fernando Valley town said the quake was a rumble, not a jolt, and that it rattled dishes. Preceding the quake was the roar which is frequently heard just before strong quakes.

"It was not very big although I felt it here at my home in Pasadena," said a spokesman for Caltech.

Sadat Says Egypt Set For Clash

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said today his country was prepared for a new outbreak of Middle East fighting if Israel stepped up its military preparations.

"We are preparing just as they are preparing, and the day Israel declares general mobilization we will do the same," Sadat said in an interview with the Beirut's Al Sayyad news magazine one day after an Israeli naval raid against the Lebanese coast.

Asked about Arab press reports of Israeli troop concentrations and an imminent Israeli offensive, Sadat said, "It is a mere show of muscle intended for domestic consumption."

One person was killed and five injured in an Israeli gunboat attack yesterday near the refugee camp of Al Rashidiyeh, Lebanese government and guerrilla officials said.

The Beirut defense ministry said one of the attacking Israeli vessels was hit by shore fire, but the Tel Aviv military command said all its boats returned safely after destroying an Arab guerrilla naval headquarters building nine miles north of the Israeli-Lebanon border.

Sadat said in the magazine interview former President Richard Nixon did for Israel more than any other American president by preventing its defeat in the October war.

"But afterward, he changed American policy," he said. "Nixon did not become biased in the Arabs' favor, but in favor of an honorable peace settlement.

"When I say Nixon, I mean the entire American system. If Nixon's successor changes what Nixon did, then we will have to make new calculations."

HERE COMES THE GOVERNOR

Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel and his new wife, the former Mrs. Jeanne Blackstone Dorsey, stopped yesterday to pose for pictures after they were married in a private ceremony. The governor and the southern Maryland divorcee were married just a half hour after Mandel obtained a final divorce decree from his first wife. Interest Is Hiked On Federal Home Mortgages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development raised interest ceilings to 9½ per cent on federally guaranteed home mortgages, effective today.

It was the fifth increase this year in the maximum rate on home loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration.

In a parallel action, the Senate voted 84 to 0 yesterday to approve an $11.1 billion housing and community development bill. The measure, a compromise between differing House and Senate bills, went to the House for expected approval.

Among the bill's provisions are a new housing subsidy program to replace one frozen by former President Nixon in January, 1973. It would also raise the ceiling on FHA-VA mortgages from $33,000 to $45,000.

FHA and VA were the primary sources of home mortgages until recent years when their share of the market fell to about 20 per cent. The government program, which allowed millions of Americans to buy homes in the 1940s, 1950s and 1960s, has failed to keep pace with home prices that have soared 14 per cent this year alone.

HUD Secretary James T. Lynn said the new 9.5 per cent interest ceiling on FHA-VA guaranteed mortgages should reduce closing costs —the money for down payment, insurance, title search and other charges a home buyer pays when he takes possession.

Lynn said some home buyers had been paying "penalties" as high as $2,640 on a $33,000 home because FHA-VA guaranteed mortgages at 9 per cent were substantially below the rate for conventional mortgage loans. The effect of the higher rate will be to spread the expense over the life of the mortgage.

The 9-½ per cent ceiling is a reflection of realities in the mortgage money market. The FHA-VA rate was 7-¾ per cent on Jan 1.

It was raised to 8-¼ on Jan. 8, to 8-½ on April 15, to 8 ¾ on May 13 and to 9 on July 8 to encourage money lenders to provide mortgages for home buyers able to pay the rate.

The effect of inflation on the home cost coupled with the rising interest rates has been to increase the monthly payment for the average house from $205 per month to $278 in the past 14 months.

Nixon's Disbarment Before State Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Whether Richard M. Nixon is criminally prosecuted for Watergate offenses, he may be disbarred from practicing law in California.

Seth M. Hufstedler, State Bar president, says the Nixon case is in the hands of an informal, preliminary committee which can state charges to be heard by a formal committee.

"It is conceivable the (former) president might urge that he is exempt," Hofstedler said recently. "However, our counsel has advised us it is his opinion he is not immune from disciplinary proceedings."

Nixon need not be convicted by a court to be disciplined by the State Bar of California. All that is needed is a finding of moral turpitude.

This would result from "clear and convincing evidence" of actions "in the nature of a crime" — standards substantially less than required before a jury and a judge.

Nixon began his law practice in California as a young man. He has treasured his membership in the California bar enough to have paid $100 a year in dues while president.

Voluminous material, some sent by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, has been collected in the cases of Nixon and six others licensed to practice law in California.

They are John Ehrlichman, Robert Mardian, Gordon Strachan, Frank DeMarco Jr. and Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach. Kalmbach already has been suspended from practice.

Since the California Supreme Court issues licenses to practice law, the court has the power to suspend or revoke licenses of persons of moral turpitude, and who therefore are not trusted to handle clients' funds and secrets.

Short of disbarment, an attorney can be subjected to suspensions or public or private reprisals.

If Nixon is formally charged, he could avoid possible penalties by resigning from the bar. However, such resignations must be approved by the State Bar Board of Governors and the court, and the charges would remain pending in the event that Nixon applies for reentry.

Beef Situation Is Played Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials, in a campaign to reduce the emotional effect of reports that the price of meat will be going up in 1975, are saying that supplies will be plentiful for the rest of this year.

However, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, says the reports indicate a critical situation.

The reports are based on the latest estimates on the corn crop, a livestock feed which directly affects the price of meat. On Monday, the Agriculture Department said the Midwest drought means the corn crop would be 12 per cent lower than last year.

Yesterday, another government report called the outlook for livestock feeds "critical," predicting that producers would use 3.7 to 3.8 billion bushels of corn in the year beginning Oct. 1 instead of the 4.3 to 4.4 billion bushels in earlier estimates.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz called a news conference and admitted the crop report was "disappointing." But, he said, "this is no time for panic about the food situation." He said rains in the Midwest this week helped many corn crops — but in some areas the rains came too late and farmers are using their corn crop for silage.

"We have plenty of livestock for the rest of the year," Butz said. "We'll get a larger percentage raised on grass or small amounts of corn. We'll have an adequate supply of beef, probably at somewhat lower prices toward the end of the year than now."

An Iowa meat producer, Glenn Gregg of Hawarden, says many Midwest meat producers will be feeding their animals hay and silage because of the drought. This will mean there will be a lesser grade of beef, good for pot roast but not for steaks and roasts, he said.

"If the consumer will settle for something a little less tender, we can give her all she wants at prices she can afford," Gregg said in a telephone interview. "And besides, it won't have as much fat."

Butz pointed to the wheat crop as one of the successes of this year's harvest. Most winter wheat had been harvested before the drought began.

"The wheat crop is nearly 200 million bushels above a year ago and way beyond domestic needs," he said. "We're going to be able to meet a substantial share of the export demand."

The Agriculture Department also issued a dairy report today which said the July milk output was slightly higher than the 1973 figures — but that the dairy farmer's cost-to-profit ratio was 7 per cent higher than last month and 5 per cent higher than a year ago.

The report said 10.1 billion pounds of milk were produced in July, 17 million pounds more than the 1973 figure.

Talmadge, was not as optimistic as Butz. "The situation has to be labeled critical," he said yesterday in a Senate speech. "The potential to contribute to spiraling inflation is tremendous. The crop situation has forced us into a corner from which there is no easy exit."

He said meat producers were losing money when corn was $3 a bushel and said "the prospects of $5 or $6 a bushel is catastrophic."

Talmadge has supported export controls on crops to keep more of them in the country.

"We must put the people of this country first," he said. "It is imperative that we begin now to monitor more closely the stocks of wheat, feed grain and soybeans. Before it is too late we must considerable equitable measures to meet domestic needs without doing irreparable harm to our friendly trading partners abroad."

Quake Hits Southern California

SYLMAR (UPI) — An aftershock of the devastating 1971 earthquake that killed 65 persons rumbled across a wide area of Southern California today, swaying tall buildings and rattling dishes but apparently causing no damage.

The quake struck at 7:46 a.m. and had a magnitude of 3.7 on the open-end Richter scale, according to preliminary estimates by the Caltech Seismological Laboratory in Pasadena. The seismographic station at the University of California in Berkeley said the quake had a magnitude of 4.5.

Caltech said today's aftershock was centered in the same area as the Feb. 9, 1971, quake which had a magnitude of 6.4, caused widespread damage and left 65 dead.

Today's quake was noticeably felt in the UPI news bureau on the eighth floor of an office building in downtown Los Angeles 15 miles from here and also was felt along the coast from Santa Monica south to Long Beach and in Sherman Oaks and Pasadena.

A resident of this San Fernando Valley town said the quake was a rumble, not a jolt, and that it rattled dishes. Preceding the quake was the roar which is frequently heard just before strong quakes.

"It was not very big although I felt it here at my home in Pasadena," said a spokesman for Caltech.

Sadat Says Egypt Set For Clash

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said today his country was prepared for a new outbreak of Middle East fighting if Israel stepped up its military preparations.

"We are preparing just as they are preparing, and the day Israel declares general mobilization we will do the same," Sadat said in an interview with the Beirut's Al Sayyad news magazine one day after an Israeli naval raid against the Lebanese coast.

Asked about Arab press reports of Israeli troop concentrations and an imminent Israeli offensive, Sadat said, "It is a mere show of muscle intended for domestic consumption."

One person was killed and five injured in an Israeli gunboat attack yesterday near the refugee camp of Al Rashidiyeh, Lebanese government and guerrilla officials said.

The Beirut defense ministry said one of the attacking Israeli vessels was hit by shore fire, but the Tel Aviv military command said all its boats returned safely after destroying an Arab guerrilla naval headquarters building nine miles north of the Israeli-Lebanon border.

Sadat said in the magazine interview former President Richard Nixon did for Israel more than any other American president by preventing its defeat in the October war.

"But afterward, he changed American policy," he said. "Nixon did not become biased in the Arabs' favor, but in favor of an honorable peace settlement.

"When I say Nixon, I mean the entire American system. If Nixon's successor changes what Nixon did, then we will have to make new calculations."

What's in store...

MORE ON MELONS

Recently, I gave you some information on selecting mixed melons. I couldn't give you all the details because of limited space, so here are more. Some people select mixed melons by smell. Cantaloupes have a full, mellow aroma when ripe, and the Cranshaw melons have a more spicy odor.

Here in the West where the melons are grown, we don't have to worry too much about the maturity of the melons. Ours are picked at their best. Easterners have to look carefully at the stem end to decide whether melons have a "full slip." This is where the stem scar is perfectly smooth, indicating that the melon was mature and pulled easily from the vine. Jagged edges would mean the melon wasn't ready when picked and wouldn't have the best quality.

Melon season is far too short as far as our family is concerned. The melons provide good nutrition (good source of Vitamins A and C) and are very filling and satisfying with few calories. Half a medium cantaloupe has about 60 calories.

We can make a meal of this favorite summer salad:

Chicken-Melon Salad
(Serves 6)

1 large cantaloupe	1/4 cup coarsely chopped nuts
2 cups diced cooked chicken	(toasted almonds or walnuts)
1/2 cup diced celery	1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup seedless grapes	lettuce leaves

Remove the rind from cantaloupe, leaving it whole. Slice crosswise into 8 rings. Remove seeds. Cut the two end pieces into cubes. Mix cantaloupe cubes, chicken, celery, nuts, grapes and mayonnaise. Chill chicken mix and rings. When ready to serve, arrange cantaloupe rings on lettuce leaves and fill with chicken salad. Garnish with mint or watercress.

Expansion Of Bar Offices Is Opposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A legislative audit committee recommended yesterday that a proposed $2 million expansion project by the State Bar Association be scrapped because additional space is necessary.

The 40,000-member bar earlier proposed an addition of 42,985 square feet of office space in its San Francisco building at an estimated cost of $2 million.

"Based on the combined existing space in the San Francisco and Los Angeles office buildings owned by the State Bar. . .the expansion is necessary," said Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, chairman of the Joint Legislative Audit Committee.

The report said the State Bar's existing staff and projected needs do not justify the additional staff.

The report, prepared by State Auditor Harvey Rose, said the bar's existing rental facilities in San Francisco —providing space for 25 employees at an annual rental cost of $31,000, is also unnecessary.

The bar association is an official part of the judiciary branch of government and primarily serves as the professional regulatory agency for the legal profession.

The report also found:

That the bar has still not developed the specific workload standards and statistics needed not only to evaluate performance, but also to determine future personnel needs.

That the legal duties of nine staff attorneys of the bar could be handled by four attorneys, and their nonlegal duties could be assigned to five legal secretaries for a salary and benefits reduction of about $65,000.

Recommended that the legislature not grant the bar permission to raise annual dues from $100 to $145 for veteran members.

State's Gas Consumption Dips In June

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gasoline consumption in California was lower in June than it was a year ago, the seventh straight month that motorists used less fuel than in the previous year, the state Board of Equalization said yesterday.

The agency said the June consumption of 854 million gallons was 2.6 per cent lower than June, 1973, and down 1.3 per cent from May this year. The consumption figures are based on the volume of the state's gasoline tax receipts.

Gasoline consumtpion for the second quarter of this year was up 14.2 per cent over the first quarter, but it was 4.1 per cent less than the second three months of 1973.

The board also said the number of gasoline stations has dropped sharply in the past year. In July, 1974, the state had 19,265 stations, down 1,753 from the 21,018 in existence in July, 1973.

Since consumption was down in June, revenue from the gasoline tax declined from $61.4 million in May to $59.8 million in June, the agency said.

No Grumman Loan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has told the Navy it cannot lend $100 million to the Grumman Aerospace Corp. of Bethpage, N.Y., builder of the Navy's new F14 jet fighter. The vote yesterday to kill the loan was 55 to 35.

MORE ON MELONS

Recently, I gave you some information on selecting mixed melons. I couldn't give you all the details because of limited space, so here are more. Some people select mixed melons by smell. Cantaloupes have a full, mellow aroma when ripe, and the Cranshaw melons have a more spicy odor.

Here in the West where the melons are grown, we don't have to worry too much about the maturity of the melons. Ours are picked at their best. Easterners have to look carefully at the stem end to decide whether melons have a "full slip." This is where the stem scar is perfectly smooth, indicating that the melon was mature and pulled easily from the vine. Jagged edges would mean the melon wasn't ready when picked and wouldn't have the best quality.

Melon season is far too short as far as our family is concerned. The melons provide good nutrition (good source of Vitamins A and C) and are very filling and satisfying with few calories. Half a medium cantaloupe has about 60 calories.

We can make a meal of this favorite summer salad:

Chicken-Melon Salad
(Serves 6)

1 large cantaloupe
2 cups diced cooked chicken
½ cup diced celery
¼ cup seedless grapes
¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts (toasted almonds or walnuts)
½ cup mayonnaise
lettuce leaves

Remove the rind from cantaloupe, leaving it whole. Slice crosswise into 8 rings. Remove seeds. Cut the two end pieces into cubes. Mix cantaloupe cubes, chicken, celery, nuts, grapes and mayonnaise. Chill chicken mix and rings. When ready to serve, arrange cantaloupe rings on lettuce leaves and fill with chicken salad. Garnish with mint or watercress.

Expansion Of Bar Offices Is Opposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A legislative audit committee recommended yesterday that a proposed $2 million expansion project by the State Bar Association be scrapped because additional space is necessary.

The 40,000-member bar earlier proposed an addition of 42,985 square feet of office space in its San Francisco building at an estimated cost of $2 million.

"Based on the combined existing space in the San Francisco and Los Angeles office buildings owned by the State Bar. . .the expansion is necessary," said Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, chairman of the Joint Legislative Audit Committee.

The report said the State Bar's existing staff and projected needs do not justify the additional staff.

The report, prepared by State Auditor Harvey Rose, said the bar's existing rental facilities in San Francisco —providing space for 25 employees at an annual rental cost of $31,000, is also unnecessary.

The bar association is an official part of the judiciary branch of government and primarily serves as the professional regulatory agency for the legal profession.

The report also found:

That the bar has still not developed the specific workload standards and statistics needed not only to evaluate performance, but also to determine future personnel needs.

That the legal duties of nine staff attorneys of the bar could be handled by four attorneys, and their nonlegal duties could be assigned to five legal secretaries for a salary and benefits reduction of about $65,000.

Recommended that the legislature not grant the bar permission to raise annual dues from $100 to $145 for veteran members.

State's Gas Consumption Dips In June

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gasoline consumption in California was lower in June than it was a year ago, the seventh straight month that motorists used less fuel than in the previous year, the state Board of Equalization said yesterday.

The agency said the June consumption of 854 million gallons was 2.6 per cent lower than June, 1973, and down 1.3 per cent from May this year. The consumption figures are based on the volume of the state's gasoline tax receipts.

Gasoline consumtpion for the second quarter of this year was up 14.2 per cent over the first quarter, but it was 4.1 per cent less than the second three months of 1973.

The board also said the number of gasoline stations has dropped sharply in the past year. In July, 1974, the state had 19,265 stations, down 1,753 from the 21,018 in existence in July, 1973.

Since consumption was down in June, revenue from the gasoline tax declined from $61.4 million in May to $59.8 million in June, the agency said.

No Grumman Loan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has told the Navy it cannot lend $100 million to the Grumman Aerospace Corp. of Bethpage, N.Y., builder of the Navy's new F14 jet fighter. The vote yesterday to kill the loan was 55 to 35.

HOME CANNING is as satisfying as it is practical when summer produce is plentiful. Be sure to read an authoritative guide to canning to insure successful results.

Urban Homemakers Have Tie To Rural Farm Wife

For the country wife of days gone by, the pantry shelf held the pride and satisfaction that comes from a season of hard labor and a successful harvest.

Although the canning process eventually became commercialized, canning food at home has regained its importance. What was both a necessity and a source of satisfaction to the rural farm wife and gardener is now providing urban homemakers with the same sense of accomplishment.

Canning fresh fruits and vegetables captures the natural tastes of summer and allows you to enjoy them long after the growing season is over. Whether you harvest your own or rely on the local farmers market, canning food is a do-it-yourself project to be proud of.

Home canning is foolproof if a few simple techniques are followed:

When choosing ingredients for canning remember to select only the firmest fruits and vegetables free from bruises.

It's easier to can a few pounds of fruits and vegetables at a time rather than attempting to do a farmhouse batch.

Wash and rinse canning jars or sterilize 10 minutes if the jars are not to be processed in a water bath.

To insure that fresh jams and jellies are kept free from mold, seal with paraffin or process in a water bath for 10-15 minutes.

When processing canning jars in a water bath, be sure to follow the indicated recipe times carefully.

After processing, the jars should be cooled then checked to test the seal. (Press the center of the lid down firmly and if it does not pop up, the jar is sealed.)

After carefully following these steps, your complete home canning job has been accomplished and you can store your preparations (at 70 degrees or lower in dark, dry place) knowing that your family can enjoy fresh natural foods all through the year.

Mushrooms Are Ideal For Summer Menus

Since mushrooms are as high in flavor as they are low in calories they are ideal in summer menus.

Add them to your own tried-and-true recipes for meats, poultry and seafood dishes, too, and to salads, cheese, egg and vegetable dishes. Mushrooms can make a dish fancy at plain and thrifty prices.

EASY MARINATED MUSHROOMS

Slice one pound medium-sized fresh mushrooms; place in plastic bag. Combine three-fourths cup salad oil; one fourth cup fresh squeezed lemon juice; one and one-half teaspoons fresh grated lemon peel; one teaspoon each oregano leaves, crushed and garlic salt; and one-eighth teaspoon ground white pepper.

Pour over mushrooms; seal bag. Marinate for several hours in refrigerator, turning bag occasionally. Drain marinade and save for use as salad dressing or for marinating other foods. Serve mushrooms on lettuce leaf. Makes appetizers for 12.

GOURMET PEACHES

Drain well one can (one pound) cling peach halves. Stir together one-half cup sliced fresh mushrooms, one-fourth cup each softened cream cheese and dairy sour cream, one tablespoon bacon bits and dash of liquid pepper sauce. Place peach halves, cut side up, in shallow baking pan. Spoon mushrooms mixture into each cup. Broil. Serve as salad or meat accompaniment.

MUSHROOMS IN SOUR CREAM

Saute one pound fresh mushrooms in three tablespoons butter. Add one teaspoon onion salt, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon ground white pepper and one-fourth cup dry sherry or chicken stock. Heat one minute. Stir in one can (eight ounce) imitation sour cream with chives and three tablespoons shredded cucumber; heat until hot. Serve with main dishes. Makes: four to six portions.

CRISPY MUSHROOM APPETIZERS

Mix together three-fourth cup corn flake crumbs and two teaspoons onion salt. Beat two egg whites until foamy. Stir in one-fourth cup water. Pour about one quart corn oil into heavy, sturdy, flat bottomed three-quart saucepan or deep fryer, filling utensil no more than one-third full. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees. Dip about one-half pound sliced fresh mushrooms in egg mixture and then coat with crumbs.

Carefully add to oil in single layer. Fry one to two minutes or until crisp and lightly browned. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot. Makes about 45 appetizers.

Advice For Corn Buyer

Good quality corn-on-the-cob is tender and sweet. Kernels may be yellow or white, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Look for kernels that are plump, but not too large, and that cover the cob well. Yellow corn of bright (not deep) color and white corn that is really white is best.

Husks that look fresh and have a good green color, not dried or yellow, is also a goodness tip. Be sure that silk ends are free from decay or worm injury.

Keep fresh corn cold and moist. Use it within one or two days.

Plums Are A Natural In Dessert

A Japanese setting is a culinary natural for the plum; for while it is a native of China, the plum was domesticated in Japan. Today, California plum orchards produce more than 90 percent of the nation's plum supply.

They're all marvelous in Tempura Plums — a refreshingly unique dessert idea to serve as a do-it-yourself party or family special. It's a triple treat: easy to prepare, a delight to the eye, and delicious to eat.

TEMPURA PLUMS

3 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
1⅓ cups flour
½ tsp salt
2 tbsp melted butter
12 fresh California plums, pitted and quartered
Oil for frying
Powdered sugar

In mixing bowl, beat egg yolks with milk; beat in flour, salt and butter. In separate bowl, beat egg whites until stiff; fold into batter. Dip plums into batter; deep fry in hot oil (375 degrees) 1 or 2 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Roll in powdered sugar; serve warm. Makes six servings.

Use Imagination In Sandwiches

A dash of imagination is a required ingredient for sandwich making. Use old stand-by favorites in different combinations, slip under broiler and serve open face style.

For example, combine diced bologna, grated cheddar cheese and chopped California prunes with mayonnaise. Spread on split hamburger buns and broil until bubbly.

Fancy Dessert

Stir drained canned dark sweet cherries and roasted diced almonds into whipped cream or non-dairy topping flavored with brandy or rum; garnish with chocolate curls.

Lemon Juice Can Be Used For Quick Salad

Use real or bottled lemon juice to make these quick salad ideas.

TOMATOES WITH LEMON DRESSING

4 medium size firm tomatoes
Dressing:
⅔ CUP SALAD OIL
1 tbsp. dried basil
½ cup lemon juice
½ tsp. pepper
2 tbsp. parsley

Slice tomatoes into wedges. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over tomatoes.

CUCUMBER SALAD

2 medium cucumbers, pared and sliced (4 cups)
2 tbsp. horseradish
1 cup sour cream
¼ tsp. dill weed
2 tbsp. lemon juice.

Place cucumbers in a small bowl. Combine horseradish, sour cream, dill and lemon juice. Combine sauce with cucumbers and chill to blend flavors. At serving time, toss.

LETTUCE WITH DRESSING

1 head of iceberg lettuce
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
3 tbsp. lemon juice
1 egg yolk (beaten)
¼ tsp. curry powder.

Cut head of lettuce into wedges. Combine remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Stir constantly over low heat until thick. Cool and serve dressing over lettuce wedges.

GREEK CHEESE PIES (TRIANGLES)
(Tyropitakia)

½ lb. feta cheese
½ lb. midjithra or ricotta or large curd, creamed cottage cheese
3 eggs
1 tbs. dill or fennel leaf
pepper, to taste
1 lb. Filo (strudel dough, available from delicatessen)
1 cup melted butter

Crumble cheese by hand, then pour in eggs, dill or fennel and pepper and mix well.

Open sheets of Filo and brush butter fat on strips of dough with pastry brush. Put teaspoon of cheese mixture on end of each dough strip and fold into triangles.

Lay in buttered pan and bake in preheated oven (325 degrees) until golden brown (about 30 minutes.)

Makes about 40 bite size cheese triangles.

GREEK HONEY/NUT PASTRY
(Baklava)

1 lb. Filo (strudel dough, available from delicatessen)
1 lb. sweet butter
1 lb. chopped almonds or walnuts, or mixture of both
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 lemon
2 lbs. sugar
3 cups water
½ pt. honey
1 tbsp. whole cloves

Butter 10 inch by 15 inch pan, one inch deep. Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. Lay ⅓ lb. Filo in pan, cut to size. Melt and draw butter. Brush pastry with fatty part of butter. Lay ⅓ lbs. of Filo on top of first layer and brush with butter, then sprinkle nuts over. Top with last ⅓ of Filo, baste with generous amount of butter. Using an electric knife, or very sharp instrument, cut pastry (layered) into diamond shapes of desired size. Bake for 45-60 minutes, until top layer turns a golden brown. Cool in pan.

Baklava may be served with topping of honey or hot syrup.

To make hot syrup: Pour 3 cups of water into sauce pan and add 2 lbs. of sugar. Stir. Add ½ pint of honey, tsp. of cinnamon and cloves. Squeeze lemon juice into syrup mixture and then throw in rind of lemon. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat to simmer. Simmer for short while, until spices are blended, or until ready to serve.

Freezing Peaches Is Simple

Winter doesn't mean that you can't have the summer taste of peaches with your meals.

Freezing peaches is simpler than canning. There's no hot stove to stand over, no stirring, and no sterilizing. A great way to freeze peach halves for use later for individual servings is to dip peeled, halved peaches into syrup, and freeze on a cookie sheet. When frozen, pop the peaches in plastic bags, then they're ready for use one at a time as you need them. Peaches frozen in a syrup or other liquid will keep for about a year in the freezer and up to three months in your refrigerator frozen food compartment.

Sun-dried peaches are best if allowed to mellow about 2 weeks before eating. When stored in the refrigerator or freezer, they'll keep for at least a year.

CHICKEN BREASTS with artichoke sauce provide delicate, tasteful, yet simple French fare. The chicken is coated with French biscotte crumbs, baked with a winey cream sauce and canned French artichoke bottoms.

Elaborate Looking Classic That A Novice Can Make

This dish begins with its sauce . . . saute shallots, stir in flour and gradually add French dry white wine and cream. Stir in the canned French artichoke bottoms — fresh tarragon if you can find it, and salt and pepper. Pour into a baking pan and prepare the chicken breasts.

The rest of the meal can be as simple, and just as French. A green salad may accompany the chicken or be served, French style, as a separate course to follow. Of course, you will need a loaf of crusty French bread. For dessert, fruit and an assortment of fine French cheeses wind up the meal in rousing fashion.

SUPREMES DE VOLAILLE AUX ARTICHAUX
(Makes 6 servings)

Sauce:
6 tbsp butter or margarine
6 shallots, minced
6 tbsp flour
1 cup French dry white wine
Salt and pepper

Chicken:
6 boneless and skinless chicken breast halves
1 egg, well beaten
¼ cup butter
1 pint (2 cups) heavy creamy
2 cans (14-oz. each) artichoke bottoms drained and quartered
1 tbsp minced fresh tarragon or 1 tsp dried tarragon
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1½ cups French biscottes, crumbled
Salt and pepper

In saucepan melt butter and saute shallots. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in wine and cream. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Stir in artichokes, tarragon and salt and pepper to taste.

Pour mixture into a shallow greased 9x13x2-inch baking pan. Sprinkler chicken breasts with salt and pepper. Dip chicken into egg and then into crumbs, pressing to make crumbs adhere. Heat butter in a skillet and brown on all sides.

Place browned chicken on top of sauce. Pour over pan juices. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve on platter garnished with sprigs of fresh tarragon.

HOME CANNING is as satisfying as it is practical when summer produce is plentiful. Be sure to read an authoritative guide to canning to insure successful results.

Urban Homemakers Have Tie To Rural Farm Wife

For the country wife of days gone by, the pantry shelf held the pride and satisfaction that comes from a season of hard labor and a successful harvest.

Although the canning process eventually became commercialized, canning food at home has regained its importance. What was both a necessity and a source of satisfaction to the rural farm wife and gardener is now providing urban homemakers with the same sense of accomplishment.

Canning fresh fruits and vegetables captures the natural tastes of summer and allows you to enjoy them long after the growing season is over. Whether you harvest your own or rely on the local farmers market, canning food is a do-it-yourself project to be proud of.

Home canning is foolproof if a few simple techniques are followed:

When choosing ingredients for canning remember to select only the firmest fruits and vegetables free from bruises.

It's easier to can a few pounds of fruits and vegetables at a time rather than attempting to do a farmhouse batch.

Wash and rinse canning jars or sterilize 10 minutes if the jars are not to be processed in a water bath.

To insure that fresh jams and jellies are kept free from mold, seal with paraffin or process in a water bath for 10-15 minutes.

When processing canning jars in a water bath, be sure to follow the indicated recipe times carefully.

After processing, the jars should be cooled then checked to test the seal. (Press the center of the lid down firmly and if it does not pop up, the jar is sealed.)

After carefully following these steps, your complete home canning job has been accomplished and you can store your preparations (at 70 degrees or lower in dark, dry place) knowing that your family can enjoy fresh natural foods all through the year.

Mushrooms Are Ideal For Summer Menus

Since mushrooms are as high in flavor as they are low in calories they are ideal in summer menus.

Add them to your own tried-and-true recipes for meats, poultry and seafood dishes, too, and to salads, cheese, egg and vegetable dishes. Mushrooms can make a dish fancy at plain and thrifty prices.

EASY MARINATED MUSHROOMS

Slice one pound medium-sized fresh mushrooms; place in plastic bag. Combine three-fourths cup salad oil; one fourth cup fresh squeezed lemon juice; one and one-half teaspoons fresh grated lemon peel; one teaspoon each oregano leaves, crushed and garlic salt; and one-eighth teaspoon ground white pepper.

Pour over mushrooms; seal bag. Marinate for several hours in refrigerator, turning bag occasionally. Drain marinade and save for use as salad dressing or for marinating other foods. Serve mushrooms on lettuce leaf. Makes appetizers for 12.

GOURMET PEACHES

Drain well one can (one pound) cling peach halves. Stir together one-half cup sliced fresh mushrooms, one-fourth cup each softened cream cheese and dairy sour cream, one tablespoon bacon bits and dash of liquid pepper sauce. Place peach halves, cut side up, in shallow baking pan. Spoon mushrooms mixture into each cup. Broil. Serve as salad or meat accompaniment.

MUSHROOMS IN SOUR CREAM

Saute one pound fresh mushrooms in three tablespoons butter. Add one teaspoon onion salt, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon ground white pepper and one-fourth cup dry sherry or chicken stock. Heat one minute. Stir in one can (eight ounce) imitation sour cream with chives and three tablespoons shredded cucumber; heat until hot. Serve with main dishes. Makes: four to six portions.

CRISPY MUSHROOM APPETIZERS

Mix together three-fourth cup corn flake crumbs and two teaspoons onion salt. Beat two egg whites until foamy. Stir in one-fourth cup water. Pour about one quart corn oil into heavy, sturdy, flat bottomed three-quart saucepan or deep fryer, filling utensil no more than one-third full. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees. Dip about one-half pound sliced fresh mushrooms in egg mixture and then coat with crumbs.

Carefully add to oil in single layer. Fry one to two minutes or until crisp and lightly browned. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot. Makes about 45 appetizers.

Advice For Corn Buyer

Good quality corn-on-the-cob is tender and sweet. Kernels may be yellow or white, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Look for kernels that are plump, but not too large, and that cover the cob well. Yellow corn of bright (not deep) color and white corn that is really white is best.

Husks that look fresh and have a good green color, not dried or yellow, is also a goodness tip. Be sure that silk ends are free from decay or worm injury.

Keep fresh corn cold and moist. Use it within one or two days.

Plums Are A Natural In Dessert

A Japanese setting is a culinary natural for the plum; for while it is a native of China, the plum was domesticated in Japan. Today, California plum orchards produce more than 90 percent of the nation's plum supply.

They're all marvelous in Tempura Plums — a refreshingly unique dessert idea to serve as a do-it-yourself party or family special. It's a triple treat: easy to prepare, a delight to the eye, and delicious to eat.

TEMPURA PLUMS

3 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
1⅓ cups flour
½ tsp salt
2 tbsp melted butter
12 fresh California plums, pitted and quartered
Oil for frying
Powdered sugar

In mixing bowl, beat egg yolks with milk; beat in flour, salt and butter. In separate bowl, beat egg whites until stiff; fold into batter. Dip plums into batter; deep fry in hot oil (375 degrees) 1 or 2 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Roll in powdered sugar; serve warm. Makes six servings.

Use Imagination In Sandwiches

A dash of imagination is a required ingredient for sandwich making. Use old stand-by favorites in different combinations, slip under broiler and serve open face style.

For example, combine diced bologna, grated cheddar cheese and chopped California prunes with mayonnaise. Spread on split hamburger buns and broil until bubbly.

Fancy Dessert

Stir drained canned dark sweet cherries and roasted diced almonds into whipped cream or non-dairy topping flavored with brandy or rum; garnish with chocolate curls.

GREEK CHEESE PIES (TRIANGLES) (Tyropitakia)

½ lb. feta cheese
½ lb. midjithra or ricotta or large curd, creamed cottage cheese
3 eggs
1 tbs. dill or fennel leaf pepper, to taste
1 lb. Filo (strudel dough, available from delicatessen)
1 cup melted butter

Crumble cheese by hand, then pour in eggs, dill or fennel and pepper and mix well.

Open sheets of Filo and brush butter fat on strips of dough with pastry brush. Put teaspoon of cheese mixture on end of each dough strip and fold into triangles.

Lay in buttered pan and bake in preheated oven (325 degrees) until golden brown (about 30 minutes.)

Makes about 40 bite size cheese triangles.

GREEK HONEY/NUT PASTRY (Baklava)

1 lb. Filo (strudel dough, available from delicatessen)
1 lb. sweet butter
1 lb. chopped almonds or walnuts, or mixture of both
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 lemon
2 lbs. sugar
3 cups water
½ pt. honey
1 tbsp. whole cloves

Butter 10 inch by 15 inch pan, one inch deep. Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. Lay ⅓ lb. Filo in pan, cut to size. Melt and draw butter. Brush pastry with fatty part of butter. Lay ⅓ lbs. of Filo on top of first layer and brush with butter, then sprinkle nuts over. Top with last ⅓ of Filo, baste with generous amount of butter. Using an electric knife, or very sharp instrument, cut pastry (layered) into diamond shapes of desired size. Bake for 45-60 minutes, until top layer turns a golden brown. Cool in pan.

Baklava may be served with topping of honey or hot syrup.

To make hot syrup: Pour 3 cups of water into sauce pan and add 2 lbs. of sugar. Stir. Add ½ pint of honey, tsp. of cinnamon and cloves. Squeeze lemon juice into syrup mixture and then throw in rind of lemon. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat to simmer. Simmer for short while, until spices are blended, or until ready to serve.

Freezing Peaches Is Simple

Winter doesn't mean that you can't have the summer taste of peaches with your meals.

Freezing peaches is simpler than canning. There's no hot stove to stand over, no stirring, and no sterilizing. A great way to freeze peach halves for use later for individual servings is to dip peeled, halved peaches into syrup, and freeze on a cookie sheet. When frozen, pop the peaches in plastic bags, then they're ready for use one at a time as you need them. Peaches frozen in a syrup or other liquid will keep for about a year in the freezer and up to three months in your refrigerator frozen food compartment.

Sun-dried peaches are best if allowed to mellow about 2 weeks before eating. When stored in the refrigerator or freezer, they'll keep for at least a year.

CHICKEN BREASTS with artichoke sauce provide delicate, tasteful, yet simple French fare. The chicken is coated with French biscotte crumbs, baked with a winey cream sauce and canned French artichoke bottoms.

Elaborate Looking Classic That A Novice Can Make

This dish begins with its sauce . . . saute shallots, stir in flour and gradually add French dry white wine and cream. Stir in the canned French artichoke bottoms — fresh tarragon if you can find it, and salt and pepper. Pour into a baking pan and prepare the chicken breasts.

The rest of the meal can be as simple, and just as French. A green salad may accompany the chicken or be served, French style, as a separate course to follow. Of course, you will need a loaf of crusty French bread. For dessert, fruit and an assortment of fine French cheeses wind up the meal in rousing fashion.

SUPREMES DE VOLAILLE AUX ARTICHAUX (Makes 6 servings)

Sauce:
6 tbsp butter or margarine
6 shallots, minced
6 tbsp flour
1 cup French dry white wine
Salt and pepper

Chicken:
6 boneless and skinless chicken breast halves
1 egg, well beaten
¼ cup butter
1 pint (2 cups) heavy creamy
2 cans (14-oz. each) artichoke bottoms drained and quartered
1 tbsp minced fresh tarragon or 1 tsp dried tarragon
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1½ cups French biscottes, crumbled
Salt and pepper

In saucepan melt butter and saute shallots. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in wine and cream. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Stir in artichokes, tarragon and salt and pepper to taste.

Pour mixture into a shallow greased 9x13x2-inch baking pan. Sprinkler chicken breasts with salt and pepper. Dip chicken into egg and then into crumbs, pressing to make crumbs adhere. Heat butter in a skillet and brown on all sides.

Place browned chicken on top of sauce. Pour over pan juices. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve on platter garnished with sprigs of fresh tarragon.

Book About River Done

By BETTY FROST

After more than three years of research and writing, Margaret Sanborn of Mill Valley has completed "The American River of El Dorado," the 64th volume in the Rivers of America series published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.

Much of the research for it was done in the Marin County Civic Center Library. Librarian Virginia Borland obtained additional material through the Bay Area Library Cooperative.

Miss Borland and the author's daughter, Catherine Sanborn, who accompanied her mother on many excursions to the three-pronged Northern California river, are honored in the book's dedication.

A SECOND GENERATION Californian, Mrs. Sanborn has strong Marin ties, dating from her childhood when she spent summers in Mill Valley or Sausalito. She is a graduate of the College of Marin.

Mrs. Sanborn traveled to Virginia to prepare for the two-volume work on Robert E. Lee which first brought her prominence as an historian. In 1968 she was awarded the California Literature Medal for nonfiction for the series by the Commonwealth Club. Such awards are given annually to California writers.

When the Mill Valley writer was asked to write the new book for the Rivers of America Series, "It was much more of a challenge than I realized. There were so many fields that I would have to investigate. I had to learn about anthropology, geology, botany, the whole natural history of the area, as well as biography and history," she said.

MUCH OF CALIFORNIA'S history took place along the banks of the American River, including the Gold Rush of 1849 and unification of the United States by railroad, Mrs. Sanborn said. Captain John Sutter, John C. Fremont, Kit Carson, Mark Twain, and the Donner party who played major roles in California's history, are closely associated with the river.

Lotta Crabtree, the singer and dancer who entertained miners camped along the gold-rich river is a favorite character of Mrs. Sanborn. "My grandfather was the first one to tell me about the men in the audience who admired her, showering her with gold pieces. He had come to California in the early days and recalled seeing Lotta's mother pick up all the gold pieces very carefully," she reminisced.

Of her working habits, Mrs. Sanborn said, "Writing is organized work, just like anything else. You have to discipline yourself. I leave the breakfast dishes in the sink and begin writing in the morning, working until midafternoon. Then I try to get outdoors, to walk or work in the garden."

THE NEXT SIX weeks are peppered with important dates for the writer. Aug. 19 is the official publication date of the American River book. Sept. 19 she will talk about her book at a program on California in the Supervisors Chambers of the Civic Center. Sept. 21 a champagne reception will be given for her in the California Room of the Civic Center Library.

Her husband, Francis Sanborn, an accountant, is also a history buff, with emphasis on his native New England. They have a son, David Sanborn, who is a San Anselmo resident. Their daughter Catherine, who lives at the family home, is an artist. Mrs. Sanborn hopes that one day they will be able to work together, as author and illustrator of a book.

Having opened the rich vein of California history, Mrs. Sanborn is considering mining it further. Although plans are tentative, her next book will probably also have a western setting.

The Sense (Cents) In Grocery Coupons

By ROBERT EDWARDS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Some shoppers would rather just pay less for food than fuss with "cents off," cash refund, or merchandise offer coupons.

Others seize these opportunities. An organized coupon clipper and boxtop swapper may earn $30 to $40 a week — either in cash, coupons exchangeable for free food, or merchandise. Retired persons with ample time and fixed incomes may supplement pension payments through refunds. (Cash from coupons does not count against Social Security earnings.)

WHETHER YOU ARE for or against coupons, they are likely to continue. Projections reported in a supermarket trade magazine forecast a 50 per cent increase in coupon offers.

Coupons appear in newspapers, magazines, through the mail, and on store bulletin boards. Even a vending machine to sell coupons is being tested; a quarter yields coupons worth $3 — if you use them all.

Progressive coupon offerings increase in value with number: 25 cents for one, $1 for four, and $2 for eight labels — possibly only six labels. Since progressive offers are mail-ins, try to get the most out of your 10-cent stamp — if it is a product you normally use anyway.

NOT ALL COUPON offers make sense. The Federal Trade Commission requires that "cents off" promotions provide a legitimate reduction from a normal price — not a price inflated specifically for the promotion. But if you could still pay more for a product with a coupon discount than for a comparable product at full price.

For example, a newspaper coupon offers 7 cents off a 24-ounce bottle of a nationally advertised corn oil, but a store brand sells regularly for 12 cents less.

Regular coupon fans concentrate on cash refund offers. A company may offer to send you the full purchase price or some flat amount, such as $1 or $2.50, in exchange for a coupon and a boxtop. Almost as good are store coupons for another package of the product for free.

ONCE YOU ORGANIZE your refunding activities, you will save boxtops, proofs of purchase, inner seals from bottles, can lids, and sometimes the entire package from products distributed by companies known to be big in refunding. The same companies continue to offer cash and/or discount coupons year after year. When a new offer appears, you can sort through your proof-of-purchase file and send for cash immediately.

A textbook on coupon strategy, "The Coupon Way to Lower Food Prices," by Carole Kratz and Albert Lee, lists names and addresses of the many newsletters and sources of further information on coupon refunding. The paperback sells for $1.95 and may be ordered direct from Workman Publishing Company, 231 East 51st Street, New York, NY 10022.

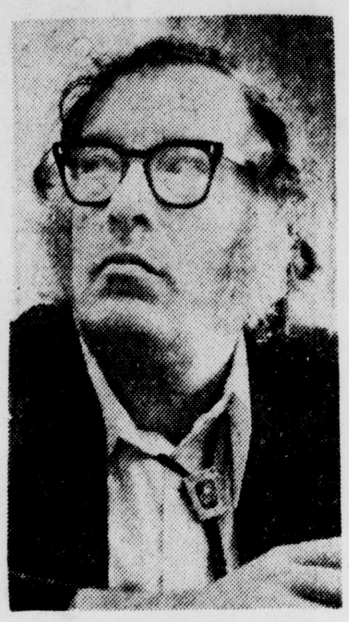
In Central Park, On Aug. 1 Non-Parents Had Their Day

By JO ANN LEVINE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — The National Organization for Non-Parents (NON) called it National Non-Parents Day. In Central Park Aug. 1 Isaac Asimov, as father of "Non-Parents Day," crowned author Stephanie Mills "Non-Mother of the Year," and author Dan Wakefield, "Non-Father of the Year."

The audience was made up of many women who had already decided not to have children; some who were questioning, and a number of older women, still looking for answers to give themselves and others as to why they had not had children. The topic of the day — "Pronatalism: threat to personhood and planet" — served them up ammunition as well as fortification.

PRONATALISM, a word used over and over in this group, is defined by NON as "any policy or belief that encourages reproduction, that exalts the status of parenthood." The word, maintains the organization, is slanted with a pronatalist bias.



ISAAC ASIMOV
Wat is bestial?

Dr. Alvin Toffler, author of "Future Shock," said, "Just as we are going to have to redefine technology, we are going to have to reconceptualize the notion of family . . . The decision to bear a child is a decision which has very large consequences. It is an ethical, moral, ecological, and political decision."

DR. DENNIS Meadows, author of "The Limits to Growth," enumerated some of the myths that society has developed against those who have planned on not having children. The myths include:

1. It is not necessary to desist from having children because the U.S. is already at zero population growth.
2. Without a continuing supply of new babies, the U.S. would have a distorted age structure — the would country would look like Miami Beach.
3. Innovation would decrease.
4. It should be done in India, not here.
5. It would be demaning to human life.

Dr. SUZANNE KELLER
It's "a social habit"

DR. MEADOWS countered these myths by saying that in the United States, population will increase 40 to 60 million people in the next 50 years and that many argue the country is overpopulated now; that the nation is going to have to deal with the problems of a more conservative, slowly changing population — and an older population; that the idea "if there are 10 times as many people, there will be 10 times as many Beethovens and Einsteins, has not proven itself out; that it is not in Indian but the United States where 30 percent of the world's resources are consumed."

He concluded by noting that "nothing is more demeaning to human life in my mind than an unwanted child. I should think a significant movement toward nonparenthood would enhance human life."

DR. SUZANNE Keller of Princeton University, who is also author of "The Future Status of Women in America," said in the 15 minutes alloted for her talk, there would be born "3,600 babies . . . four babies every second, 350,000 a day." These figures, she said, still shock her.

Dr. Keller said that she considered having children a "social habit in a large part . . . For some individuals children constitute the prime reason for living; for others, major obstacles for lives they would like to live . . ."

Dr. Robert Gould, professor of psychiatry at New York Medical College, noted that children once knew they had an important place in society in the family.

"Children today don't have the same feeling. They are not

Off-Campus Child Care Center To Aid College Student Parents

An off-campus child care center for student parents at the College of Marin and Indian Valley Colleges will open Aug. 19 at West End School in San Rafael.

Forty-five children aged 2½ to 4 years 9 months can be enrolled in the program with a capacity load of no more than 25 children per hour. The center will open at 7:30 a.m. and the child's schedule will correspond to that of the parents.

Teh center is open to parents meeting financial eligibility requirements and enrolled as full-time students at either college. The facility is a combined, though separate, effort of the college and the Marin County Schools which will transfer its child care center from the Bahia Vista Elementary School to West End school Sept. 10.

The program will be staffed by students in the Early Childhood Education work-study program. A certificated teacher will supervise the center.

The College of Marin also sponsors an on-campus center with a 45-child capacity. Indian Valley Colleges is currently working on plans for a center open later in the year.

The decision by the college Board of Trustees to open a second child care facility came after reviewing a survey of women wishing to return to school. Of the 936 women surveyed recently through the efforts of the Women's Educational Re-Entry Program at the college, it was found that there were 280 children of prospective students who would need some sort of child care.

Inez d'Arcy Heckman of the re-entry program said the number has risen since the survey was taken.

To enter the child in the center, parents must qualify in terms of income, said Mrs. Heckman. Many of those interested in the program are single heads of the family, or the "working poor," she said, who work 40 hours a week at a salary of approximately $100 a week.

Most of the "working poor," she added, are women, and finding child care is the "biggest problem" when they're planning to return to school.

"The college is going to try and respond" to this need, she said, adding that they're already talking to women about child care for the spring semester.

For those on welfare or in extreme financial difficulty, the re-entry program will process their applications immediately.

Applicants are approved by the county schools using social welfare guidelines.

For the working single parent, Mrs. Heckman said they are attempting to "track them into night classes" until the child is older. Four-fifth of the women who fall into this category, she added, said they have to continue working to support their family.

Parents who are able to afford some sort of child care are being urged to form cooperative child care program with geographic divisions. The college is not taking part in the formation of the cooperative program but gives names of parents needing some sort of child care to those interested in the idea. "This is up to the women," said Mrs. Heckman.

The college also gives the names of licensed child care centers in the county to those able to afford the service.

The new president of Marin Chapter of Hadassah is Dovey Schneider of Corte Madera.

The mother of two children and wife of physician Victor Schneider, she holds a bachelor of science degree in occupational therapy from the University of Florida. She lists tennis, photography, piano, biking, and travel as her hobbies; her interests include the feminist movement, educational reform and "furthering more honesty in human interaction," she said.

The new president said the main purpose of the organization is to support the Hadassah-Hebrew University Hospital and Medical Center in Jerusalem; the Hadassah Israel Educational Services, a comprehensive high school and community college; and the Hasachar-Zionist youth movement, which includes the Camp Young Judea summer program in St. Helena.

Among events on the local Hadassah calendar are the sixth annual Cost-Minus Sale of rummage and new merchandise in late November, a special givers party in February and a donors party in April. The new president hopes to provide study groups on such topics as Jewish feminists, baking challah, Jewish symbols and customs, learning Hebrew, book reviews and trip planning to Israel.

Welcome to join the group are any women with a feeling of commitment to the state of Israel, she said.

The Marin group already has 200 members.

Fall Fashions

The fall fashion story is a soft one. Designers say there is a universal and overwhelming demand for soft, fluid and feminine looks in all phases of ready-to-wear from sportswear to the most costly clothes, according to UPI fashion writers.

New Jewish Women's Leader Looks Ahead

Members of the four-year-old section will study juvenile justice, laws and practices in Marin as their major endeavor for the year. Two parties are planned — a fund-raising theater party in November and a Ship-A-Box party in December at which members contribute clothing and educational materials for child care centers in Israel. The section also holds monthly legislation workshops, Mrs. Auslen said.

Purpose of the organization is community service, social and legislative action and education in the United States and Israel,

Better Business Bureau Backs Stand On Weight Reducer Shot

DEAR HELEN:

Your stand regarding "HCG" (Human Chorionic Gonadotropin) shots for weight reduction parallels ours at the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco. Don Schwartz, our BBB president, advises prospective clients to use caution in these types of weight reduction programs. He suggests that they should consider consulting their own physicians before entering into an HCG weight loss treatment.

The (San Francisco) Better Business Bureau recently completed an investigation of such plans using HCG injections, the latest fat-fighting fad.

In the past few months, more than 100 "medical weight loss" clinics have sprung up in California alone. Advertised as doctor-owned and doctor-operated, they treat patients with injections of HCG and a 500-calories-a-day diet. Officials emphasize that HCG is approved by the Food and Drug Administration. However, they do not further qualify that it is not approved for a weight loss program.

Both the American Medical Association and the California Medical Association have published position papers in opposition to the use of HCG in the treatment of obesity. According to Dr. John Kane, University of California Medical Center, several controlled medical studies have been made in this field, which showed that HCG was no more effective than an injection of saline (salt) solution, a placebo, in weight loss. A properly applied diet would accomplish the same loss and obviate the expense to the patient of the questionable services of the drug program. — K. W., BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU OF SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR HELEN:

I pity the poor foreigner who comes to our country and tries to learn our language. Consider this:

A flock of ships is called a fleet. A fleet of girls is called a bevy. A bevy of wolves is called a pack. A pack of thieves is called a gang. A gang of angels is called a host. A host of porpoises is called a shoal. A shoal of fish is called a school. A school of buffalo is called a herd. A herd of seals is called a pod. A pod of whales is called a gam. A gam of lions is called a pride. A pride of children is called a troop. A troop of partridge is called a covey. A covey of beauties is called a galaxy. A galaxy of ruffians is called a horde. A horde of rubbish is called a heap. A heap of oxen is called a drove. A drove of blackguards is called a mob. A mob of worshippers is called a congregation.

A congregation of theatergoers is called an audience. An audience of peacocks is called a muster. A muster of doves is called a flight. A flight of larks is called an exaltation. An exaltation of starlings is called a murmuration. A murmuration of bees is called a swarm.

And finally, back to the beginning, a swarm of sheep is called a block. — QUOTER FROM THE THATCHER COLLECTION

DEAR QUOTER:

And what it adds up to, is a bunch of confusion for a stranger in a strange land. — H.

PERSONAL TO "HOW CAN I FORGIVE AND FORGET?"

G. K. Chesterton said, "Forgiving means pardoning that which is unpardonable or it is no virtue at all." You can, if you truly want to save your marriage! — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca.

AFTER THREE YEARS

Book About River Done

By BETTY FROST

After more than three years of research and writing, Margaret Sanborn of Mill Valley has completed "The American River of El Dorado," the 64th volume in the Rivers of America series published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.

Much of the research for it was done in the Marin County Civic Center Library. Librarian Virginia Borland obtained additional material through the Bay Area Library Cooperative.

Miss Borland and the author's daughter, Catherine Sanborn, who accompanied her mother on many excursions to the three-pronged Northern California river, are honored in the book's dedication.

A SECOND GENERATION Californian, Mrs. Sanborn has strong Marin ties, dating from her childhood when she spent summers in Mill Valley or Sausalito. She is a graduate of the College of Marin.

Mrs. Sanborn traveled to Virginia to prepare for the two-volume work on Robert E. Lee which first brought her prominence as an historian. In 1968 she was awarded the California Literature Medal for nonfiction for the series by the Commonwealth Club. Such awards are given annually to California writers.

When the Mill Valley writer was asked to write the new book for the Rivers of America Series, "It was much more of a challenge than I realized. There were so many fields that I would have to investigate. I had to learn about anthropology, geology, botany, the whole natural history of the area, as well as biography and history," she said.

MUCH OF CALIFORNIA'S history took place along the banks of the American River, including the Gold Rush of 1849 and unification of the United States by railroad, Mrs. Sanborn said. Captain John Sutter, John C. Fremont, Kit Carson, Mark Twain, and the Donner party who played major roles in California's history, are closely associated with the river.

Lotta Crabtree, the singer and dancer who entertained miners camped along the gold-rich river is a favorite character of Mrs. Sanborn. "My grandfather was the first one to tell me about the men in the audience who admired her, showering her with gold pieces. He had come to California in the early days and recalled seeing Lotta's mother pick up all the gold pieces very carefully," she reminisced.

Of her working habits, Mrs. Sanborn said, "Writing is organized work, just like anything else. You have to discipline yourself. I leave the breakfast dishes in the sink and begin writing in the morning, working until midafternoon. Then I try to get outdoors, to walk or work in the garden."

THE NEXT SIX weeks are peppered with important dates for the writer. Aug. 19 is the official publication date of the American River book. Sept. 19 she will talk about her book at a program on California in the Supervisors Chambers of the Civic Center. Sept. 21 a champagne reception will be given for her in the California Room of the Civic Center Library.

Her husband, Francis Sanborn, an accountant, is also a history buff, with emphasis on his native New England. They have a son, David Sanborn, who is a San Anselmo resident. Their daughter Catherine, who lives at the family home, is an artist. Mrs. Sanborn hopes that one day they will be able to work together, as author and illustrator of a book.

Having opened the rich vein of California history, Mrs. Sanborn is considering mining it further. Although plans are tentative, her next book will probably also have a western setting.

Marin Women

In Central Park, On Aug. 1 Non-Parents Had Their Day

By JO ANN LEVINE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — The National Organization for Non-Parents (NON) called it National Non-Parents Day. In Central Park Aug. 1 Isaac Asimov, as father of "Non-Parents Day," crowned author Stephanie Mills "Non-Mother of the Year," and author Dan Wakefield, "Non-Father of the Year."

The audience was made up of many women who had already decided not to have children; some who were questioning, and a number of older women, still looking for answers to give themselves and others as to why they had not had children. The topic of the day — "Pronatalism: threat to personhood and planet" — served them up ammunition as well as fortification.

PRONATALISM, a word used over and over in this group, is defined by NON as "any policy or belief that encourages reproduction, that exalts the status of parenthood." The word, maintains the organization, is slanted with a pronatalist bias.

ISAAC ASIMOV
Wat is bestial?

Dr. Alvin Toffler, author of "Future Shock," said, "Just as we are going to have to redefine technology, we are going to have to reconceptualize the notion of family . . . The decision to bear a child is a decision which has very large consequences. It is an ethical, moral, ecological, and political decision."

DR. DENNIS Meadows, author of "The Limits to Growth," enumerated some of the myths that society has developed against those who have planned on not having children. The myths include:

1. It is not necessary to desist from having children because the U.S. is already at zero population growth.
2. Without a continuing supply of new babies, the U.S. would have a distorted age structure — the would country would look like Miami Beach.
3. Innovation would decrease.
4. It should be done in India, not here.
5. It would be demaning to human life.

Dr. SUZANNE KELLER
It's "a social habit"

DR. MEADOWS countered these myths by saying that in the United States, population will increase 40 to 60 million people in the next 50 years and that many argue the country is overpopulated now; that the nation is going to have to deal with the problems of a more conservative, slowly changing population — and an older population; that the idea "if there are 10 times as many people, there will be 10 times as many Beethovens and Einsteins, has not proven itself out; that it is not in Indian but the United States where 30 percent of the world's resources are consumed."

He concluded by noting that "nothing is more demeaning to human life in my mind than an unwanted child. I should think a significant movement toward nonparenthood would enhance human life."

DR. SUZANNE Keller of Princeton University, who is also author of "The Future Status of Women in America," said in the 15 minutes alloted for her talk, there would be born "3,600 babies . . . four babies every second, 350,000 a day." These figures, she said, still shock her.

Dr. Keller said that she considered having children a "social habit in a large part . . . For some individuals children constitute the prime reason for living; for others, major obstacles for lives they would like to live . . ."

Dr. Robert Gould, professor of psychiatry at New York Medical College, noted that children once knew they had an important place in society in the family.

"Children today don't have the same feeling. They are not

Forty-five children aged 2½ to 4 years 9 months can be enrolled in the program with a capacity load of no more than 25 children per hour. The center will open at 7:30 a.m. and the child's schedule will correspond to that of the parents.

Teh center is open to parents meeting financial eligibility requirements and enrolled as full-time students at either college. The facility is a combined, though separate, effort of the college and the Marin County Schools which will transfer its child care center from the Bahia Vista Elementary School to West End school Sept. 10.

The program will be staffed by students in the Early Childhood Education work-study program. A certificated teacher will supervise the center.

The College of Marin also sponsors an on-campus center with a 45-child capacity. Indian Valley Colleges is currently working on plans for a center open later in the year.

The decision by the college Board of Trustees to open a second child care facility came after reviewing a survey of women wishing to return to school. Of the 936 women surveyed recently through the efforts of the Women's Educational Re-Entry Program at the college, it was found that there were 280 children of prospective students who would need some sort of child care.

Inez d'Arcy Heckman of the re-entry program said the number has risen since the survey was taken.

To enter the child in the center, parents must qualify in terms of income, said Mrs. Heckman. Many of those interested in the program are single heads of the family, or the "working poor," she said, who work 40 hours a week at a salary of approximately $100 a week.

Most of the "working poor," she added, are women, and finding child care is the "biggest problem" when they're planning to return to school.

"The college is going to try and respond" to this need, she said, adding that they're already talking to women about child care for the spring semester.

For those on welfare or in extreme financial difficulty, the re-entry program will process their applications immediately.

Applicants are approved by the county schools using social welfare guidelines.

For the working single parent, Mrs. Heckman said they are attempting to "track them into night classes" until the child is older. Four-fifth of the women who fall into this category, she added, said they have to continue working to support their family.

Parents who are able to afford some sort of child care are being urged to form cooperative child care program with geographic divisions. The college is not taking part in the formation of the cooperative program but gives names of parents needing some sort of child care to those interested in the idea. "This is up to the women," said Mrs. Heckman.

The college also gives the names of licensed child care centers in the county to those able to afford the service.

The Sense (Cents) In Grocery Coupons

By ROBERT EDWARDS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Others seize these opportunities. An organized coupon clipper and boxtop swapper may earn $30 to $40 a week — either in cash, coupons exchangeable for free food, or merchandise. Retired persons with ample time and fixed incomes may supplement pension payments through refunds. (Cash from coupons does not count against Social Security earnings.)

WHETHER YOU ARE for or against coupons, they are likely to continue. Projections reported in a supermarket trade magazine forecast a 50 per cent increase in coupon offers.

Coupons appear in newspapers, magazines, through the mail, and on store bulletin boards. Even a vending machine to sell coupons is being tested; a quarter yields coupons worth $3 — if you use them all.

Progressive coupon offerings increase in value with number: 25 cents for one, $1 for four, and $2 for eight labels — possibly only six labels. Since progressive offers are mail-ins, try to get the most out of your 10-cent stamp — if it is a product you normally use anyway.

NOT ALL COUPON offers make sense. The Federal Trade Commission requires that "cents off" promotions provide a legitimate reduction from a normal price — not a price inflated specifically for the promotion. But if you could still pay more for a product with a coupon discount than for a comparable product at full price.

For example, a newspaper coupon offers 7 cents off a 24-ounce bottle of a nationally advertised corn oil, but a store brand sells regularly for 12 cents less.

Regular coupon fans concentrate on cash refund offers. A company may offer to send you the full purchase price or some flat amount, such as $1 or $2.50, in exchange for a coupon and a boxtop. Almost as good are store coupons for another package of the product for free.

ONCE YOU ORGANIZE your refunding activities, you will save boxtops, proofs of purchase, inner seals from bottles, can lids, and sometimes the entire package from products distributed by companies known to be big in refunding. The same companies continue to offer cash and/or discount coupons year after year. When a new offer appears, you can sort through your proof-of-purchase file and send for cash immediately.

A textbook on coupon strategy, "The Coupon Way to Lower Food Prices," by Carole Kratz and Albert Lee, lists names and addresses of the many newsletters and sources of further information on coupon refunding. The paperback sells for $1.95 and may be ordered direct from Workman Publishing Company, 231 East 51st Street, New York, NY 10022.

The mother of two children and wife of physician Victor Schneider, she holds a bachelor of science degree in occupational therapy from the University of Florida. She lists tennis, photography, piano, biking, and travel as her hobbies; her interests include the feminist movement, educational reform and "furthering more honesty in human interaction," she said.

She is a member of the Marin Jewish Community Center board of directors, helped organize the KQED Fun Fair in 1972, and served as the League of Women Voters observer at the Corte Madera City Council in 1971.

The new president said the main purpose of the organization is to support the Hadassah-Hebrew University Hospital and Medical Center in Jerusalem; the Hadassah Israel Educational Services, a comprehensive high school and community college; and the Hasachar-Zionist youth movement, which includes the Camp Young Judea summer program in St. Helena.

Among events on the local Hadassah calendar are the sixth annual Cost-Minus Sale of rummage and new merchandise in late November, a special givers party in February and a donors party in April. The new president hopes to provide study groups on such topics as Jewish feminists, baking challah, Jewish symbols and customs, learning Hebrew, book reviews and trip planning to Israel.

Welcome to join the group are any women with a feeling of commitment to the state of Israel, she said.

The Marin group already has 200 members.

Fall Fashions

The fall fashion story is a soft one. Designers say there is a universal and overwhelming demand for soft, fluid and feminine looks in all phases of ready-to-wear from sportswear to the most costly clothes, according to UPI fashion writers.

New Jewish Women's Leader Looks Ahead

Members of the four-year-old section will study juvenile justice, laws and practices in Marin as their major endeavor for the year. Two parties are planned — a fund-raising theater party in November and a Ship-A-Box party in December at which members contribute clothing and educational materials for child care centers in Israel. The section also holds monthly legislation workshops, Mrs. Auslen said.

Purpose of the organization is community service, social and legislative action and education in the United States and Israel,

She plans to attend College of Marin; Michael will continue his studies at Indian Valley Colleges in the fall. They will make their home in Ignacio.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Sabel of San Rafael.

Michael F. Bodeen of San Rafael was best man. The bride's brother Thomas Barron of Westminster, the bridegroom's brother James Sabel, Daniel McCarthy and Kenneth Carter of San Rafael were ushers.

necessary in order for the family to survive . . . They really don't fill any political, economic, or social need . . . The agrarian/hunting society doesn't really exist, but what we have carried over is the heritage of childbearing as a natural and necessary part of our living today."

Dr. Gould said "It is no coincidence that so many famous people — Churchill, Roosevelt — have done so badly in bringing up their children. In order to be excellent in some aspects of living, you must give up others."

ISAAC ASIMOV, author of 155 books, said that throughout history "childlessness is considered with the greatest possible reverence — on one condition — that it be accompanied by complete chastity. . . ."

For every animal species, he said, sex is only for procreation; that in humanity alone sex became part of a kind of interpersonal relationship and it is only in man that you can make out of it something transcending. "To think of sex only in connection with children is to be literally bestial," he concluded.

School Training Open To Parents

Parents may take part in the training program usually offered exclusively to teachers and aides of the Sausalito School District.

Supt. Donald W. Johnson said the district's in-service training program had been opened to all persons in the community as an opportunity to update their knowledge.

The workshops will be held Monday afternoons beginning Sept. 23. Children will have minimum day ending at 2 p.m. on Mondays. Some sessions will be given at Martin Luter King School and others at Bayside School. Staff from both schools will instruct.

Subject areas will include the metric system, language arts, science, social studies, mathematics, individualized instruction, and use of audio visual materials.

A course in human relations, to be given in cooperation with Dominican College and the College of Marin, will also be given.

"Many parents are involved in a volunteer program and work in the classroom. Participation in the in-service program will better prepare them for the classroom work. Other parents may wish to update their knowledge so they can help their children at home," Johnson said.

"For example, by 1976, we will be teaching the metric system, and are already working on the transition. In the beginning this may be as confusing for parents as the 'new math' was," he added.

The sessions will be open to Sausalito Women's Club members to fulfill their pledges of volunteer hours of service to the city and their schools.

Better Business Bureau Backs Stand On Weight Reducer Shot

DEAR HELEN:

Your stand regarding "HCG" (Human Chorionic Gonadotropin) shots for weight reduction parallels ours at the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco. Don Schwartz, our BBB president, advises prospective clients to use caution in these types of weight reduction programs. He suggests that they should consider consulting their own physicians before entering into an HCG weight loss treatment.

The (San Francisco) Better Business Bureau recently completed an investigation of such plans using HCG injections, the latest fat-fighting fad.

In the past few months, more than 100 "medical weight loss" clinics have sprung up in California alone. Advertised as doctor-owned and doctor-operated, they treat patients with injections of HCG and a 500-calories-a-day diet. Officials emphasize that HCG is approved by the Food and Drug Administration. However, they do not further qualify that it is not approved for a weight loss program.

Both the American Medical Association and the California Medical Association have published position papers in opposition to the use of HCG in the treatment of obesity. According to Dr. John Kane, University of California Medical Center, several controlled medical studies have been made in this field, which showed that HCG was no more effective than an injection of saline (salt) solution, a placebo, in weight loss. A properly applied diet would accomplish the same loss and obviate the expense to the patient of the questionable services of the drug program. — K. W., BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU OF SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR HELEN:

I pity the poor foreigner who comes to our country and tries to learn our language. Consider this:

A flock of ships is called a fleet. A fleet of girls is called a bevy. A bevy of wolves is called a pack. A pack of thieves is called a gang. A gang of angels is called a host. A host of porpoises is called a shoal. A shoal of fish is called a school. A school of buffalo is called a herd. A herd of seals is called a pod. A pod of whales is called a gam. A gam of lions is called a pride. A pride of children is called a troop. A troop of partridge is called a covey. A covey of beauties is called a galaxy. A galaxy of ruffians is called a horde. A horde of rubbish is called a heap. A heap of oxen is called a drove. A drove of blackguards is called a mob. A mob of worshippers is called a congregation.

A congregation of theatergoers is called an audience. An audience of peacocks is called a muster. A muster of doves is called a flight. A flight of larks is called an exaltation. An exaltation of starlings is called a murmuration. A murmuration of bees is called a swarm.

And finally, back to the beginning, a swarm of sheep is called a block. — QUOTER FROM THE THATCHER COLLECTION

DEAR QUOTER:

And what it adds up to, is a bunch of confusion for a stranger in a strange land. — H.

PERSONAL TO "HOW CAN I FORGIVE AND FORGET?"

G. K. Chesterton said, "Forgiving means pardoning that which is unpardonable or it is no virtue at all." You can, if you truly want to save your marriage! — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca.

Marin Women Involved In Musical Convention

Four Marin women will take prominent parts in the international convention of Mu Phi Epsilon, professional music sorority, next week in Palm Springs. All are members of the San Francisco Alumnae Chapter of the sorority.

Jan Wilson of Novato, vice president of the chapter, is the official business delegate. She will serve on a panel discussing music therapy projects. San Francisco Alumnae projects in this field have included volunteer music teaching at Marindale School for the Orthopedically Handicapped, benefit concerts for the California League for the Handicapped, transcribing of music braille for individuals, and programs in convalescent homes.

LYRIC SOPRANO Jeanne Kostelic of Corte Madera will be the music delegate, and will sing in the alumnae concert.

Trudi Sorensen of Greenbrae will be her accompanist. Mrs. Sorensen was the business delegate four years ago when the convention was in Washington, D.C. In addition, Mrs. Sorensen will be toastmistress for the convention.

Also represented at the convention, via posters and displays, will be Sibyl Schneller of Mill Valley. Mrs. Schneller recently had a book of her poetry published: "A Square Inch of Space." In addition to her talents as a musician and poet, Mrs. Schneller, certified by the Library of Congress Braille Division, contributes 300 hours a year transcribing music Braille to blind musicians throughout the United States.

Sonoma Wins Partial Victory In Property Assessment Battle

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County has won a partial victory over a state ruling on the county's property assessment roll, according to County Assessor Ernest L. Comalli.

The State Board of Equalization, which earlier said Sonoma County was improperly assessing private property at only 22.8 per cent of fair market value, revised the figure to 23.4 per cent after Comalli was given an appeals hearing last week.

The seemingly trivial technicality means a saving of about $354,000 this year to local property owners because the ratio change means the state must pay a larger share of local education costs under the so-called Collier formula. The state's goal is to have all counties assess property at 25 per cent of market value.

Had the county achieved this, the state would have had to pump even more equalization money into school district coffers, Comalli admitted. He said he doesn't know exactly what the extra amount would have been under the complicated Collier formula.

The theory is that counties that are assessed too low let the local taxpayer off too lightly unless the state reduces its subventions and forces local agencies to hike their property tax rates, Comalli explained.

Statewide average for county assessments this year is 24.1 per cent of fair market value, he reported.

Comalli successfully challenged a sampling of Sonoma County market values by the state board's aides, showing their figures failed to consider unusual economic conditions including relatively large unemployment insurance collections by county residents, a large number of students in first through eighth grades and other economic indices affecting market value.

Comalli said one of his most telling arguments was that since 1969 the county assessment rolls have increased by 77 per cent including a record 18 per cent this year. At the same time, the state assessed rolls of public property in the county have increased only 17 per cent, with more than half the gain — 9.8 per cent — in the utility roll just now being compiled in Sacramento, due to reach the county late this week.

Any county that misses the statewide nonutility roll average by more than 4 percentage points is arbitrarily reassessed by the state, Comalli said. This would apply to any county assessing less than 20 per cent or more than 29 per cent of fair market value.

State board of equalization member William M. Bennett of Kentfield moved successfully to revise the Sonoma County rating and give local taxpayers their break, Comalli reported.

Engineer's Folly Brings Reprimand

STOKE-ON-TRENT, England (UPI) — British rail, the state-run railroad, advertised it as a mystery tour. It was.

The engineer forgot to pick up the 300 customers and stopped at the wrong station, British rail said today. He was reprimanded.

Rohnert Park Group To Present Simon Comedy

The newly formed Rohnert Park Stage Guild will give its first performance Friday, opening a four-night run of "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," a comedy written by Neil Simon.

The play, which had a successful season on Broadway in 1971, will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and Aug. 23 and 24 at Rancho Cotate High School on Snyder Lane.

The six performers in the theater group's debut will be Robert Lester, Jane Lyons, John Maynard, Maris Robinson, Mary Lynn TeSelle and Alice Wells. Director is William Wender.

The play deals with the serio-comic troubles of an urban cliff dweller living next to an apartment filled with partying stewardesses, his cactus garden polluted to extinction and his job abolished.

Tickets are on sale at several Rohnert Park and Cotati stores and will be available at the door, according to Mrs. TeSelle, publicity chairman.

The California Division of Mines and Geology estimates that earthquake damage will reach $21 billion in California between 1970 and 2000.

Elizabeth Barron And Michael Sabel Marry

Elizabeth Barron and Michael Sabel, who met at Terra Linda High School, were married Aug. 3 at St. Isabella's Church in Terra Linda.

Elizabeth, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Barron, lived in San Rafael for five years before moving with her family to Westminister a year ago.

She plans to attend College of Marin; Michael will continue his studies at Indian Valley Colleges in the fall. They will make their home in Ignacio.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Sabel of San Rafael.

Deborah Barron of Westminister served as maid of honor for Elizabeth at her wedding. Bridesmaids were Michele Etchebehere, Kathleen Hess and the bridegroom's sister Susan Sabel, all of San Rafael.

Michael F. Bodeen of San Rafael was best man. The bride's brother Thomas Barron of Westminster, the bridegroom's brother James Sabel, Daniel McCarthy and Kenneth Carter of San Rafael were ushers.

necessary in order for the family to survive . . . They really don't fill any political, economic, or social need . . . The agrarian/hunting society doesn't really exist, but what we have carried over is the heritage of childbearing as a natural and necessary part of our living today."

Dr. Gould said "It is no coincidence that so many famous people — Churchill, Roosevelt — have done so badly in bringing up their children. In order to be excellent in some aspects of living, you must give up others."

ISAAC ASIMOV, author of 155 books, said that throughout history "childlessness is considered with the greatest possible reverence — on one condition — that it be accompanied by complete chastity. . . ."

For every animal species, he said, sex is only for procreation; that in humanity alone sex became part of a kind of interpersonal relationship and it is only in man that you can make out of it something transcending. "To think of sex only in connection with children is to be literally bestial," he concluded.

School Training Open To Parents

Parents may take part in the training program usually offered exclusively to teachers and aides of the Sausalito School District.

Supt. Donald W. Johnson said the district's in-service training program had been opened to all persons in the community as an opportunity to update their knowledge.

The workshops will be held Monday afternoons beginning Sept. 23. Children will have minimum day ending at 2 p.m. on Mondays. Some sessions will be given at Martin Luter King School and others at Bayside School. Staff from both schools will instruct.

Subject areas will include the metric system, language arts, science, social studies, mathematics, individualized instruction, and use of audio visual materials.

A course in human relations, to be given in cooperation with Dominican College and the College of Marin, will also be given.

"Many parents are involved in a volunteer program and work in the classroom. Participation in the in-service program will better prepare them for the classroom work. Other parents may wish to update their knowledge so they can help their children at home," Johnson said.

"For example, by 1976, we will be teaching the metric system, and are already working on the transition. In the beginning this may be as confusing for parents as the 'new math' was," he added.

The sessions will be open to Sausalito Women's Club members to fulfill their pledges of volunteer hours of service to the city and their schools.

HIS OWN FIGHT REMAINS

No More War For Israeli

By BARBARA HOSMER

A husky Israeli soldier who was blinded last October in the war with Egypt is learning to walk with confidence again on city streets in San Rafael, a black Labrador leading the way.

On Saturday at 2:30 p.m., he will be among the 15 members of class no. 297 to graduate from Guide Dogs School for the Blind in San Rafael.

Perach spent two months in a Tel Aviv hospital.

"Doctor operated, took out many pieces in my eyes," he said haltingly. "Now doctor no can help."

Perach could walk tapping a white cane for the rest of his life or choose to come to the United States to train with a guide dog. The Israel government paid the travel bill for him and his wife.

The Israeli said that his government helps all blinded soldiers who want guide dogs but previously all have gone to New York or Michigan schools for training.

"Some people said, 'Go with the cane.' I said, 'Yes, to be good with the cane will take 10 years. With dog — one month'," he said.

Perach is confident that after graduation he will feel quite comfortable walking in busy Tel Aviv with his dog.

He and his wife, whom he met on his home kibbutz near Tiberias in northern Israel, flew to San Francisco three weeks ago.

She is staying with the Gideon Sorokins, who speak Hebrew, at their Novato home while Peruch lives at the training school. The two Perach daughters, aged 4 and 3, are cared for by Perach's mother and friends on the kibbutz.

TO ISRAEL — Reuven Perach, an Israeli soldier blinded in the October war with Egypt, trains with his guide dog Kirby in San Rafael. Perach will return to his home kibbutz with his wife and Kirby after graduation Saturday at Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael.

Perach, too, said he feels a little isolated. Blind for just 10 months, he must rely on his ears, straining to make out a foreign tongue which he began to study just before his trip to San Rafael.

"It is very hard now. I must listen good. Others not see for five, 10, 20 years," he said, indicating the other more experienced blind trainees seated nearby. The guide dog training lectures are another hurdle to him.

Training with Kirby to walk in traffic doesn't worry the former soldier but he fears having to ask questions of strangers in his halting English if he makes mistakes crossing streets. The dog readily responds to his commands in English over in the Middle East for Perach.

"For me the finish, the end," he said, indicating his eyes. "But for my friends and all people in Israel not finished."

Of the cease-fire agreement, he said, "I think it is better now from fighting, but not best."

Perach wanted to talk about ex-President Nixon's resignation. "Not good," he said. "Nixon very good for Israel. Nixon gave more to Israel than the other government."

The government also gave him a car and telephone, rarities on the kibbutz.

"My dog is compact, not very big, but much strong," he said. "I have a little car and he can go in. I buy special food for the dog from England."

Perach looks forward to returning home with Kirby but holds some apprehension for his future. Totally blind, he can no longer drive trucks on the kibbutz where he has lived since birth. Nor does he expect to be able to work in its cotton fields or orange or banana groves anymore.

He thinks he may study piano tuning or perhaps work at a small machine in the kibbutz factory mornings and study something new in the afternoons.

"Tune piano," he mused. "I do not know."

Schulte To Appear On Felony Court

John T. Schulte, administrative officer of the Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on felony charges of drunken driving and hit and run.

Schulte is accused of being drunk when his car and one belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hynes of Lagunitas collided head-on on White's Hill June 1.

According to testimony at a preliminary hearing yesterday before Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas, Schulte and his wife, Lita, drive from the accident scene to the Ross police station before stopping.

Bureau Sets Marin Opening

The Marin branch of the Better Business Bureau will reopen its San Rafael office on Monday.

The office, at 1010 B Street, Room 310, has been closed for several months, according to Donald W. Schwartz, president of the San Francisco bureau.

It will be open Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The telephone number is 453-9442.

Police Credit Two Men With Helping Catch Robbery Suspect

Two men came to the aid of a woman friend outside a Sausalito nightspot early today and helped disarm a Novato man said to have robbed her at gunpoint.

Morgan McVickar of Kentfield and Roger Watson of Sausalito, both 30, are credited by police with assisting in the arrest of Douglas Lamar Woodard, 21, of 1000 Ignacio Boulevard.

Arresting officer Stephen Willis gave this account of the incident:

Two men approached the auto and one, identified as Woodard, pulled a pistol and demanded the woman's purse while his accomplice snatched it off the passenger seat.

McVickar and Watson were walking through the parking lot during the holdup and rushed to her aid, McVickar grabbing the man with the purse.

That bandit also pulled a pistol, then ran off into the darkness as McVickar hurried back inside the bar and telephoned police.

Police said that meanwhile Woodard, still armed, then slid into the car alongside Miss Rodgers and told her to drive him from the scene. Watson reportedly punched Woodard in the side of the head and pulled him from the auto with assistance from McVickar, who had returned.

Willia then arrived and wrestled the gun from Woodard after a brief scuffle. Woodard was booked into county jail on suspicion of armed robbery and held in lieu of $10,000 bail. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

In Miss Rodger's purse, taken by the second suspect, was $10.

Santa Rosa Youth Booked On Counts

A 17-year-old Santa Rosa youth was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall today on suspicion of auto embezzlement and petty theft, Cotati police reported.

The youth was arrested when police responded to an alarm at 1:37 a.m. at Ray's Arco Station, 8505 Gravenstein Highway, where a soft drink machine change box had been pried open and an undetermined amount of money taken. The youth had driven to Cotati in a car he had taken from a used car lot in Santa Rosa to test drive late yesterday, police said.

New Study Of Inmate Unrest Hit

A group of prison reform organizations today criticized a new study of inmate violence in California prisons as recommending "the same old carrot and stick."

In a press conference in San Rafael, the organizations scored the recently released report of the Department of Corrections' Task Force To Study Violence for failing to recommend abolishing the indeterminate sentence.

The spokesmen for the groups said that the indeterminate sentence and the state's parole structure are among the "amjor causes of violence," a conclusion not reached in the study.

The organizations called for an ombudsmen's office for prisoners, which would be responsible to a board composed of exconvicts, retired prison officials and private citizens appointed by the state Legislature.

Organizations represented at the press conference were Prisoners Union Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice, Prisoners Union, Prison Vistors, Vacaville Prison Project and Volunteers Legal Desk.

Pay Hikes Approved In Petaluma Schools

The Petaluma Board of Education last night quickly approved an advisory committee's recommendation that all Petaluma High School District employees receive an 8 per cent pay raise now and up to 2 per cent more later this year if the district receives more income than predicted in the budget.

The initial raise will add $520,000 to the payroll. The later raise could add another $130,000 to the paychecks of the district's teaching and nonteaching staff, according to Supt. Lesly H. Meyer.

Open Space Plan Loses In Sausalito

A $1.5 million open space bond issue proposed for the November ballot in Sausalito failed again last night to receive the required four votes from the four-member city council, which launched a last ditch effort for a compromise measure.

Councilman Sally Stanford, who successfully blocked approval of the measure last week, continued her opposition to the proposal, which would give councilmen a $1.5 million "blank check" to buy any of the 20 parcels recommended for purchase by a citizens' open space committee.

"I think it's wrong," Miss Stanford declared. She said she will not vote for a bond issue unless it lists all the specific properties proposed for purchase, along with their estimated costs.

This will give residents the chance to choose the pieces of property they want to buy, she said.

Councilmen Robin Sweeny and Violeta Autumn were asked to find out the estimated prices for the land recommended for purchase in an effort to hammer out a compromise proposal which will be considered next Tuesday.

But city hall observers held little hope that a compromise could be worked out in such short time. And so it appears that an open space ballot measure will have to wait until elections next March.

Opposing the "shopping list" plan recommended by Miss Stanford is Mrs. Autumn. She said last night that a measure in such form would divide votes and result in none of the properties gaining the two-thirds majority needed for passage.

In addition, she said, to change the open space proposal at this point would be to undo the months of work by two citizen committees. "I don't think that would be wise," she said.

Supporting Miss Stanford's position was the Sausalito Citizens' Council. Representative Robert Squires reported that the group's board of directors has unanimously opposed an open space measure that would leave to the council's discretion the properties to be bought.

Saying that "we are a highly divided and bitter community," former Councilman Stephen Fraser suggested that the council limit the November bond issue to one parcel, Cypress Ridge, which a majority of residents seem to support for open space.

"Then we would no longer have open space purchases spread throughout the city," replied Mrs. Autumn, declining to endorse Fraser's suggestion.

The Sausalito City Council also:

CASA MADRONA — Asked for an ordinance designating the aged Casa Madrona Hotel a historical landmark. Discussion of a committee recommendation that the earthslide-threatened building be vacated by Sept. 15 was continued until next Tuesday.

VIDEO — Agreed to consider a proposal by the Marin Community Video Association that council sessions, or portions of council sessions, be videotaped for broadcast in the community via cable television.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers.

Child-Care Nursery Is Approved

Approval for a child-care nursery in a residence in Greenbrae was granted unanimously last night by the Larkspur Planning Commission after some 50 persons turned out to endorse or protest the proposal.

A permit was given to Barbara Zackhour to operate the center for six children at her home, according to John E. Roberto, planning director.

He said some neighbors had objected because of possible noise and increased traffic.

In other action last night, the commission agreed to ask the city attorney to draw up an ordinance which will require landscaping on a varying scale in the city's commercial districts.

Roberto said that the ordinance will call for landscaping anywhere from 3 to 23 per cent of a commercial parcel, depending on its size.

Old Ship Will Ride Anchor At Petaluma Adobe Fiesta

The historic hay scow "Alma," which often sailed to Petaluma at the turn of the century, will revisit its former port of call this weekend as one highlight of the annual Old Adobe Fiesta.

The sailing vessel's crew, volunteer maritime buffs from all over the bay area, will mingle with thousands of Petalumans and other visitors in the daylong celebration Sunday at the Old Adobe built by Gen. Mariano G. Vallejo in the 1830s.

The Alma is the last of hundreds of flat-bottomed sturdy little sailing craft that were the freight trucks of the bay area in the days before highways and bridges. Rebuilt, she is now owned by the State Maritime Museum, and is being used more and more at civic celebrations such as the San Rafael Centennial earlier this year, and now Petaluma's annual tribute to the area's long and colorful past.

The Old Adobe Fiesta will feature a traditional deep pit barbecue much like those the Spanish and Mexican dons lavishly staged for their guests. There will also be displays of pioneer arts and crafts, Indian dancing and even a wedding in 19th Century costumes.

Special permission had to be obtained from state park officials for the wedding, only the second held inside the 140-year-old landmark in its history.

Fiesta-goers who wear 19th Century costume may mingle with the wedding party in the courtyard: modern-garbed celebrants will have to watch from the balconies, fiesta officials said.

The costume wearers also may participate in special judging for awards. There also will be horseshow pitching contests for men and women and races and eating contests for adults and youngsters, as well as a whiskerino contest.

Dozens of service clubs, youth groups and charitable organizations in the Petaluma area will set up booths featuring food, games and sale items in the Eucalyptus grove opposite the Old Adobe.

The Alma will arrive Saturday evening in downtown Petaluma and will remain there all day Sunday, sailing in the evening back to the Maritime Museum at the Hyde Street Pier in San Francisco.

Admission and parking will be free at the Old Adobe Fiesta.

Peculiar Water Taste Is Harmless

A peculiar taste in Marin Municipal Water District water in Southern Marin and part of the Ross Valley is both harmless and temporary, a district spokesman said today.

The "musty, moldy, earthy" taste is caused by blue-green algae, known as Arthrospira Jenneri, growing on the sides of the district's Bon Tempe reservoir, according to James T. Farnkopf, manager of water treatment and distribution.

He said the district is working to eliminate the algae by treating the reservoir with copper sulfate. The unpleasant flavor should be gone in about a week.

The plants and the treatment will not make the water undrinkable, Farnkopf said.

Affected by the algae-flavored water are all district customers in Southern Marin and those in Kent Woodlands, Ross and parts of San Anselmo.

Petaluma To Review Park Plans Tonight

Designers' proposals for a park only 10 to 30 feet wide but more than half a mile long will be shown to the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission at 7:30 p.m. today in city hall.

The so-called Washington Creek Linear Park is a narrow strip of land dedicated to the city on both sides of a flood control channel running from Eli Street to Washington Street. City recreation director James R. Raymond explained that three architects have been proposing plans for the stringbean-shaped park.

The land was deeded by neighborhood developers and will be improved with funds from the "bedroom tax" the city collects to finance parks and recreation.

If commissioners and city councilmen approve, one bank of the channel will be a bicycle path more than 4,000 feet long. The other bank will be landscaped for park and play use, in a strip 10 feet to 30 feet wide.

Commissioners tonight also will try to revise policy for reserving picnic spaces for groups. Raymond said disputes have arisen over small groups monopolizing facilities suitable for much larger groups.

Petaluman Is Hurt In Crash

A Petaluma woman was injured yesterday when her car caromed between the railings of the Petaluma Bridge on Highway 101 near the Lakeville Highway turn.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Mrs. Harris was driving west of the bridge at 10:40 a.m. when her car hit the west rail of the bridge, bounced off the east rail and hit the west side again. Cause of the accident was undetermined.

Rohnert Park Group To Present Simon Comedy

The newly formed Rohnert Park Stage Guild will give its first performance Friday, opening a four-night run of "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," a comedy written by Neil Simon.

The play, which had a successful season on Broadway in 1971, will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and Aug. 23 and 24 at Rancho Cotate High School on Snyder Lane.

The six performers in the theater group's debut will be Robert Lester, Jane Lyons, John Maynard, Maris Robinson, Mary Lynn TeSelle and Alice Wells. Director is William Wender.

The play deals with the seriocomic troubles of an urban cliff dweller living next to an apartment filled with partying stewardesses, his cactus garden polluted to extinction and his job abolished.

Tickets are on sale at several Rohnert Park and Cotati stores and will be available at the door, according to Mrs. TeSelle, publicity chairman.

The California Division of Mines and Geology estimates that earthquake damage will reach $21 billion in California between 1970 and 2000.

Sonoma Wins Partial Victory In Property Assessment Battle

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County has won a partial victory over a state ruling on the county's property assessment roll, according to County Assessor Ernest L. Comalli.

The State Board of Equalization, which earlier said Sonoma County was improperly assessing private property at only 22.8 per cent of fair market value, revised the figure to 23.4 per cent after Comalli was given an appeals hearing last week.

The seemingly trivial technicality means a saving of about $354,000 this year to local property owners because the ratio change means the state must pay a larger share of local education costs under the so-called Collier formula. The state's goal is to have all counties assess property at 25 per cent of market value.

Had the county achieved this, the state would have had to pump even more equalization money into school district coffers, Comalli admitted. He said he doesn't know exactly what the extra amount would have been under the complicated Collier formula.

The theory is that counties that are assessed too low let the local taxpayer off too lightly unless the state reduces its subventions and forces local agencies to hike their property tax rates, Comalli explained.

Statewide average for county assessments this year is 24.1 per cent of fair market value, he reported.

Comalli successfully challenged a sampling of Sonoma County market values by the state board's aides, showing their figures failed to consider unusual economic conditions including relatively large unemployment insurance collections by county residents, a large number of students in first through eighth grades and other economic indices affecting market value.

Comalli said one of his most telling arguments was that since 1969 the county assessment rolls have increased by 77 per cent including a record 18 per cent this year. At the same time, the state assessed rolls of public property in the county have increased only 17 per cent, with more than half the gain — 9.8 per cent — in the utility roll just now being compiled in Sacramento, due to reach the county late this week.

Any county that misses the statewide nonutility roll average by more than 4 percentage points is arbitrarily reassessed by the state, Comalli said. This would apply to any county assessing less than 20 per cent or more than 29 per cent of fair market value.

State board of equalization member William M. Bennett of Kentfield moved successfully to revise the Sonoma County rating and give local taxpayers their break, Comalli reported.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

There Are Politicians —And Few Statesmen

There are politicians, and there are a few statesmen.

Politicians look out for themselves. Statesmen look out for what they believe to be the public interest.

We may differ violently with the views of statesmen; but we respect them. Self-serving politicians forfeit our respect.

ONE WHO FALLS in the class of statesman — though we have often differed with him — is Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona. Not for nothing is Goldwater known as "the conscience of the Senate."

The other day, he proposed a direct attack on inflation that would set an example for the nation.

Cut all federal salaries 10 per cent, beginning with the president's and going right on down the line, suggested Goldwater. This would include senators' salaries, and even the pay of what Goldwater referred to as "my pet, the military."

Since salaries represent a large share of the federal budget, such a cut would help to bring the budget into line. And until the federal government quits overspending its income, there is little hope of curbing inflation.

SENATOR GOLDWATER'S proposal, however, is not likely to get far, because most of the lawmakers in Washington are mere politicians rather than statesmen — just like most of those in our state Senate in Sacramento.

A majority of state senators proved it last week by reversing a former vote to pass a bill (SB 1745) by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, raising the salaries of the top seven elected state officials by approximately 20 per cent.

When he introduced this bill last February, Carpenter justified it by pointing out that pay of some non-elected state officials had been allowed to overtake salaries of the governor, secretary of state, etc. His "solution" was not to cut the salaries that had risen too high. It was to raise the pay of the elected officers.

Carpenter's "solution" drew some sharp calldowns from taxpayers and editors. The state Senate backed off. But last Friday, it put through the hikes.

"What's the matter with us?" oracularly demanded politician Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena. "We run for cover because a few newspaper guys have nothing to write about. Vote 'aye' and teach them a lesson."

THIS INTELLECTUAL appeal won over enough politician-senators to pass the bill 27 to 9. Among those who switched from their former opposition was politician Sen. Peter H. Behr of Marin.

Of course, the politicians in the state Senate felt some obligation to do a bit of backscratching. Governor Reagan had put politics before statesmanship in signing a bill which raised the senators' pay, beginning next year.

There are many politicians, and very few statesmen.

Who's To Blame?

Who's to blame? How often we hear the refrain! For what? It's not important. We must find someone to blame. It's the American way.

Take the price of milk. It's one of Marin's biggest industries and like almost everything its price has been rising. Ask any ten people why and eight of them will probably fix the blameon some favorite scapegoat — the big corporations, labor unions, the government, food stamps, the farmers, the Russians or whatever.

But why is it always necessary to fix blame? Maybe it is inexorable fate that things change and no group is to blame. A look back at the economic history of the United States shows most problems have more than one cause. It is worth remembering when we become too passionate in blame fixing.

This Lush Land

Marinites sometimes live amid such a glut of lush vegetation that their sense of it becomes dulled. Often, when we return from a trip, we are struck by the massed green of flowers, trees and shrubs, a jungle-like quality.

Then, just last week, we took a roll of colored photos in what we considered our rather plain garden. And when we received the prints back, we were struck once again by the lushness which prevails in parts of Marin.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

CHP Will Not Crack Down Quickly On Smog Devices

By ROBERT STUDER
Copley News Service

SACRAMENTO — Even after Oct. 1, when thousands of California motorists already should have nitrous oxide exhaust emission control devices installed on their cars, the California Highway Patrol plans to be lenient about enforcing the new antipollution law.

Commissioner Walter Pudinski says the patrol will take no enforcement actions on the devices until Oct. 1, the date when all vehicles of 1966 to 1970 vintage with license plates ending in the figure "1" are required to be equipped with the additional smog control device.

And even then, Pudinski adds, offenders will receive written warnings allowing them 15 more days to comply.

UNDER STATE LAW, autos with the final digit "1" must install the new smog device no later than Sept. 30. Those with a final digit of "2" have until Oct. 31. The pattern will continue on a monthly basis until June 30, 1975.

California Air Resources Board regulations require not only installation of the nitrous oxide smog device. The owner also must obtain a certificate of compliance.

The document can be obtained only from an installer licensed by the state Bureau of Automotive Repair. He will fasten a sticker to the car's windshield that will notify CHP officers that the work has been done.

BUT DON'T, Pudinski warned, put it off.

Later in the year, after car owners have received information on the new program from the Department of Motor Vehicles, which will mail it along with renewal forms for 1975 vehicle registrations, the CHP will crack down.

And tickets issued then will require an appearance in court.

DRUMMOND: Healing Will Come Quickly

FURGURSON: Chance To Make Politics Clean

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Have no doubt about it, the recovery of the nation's poise and peace is going to come faster than anyone dared hope.

The great danger was that Richard Nixon would remove himself from the presidency in the image of an injured martyr who had done no wrong and that, without a Senate trial and verdict, the divisive turmoil over Watergate would continue to poison the political life of the country.

But that which many feared most — that resignation would continue a lacerating controversy rather than terminate it — is not, it appears, going to come upon us.

These are the reasons:

1 — Mr. Nixon resigned with grace and without bitterness, and it is amply evident that the Congress and the country want to close the book without further ado over impeachment.

2 — There is no basis for bitter-end Nixon supporters to claim or to feel that he was unjustly, unfairly or peremptorily hounded out of the White House on unproved charges. There is no valid basis for continued debate on this score because Mr. Nixon himself has admitted enough responsibility for his own downfall so that the issue is settled with finality.

3 — The country is fortunate to have President Gerald Ford as Mr. Nixon's successor because his transcendent forte is reconciliation. He is the very embodiment of reconciliation and goodwill and decency. The leaders of Congress are responding to that spirit of unity with evident sincerity. Most Americans will respond the same way.

I BELIEVE that Richard Nixon has done his part in stepping down in a manner which sufficiently accepts the verdict of Congress to vote for his removal if he had not removed himself.

That's enough. He doesn't have to grovel — and he didn't. He wouldn't know how.

But he did affirm that he had committed "wrong" acts. He did affirm that he decided to resign because he had "lost so much of his political base" in Congress that he could not govern effectively. This was only another way of saying that his defense against impeachment had crumbled and that his resignation was just one step ahead of the verdict the Senate was about to bring in.

He did more than that. In the statement released by the White House after making public the June 23 tapes, Mr. Nixon admitted that he had committed acts cited in the articles of impeachment. He affirmed that he had acted to abort the Watergate investigation six days after the break-in and that, as the first step toward coverup, he had directed that the FBI not go further into the case.

THIS ASSESSMENT of Mr. Nixon's Watergate role is not the subjective judgment of some reporter nor is it the interpretation of the special prosecutor or of the House Judiciary Committee. It is Mr. Nixon's own assessment of what he did.

Because this is Mr. Nixon's verdict, the Senate does not need to render its verdict. It is a verdict which can and should be accepted as final.

Now we can begin to bind up the wounds of the nation by looking ahead, not backward.

Health, Human Services Victims Of Bureaucracy

I am writing to express my appreciation for the considered attention that your paper has given the issue of health and human services and the difficulties this organizational structure creates for service providers and clients.

I feel certain that the articles and editorials that have appeared in your paper over the past two weeks have had significant impact on the public as well as the board of supervisors. At the heart of the matter, as you well know, is the tendency of bureaucracies to become more bureaucratic and for public administrative structures to perpetuate and expand themselves. My own interest in this matter goes beyond the area of mental health. It is a more general concern with the nature of public administration. Cognizant of the increasing growth of government and its impact on our own lives, it is disheartening, to say the least, to experience the inefficiencies, the waste, and the rigidity in the public sector and the resulting impact on taxpayers and people who need services.

I hope, with your continued efforts and the efforts of the public that a reversal can be effected, at least in Marin County, in the expansion of government and bureaucracy, particularly in the human services field.

We Must Abolish Political Cynicism

Now that the Nixon fiasco has reached a doubtful finality, it is fitting for all Americans to do some soul-searching in order to circumscribe the lessons we must cling to for the good of America's future. We who put men in high office must never call a halt to our responsibilities. To be always vigilant, to keep ourselves politically sophisticated, to remind our politicians of their obligations to those who voted for them — these are the criteria for endowing democracy with a true meaning.

The political cynicism of "keeping your options open," of deceit and artifice, of financial enrichment at the expense of all Americans, of the poolroom ideology that "if you can get away with it, do it," brought to a fine art by the Nixon administration, must be permanently banished to the sewer which bred this thinking. . .

I am somehow sick at heart at the saccarine maudlinity which attended Nixon's resignation. Our elected representatives decided that he had (1) obstructed justice, (2) abused his authority, (3) subverted the Constitution by impeding the impeachment process. Why the tears? Why not a vast sense of relief?. . .

Not Much Worth Praising In Review

I dragged my husband to the Sunset Players' production of "Mame" because a young friend was to play the part of Patrick.

When my husband sat down in the theater to await the start of the play, the corners of his mouth were turned down. They remained down until after about the first five minutes of the play had passed, at which time they turned up and remained up the whole remainder of the production.

There was magic in the theater that night, coordination, energy and a smoothness I didn't dream possible in such a young cast.

Such a jaded, negative criticism of what was a delightful production, regardless of a few rough spots, shows a lack of maturity and callowness and not much worth praising about this particular critic's review.

Candidate Differs On Campaign Receipts

I missed the story your newspaper ran several weeks ago which reported on the campaign contributions and expenditures of candidates in the June primary.

I have now read it and want to state that I did not receive a campaign contribution from the Real Estate Board for $250 or any other amount.

The county elections department has on file for public record my declaration that my campaign contributions and expenses did not exceed $500.00. I received $425.00 in contributions from eleven individuals and one civic organization and spent $476.66 in campaign expenses.

In announcing my candidacy for the water board last spring, I stated that I intended to run a low budget campaign and I did just that.

WASHINGTON — In all the oratory of these past weeks, the homespun William Hungate may have laid out the situation best for his own constituents in the Little Dixie bottom lands of Missouri and for voters in the country at large.

"Suppose," he said as the House Judiciary Committee began that fateful week of impeachment proceedings," . . .suppose your mayor approved a plan by which the chief of your city's police department could illegally tap your phone, open your mail, and burglarize your apartment. Suppose your mayor withheld knowledge of a burglary from a local judge trying a case in which that knowledge was crucially important . . ." He supposed a couple more times, and his point was strong and clear: The President of the United States should be held to moral and legal standards at least as high as those binding a small-town politician.

NOW THAT THAT particular President is no longer in office, the corollary to Hungate's point could be an equally important, unintentional contribution by the Nixon administration to the nation's future: Small-town politicians should be held to standards just as high as those set for presidents.

However, there is a series of ifs to be crossed before either of those lessons is burned deeply enough into the national consciousness.

If our recently so-highly-praised system functions properly, it will follow through to hold Mr. Nixon accountable for his misdeeds just as objectively as if he were a county executive caught taking contractors' payoffs, or a juvenile delinquent who lied in an auto theft case.

If the first reaction of many congressmen and others here to his farewell remarks is any determinant, he will not be allowed to retire unrepentant to the San Clemente sunshine, to sit protected by the taxpayers' Secret Service agents in his resort improved with taxpayers' money, drawing $60,000 of that money yearly while others on the near periphery of his scandals are somewhere serving time.

So if he goes unprosecuted while hundreds of thousands of other Americans who never stood on the steps of the capitol and took the solemn constitutional oath from the chief justice are indicted and tried for their obscure private offenses, it will not be by any overwhelming national consensus.

Nor will this whole long and painful experience have served the purpose we expected from it when we said that the agony would make us more self-respectful afterward.

IF, ON THE OTHER hand, our system proceeds on the information already gathered and still to be produced under subpoena, it will serve notice that obstruction of justice, abuse of power and contempt of lawful authority are not to be tolerated in our country, at the White House or the county seat.

In that case, we will have responded effectively to the Italian official quoted amid last week's events, who said: "It is an interesting switch in the mentality of America. Before, no one dreamed of expecting that politicians would be completely honest. Now, with Watergate, they are suddenly supposed to be lilywhite."

That response is: Why not?

Ford's Moves Quickly Clear Atmosphere Of White House

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor)

The transfer of power from Richard Nixon to Gerald Ford has been no less than extraordinary. The dignity and orderliness of the transition should quicken the faith of all Americans — and the world — in the viability of America's democratic system.

A new brand of leadership is now needed. Above all this means restoring that openness and directness that will enable all branches and agencies of government to function according to law.

"Our great Republic is a government of laws and not of men," Mr. Ford said eloquently and assuringly after taking the oath of office. "Here the people rule." . . .

FRESH BREEZES already are wafting through the White House. By his humility and simplicity, President Ford has begun to change the atmosphere and image of the presidency and the tone of openness he has struck comes as a great relief after the atmosphere of clandestine maneuverings that characterized the Nixon years.

It is important that the president is moving swiftly to build a broad base of support. He made clear he wants to work together with the nation's lawmakers. For instance, he is asking Republican officials in Washington and around the country, as well as Democratic leaders in Congress, to make suggestions about a new vice-president.

We realize, of course, that there is bound to be an early euphoric period of accommodation with the new president and before long the normal, competitive play of political forces will resume. But the lively political battles that lie ahead can now take place in a context of national unity . . .

WE WELCOME, TOO, Mr. Ford's approach to the press. He has instructed cabinet members to be "affirmative" in their relations with the Fourth Estate and for the first time in many years now journalists can perform their role of critical watchdog on the presidency without that unfortunate atmosphere of mutual bitterness and recriminations.

In short, the nation stands now on the threshold of possibility for real leadership. Not a leadership which reads the public opinion polls and then determines how to act on a given issue or play a certain policy. But a leadership that formulates policies on the basis of the highest conceived good and then seeks to enlist all segments of society in an understanding and execution of those policies.

President Ford may well provide that leadership.

HIS OWN FIGHT REMAINS

No More War For Israeli

By BARBARA HOSMER

A husky Israeli soldier who was blinded last October in the war with Egypt is learning to walk with confidence again on city streets in San Rafael, a black Labrador leading the way.

On Saturday at 2:30 p.m., he will be among the 15 members of class no. 297 to graduate from Guide Dogs School for the Blind in San Rafael.

Reuven Perach, 29-year-old former truck driver, is the first Israeli and one of few foreigners to train at the school on Los Ranchitos Road. Walking with his dog Kirby he finds simple, but speaking English instead of his native Hebrew makes him stumble.

Perach spent two months in a Tel Aviv hospital.

"Doctor operated, took out many pieces in my eyes," he said haltingly. "Now doctor no can help."

Perach could walk tapping a white cane for the rest of his life or choose to come to the United States to train with a guide dog. The Israel government paid the travel bill for him and his wife.

The Israeli said that his government helps all blinded soldiers who want guide dogs but previously all have gone to New York or Michigan schools for training.

"Some people said, 'Go with the cane.' I said, 'Yes, to be good with the cane will take 10 years. With dog — one month'," he said.

Perach is confident that after graduation he will feel quite comfortable walking in busy Tel Aviv with his dog.

He and his wife, whom he met on his home kibbutz near Tiberias in northern Israel, flew to San Francisco three weeks ago.

She is staying with the Gideon Sorokins, who speak Hebrew, at their Novato home while Peruch lives at the training school. The two Perach daughters, aged 4 and 3, are cared for by Perach's mother and friends on the kibbutz.

TO ISRAEL — Reuven Perach, an Israeli soldier blinded in the October war with Egypt, trains with his guide dog Kirby in San Rafael. Perach will return to his home kibbutz with his wife and Kirby after graduation Saturday at Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael.

Perach, too, said he feels a little isolated. Blind for just 10 months, he must rely on his ears, straining to make out a foreign tongue which he began to study just before his trip to San Rafael.

"It is very hard now. I must listen good. Others not see for five, 10, 20 years," he said, indicating the other more experienced blind trainees seated nearby. The guide dog training lectures are another hurdle to him.

Training with Kirby to walk in traffic doesn't worry the former soldier but he fears having to ask questions of strangers in his halting English if he makes mistakes crossing streets. The dog readily responds to his commands in English over in the Middle East for Perach.

"For me the finish, the end," he said, indicating his eyes. "But for my friends and all people in Israel not finished."

Of the cease-fire agreement, he said, "I think it is better now from fighting, but not best."

Perach wanted to talk about ex-President Nixon's resignation. "Not good," he said. "Nixon very good for Israel. Nixon gave more to Israel than the other government."

The government also gave him a car and telephone, rarities on the kibbutz.

"My dog is compact, not very big, but much strong," he said. "I have a little car and he can go in. I buy special food for the dog from England."

Perach looks forward to returning home with Kirby but holds some apprehension for his future. Totally blind, he can no longer drive trucks on the kibbutz where he has lived since birth. Nor does he expect to be able to work in its cotton fields or orange or banana groves anymore.

He thinks he may study piano tuning or perhaps work at a small machine in the kibbutz factory mornings and study something new in the afternoons.

"Tune piano," he mused. "I do not know."

Open Space Plan Loses In Sausalito

A $1.5 million open space bond issue proposed for the November ballot in Sausalito failed again last night to receive the required four votes from the four-member city council, which launched a last ditch effort for a compromise measure.

Councilman Sally Stanford, who successfully blocked approval of the measure last week, continued her opposition to the proposal, which would give councilmen a $1.5 million "blank check" to buy any of the 20 parcels recommended for purchase by a citizens' open space committee.

"I think it's wrong," Miss Stanford declared. She said she will not vote for a bond issue unless it lists all the specific properties proposed for purchase, along with their estimated costs.

This will give residents the chance to choose the pieces of property they want to buy, she said.

Councilmen Robin Sweeny and Violeta Autumn were asked to find out the estimated prices for the land recommended for purchase in an effort to hammer out a compromise proposal which will be considered next Tuesday.

But city hall observers held little hope that a compromise could be worked out in such short time. And so it appears that an open space ballot measure will have to wait until elections next March.

Opposing the "shopping list" plan recommended by Miss Stanford is Mrs. Autumn. She said last night that a measure in such form would divide votes and result in none of the properties gaining the two-thirds majority needed for passage.

In addition, she said, to change the open space proposal at this point would be to undo the months of work by two citizen committees. "I don't think that would be wise," she said.

Supporting Miss Stanford's position was the Sausalito Citizens' Council. Representative Robert Squires reported that the group's board of directors has unanimously opposed an open space measure that would leave to the council's discretion the properties to be bought.

Saying that "we are a highly divided and bitter community," former Councilman Stephen Fraser suggested that the council limit the November bond issue to one parcel, Cypress Ridge, which a majority of residents seem to support for open space.

"Then we would no longer have open space purchases spread throughout the city," replied Mrs. Autumn, declining to endorse Fraser's suggestion.

The Sausalito City Council also:

CASA MADRONA — Asked for an ordinance designating the aged Casa Madrona Hotel a historical landmark. Discussion of a committee recommendation that the earthslide-threatened building be vacated by Sept. 15 was continued until next Tuesday.

VIDEO — Agreed to consider a proposal by the Marin Community Video Association that council sessions, or portions of council sessions, be videotaped for broadcast in the community via cable television.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers.

Old Ship Will Ride Anchor At Petaluma Adobe Fiesta

The historic hay scow "Alma," which often sailed to Petaluma at the turn of the century, will revisit its former port of call this weekend as one highlight of the annual Old Adobe Fiesta.

The sailing vessel's crew, volunteer maritime buffs from all over the bay area, will mingle with thousands of Petalumans and other visitors in the day-long celebration Sunday at the Old Adobe built by Gen. Mariano G. Vallejo in the 1830s.

The Alma is the last of hundreds of flat-bottomed sturdy little sailing craft that were the freight trucks of the bay area in the days before highways and bridges. Rebuilt, she is now owned by the State Maritime Museum, and is being used more and more at civic celebrations such as the San Rafael Centennial earlier this year, and now Petaluma's annual tribute to the area's long and colorful past.

The Old Adobe Fiesta will feature a traditional deep pit barbecue much like those the Spanish and Mexican dons lavishly staged for their guests. There will also be displays of pioneer arts and crafts, Indian dancing and even a wedding in 19th Century costumes.

Special permission had to be obtained from state park officials for the wedding, only the second held inside the 140-year-old landmark in its history.

Fiesta-goers who wear 19th Century costume may mingle with the wedding party in the courtyard: modern-garbed celebrants will have to watch from the balconies, fiesta officials said.

The costume wearers also may participate in special judging for awards. There also will be horseshow pitching contests for men and women and races and eating contests for adults and youngsters, as well as a whiskerino contest.

Dozens of service clubs, youth groups and charitable organizations in the Petaluma area will set up booths featuring food, games and sale items in the Eucalyptus grove opposite the Old Adobe.

The Alma will arrive Saturday evening in downtown Petaluma and will remain there all day Sunday, sailing in the evening back to the Maritime Museum at the Hyde Street Pier in San Francisco.

Admission and parking will be free at the Old Adobe Fiesta.

Peculiar Water Taste Is Harmless

A peculiar taste in Marin Municipal Water District water in Southern Marin and part of the Ross Valley is both harmless and temporary, a district spokesman said today.

The "musty, moldy, earthy" taste is caused by blue-green algae, known as Arthrospira Jenneri, growing on the sides of the district's Bon Tempe reservoir, according to James T. Farnkopf, manager of water treatment and distribution.

He said the district is working to eliminate the algae by treating the reservoir with copper sulfate. The unpleasant flavor should be gone in about a week.

The plants and the treatment will not make the water undrinkable, Farnkopf said.

Affected by the algae-flavored water are all district customers in Southern Marin and those in Kent Woodlands, Ross and parts of San Anselmo.

Petaluma To Review Park Plans Tonight

Designers' proposals for a park only 10 to 30 feet wide but more than half a mile long will be shown to the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission at 7:30 p.m. today in city hall.

The so-called Washington Creek Linear Park is a narrow strip of land dedicated to the city on both sides of a flood control channel running from Eli Street to Washington Street. City recreation director James R. Raymond explained that three architects have been proposing plans for the stringbean-shaped park.

The land was deeded by neighborhood developers and will be improved with funds from the "bedroom tax" the city collects to finance parks and recreation.

If commissioners and city councilmen approve, one bank of the channel will be a bicycle path more than 4,000 feet long. The other bank will be landscaped for park and play use, in a strip 10 feet to 30 feet wide.

Commissioners tonight also will try to revise policy for reserving picnic spaces for groups. Raymond said disputes have arisen over small groups monopolizing facilities suitable for much larger groups.

Petaluman Is Hurt In Crash

A Petaluma woman was injured yesterday when her car caromed between the railings of the Petaluma Bridge on Highway 101 near the Lakeville Highway turn.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Mrs. Harris was driving west of the bridge at 10:40 a.m. when her car hit the west rail of the bridge, bounced off the east rail and hit the west side again. Cause of the accident was undetermined.

Schulte To Appear On Felony Court

John T. Schulte, administrative officer of the Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on felony charges of drunken driving and hit and run.

Schulte is accused of being drunk when his car and one belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hynes of Lagunitas collided head-on on White's Hill June 1.

According to testimony at a preliminary hearing yesterday before Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas, Schulte and his wife, Lita, drive from the accident scene to the Ross police station before stopping.

Bureau Sets Marin Opening

The Marin branch of the Better Business Bureau will reopen its San Rafael office on Monday.

The office, at 1010 B Street, Room 310, has been closed for several months, according to Donald W. Schwartz, president of the San Francisco bureau.

It will be open Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The telephone number is 453-9442.

Police Credit Two Men With Helping Catch Robbery Suspect

Two men came to the aid of a woman friend outside a Sausalito nightspot early today and helped disarm a Novato man said to have robbed her at gunpoint.

Morgan McVickar of Kentfield and Roger Watson of Sausalito, both 30, are credited by police with assisting in the arrest of Douglas Lamar Woodard, 21, of 1000 Ignacio Boulevard.

Arresting officer Stephen Willis gave this account of the incident:

Two men approached the auto and one, identified as Woodard, pulled a pistol and demanded the woman's purse while his accomplice snatched it off the passenger seat.

McVickar and Watson were walking through the parking lot during the holdup and rushed to her aid, McVickar grabbing the man with the purse.

That bandit also pulled a pistol, then ran off into the darkness as McVickar hurried back inside the bar and telephoned police.

Police said that meanwhile Woodard, still armed, then slid into the car alongside Miss Rodgers and told her to drive him from the scene. Watson reportedly punched Woodard in the side of the head and pulled him from the auto with assistance from McVickar, who had returned.

Willia then arrived and wrestled the gun from Woodard after a brief scuffle. Woodard was booked into county jail on suspicion of armed robbery and held in lieu of $10,000 bail. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

In Miss Rodger's purse, taken by the second suspect, was $10.

Santa Rosa Youth Booked On Counts

A 17-year-old Santa Rosa youth was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall today on suspicion of auto embezzlement and petty theft, Cotati police reported.

The youth was arrested when police responded to an alarm at 1:37 a.m. at Ray's Arco Station, 8505 Gravenstein Highway, where a soft drink machine change box had been pried open and an undetermined amount of money taken. The youth had driven to Cotati in a car he had taken from a used car lot in Santa Rosa to test drive late yesterday, police said.

New Study Of Inmate Unrest Hit

A group of prison reform organizations today criticized a new study of inmate violence in California prisons as recommending "the same old carrot and stick."

In a press conference in San Rafael, the organizations scored the recently released report of the Department of Corrections' Task Force To Study Violence for failing to recommend abolishing the indeterminate sentence.

The spokesmen for the groups said that the indeterminate sentence and the state's parole structure are among the "amjor causes of violence," a conclusion not reached in the study.

The organizations called for an ombudsmen's office for prisoners, which would be responsible to a board composed of exconvicts, retired prison officials and private citizens appointed by the state Legislature.

Organizations represented at the press conference were Prisoners Union Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice, Prisoners Union, Prison Vistors, Vacaville Prison Project and Volunteers Legal Desk.

Pay Hikes Approved In Petaluma Schools

The Petaluma Board of Education last night quickly approved an advisory committee's recommendation that all Petaluma High School District employees receive an 8 per cent pay raise now and up to 2 per cent more later this year if the district receives more income than predicted in the budget.

The initial raise will add $520,000 to the payroll. The latter raise could add another $130,000 to the paychecks of the district's teaching and nonteaching staff, according to Supt. Lesly H. Meyer.

Child-Care Nursery Is Approved

Approval for a child-care nursery in a residence in Greenbrae was granted unanimously last night by the Larkspur Planning Commission after some 50 persons turned out to endorse or protest the proposal.

A permit was given to Barbara Zackhour to operate the center for six children at her home, according to John E. Roberto, planning director.

He said some neighbors had objected because of possible noise and increased traffic.

In other action last night, the commission agreed to ask the city attorney to draw up an ordinance which will require landscaping on a varying scale in the city's commercial districts.

Roberto said that the ordinance will call for landscaping anywhere from 3 to 23 per cent of a commercial parcel, depending on its size.

Mr. Gallenkamp's comfort is in a class of its own.

Marin Attorney Remembers Belief In Nixon — Bitterly

"You know, I'm a black Republican."

The longtime Marin County attorney spoke facetiously but sadly.

The year 1952, when the former president ran for the Senate against Helen Gahagan Douglas, brought back a fond memory to the local man.

THE LAWYER told how he had headed Nixon's campaign in Marin County and how one day "Dick and Pat," as he called them, came to San Anselmo to shake hands with leaders there.

"It was a warm day," the attorney remembered, and so, while he took Nixon around the city hall, Mrs. Nixon and the attorney's wife went to a nearby soda fountain to have a cold drink.

"Pat decided to call home from the soda fountain to check on her little girls who were with a baby sitter in Whittier," the attorney remembered. When she called, he said, there was no answer at her Southern California home.

Alarmed, she called a neighbor, he related, who informed her the baby sitter "had walked out," leaving the youngsters alone. The girls were being cared for by the neighbor, but Mrs. Nixon "hopped the next plane home," ending her part of the campaign trip early.

AFTER HE TOLD the little anecdote about a worried mother of more than 20 years ago, the attorney's face turned hard.

"I believed him. I defended him. I thought he was telling the truth. I worked for him all those years," he said.

"Then Monday, I finally realized he had lied all along.

LIKE MANY a friend who has seen his trust betrayed, the attorney now envisions the worst.

"I'll bet he has accounts in six Swiss banks . . . He doesn't care about any pension," he speculated.

"Well," he finally said, "it was sure hard to learn that someone you trusted had been lying all the time . . . "

One can only wonder how often the Marin conversation has been repeated elsewhere in the country in the past few days.

BART Tax Measure Gets By Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to bail out the troubled Bay Area Rapid Transit District by extending a local one-half cent sales tax until 1978 passed an Assembly committee yesterday.

The compromise bill (SB1966) has the endorsement of a majority of Bay Area lawmakers. It was approved by the Transportation Committee on a 15-0 vote and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Senate President Pro-tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, said his bill was a "stop-gap" to prevent BART from shutting down in October without funding.

But, Mills said long-term financing must be studied by the legislature to help BART, which has run up a $12.3 million deficit this year.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said, "If you don't do this (enact this bill), it's pretty clear BART will have to shut down by October."

With a sales tax guarantee, BART would be able to raise $16 million immediately in revenue bonds. The sales tax would be imposed in San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

If Mills' measure does not become law, the tax would be removed in 1976, with much of the revenue used to pay off existing bonds.

Committee chairman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, said he was not happy with the tax, but the prospect of shutting down the sleek transit system was worse.

Legislators should realize it was impossible to operate transit systems on fare revenue alone, Meade said.

Delay Asked On Offshore Oil Leases

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A resolution urging the federal government not to issue leases for some 5,000 oil wells off the California coast has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The resolution, AJR 120, calls upon the Interior Department to refrain from issuing the leases until completion of a pending Federal Energy Administration study of a national energy policy.

Until such a policy is developed, Bagley said, it is impossible to tell how much offshore drilling is needed.

The demand for energy has leveled off, the assemblyman said, and with the anticipated flow of oil from Alaska the need for massive offshore drilling is uncertain.

Arrigoni No Longer Interested In Special Pension Measure

Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. yesterday said he no longer is interested in special state legislation to qualify him for a 40 per cent boost in retirement pension. (See another legislative story, page 1.)

The legislation is on the governor's desk awaiting his signature into law, but Arrigoni said he belatedly discovered it would cost him almost $8,000 to buy the extra pension.

The special provision for Arrigoni was tacked onto AB 3275 by Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-San Bernardino, at the request of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. The measure apparently will become law anyway, since the rest of it deals with other retirement matters.

Present law prohibits Arrigoni from getting retirement benefits from his four years on the Fairfax city council because it was an unpaid position when he held it. The Lewis bill will abolish this restriction.

Bagley's office has said Arrigoni apparently was the sole beneficiary of the bill in the state.

Bill Amended To Limit Sewer Plan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that will empower the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency to build a sewage system in Stinson Beach has been amended to limit such a system so it serves only "existing development."

The measure, AB 3860 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, is pending in the Assembly. Present law permits the agency to build only treatment facilities in communities that fail to clean up sewage pollution. This does not cover the situation in Stinson Beach, which depends on septic tanks and thus has no sewers at all.

The Knox bill would empower the agency also to build sewers. The agency is moving toward an order that could force the community to build a sewage sytem without voter approval.

The Regional Water Quality Control board asked the agency to step in after Stinson Beach voters last March rejected a $2.5 million sewage system. Septic tanks are failing and causing health dangers, according to the board's staff.

The community's primary objection to a standard sewage system is that it would encourage growth. The new amendment limits the facilities to those "necessary to provide service to existing development."

License Law For Police Is Defeated

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to require licensing police officers has been killed by a Senate committee.

The proposal, SB 2408 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was iced Monday by the finance committee after objections from some police officials and the California League of Cities.

A spokesman for the senator said similar legislation probably will be introduced by him next year.

The bill was requested by the Police Officers Research Association of California (PORAC), which represents some 17,000 rank and file policemen throughout the state. It was opposed by the state's other major police organization, the California Peace Officers Association, which generally represents police brass.

It objected to having the state set hiring standards, claiming the result would be a state police force. The bill would have required applicants for a state license as a peace officer to pass tests and have earned increasingly higher education credits.

Ford Will Meet The Press Often

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Jerry terHorst said today he hopes President Ford will hold a news conference "at least once every other week," far more often than did President Richard M. Nixon.

TerHorst said Ford always had been friendly toward reporters, adding: "I would hope that the fact he is President would not keep him —and I don't think it will — from being the same easy going, affable, relaxed human being that he's always been all his life. I think he would find it uncomfortable to be something else."

TerHorst said Ford "is his own best press secretary" because the President "just feels at home" with reporters.

Fair Will Sponsor Sale Of Produce

A sale of home-grown produce will be held the last night of the Marin County Fair, Sept. 2 from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. at the horticultural exhibit area at the Civic Center fairgrounds.

Only those home gardeners who have entered produce for competition, however, will be allowed to bring in their surplus fruits and vegetables for sale, according to Marcelle McCoy, fair manager. The fair begins Aug. 29.

There Are Politicians —And Few Statesmen

There are politicians, and there are a few statesmen.

Politicians look out for themselves. Statesmen look out for what they believe to be the public interest.

We may differ violently with the views of statesmen; but we respect them. Self-serving politicians forfeit our respect.

ONE WHO FALLS in the class of statesman — though we have often differed with him — is Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona. Not for nothing is Goldwater known as "the conscience of the Senate."

The other day, he proposed a direct attack on inflation that would set an example for the nation.

Cut all federal salaries 10 per cent, beginning with the president's and going right on down the line, suggested Goldwater. This would include senators' salaries, and even the pay of what Goldwater referred to as "my pet, the military."

Since salaries represent a large share of the federal budget, such a cut would help to bring the budget into line. And until the federal government quits overspending its income, there is little hope of curbing inflation.

SENATOR GOLDWATER'S proposal, however, is not likely to get far, because most of the lawmakers in Washington are mere politicians rather than statesmen — just like most of those in our state Senate in Sacramento.

A majority of state senators proved it last week by reversing a former vote to pass a bill (SB 1745) by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, raising the salaries of the top seven elected state officials by approximately 20 per cent.

When he introduced this bill last February, Carpenter justified it by pointing out that pay of some non-elected state officials had been allowed to overtake salaries of the governor, secretary of state, etc. His "solution" was not to cut the salaries that had risen too high. It was to raise the pay of the elected officers.

Carpenter's "solution" drew some sharp calldowns from taxpayers and editors. The state Senate backed off. But last Friday, it put through the hikes.

"What's the matter with us?" oracularly demanded politician Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena. "We run for cover because a few newspaper guys have nothing to write about. Vote 'aye' and teach them a lesson."

THIS INTELLECTUAL appeal won over enough politician-senators to pass the bill 27 to 9. Among those who switched from their former opposition was politician Sen. Peter H. Behr of Marin.

Of course, the politicians in the state Senate felt some obligation to do a bit of backscratching. Governor Reagan had put politics before statesmanship in signing a bill which raised the senators' pay, beginning next year.

There are many politicians, and very few statesmen.

Who's To Blame?

Who's to blame? How often we hear the refrain! For what? It's not important. We must find someone to blame. It's the American way.

Take the price of milk. It's one of Marin's biggest industries and like almost everything its price has been rising. Ask any ten people why and eight of them will probably fix the blame on some favorite scapegoat — the big corporations, labor unions, the government, food stamps, the farmers, the Russians or whatever.

But why is it always necessary to fix blame? Maybe it is inexorable fate that things change and no group is to blame. A look back at the economic history of the United States shows most problems have more than one cause. It is worth remembering when we become too passionate in blame fixing.

This Lush Land

Marinites sometimes live amid such a glut of lush vegetation that their sense of it becomes dulled. Often, when we return from a trip, we are struck by the massed green of flowers, trees and shrubs, a jungle-like quality.

Then, just last week, we took a roll of colored photos in what we considered our rather plain garden. And when we received the prints back, we were struck once again by the lushness which prevails in parts of Marin.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

CHP Will Not Crack Down Quickly On Smog Devices

By ROBERT STUDER
Copley News Service

SACRAMENTO — Even after Oct. 1, when thousands of California motorists already should have nitrous oxide exhaust emission control devices installed on their cars, the California Highway Patrol plans to be lenient about enforcing the new antipollution law.

Commissioner Walter Pudinski says the patrol will take no enforcement actions on the devices until Oct. 1, the date when all vehicles of 1966 to 1970 vintage with license plates ending in the figure "1" are required to be equipped with the additional smog control device.

And even then, Pudinski adds, offenders will receive written warnings allowing them 15 more days to comply.

UNDER STATE LAW, autos with the final digit "1" must install the new smog device no later than Sept. 30. Those with a final digit of "2" have until Oct. 31. The pattern will continue on a monthly basis until June 30, 1975.

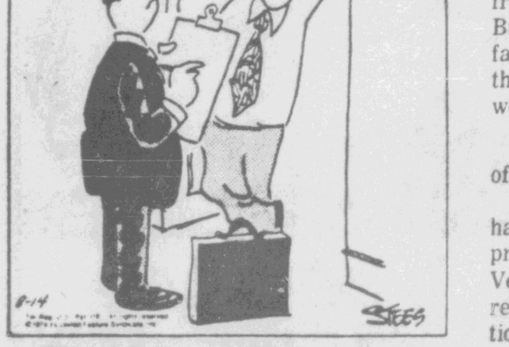
California Air Resources Board regulations require not only installation of the nitrous oxide smog device. The owner also must obtain a certificate of compliance.

The document can be obtained only from an installer licensed by the state Bureau of Automotive Repair. He will fasten a sticker to the car's windshield that will notify CHP officers that the work has been done.

BUT DON'T, Pudinski warned, put it off.

Later in the year, after car owners have received information on the new program from the Department of Motor Vehicles, which will mail it along with renewal forms for 1975 vehicle registrations, the CHP will crack down.

And tickets issued then will require an appearance in court.



"When I have an opinion, you'll see it on my bumper sticker."

DRUMMOND: Healing Will Come Quickly
FURGURSON: Chance To Make Politics Clean

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Have no doubt about it, the recovery of the nation's poise and peace is going to come faster than anyone dared hope.

The great danger was that Richard Nixon would remove himself from the presidency in the image of an injured martyr who had done no wrong and that, without a Senate trial and verdict, the divisive turmoil over Watergate would continue to poison the political life of the country.

But that which many feared most — that resignation would continue a lacerating controversy rather than terminate it — is not, it appears, going to come upon us.

These are the reasons:

1 — Mr. Nixon resigned with grace and without bitterness, and it is amply evident that the Congress and the country want to close the book without further ado over impeachment.

2 — There is no basis for bitter-end Nixon supporters to claim or to feel that he was unjustly, unfairly or peremptorily hounded out of the White House on unproved charges. There is no valid basis for continued debate on this score because Mr. Nixon himself has admitted enough responsibility for his own downfall so that the issue is settled with finality.

3 — The country is fortunate to have President Gerald Ford as Mr. Nixon's successor because his transcendent forte is reconciliation. He is the very embodiment of reconciliation and goodwill and decency. The leaders of Congress are responding to that spirit of unity with evident sincerity. Most Americans will respond the same way.

I BELIEVE that Richard Nixon has done his part in stepping down in a manner which sufficiently accepts the verdict of Congress to vote for his removal if he had not removed himself.

That's enough. He doesn't have to grovel — and he didn't. He wouldn't know how.

But he did affirm that he had committed "wrong" acts. He did affirm that he decided to resign because he had "lost so much of his political base" in Congress that he could not govern effectively. This was only another way of saying that his defense against impeachment had crumbled and that his resignation was just one step ahead of the verdict the Senate was about to bring in.

He did more than that. In the statement released by the White House after making public the June 23 tapes, Mr. Nixon admitted that he had committed acts cited in the articles of impeachment. He affirmed that he had acted to abort the Watergate investigation six days after the break-in and that, as the first step toward coverup, he had directed that the FBI not go further into the case.

THIS ASSESSMENT of Mr. Nixon's Watergate role is not the subjective judgment of some reporter nor is it the interpretation of the special prosecutor or of the House Judiciary Committee. It is Mr. Nixon's own assessment of what he did.

Because this is Mr. Nixon's verdict, the Senate does not need to render its verdict. It is a verdict which can and should be accepted as final.

Now we can begin to bind up the wounds of the nation by looking ahead, not backward.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Ford Should Rise Above Partisanship

Ford should rise above partisan politics and declare himself a non-candidate for the office of the presidency. All factions should participate to restore a feasible system of democracy in which all factions are free to participate rather than the stifling situation which exists and breeds unreasonable actions from even reasonable men. . .

Health, Human Services Victims Of Bureaucracy

I am writing to express my appreciation for the considered attention that your paper has given the issue of health and human services and the difficulties this organizational structure creates for service providers and clients.

I feel certain that the articles and editorials that have appeared in your paper over the past two weeks have had significant impact on the public as well as the board of supervisors. At the heart of the matter, as you well know, is the tendency of bureaucracies to become more bureaucratic and for public administrative structures to perpetuate and expand themselves. My own interest in this matter goes beyond the area of mental health. It is a more general concern with the nature of public administration. Cognizant of the increasing growth of government and its impact on our own lives, it is disheartening, to say the least, to experience the inefficiencies, the waste, and the rigidity in the public sector and the resulting impact on taxpayers and people who need services.

I hope, with your continued efforts and the efforts of the public that a reversal can be effected, at least in Marin County, in the expansion of government and bureaucracy, particularly in the human services field.

We Must Abolish Political Cynicism

Now that the Nixon fiasco has reached a doubtful finality, it is fitting for all Americans to do some soul-searching in order to circumscribe the lessons we must cling to for the good of America's future. We who put men in high office must never call a halt to our responsibilities. To be always vigilant, to keep ourselves politically sophisticated, to remind our politicians of their obligations to those who voted for them — these are the criteria for endowing democracy with a true meaning.

The political cynicism of "keeping your options open," of deceit and artifice, of financial enrichment at the expense of all Americans, of the poolroom ideology that "if you can get away with it, do it," brought to a fine art by the Nixon administration, must be permanently banished to the sewer which bred this thinking. . .

I am somehow sick at heart at the saccarine maudlinity which attended Nixon's resignation. Our elected representatives decided that he had (1) obstructed justice, (2) abused his authority, (3) subverted the Constitution by impeding the impeachment process. Why the tears? Why not a vast sense of relief?. . .

Not Much Worth Praising In Review

I dragged my husband to the Sunset Players' production of "Mame" because a young friend was to play the part of Patrick.

When my husband sat down in the theater to await the start of the play, the corners of his mouth were turned down. They remained down until after about the first five minutes of the play had passed, at which time they turned up and remained up the whole remainder of the production.

There was magic in the theater that night, coordination, energy and a smoothness I didn't dream possible in such a young cast.

Such a jaded, negative criticism of what was a delightful production, regardless of a few rough spots, shows a lack of maturity and callowness and not much worth praising about this particular critic's review.

Candidate Differs On Campaign Receipts

I missed the story your newspaper ran several weeks ago which reported on the campaign contributions and expenditures of candidates in the June primary.

I have now read it and want to state that I did not receive a campaign contribution from the Real Estate Board for $250 or any other amount.

The county elections department has on file for public record my declaration that my campaign contributions and expenses did not exceed $500.00. I received $425.00 in contributions from eleven individuals and one civic organization and spent $476.66 in campaign expenses.

In announcing my candidacy for the water board last spring, I stated that I intended to run a low budget campaign and I did just that.

BETTY FORRY
Marinwood

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — In all the oratory of these past weeks, the homespun William Hungate may have laid out the situation best for his own constituents in the Little Dixie bottom lands of Missouri and for voters in the country at large.

"Suppose," he said as the House Judiciary Committee began that fateful week of impeachment proceedings," . . .suppose your mayor approved a plan by which the chief of your city's police department could illegally tap your phone, open your mail, and burglarize your apartment. Suppose your mayor withheld knowledge of a burglary from a local judge trying a case in which that knowledge was crucially important . . ." He supposed a couple more times, and his point was strong and clear: The President of the United States should be held to moral and legal standards at least as high as those binding a small-town politician.

NOW THAT THAT particular President is no longer in office, the corollary to Hungate's point could be an equally important, unintentional contribution by the Nixon administration to the nation's future: Small-town politicians should be held to standards just as high as those set for presidents.

However, there is a series of ifs to be crossed before either of those lessons is burned deeply enough into the national consciousness.

If our recently so-highly-praised system functions properly, it will follow through to hold Mr. Nixon accountable for his misdeeds just as objectively as if he were a county executive caught taking contractors' payoffs, or a juvenile delinquent who lied in an auto theft case.

If the first reaction of many congressmen and others here to his farewell remarks is any determinant, he will not be allowed to retire unrepentant to the San Clemente sunshine, to sit protected by the taxpayers' Secret Service agents in his resort improved with taxpayers' money, drawing $60,000 of that money yearly while others on the near periphery of his scandals are somewhere serving time.

So if he goes unprosecuted while hundreds of thousands of other Americans who never stood on the steps of the capitol and took the solemn constitutional oath from the chief justice are indicted and tried for their obscure private offenses, it will not be by any overwhelming national consensus.

Nor will this whole long and painful experience have served the purpose we expected from it when we said that the agony would make us more self-respectful afterward.

IF, ON THE OTHER hand, our system proceeds on the information already gathered and still to be produced under subpoena, it will serve notice that obstruction of justice, abuse of power and contempt of lawful authority are not to be tolerated in our country, at the White House or the county seat.

In that case, we will have responded effectively to the Italian official quoted amid last week's events, who said: "It is an interesting switch in the mentality of America. Before, no one dreamed of expecting that politicians would be completely honest. Now, with Watergate, they are suddenly supposed to be lily-white."

That response is: Why not?

Ford's Moves Quickly Clear Atmosphere Of White House

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor)

The transfer of power from Richard Nixon to Gerald Ford has been no less than extraordinary. The dignity and orderliness of the transition should quicken the faith of all Americans — and the world — in the viability of America's democratic system.

A new brand of leadership is now needed. Above all this means restoring that openness and directness that will enable all branches and agencies of government to function according to law.

"Our great Republic is a government of laws and not of men," Mr. Ford said eloquently and assuringly after taking the oath of office. "Here the people rule." . . .

FRESH BREEZES already are wafting through the White House. By his humility and simplicity, President Ford has begun to change the atmosphere and image of the presidency and the tone of openness he has struck comes as a great relief after the atmosphere of clandestine maneuverings that characterized the Nixon years.

It is important that the president is moving swiftly to build a broad base of support. He made clear he wants to work together with the nation's lawmakers. For instance, he is asking Republican officials in Washington and around the country, as well as Democratic leaders in Congress, to make suggestions about a new vice-president.

We realize, of course, that there is bound to be an early euphoric period of accommodation with the new president and before long the normal, competitive play of political forces will resume. But the lively political battles that lie ahead can now take place in a context of national unity . . .

WE WELCOME, TOO, Mr. Ford's approach to the press. He has instructed cabinet members to be "affirmative" in their relations with the Fourth Estate and for the first time in many years now journalists can perform their role of critical watchdog on the presidency without that unfortunate atmosphere of mutual bitterness and recriminations.

In short, the nation stands now on the threshold of possibility for real leadership. Not a leadership which reads the public opinion polls and then determines how to act on a given issue or play a certain policy. But a leadership that formulates policies on the basis of the highest conceived good and then seeks to enlist all segments of society in an understanding and execution of those policies.

President Ford may well provide that leadership.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"It's going to be one of the biggest prowling summers we have ever had, there is so much to see and so many places to stop. I never in my life saw as many out-of-state cars as there is in California this summer.

"Just quit listening to the politicians. They have to make a noise the nearer it comes to election. The president ain't going to ruin the country. The Constitution will remain as is. The Russians are not going to take us. Let folks quit arguing over who did, or didn't do, what." — July 14, 1935.

Ford Gets The News On His Own

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford likes to get the news on his own and reads several newspapers each day even though White House aides continue to prepare summaries of the day's news.

"He likes to get it on his own," said one aide, who added that there were no immediate plans for the White House communications staff to prepare daily news summaries as it has in the past.

But the communications office said the daily news summaries are still being prepared, although there is no word on whether Ford actually reads them.

Several past presidents, including President Nixon, preferred to have their communications staffs highlight the news for them in an abbreviated daily summary.

Ford now scans morning newspapers in his limousine on the 15-minute drive from Alexandria, Va., to the White House.

At least three newspapers are delivered directly to his doorstep.

The aide said the President doesn't have much time to watch television because he is working when the morning and evening news shows are on.

Ford is said to be most interested in the Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, The Washington Post, the Washington Star-News and two Michigan newspapers, the Grand Rapids Press and the Detroit News.

A Company That Gives Feature Films Second Commercial Life

By RON WELLS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Have you ever wondered what happens to motion pictures after they've been shown in theaters and before they're sold to television?

Do they languish in some dark, dusty studio film library until such time as they're redistributed as a co-feature or readied for the mass television audience?

No way! After playing the first- and second-run theaters, feature films are reduced from 35mm theater-size prints to 16mm suitable for the smaller screen, and begin a new life that can go on virtually forever.

The rental and-or sale of these 16mm films has become a $100-million-a-year business which serves such diverse areas of the American society as public schools, prisons, convalescent homes, hospitals, libraries, tuna fleets, colleges, Distant Early Warning (DEW) line stations, churches, retirement homes and private homes.

"Motion pictures are a true American art form," said Allen Green, head of marketing for Films, Inc., the largest distributor of 16mm feature films in the United States.

"By having them available in 16mm, films can be used in a lot of different ways and for a variety of different situations early film makers never dreamed of," Green said in an interview. "Movies are fantastic entertainment. Where television is passive an uninterrupted feature film is stimulating."

According to Charles Benton, president of Films, Inc., the firm has 50,000 prints of 16mm feature films ranging from D.W. Griffith's epic 1916 silent film, "Intolerance," to that gangster masterpiece, "The Godfather." In addition, Films, Inc., also has 15,000 short subjects in its library.

"Films, Inc., has the entire enventory of films from the now defunct RKO studios in addition to having contractual agreements with Twentieth Century Fox, MGM and Paramount studios to distribute everything they produce," Benton said. "We also distribute many theatrical and television films produced by the other major studios as well as good moneymaking films of independent producers.

Benton said David L. Wolper, president of Wolper Productions, has contracted with Films, Inc., to distribute some of his past productions and most of his present and future products to the nontheatrical and educational market.

Benton estimates that Films, Inc., which was founded in 1927 by Orten Hicks and later acquired by the Encyclopaedia Britannica (E.B.), currently has 40 per cent of Hollywood's film backlog.

Feature films can be rented from Films, Inc., for anywhere from $25 to $250 and $350 for such films as "Lady Sings The Blues" and "The Poseidon Adventure."

Oregon Governor Gives VP Choices

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Gov. Tom McCall has recommended that President Ford choose former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield, or Washington Gov. Dan Evans as vice president.

"All three men have had long experience as governor," McCall said yesterday, "and I believe it's vital that the President get on his team someone who has been out where government is truly close to the people."

Salt Lake Scout Suit Ruling Is Extended

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — Both sides in a civil suit alleging racial discrimination in Mormon-sponsored Boy Scout Troops have agreed to an indefinite extension of a court order halting such discrimination.

The Salt Lake chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Boy Scouts of America agreed Monday a U.S. district court temporary restraining order should remain in effect until a final decision is reached in the case.

No trial date has yet been set since both sides hope to work out an agreement outside court.

Chief Federal Judge Willis Ritter extended the restraining order he issued Aug. 2 when the suit was filed by the Salt Lake chapter of the NAACP on behalf of two 12-year-old Boy Scouts who were allegedly denied the highest leadership post in their troops because they were black.

The suit, filed against the Boy Scouts' National Council, Great Salt Lake Council and Troop 58, alleged the post of senior patrol leader in Mormon-sponsored troops could be held only by a deacon's quorum president.

Since church doctrine forbids blacks from holding its priesthood, the policy bans them from the scout post, the suit charged.

Minutes before the suit was filed, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints issued a policy change, saying senior patrol leaders would be chosen in the future solely on the basis of their qualifications and not their church position.

But the NAACP went ahead with the suit, claiming the policy change did not alter basic discriminatory practices within the church.

Edward W. Clyde, attorney for the Boy Scouts, told a court hearing Monday he did not mind extending the temporary restraining order until the case is concluded.

"The Boy Scouts of America have always had a non-discriminatory policy," said Clyde.

NAACP attorneys also said they had no objections to the extension but asked for more specific language dealing with alleged practices by the Scouts than was in the temporary order.

The extended order restrains the Scouts from approving funds from programs operated on a racially discriminatory basis; maintaining any policy or custom which deprives the plaintiffs from all advantages of the Boy Scouts; making any other discriminatory distinction; and selecting persons for leadership posts in a racailly discriminatory manner.

Nixon Envelope Sales Stopped

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 officials have ordered a fair concessionaire to stop selling resignation commemorative envelopes, which feature pictures of both Richard Nixon and President Ford and a Washington, D.C., postmark.

An estimated 5,000 envelopes were printed up, flown to the nation's capital to be cancelled, and then brought back to the Expo site and sold for $5 each.

One Expo official said the envelopes were selling Monday for as much as $10.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Marin Attorney Remembers Belief In Nixon — Bitterly

"You know, I'm a black Republican."

The longtime Marin County attorney spoke facetiously but sadly.

The year 1952, when the former president ran for the Senate against Helen Gahagan Douglas, brought back a fond memory to the local man.

THE LAWYER told how he had headed Nixon's campaign in Marin County and how one day "Dick and Pat," as he called them, came to San Anselmo to shake hands with leaders there.

"It was a warm day," the attorney remembered, and so, while he took Nixon around the city hall, Mrs. Nixon and the attorney's wife went to a nearby soda fountain to have a cold drink.

"Pat decided to call home from the soda fountain to check on her little girls who were with a baby sitter in Whittier," the attorney remembered. When she called, he said, there was no answer at her Southern California home.

Alarmed, she called a neighbor, he related, who informed her the baby sitter "had walked out," leaving the youngsters alone. The girls were being cared for by the neighbor, but Mrs. Nixon "hopped the next plane home," ending her part of the campaign trip early.

AFTER HE TOLD the little anecdote about a worried mother of more than 20 years ago, the attorney's face turned hard.

"I believed him. I defended him. I thought he was telling the truth. I worked for him all those years," he said.

"Then Monday, I finally realized he had lied all along.

LIKE MANY a friend who has seen his trust betrayed, the attorney now envisions the worst.

"I'll bet he has accounts in six Swiss banks . . . He doesn't care about any pension," he speculated.

"Well," he finally said, "it was sure hard to learn that someone you trusted had been lying all the time . . ."

One can only wonder how often the Marin conversation has been repeated elsewhere in the country in the past few days.

BART Tax Measure Gets By Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to bail out the troubled Bay Area Rapid Transit District by extending a local one-half cent sales tax until 1978 passed an Assembly committee yesterday.

The compromise bill (SB1966) has the endorsement of a majority of Bay Area lawmakers. It was approved by the Transportation Committee on a 15-0 vote and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Senate President Pro-tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, said his bill was a "stop-gap" to prevent BART from shutting down in October without funding.

But, Mills said long-term financing must be studied by the legislature to help BART, which has run up a $12.3 million deficit this year.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said, "If you don't do this (enact this bill), it's pretty clear BART will have to shut down by October."

With a sales tax guarantee, BART would be able to raise $16 million immediately in revenue bonds. The sales tax would be imposed in San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

If Mills' measure does not become law, the tax would be removed in 1976, with much of the revenue used to pay off existing bonds.

Committee chairman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, said he was not happy with the tax, but the prospect of shutting down the sleek transit system was worse.

Legislators should realize it was impossible to operate transit systems on fare revenue alone, Meade said.

Delay Asked On Offshore Oil Leases

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A resolution urging the federal government not to issue leases for some 5,000 oil wells off the California coast has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The resolution, AJR 120, calls upon the Interior Department to refrain from issuing the leases until completion of a pending Federal Energy Administration study of a national energy policy.

Until such a policy is developed, Bagley said, it is impossible to tell how much offshore drilling is needed.

The demand for energy has leveled off, the assemblyman said, and with the anticipated flow of oil from Alaska the need for massive offshore drilling is uncertain.

Arrigoni No Longer Interested In Special Pension Measure

Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. yesterday said he no longer is interested in special state legislation to qualify him for a 40 per cent boost in retirement pension. (See another legislative story, page 1.)

The legislation is on the governor's desk awaiting his signature into law, but Arrigoni said he belatedly discovered it would cost him almost $8,000 to buy the extra pension.

The special provision for Arrigoni was tacked onto AB 3275 by Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-San Bernardino, at the request of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. The measure apparently will become law anyway, since the rest of it deals with other retirement matters.

Present law prohibits Arrigoni from getting retirement benefits from his four years on the Fairfax city council because it was an unpaid position when he held it. The Lewis bill will abolish this restriction.

Bagley's office has said Arrigoni apparently was the sole beneficiary of the bill in the state.

Bill Amended To Limit Sewer Plan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that will empower the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency to build a sewage system in Stinson Beach has been amended to limit such a system so it serves only "existing development."

The measure, AB 3860 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, is pending in the Assembly. Present law permits the agency to build only treatment facilities in communities that fail to clean up sewage pollution. This does not cover the situation in Stinson Beach, which depends on septic tanks and thus has no sewers at all.

The Knox bill would empower the agency also to build sewers. The agency is moving toward an order that could force the community to build a sewage sytem without voter approval.

The Regional Water Quality Control board asked the agency to step in after Stinson Beach voters last March rejected a $2.5 million sewage system. Septic tanks are failing and causing health dangers, according to the board's staff.

The community's primary objection to a standard sewage system is that it would encourage growth. The new amendment limits the facilities to those "necessary to provide service to existing development."

License Law For Police Is Defeated

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to require licensing police officers has been killed by a Senate committee.

The proposal, SB 2408 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was iced Monday by the finance committee after objections from some police officials and the California League of Cities.

A spokesman for the senator said similar legislation probably will be introduced by him next year.

The bill was requested by the Police Officers Research Association of California (PORAC), which represents some 17,000 rank and file policemen throughout the state. It was opposed by the state's other major police organization, the California Peace Officers Association, which generally represents police brass.

It objected to having the state set hiring standards, claiming the result would be a state police force. The bill would have required applicants for a state license as a peace officer to pass tests and have earned increasingly higher education credits.

Ford Will Meet The Press Often

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Jerry terHorst said today he hopes President Ford will hold a news conference "at least once every other week," far more often than did President Richard M. Nixon.

TerHorst said Ford always had been friendly toward reporters, adding: "I would hope that the fact he is President would not keep him —and I don't think it will — from being the same easy going, affable, relaxed human being that he's always been all his life. I think he would find it uncomfortable to be something else."

TerHorst said Ford "is his own best press sectetary" because the President "just feels at home" with reporters.

Fair Will Sponsor Sale Of Produce

A sale of home-grown produce will be held the last night of the Marin County Fair, Sept. 2 from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. at the horticultural exhibit area at the Civic Center fairgrounds.

Only those home gardeners who have entered produce for competition, however, will be allowed to bring in their surplus fruits and vegetables for sale, according to Marcelle McCoy, fair manager. The fair begins Aug. 29.

Ford Gets The News On His Own

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford likes to get the news on his own and reads several newspapers each day even though White House aides continue to prepare summaries of the day's news.

"He likes to get it on his own," said one aide, who added that there were no immediate plans for the White House communications staff to prepare daily news summaries as it has in the past.

But the communications office said the daily news summaries are still being prepared, although there is no word on whether Ford actually reads them.

Several past presidents, including President Nixon, preferred to have their communications staffs highlight the news for them in an abbreviated daily summary.

Ford now scans morning newspapers in his limousine on the 15-minute drive from Alexandria, Va., to the White House.

At least three newspapers are delivered directly to his doorstep.

The aide said the President doesn't have much time to watch television because he is working when the morning and evening news shows are on.

Ford is said to be most interested in the Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, The Washington Post, the Washington Star-News and two Michigan newspapers, the Grand Rapids Press and the Detroit News.

Snake On Auto Taken To Zoo

He placed the snake in a plastic bag and brought it to the Highland Park Zoo.

A Company That Gives Feature Films Second Commercial Life

By RON WELLS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Have you ever wondered what happens to motion pictures after they've been shown in theaters and before they're sold to television?

Do they languish in some dark, dusty studio film library until such time as they're redistributed as a co-feature or readied for the mass television audience?

No way! After playing the first- and second-run theaters, feature films are reduced from 35mm theater-size prints to 16mm suitable for the smaller screen, and begin a new life that can go on virtually forever.

The rental and-or sale of these 16mm films has become a $100-million-a-year business which serves such diverse areas of the American society as public schools, prisons, convalescent homes, hospitals, libraries, tuna fleets, colleges, Distant Early Warning (DEW) line stations, churches, retirement homes and private homes.

"Motion pictures are a true American art form," said Allen Green, head of marketing for Films, Inc., the largest distributor of 16mm feature films in the United States.

"By having them available in 16mm, films can be used in a lot of different ways and for a variety of different situations early film makers never dreamed of," Green said in an interview. "Movies are fantastic entertainment. Where television is passive an uninterrupted feature film is stimulating."

According to Charles Benton, president of Films, Inc., the firm has 50,000 prints of 16mm feature films ranging from D.W. Griffith's epic 1916 silent film, "Intolerance," to that gangster masterpiece, "The Godfather." In addition, Films, Inc., also has 15,000 short subjects in its library.

"Films, Inc., has the entire enventory of films from the now defunct RKO studios in addition to having contractual agreements with Twentieth Century Fox, MGM and Paramount studios to distribute everything they produce," Benton said. "We also distribute many theatrical and television films produced by the other major studios as well as good moneymaking films of independent producers.

Benton said David L. Wolper, president of Wolper Productions, has contracted with Films, Inc., to distribute some of his past productions and most of his present and future products to the nontheatrical and educational market.

Benton estimates that Films, Inc., which was founded in 1927 by Orten Hicks and later acquired by the Encyclopaedia Britannica (E.B.), currently has 40 per cent of Hollywood's film backlog.

Feature films can be rented from Films, Inc., for anywhere from $25 to $250 and $350 for such films as "Lady Sings The Blues" and "The Poseidon Adventure."

Flournoy Names Campaign Chairman

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Los Angeles businessman has been named co-chairman of Republican Houston Flournoy's campaign for governor.

John P. Guerin, chairman of the Pacific Stock Exchange, was named to the position yesterday.

Oregon Governor Gives VP Choices

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Gov. Tom McCall has recommended that President Ford choose former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield, or Washington Gov. Dan Evans as vice president.

"All three men have had long experience as governor," McCall said yesterday, "and I believe it's vital that the President get on his team someone who has been out where government is truly close to the people."

Salt Lake Scout Suit Ruling Is Extended

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — Both sides in a civil suit alleging racial discrimination in Mormon-sponsored Boy Scout Troops have agreed to an indefinite extension of a court order halting such discrimination.

The Salt Lake chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Boy Scouts of America agreed Monday a U.S. district court temporary restraining order should remain in effect until a final decision is reached in the case.

No trial date has yet been set since both sides hope to work out an agreement outside court.

Chief Federal Judge Willis Ritter extended the restraining order he issued Aug. 2 when the suit was filed by the Salt Lake chapter of the NAACP on behalf of two 12-year-old Boy Scouts who were allegedly denied the highest leadership post in their troops because they were black.

The suit, filed against the Boy Scouts' National Council, Great Salt Lake Council and Troop 58, alleged the post of senior patrol leader in Mormon-sponsored troops could be held only by a deacon's quorum president.

Since church doctrine forbids blacks from holding its priesthood, the policy bans them from the scout post, the suit charged.

Minutes before the suit was filed, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints issued a policy change, saying senior patrol leaders would be chosen in the future solely on the basis of their qualifications and not their church position.

But the NAACP went ahead with the suit, claiming the policy change did not alter basic discriminatory practices within the church.

Edward W. Clyde, attorney for the Boy Scouts, told a court hearing Monday he did not mind extending the temporary restraining order until the case is concluded.

"The Boy Scouts of America have always had a non-discriminatory policy," said Clyde.

NAACP attorneys also said they had no objections to the extension but asked for more specific language dealing with alleged practices by the Scouts than was in the temporary order.

The extended order restrains the Scouts from approving funds from programs operated on a racially discriminatory basis; maintaining any policy or custom which deprives the plaintiffs from all advantages of the Boy Scouts; making any other discriminatory distinction; and selecting persons for leadership posts in a racailly discriminatory manner.

Nixon Envelope Sales Stopped

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 officials have ordered a fair concessionaire to stop selling resignation commemorative envelopes, which feature pictures of both Richard Nixon and President Ford and a Washington, D.C., postmark.

An estimated 5,000 envelopes were printed up, flown to the nation's capital to be cancelled, and then brought back to the Expo site and sold for $5 each.

One Expo official said the envelopes were selling Monday for as much as $10.

Teamsters Vote Thumbs Down Over Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Teamsters Union members voted last night to continue their 15-day strike against Airporter, Inc., a bus firm operating between the city and San Francisco International Airport.

For the second time, the strikers rejected labor contracts which had been negotiated with the help of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

The proposed pact would have raised the pay of drivers by $4 daily, to a total of $48.

Baggage handlers, also members of the union, had been offered $3 more a day, for a total of $36.

Airporter, Inc., is a subsidiary of the Yellow Cab Co.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

A Mother Is All Steamed Up Over Advice About Husbands

Women are more health-conscious than men, and wives are more concerned about the health of their husbands than the husbands are about themselves. This is why I am more inclined to write about keeping husbands healthy than vice versa. Some women object to this and never hesitate to let me know. One of our readers offered some excellent alternatives.

"I am writing to blow off some steam regarding the column in which you warned women on the proper care of husbands. I am a 27-year-old mother of two who loves her husband and children and is not a frustrated liberationist. The life-style I have chosen suits me perfectly.

"HERE COMES the gripe! Why doesn't someone write an article on the care of women's emotions? Your article really topped it. Men are out all day and that in itself is a great distraction. As mothers of little ones, we know only the house, the children and the Cookie monster on Sesame Street.

"When is someone going to address themselves to the emotional needs of mothers? Mothers are supposed to be much more emotional than fathers — mothers who get periods, worry when the periods will come or if they will come at all. And we not only have the monthly "curse," we have to keep that fact from the children so they won't be upset. Now we are supposed to keep it from our husbands so they won't be bothered. How about a few kind words for us?

"I always regarded you as a friend, but that particular column of yours seemed unfair. Let's try to write some good words about everyday, hard working mothers. A faithful reader I will continue to be, but you'll have a happier audience if you give us some attention."

THE WOMAN who wrote this letter must be a wonderful wife and mother. Her constructive criticism was well taken. However, in defense of my comments, let me say that the column was aimed at what women can do to keep their husbands. It will take another column to tell husbands what they should do to keep their wives. I wrote what I did because physically, men are the weaker sex and die sooner than women. But since they are a good investment, they are worth taking care of.

STOPS SMOKING

A reader writes: Since I gave up smoking I have an abnormal desire for candy. I also have developed a rotten disposition. How can these discomforts be alleviated?

REPLY

Willpower and more willpower. Keep repeating, "One puff and I'm hooked again, etc." Many people have found effective substitutes, but all substitutes depend on the individual. Time ends these discomforts.

NEPHRITIS, HEPATITIS

A reader writes: Are nephritis and hepatitis one and the same?

REPLY

No. Nephritis is inflammation of the kidney; hepatitis, inflammation of the liver.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in this column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Soviet Dance Troupe Is Protested

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two dozen demonstrators in black and white striped prisoner-type uniforms walked out to protest the performance of a noted Russian dance troupe yesterday.

Meanwhile, an estimated 500 pickets marched in front of the Shrine Auditorium protesting the "harassment, intimidation, and imprisonment" of Soviet Jews.

Police watched as persons filed into the auditorium to see the Moiseyev troupe, whose opening performance was delayed for 30 minutes due to tight security, apparently stemming from Monday's bomb blast which did minor damage to the front of the auditorium. An anonymous caller later took responsibility for the bombing, saying it was to protest Soviet treatment of Jews.

Zev Yaroslavsky, head of the Southern California Council for Soviet Jews, called for a boycott of the performance by the Russian troupe. He said only half of the auditorium's seats were sold.

First Husband Of First Lady Still A Friend

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The new First Lady's first husband says he still is a good friend of both President and Mrs. Gerald Ford, but not too close.

Asked yesterday by San Francisco Chronicle columnist Herb Caen whether he had sent congratulations when the new president was sworn in, William C. Warren replied:

"Well, we're not that good friends."

Warren married the former Betty Bloomer in Grand Rapids, Mich., "back in the late 30s, or maybe it was the early 40s ... you know how time flies ... I was fresh out of U. of Michigan."

"We were married, oh, about seven years," he was quoted as saying by Caen.

Warren, remarried, lives in both San Francisco and Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, and represents "several furniture lines."

15.50.010 PURPOSE. Condominium ownership of property creates a unique distribution and/or aggregation of property rights and responsibilities among a number of persons which is not inherent in other types of property ownership. It is recognized that the distribution and aggregation can result in a diminution of the rights and responsibilities. The purpose of this Chapter is to set forth condominium development standards to insure that such a diminution does not occur and to:

A. Encourage quality development which will not contribute to the deterioration of the neighborhood.

B. Encourage the provision of a variety of ownership types.

C. Encourage a development pattern based upon good land planning principles.

D. Insure that the conversion of existing developments to condominium ownership be consistent with the protection of the health, safety and general welfare of the future occupants of the condominium.

15.50.020 DEFINITIONS. As used in this Chapter, terms are defined as follows:

A. Condominium shall mean any project or development as defined by the State of California Civil Code Sections 783 and 1350 and as defined by the State of California Business and Professions Code Section 11004.

B. Residential condominium shall mean a condominium providing dwelling units.

15.50.030 APPLICABILITY. All condominiums constructed or converted after the effective date of this Chapter, shall comply with the provisions of this Chapter prior to the sale of any condominium unit.

15.50.040 SUBDIVISION MAP. All condominiums of two or more units shall be subject to Planning Commission approval of a subdivision map filed in accordance with this title.

15.50.050 COMPLIANCE WITH ZONING. All condominiums shall comply with the provisions of Title 14, Zoning, for the zoning district in which the condominium is located. In the event that development standards stated in Title 14 conflict with the development standards stated in this Chapter, the more restrictive standard shall apply.

15.50.060 PROPERTY OWNERS ASSOCIATION.

A. For all condominiums, a property owners association shall be established by recordation of the following:

(1) Articles of Incorporation of the association;

(2) Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions;

(3) By-laws of the association.

B. Included in the recorded documents specified in "A" above shall be provision for, at least, but not limited to, the following:

(1) Any amendment or modification to the documents, as approved by the City, must have the approval of the City prior to completion of the amendment or modification.

(2) Except where maintained by a public utility agency, all on-site property improvements, including common areas, vehicular accessways, sewers, storm drains, street lighting, and fire prevention water systems, shall be maintained at the expense of the Association. The City will be responsible for maintenance of only those facilities located within a public right-of-way which have been accepted by the City.

(3) During a one year minimum warranty period, commencing from the date of the last building occupancy permit issued by the City, the developer shall fulfill all responsibilities of the association for maintenance of all facilities which may require maintenance during the warranty period. The expiration of the warranty period shall not limit or relieve the developer from satisfactory performance of any agreements executed with the City.

(4) In the event that the maintenance responsibilities of the association are not fulfilled, the City shall have the power to enforce such maintenance. In so doing, the City may enter and/or repair accessways and other improvements when necessary to protect the health, safety and general welfare of the citizens. The City shall have the right to recover all costs incurred by collection as a property tax assessment shared on a pro rata basis by all parcels.

(5) A sinking fund shall be established to the satisfaction of the City Engineer for the maintenance and repair of all commonly owned structures, mechanical equipment, open space and landscaped areas.

(6) The purchaser of a unit shall be informed in writing, prior to purchase, of insurance which is unavailable as a result of condominium ownership. The Association shall be responsible to facilitate insurability when necessary.

(7) Each buyer shall sign an ackowledgment stating he has read the Articles of Incorporation, the By-Laws of the Property Owners' Association and the Conditions, Covenants and Restrictions applying to the development.

15.50.070 PRIVATE VEHICULAR ACCESSWAYS.

A. The maximum overall length of any deadend private vehicle accessway shall be 250 lineal feet. Private vehicle accessways shall be loops rather than cul-de-sacs wherever possible.

B. The minimum curb to curb width for private vehicular accessways shall be 24 feet. Where right angle parking occurs off the accessway, a minimum stall length of 24 feet shall be provided.

C. Minimum curb face or edge of pavement radius shall be 25 feet for residential condominiums and 35 feet for condominiums other than residential except for "turn around" facilities, where larger radii may be required.

D. An adequate hammerhead or bulb turn around with minimum 35 foot radius shall be provided at the end of all deadend private vehicular accessways which have overall lengths greater than 125 feet.

E. Connections between private vehicular accessways and public streets shall be by a standard commercial driveway connection.

F. The pavement structural section in private vehicular accessways shall be designed on the basis of a calculated Traffic Index which in no case shall be less than 4.0 and with a ten year design life and be constructed according to City specifications. Under no circumstances shall a structural section of less than two inches of asphaltic concrete over six inches of base material be utilized.

G. Vertical concrete curbs and gutters or concrete valley gutters shall be used where storm water run-off is involved. Rolled curbs shall not be allowed.

H. Sidewalk connections shall be provided from the private vehicular accessway to the main pedestrian walkway system.

I. Minimum overhead clearance on all private vehicular accessways shall be 16 feet.

J. Plans and specifications for all utilities and private vehicle accessways shall be subject to the approval of the Public Works Department.

K. Private vehicular accessways shall be identified as "Commons". A sign post to which is attached a sign having a size of at least 15 inches by 21 inches is to be installed at or near the entrance of each intersection of a private vehicular accessway with a dedicated public street. The name of the accessway is to be placed on this sign in clearly legible four inch letters. The sign is also to have painted, in at least one inch letters "Private property. Not dedicated for public use or maintained by the City of San Rafael."

L. Backfill of all trenches in private vehicular accessway areas shall meet City public street standards for trench backfill. All work done within private vehicular accessways by a utility company shall be inspected by the responsible utility company to a point six inches over the top of their facility. All other work in the private vehicle accessway shall be inspected by the Public Works Department.

15.50.080 EASEMENTS. A public utility easement (P.U.E.) shall be established over the entire private vehicle accessway. The easement shall be dedicated to the City for public use and the fee is to be deeded to the Homeowners Association. Additional easements or public utility easements may be provided adjoining the private vehicle accessway to accommodate any other utilities necessary. Storm drain easement (S.D.E.) and sanitary sewer easement (S.S.E.) shall be established where facilities for storm drains and sanitary sewers are to be owned and maintained by the City.

15.50.090 FIRE PROTECTION. Fire hydrants shall be located on the public streets at the entry to the private vehicular accessways as recommended by the Fire Chief. Fire hydrants together with adequate water mains, shall be located in private vehicular accessways at a maximum spacing of 400 feet and at other locations where deemed necessary by the Fire Chief.

15.50.100 LIGHTING. Safety lighting with a minimum of 0.8 foot candles at the ground surface shall be provided private vehicular accessways and shall be subject to the approval of the Public Works Department. All pedestrian walkways shall be lighted.

15.50.110 LANDSCAPING. Landscaping shall be provided as required by Title 14 Zoning.

15.50.120 CONVERSION OF CONDOMINIUMS.

A. All developments proposed for conversion to condominiums shall fulfill all requirements of this Chapter and conform to the General Plan prior to the sale of any unit. No subdivision map, entitling conversion to condominiums shall be approved unless the Commission finds that the development meets all standards of the current codes and ordinances as they apply to new construction, except for such requirements which, by the provisions of Chapter 15.52 EXCEPTIONS, the Commission deems unnecessary to fulfill the objectives of this chapter.

B. All developments proposed for conversion to condominiums shall be subject to preconversion and postconversion inspections by the City of all physical improvements. The findings of the preconversion inspection shall be written into a report to the Planning Commission. The report shall evaluate and compare the condition of the physical improvements to the requirements of all current codes and ordinances. Physical improvements to be inspected shall include but not be limited to the following: foundations, walls, ceilings, roofs, electrical systems, domestic and fire prevention water systems, sanitary sewer systems, storm drainage systems, vehicular accessways, public utilities, landscaping and irrigation systems, and the condition of all exterior building materials. Prior to approval or denial of the proposed conversion, the Commission shall consider the findings of the report.

C. For all developments proposed for conversion to residential condominiums, the applicant shall provide with the tentative map a report on the proposed conversion which includes the following information:

(1) Length of occupancy of present tenants;

(2) Household composition by age and sex of present tenants;

(3) Current rents; whether rents include or exclude utilities, date and amount of last rental increase;

(4) Nature of lease agreements;

(6) Statement of whether occupancy by children is allowed;

Each tenant shall be notified within 5 days of approval of the tentative map, and for 60 days have the right of first refusal to purchase his unit.

The Planning Commission shall consider this information in its overall assessment of the proposed conversion and may disapprove a subdivision map if it finds the conversion will create undue hardships for existing tenants.

D. All developments proposed for conversion to condominiums shall be subject to the "Property Development Excise Tax" Ordinance No. 1110 and the "Parks and Recreation Facilities Fee" Ordinance No. 1029. Developments for which taxes and fees have been paid prior to conversion shall not be subjected to double payment.

15.50.160 PRIVATE OPEN SPACE, RESIDENTIAL CONDOMINIUMS. A minimum of 150 square feet of screened outdoor private area shall be provided contiguous with each residential condominium unit.

Committee To Vote On No-Fault

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — No-fault autombile insurance, a controversial proposition affecting millions of motorists, will be lifted from legislative limbo and put to a do-or-die committee vote next week, a key lawmaker said today.

After 9 months, Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, said the no-fault vote will come Aug. 20.

That is the last scheduled hearing of the committee before adjournment of the Legislature Aug. 31, and the final chance for the most widely supported no-fault bill in the Capitol, a measure (AB50) by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello.

Since the session began in 1973, the committee has heard and rejected other no-fault proposals, but taken no action on Fenton's bill because of a lack of votes for approval.

Song gave no indication of any shift in committee support, but told newsmen, "We can't let it die like this."

Under the no-fault concept, a motorist is reimbursed for costs and damages by his own insurance company regardless of who is at fault in an accident.

Fenton's bill limits the cases where a person can go to court and sue for higher damages in accidents, and would guarantee a reduction in insurance premiums for the 13 million licensed California drivers.

Comedian Ordered To Appear In Court

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Comedian Paul Lynde of the television program "Hollywood Squares" was summoned to appear in suburban Perrysburg Municpal court today on a charge of public intoxication.

FAMILY FARE TO STRIPPERS

Japanese View TV Contrast

TOKYO (UPI) — Now that summer vacations are here, Japanese parents have difficulty getting children to bed before the racy late-night television programs come on.

That's when three channels usually turn blue.

Bare-breasted women dressed as Indians and cowgirls prance around the stage doing square dances. On a typical night recently, one channel featured a kind of erotic ballet performed by a man and woman dressed in brief g-strings.

Earlier in the evening, an innocent young songstress, dressed in white knee socks and a short dress with a little white collar, sang about first love.

On one of the most popular late night shows, guests drink whisky, tell off-color stories and watch excerpts from pornographic films which they later discuss. The talk is interspersed with strip tease performances and gambling games.

Another channel showed a film of a man caressing a model attired in a black slip, followed by a discussion about the sexiness of black slips.

On a third channel, a man interviewed a woman in a topless bathing suit (held up by suspenders). When the interview was over everyone called out "show time!" and a stripper dressed in silver danced slowly out of her clothes.

These risque programs generally include one or two well-endowed women as set decorations. They sit around giggling at the offcolor stories, much like the hostesses in Tokyo's bars and night clubs.

These shows are a far cry from dinnertime TV.

Early evening viewers prefer Agnes Chan, 18, a student and pop music idol from Hong Kong who dresses as a 12-year-old and sings in a quivering childish voice while brushing tear from her cheek with one finger

Also popular are the "Finge Five," four brothers and a sister ranging in age from eight t mid-teens who dress alike an sing Japanese rock tunes.

The child cult reaches absur proportions in the family son contest shows. Here, celebritie bring their entire broods t "compete" with the families o other celebrities. More ofte than not, the cutest three-year old with the highest voice carries his family to victory.

Sinatra Is Ordered To Give Deposition

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frank Sinatra has been ordered to answer questions at a deposition hearing later this month in a $5 million damage suit filed against the singer by a Salt Lake businessman.

U.S. District Court Judge Manuel Real told Sinatra's attorney at a hearing Monday that the singer would have to answer questions concerning his drinking the night the businessman claims he was beaten up in a Palm Springs cocktail lounge and dining room.

Frank J. Weinstock claimed in his suit against Sinatra that the singer, restauranteur Billy Rizzo and Jerry Arvenitas assaulted him in the Trinidad Hotel May 5, 1973.

Weinstock said that when his wife went to the ladies room he was asked to leave. He said he refused to do so and went to the men's room where he was allegedly beaten.

Rizzo, Arvenitas and the hotel also were named in the suit.

The deposition hearing will be held at Lake Tahoe on Aug. 24, according to Weinstock's attorney, Marvin E. Lewis.

Two Palm Springs police officers were scheduled to give depositions yesterday in Palm Springs and other depositions will be taken before the trial begins Sept. 10.

Tiburon Street Group Is Named

The Tiburon City Council has appointed a committee to work with city engineer Stanley M. Bala on possible improvements on Tiburon Boulevard between Stewart Drive and the downtown area, according to City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert.

The committee, picked Monday, will include planning commissioners Alvin R. Kuhn and William M. Lukens; parks and recreation commissioner Peter Hoyt Berg; board of design review member James Wilson, councilman E. Bruce Ross, and planning director Robert E. Fosnot.

Kleinert said the committee will not discuss widening of the road but will consider items like improving shoulders, building stacking lanes at intersections and changing lane sizes.

Rhode Islanders Back Rockefeller

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller emerges as the top choice among Rhode Island Republicans as the man they want to see President Ford select as his vice president.

GOP State Chairman Thomas E. Wright believes Rockefeller is the best choice among the available party members who have national status.

Wright said yesterday he mailed a list of three picks to the White House. "In fact I just put them in the mail today," he said.

Teamsters Vote Thumbs Down Over Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Teamsters Union members voted last night to continue their 15-day strike against Airporter, Inc., a bus firm operating between the city and San Francisco International Airport.

For the second time, the strikers rejected labor contracts which had been negotiated with the help of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

The proposed pact would have raised the pay of drivers by $4 daily, to a total of $48.

Baggage handlers, also members of the union, had been offered $3 more a day, for a total of $36.

Airporter, Inc., is a subsidiary of the Yellow Cab Co.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

A Mother Is All Steamed Up Over Advice About Husbands

Women are more health-conscious than men, and wives are more concerned about the health of their husbands than the husbands are about themselves. This is why I am more inclined to write about keeping husbands healthy than vice versa. Some women object to this and never hesitate to let me know. One of our readers offered some excellent alternatives.

"I am writing to blow off some steam regarding the column in which you warned women on the proper care of husbands. I am a 27-year-old mother of two who loves her husband and children and is not a frustrated liberationist. The life-style I have chosen suits me perfectly.

"HERE COMES the gripe! Why doesn't someone write an article on the care of women's emotions? Your article really topped it. Men are out all day and that in itself is a great distraction. As mothers of little ones, we know only the house, the children and the Cookie monster on Sesame Street.

"When is someone going to address themselves to the emotional needs of mothers? Mothers are supposed to be much more emotional than fathers — mothers who get periods, worry when the periods will come or if they will come at all. And we not only have the monthly "curse," we have to keep that fact from the children so they won't be upset. Now we are supposed to keep it from our husbands so they won't be bothered. How about a few kind words for us?

"I always regarded you as a friend, but that particular column of yours seemed unfair. Let's try to write some good words about everyday, hard working mothers. A faithful reader I will continue to be, but you'll have a happier audience if you give us some attention."

THE WOMAN who wrote this letter must be a wonderful wife and mother. Her constructive criticism was well taken. However, in defense of my comments, let me say that the column was aimed at what women can do to keep their husbands. It will take another column to tell husbands what they should do to keep their wives. I wrote what I did because physically, men are the weaker sex and die sooner than women. But since they are a good investment, they are worth taking care of.

STOPS SMOKING

A reader writes: Since I gave up smoking I have an abnormal desire for candy. I also have developed a rotten disposition. How can these discomforts be alleviated?

REPLY

Willpower and more willpower. Keep repeating, "One puff and I'm hooked again, etc." Many people have found effective substitutes, but all substitutes depend on the individual. Time ends these discomforts.

NEPHRITIS, HEPATITIS

A reader writes: Are nephritis and hepatitis one and the same?

REPLY

No. Nephritis is inflammation of the kidney; hepatitis, inflammation of the liver.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in this column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Soviet Dance Troupe Is Protested

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two dozen demonstrators in black and white striped prisoner-type uniforms walked out to protest the performance of a noted Russian dance troupe yesterday.

Meanwhile, an estimated 500 pickets marched in front of the Shrine Auditorium protesting the "harassment, intimidation, and imprisonment" of Soviet Jews.

Police watched as persons filed into the auditorium to see the Moiseyev troupe, whose opening performance was delayed for 30 minutes due to tight security, apparently stemming from Monday's bomb blast which did minor damage to the front of the auditorium. An anonymous caller later took responsibility for the bombing, saying it was to protest Soviet treatment of Jews.

Zev Yaroslavsky, head of the Southern California Council for Soviet Jews, called for a boycott of the performance by the Russian troupe. He said only half of the auditorium's seats were sold.

First Husband Of First Lady Still A Friend

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The new First Lady's first husband says he still is a good friend of both President and Mrs. Gerald Ford, but not too close.

Asked yesterday by San Francisco Chronicle columnist Herb Caen whether he had sent congratulations when the new president was sworn in, William C. Warren replied:

"Well, we're not that good friends."

Warren married the former Betty Bloomer in Grand Rapids, Mich., "back in the late 30s, or maybe it was the early 40s ... you know how time flies ... I was fresh out of U. of Michigan."

"We were married, oh, about seven years," he was quoted as saying by Caen.

Warren, remarried, lives in both San Francisco and Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, and represents "several furniture lines."

15.50.010 PURPOSE. Condominium ownership of property creates a unique distribution and/or aggregation of property rights and responsibilities among a number of persons which is not inherent in other types of property ownership. It is recognized that the distribution and aggregation can result in a diminution of the rights and responsibilities. The purpose of this Chapter is to set forth condominium development standards to insure that such a diminution does not occur and to:

A. Encourage quality development which will not contribute to the deterioration of the neighborhood.

B. Encourage the provision of a variety of ownership types.

C. Encourage a development pattern based upon good land planning principles.

D. Insure that the conversion of existing developments to condominium ownership be consistent with the protection of the health, safety and general welfare of the future occupants of the condominium.

15.50.020 DEFINITIONS. As used in this Chapter, terms are defined as follows:

A. Condominium shall mean any project or development as defined by the State of California Civil Code Sections 783 and 1350 and as defined by the State of California Business and Professions Code Section 11004.

B. Residential condominium shall mean a condominium providing dwelling units.

In the event that development standards stated in Title 14 conflict with the development standards stated in this Chapter, the more restrictive standard shall apply.

15.50.060 PROPERTY OWNERS ASSOCIATION.

A. For all condominiums, a property owners association shall be established by recordation of the following:

B. Included in the recorded documents specified in "A" above shall be provision for, at least, but not limited to, the following:

(1) Any amendment or modification to the documents, as approved by the City, must have the approval of the City prior to completion of the amendment or modification.

(2) Except where maintained by a public utility agency, all on-site property improvements, including common areas, vehicular accessways, sewers, storm drains, street lighting, and fire prevention water systems, shall be maintained at the expense of the Association. The City will be responsible for maintenance of only those facilities located within a public right-of-way which have been accepted by the City.

(3) During a one year minimum warranty period, commencing from the date of the last building occupancy permit issued by the City, the developer shall fulfill all responsibilities of the association for maintenance of all facilities which may require maintenance during the warranty period. The expiration of the warranty period shall not limit or relieve the developer from satisfactory performance of any agreements executed with the City.

(4) In the event that the maintenance responsibilities of the association are not fulfilled, the City shall have the power to enforce such maintenance. In so doing, the City may enter and/or repair accessways and other improvements when necessary to protect the health, safety and general welfare of the citizens. The City shall have the right to recover all costs incurred by collection as a property tax assessment shared on a pro rata basis by all parcels.

(5) A sinking fund shall be established to the satisfaction of the City Engineer for the maintenance and repair of all commonly owned structures, mechanical equipment, open space and landscaped areas.

Public Notice

(6) The purchaser of a unit shall be informed in writing, prior to purchase, of insurance which is unavailable as a result of condominium ownership. The Association shall be responsible to facilitate insurability when necessary.

(7) Each buyer shall sign an ackowledgment stating he has read the Articles of Incorporation, the By-Laws of the Property Owners' Association and the Conditions, Covenants and Restrictions applying to the development.

15.50.070 PRIVATE VEHICULAR ACCESSWAYS.

A. The maximum overall length of any deadend private vehicle accessway shall be 250 lineal feet. Private vehicle accessways shall be loops rather than cul-de-sacs wherever possible.

B. The minimum curb to curb width for private vehicular accessways shall be 24 feet. Where right angle parking occurs off the accessway, a minimum stall length of 24 feet shall be provided.

C. Minimum curb face or edge of pavement radius shall be 25 feet for residential condominiums and 35 feet for condominiums other than residential except for "turn around" facilities, where larger radii may be required.

Not dedicated for public use or maintained by the City of San Rafael."

L. Backfill of all trenches in private vehicular accessway areas shall meet City public street standards for trench backfill. All work done within private vehicular accessways by a utility company shall be inspected by the responsible utility company to a point six inches over the top of their facility. All other work in the private vehicle accessway shall be inspected by the Public Works Department.

15.50.080 EASEMENTS. A public utility easement (P.U.E.) shall be established over the entire private vehicle accessway. B. All developments proposed for conversion to condominiums shall be subject to preconversion and postconversion inspections by the City of all physical improvements. The findings of the preconversion inspection shall be written into a report to the Planning Commission. The report shall evaluate and compare the condition of the physical improvements to the requirements of all current codes and ordinances. Physical improvements to be inspected shall include but not be limited to the following: foundations, walls, ceilings, roofs, electrical systems, domestic and fire prevention water systems, sanitary sewer systems, storm drainage systems, vehicular accessways, public utilities, landscaping and irrigation systems, and the condition of all exterior building materials. Deputies Seek Exhibit Thieves

Thieves broke into the exhibition hall, pried open a chicken wire cage, and chopped off and stole two well nurtured five-foot marijuana plants last weekend.

Under Sheriff Dave Wingfield said "it's fair to say" the same exhibit would not be shown next year.

Bar To Vote On Nixon Immunity

HONOLULU (UPI) — Top American Bar Association officials late yesterday waived parliamentary rules, insuring a vote on a resolution putting the 185,000-member body on record as to whether former President Richard Nixon should have legal immunity.

Outgoing ABA head Chesterfield Smith said the move by the rules committee insured a vote on the measure tomorrow by the ABA House of Delegates. The house is the national organization's ultimate policy-making body.

Observers predicted the measure opposing immunity would pass after bitter debate.

Committee To Vote On No-Fault

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — No-fault autombile insurance, a controversial proposition affecting millions of motorists, will be lifted from legislative limbo and put to a do-or-die committee vote next week, a key lawmaker said today.

After 9 months, Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, said the no-fault vote will come Aug. 20.

That is the last scheduled hearing of the committee before adjournment of the Legislature Aug. 31, and the final chance for the most widely supported no-fault bill in the Capitol, a measure (AB50) by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello.

Since the session began in 1973, the committee has heard and rejected other no-fault proposals, but taken no action on Fenton's bill because of a lack of votes for approval.

Song gave no indication of any shift in committee support, but told newsmen, "We can't let it die like this."

Under the no-fault concept, a motorist is reimbursed for costs and damages by his own insurance company regardless of who is at fault in an accident.

Fenton's bill limits the cases where a person can go to court and sue for higher damages in accidents, and would guarantee a reduction in insurance premiums for the 13 million licensed California drivers.

Comedian Ordered To Appear In Court

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Comedian Paul Lynde of the television program "Hollywood Squares" was summoned to appear in suburban Perrysburg Municpal court today on a charge of public intoxication.

FAMILY FARE TO STRIPPERS

Japanese View TV Contrast

TOKYO (UPI) — Now that summer vacations are here, Japanese parents have difficulty getting children to bed before the racy late-night television programs come on.

That's when three channels usually turn blue.

Bare-breasted women dressed as Indians and cowgirls prance around the stage doing square dances. On a typical night recently, one channel featured a kind of erotic ballet performed by a man and woman dressed in brief g-strings.

Earlier in the evening, an innocent young songstress, dressed in white knee socks and a short dress with a little white collar, sang about first love.

On one of the most popular late night shows, guests drink whisky, tell off-color stories and watch excerpts from pornographic films which they later discuss. The talk is interspersed with strip tease performances and gambling games.

Another channel showed a film of a man caressing a model attired in a black slip, followed by a discussion about the sexiness of black slips.

On a third channel, a man interviewed a woman in a topless bathing suit (held up by suspenders). When the interview was over everyone called out "show time!" and a stripper dressed in silver danced slowly out of her clothes.

These risque programs generally include one or two well-endowed women as set decorations. They sit around giggling at the offcolor stories, much like the hostesses in Tokyo's bars and night clubs.

These shows are a far cry from dinnertime TV.

Early evening viewers prefer Agnes Chan, 18, a student and pop music idol from Hong Kong who dresses as a 12-year-old and sings in a quivering childish voice while brushing tears from her cheek with one finger.

Also popular are the "Finge Five," four brothers and a sister ranging in age from eight to mid-teens who dress alike and sing Japanese rock tunes.

The child cult reaches absurd proportions in the family song contest shows. Here, celebrities bring their entire broods to "compete" with the families o other celebrities. More often than not, the cutest three-year old with the highest voice carries his family to victory.

Sinatra Is Ordered To Give Deposition

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frank Sinatra has been ordered to answer questions at a deposition hearing later this month in a $5 million damage suit filed against the singer by a Salt Lake businessman.

U.S. District Court Judge Manuel Real told Sinatra's attorney at a hearing Monday that the singer would have to answer questions concerning his drinking the night the businessman claims he was beaten up in a Palm Springs cocktail lounge and dining room.

Frank J. Weinstock claimed in his suit against Sinatra that the singer, restauranteur Billy Rizzo and Jerry Arvenitas assaulted him in the Trinidad Hotel May 5, 1973.

Weinstock said that when his wife went to the ladies room he was asked to leave. He said he refused to do so and went to the men's room where he was allegedly beaten.

Rizzo, Arvenitas and the hotel also were named in the suit.

The deposition hearing will be held at Lake Tahoe on Aug. 24, according to Weinstock's attorney, Marvin E. Lewis.

Two Palm Springs police officers were scheduled to give depositions yesterday in Palm Springs and other depositions will be taken before the trial begins Sept. 10.

Tiburon Street Group Is Named

The Tiburon City Council has appointed a committee to work with city engineer Stanley M. Bala on possible improvements on Tiburon Boulevard between Stewart Drive and the downtown area, according to City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert.

The committee, picked Monday, will include planning commissioners Alvin R. Kuhn and William M. Lukens; parks and recreation commissioner Peter Hoyt Berg; board of design review member James Wilson, councilman E. Bruce Ross, and planning director Robert E. Fosnot.

Kleinert said the committee will not discuss widening of the road but will consider items like improving shoulders, building stacking lanes at intersections and changing lane sizes.

Rhode Islanders Back Rockefeller

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller emerges as the top choice among Rhode Island Republicans as the man they want to see President Ford select as his vice president.

GOP State Chairman Thomas E. Wright believes Rockefeller is the best choice among the available party members who have national status.

Wright said yesterday he mailed a list of three picks to the White House. "In fact I just put them in the mail today," he said.

Changing Scene In Baseball Scouting

Who would watch a 10 a.m. college baseball game in Salt Lake City, follow one of the players to a 5 p.m. softball game, then hop a plane to San Francisco in time to see most of an 8 p.m. high school game at Albert Field in San Rafael?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

Professional baseball begins with the scout. As a group, no one is more dedicated to the game. Their salaries are not large. Their work hours are irregular. Their travel schedule is unbelievable. Many times, their meals consist of only that which happens to be available at a ballpark. And yet they endure all of this simply to remain an importnat part of the game they love.

Who would wake up to a rainy day in California, phone for a weather report in Boise then hop a plane to Idaho just to see a game?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

Prior to 1965, scouting was a wild, exciting business. In the years prior to 1965, any team was able to sign any amateur player provided he had graduated from high school. The scout had to literally wine and dine a young prospect, his family and girl friend as well. A young man, who was deemed worthy of a bonus, might receive offers from every team in baseball. These offers would many times be followed by counter offers. When it got down to signing a player, it was the scout making the best impression who got his man. In 1965, the free agent draft eliminated all this. Only one team is able to negotiate with a player. Scouting became very inpersonal.

Who would drive to Santa Rosa for a noon game, have it postponed by wet grounds, then drive to Woodland, watch three games, wake up the next morning in Woodland, drive to Fairfield for a 10 a.m. game and then be in Santa Cruz that afternoon for a 2 p.m. doubleheader?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

In what has been termed an economy move, professional baseball last week adopted a new centralized scouting system. Seventeen of the 24 major league teams are involved. The Giants are not involved but Oakland is. Each of the 17 teams is allowed to keep up to four of its present scouting staff. The rest of its scouts are let go (fired). Some of theee men will be picked up by the centralized scouting system. In the new system, there will be 40 full-time scouts and 30 part-time men throughout the country. They will make reports to a central office. The reports will be passed on to each of the 17 teams in the system. No longer will the scout have a tie with an individual team. The older men will not be retained. Most of the present part-time help and many of the full-time men have already been released effective either immediately or at the end of their contracts. Some of these men have spent over 20 years with the same club. In many cases there are no pensions or retirement benefits of any kind.

What are they supposed to do with the rest of their lives?

Marin Stars 'Ready Now' For Sonoma

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Two-a-day practices in the dead summer heat at Novato High School have paid off for the Marin County all-star football team as it prepares for the first Marin-Sonoma All-Sar Bowl.

"We're in tremendous condition, and the kids are really pulling together spiritually," says assistant coach Don Lucas of Terra Linda. "As a club, we're ready to play now."

That doesn't mean, however, that you'll see the 27 stars from Marin's eight high schools standing around from now until Saturday night at 8 o'clock, when they will confront their counterparts from 10 Sonoma County schools at San Rafael High. Under the direction of head coach Al Scott of Novato, with Lucas and Redwood's Phil Roark assisting, the Marin squad continues to work, with players going both ways in practice.

"We've been practicing our kids both ways because we had to have depth," says Lucas. "Plus the fact we've been better able to see what these kids do."

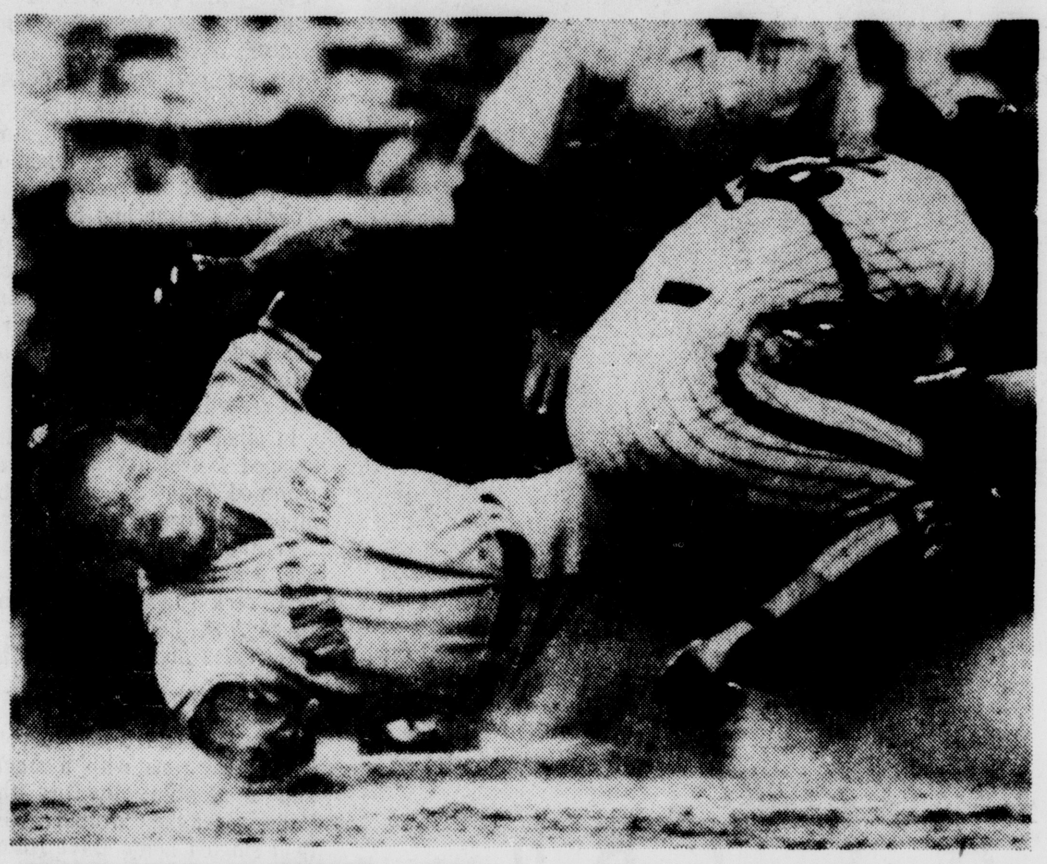
Last Saturday, Marin held its first live scrimmage, and, according to Lucas, moved the ball well on the ground. "The running of Fred Adams of Tamalpais and Steve D'Ambra of San Rafael was very encouraging. Richter (Mark, of Redwood), was sick, but we know what he can do." Richter was the third leading rusher last year in the Marin County Athletic League.

Marin will have to establish a strong running attack to offset a somewhat anemic passing game. Quarterback Kevin Kirby of Terra Linda can throw well enough, but a paucity of good receivers will render him ineffective except for short passes.

Sonoma, on the other hand, has a potentially explosive aerial game, with three receivers who run 40 yards in 4.6 seconds. But Lucas has confidence in Marin's defensive backfield, which will consist of Richter, Bob Gelardi of Terra Linda, Rick Herbert of Drake and Dave Brazell of Novato. "They're going to have a tough time throwing against us," says Lucas. "Kirby's having a tough time throwing against us."

Lucas doesn't think the special rules for the game, prohibiting blitzing and forcing both teams to stick to one defense, will be advantageous to one team or the other. "The rules make it simpler to prepare your offense, but I don't think they'll favor either team," he says.

As to the fact that Sonoma's people are on the average bigger than Marin's, and some of them are faster, Lucas waxes philosophically. "As long as the big people aren't fast, we'll be okay."



FIRST ONE'S HARDEST — Bobby Bonds of the Giants collided with Phillies' catcher Larry Cox and scored the first run of the game last night in the first inning at Philadelphia. Bonds came home on a fielder's choice by Tito Fuentes. The Phillies recovered to win the game, 6-5.

Fast Marin Times In Junior Olympics

LINCOLN, Neb. — Posting times which qualified them for the National Long Course championships next week in Concord, Susan Barnard of Mill Valley and Scott Hislop of San Rafael starred for their Marin County clubs in the Junior Olympics swimming competition that ended here Monday.

Both Miss Barnard, of the Tamalpais Swim Club, and Hislop, of the Marin Aquatic Club, turned in their qualifying performances in the 200 yard individual medley. Miss Barnard swam the women's version in 2:32.94, good for eight place and well below the 2:33.8 qualifying time.

Hislop posted his best ever time, 2:17.1 to win the men's consolation. Qualifying time was 2:17.8. He also finished third in the consolation final of the 200 freestyle with at 2:00.98 and contributed to a 400 medley relay effort that earned the MAC 10th place overall.

Two other MAC swimmers turned in stellar performances. Tammy Segondo turned in her best time to finish eighth in the consolation final of the women's 200 breaststroke with a 2:55.9. And Mike Keck, although not a finalist, set a Pacific Association AAU record in the boys' 13-14 200 I.M. with a 2:19.1.

Seals Name McCreary As General Manager

On Tuesday, the Seals named 39-year-old Bill McCreary to succeed Garry Young as Director of Hockey Operations. His appointment came on the heels of the naming of Marshall Johnston as coach succeeding Fred Glover.

Despite his age, McCreary brings wide experience to his new post. He's been a player of quality in the National Hockey League with four teams, served as minor league coach and assistant general manager, and coached both St. Louis and Vancouver on the major league level.

"Bill without question was my No. 1 choice," said Campbell. "He'll go to work immediately and Young has consented to help him get started. We think we got the best man possible to run our club."

The Seals were purchased by the NHL from Charlie Finley last season and are being operated out of a pool of assessments from each team in the league.

Yachts Practice For America's Cup

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI) — Intrepid, the yacht to beat, and three other America's Cup hopefuls sailed round and round a short course in the Atlantic Tuesday, giving their crews a rigorous workout in sail handling.

Intrepid, winner of the cup in 1967 and 1970, sailed at least 25 times around the three-mile course. She was joined by U. S. rivals Mariner and Valiant and French entry France, owned by ballpoint pen maker Baron Marcel Bich.

FAIRNESS URGED

Owners Warned By Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A dozen congressmen have warned National Football League owners to reach a fair agreement with the players' union or face a complete review of football's antitrust exemptions.

The congressmen, in a letter to John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, also warned the owners against trying to break the players' union.

In their letter, the congressmen said, "We are today calling on both the owners and the players, but ... particularly the owners ... to sit down again Thursday and this time reach a fair compromise agreement.

"If they do not or if the union is significantly injured, we want it known that we will undertake a complete review of the National Football League's antitrust status, and if the facts warrant, introduce appropriate legislation."

Signers of the letter included Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee which deals with restraints of trade, who said several bills are pending which would affect the NFL's antitrust exemptions.

Others signing the letter were Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., Parren V. Mitchell, D-Md., George E. Brown Jr., D-Calif., Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., Walter E. Fauntroy, D-D.C., Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., John Conyers, Jr., D-Mich., Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich., Joe Moakley, D-Mass., and James C. Corman, D-Calif.

The players' decision to suspend their strike and go to training camps for a 14-day cooling-off period was "in the best interests of the NFL and the millions of football fans in the United States," the congressmen said in their letter. "We await a comparable move by the owners demonstrating their good faith in seeking a fair agreement with the players."

In New York, a spokesman for the Management Council said it had not received the letter but added, "We know the record of the negotiations will show that we have bargained in good faith and we would invite Congressman Moss or anyone else to examine it."

The letter added, "While most of the evidence of inadequate bargaining points to the owners as the reticent party, the players are not wholly without responsibility."

The congressmen also warned against the owners trying to break the union even though they "might have the financial muscle to do it."

"That is where the Congress comes in," they added. "One reason why the owners have the financial muscle to refuse to bargain or to damage the players' union is because of the special treatment they have received from Congress."

Giants Bow To Schmidt And Phils

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Third baseman Mike Schmidt said he has found the simple secret to Philadelphia's success this season: "If I hit, we win."

Schmidt proved his point again Tuesday night, pounding two homers and a triple and driving in three runs to lead the Phillies to a 6-5 win over the San Francisco Giants.

Schmidt's display of power moved him into the league lead in RBIs with 91 and tied him with Los Angeles' Jim Wynn for the home run lead with 27. But after the game, he refused to discuss statistics.

"I'll check the figures in October after we win the pennant," Schmidt said. "I mean it. I'm really concerned with winning. If I hit, we win, and everything else will take care of itself.

Schmidt had a two-run homer off Jim Barr in the first inning, then connected again off Barr with none on in the third to help the Phils to a 4-1 lead.

The Phils staked starter Dick Ruthven to a 6-1 lead after four innings but the young right-hander couldn't get through the sixth inning. The Giants drew to within two runs in the fifth when Dave Kingman tripled following consecutive singles by Tito Fuentes, Gary Matthews and Chris Speier.

Olympian Hopes For Comeback

MONTREAL (UPI) — Olympic gold medallist Niels Fredborg hopes the road to recovery ends for him on the winner's podium today, the opening day of the 1974 World Cycling Championships.

The 27-year old captain of Denmark's cycling team, Fredborg is trying to make a comeback at this year's championships after being sidelined for the latter part of 1973 with severe head injuries.

Holtzman Sharp For A's But North Steals Show

The fleet Oakland A's' centerfielder opened Tuesday night's game, which wound up in a 6-1 victory over the New York Yankees, by saving pitcher Ken Holtzman with a great catch and he ended it by driving in one insurance run in the seventh and scoring another.

In between, North almost became involved in a fight with Yankee catcher Thurman Munson, whom he personally humiliated with his base running, but nothing became of their exchange.

George Medich, trying to snap a personal three-game losing streak, had the A's shut out on one hit when North opened the sixth inning by beating out a bunt. He then stole second and when Munson threw wildly into center, North continued to third.

With Sal Bando at bat, Munson tried to pick North off third and again threw wild. North picked himself out of the dirt at third and scored. Munson tried to block the plate even though third baseman Graig Nettles never made a throw. North didn't like it and had words with Munson.

"He had the plate blocked on the outside and I came in on the inside," North explained. "He had no right to block me out since he didn't have the ball and after I went by him, he kicked me. That's what got me upset."

There is no Munson version of the play since he hid from newsmen in the New York dressing room after the game. It's probably just as well because Munson later made a third error and now has 19.

A's' Manager Alvin Dark said he thought Munson made a mistake in blocking off North but that he didn't believe Munson did it on purpose.

"He's too high class a guy to do that," said Dark. "In my opinion, if the same play occured again he wouldn't do what he did. A catcher's job is to block the plate but when he didn't have the ball he should have let the runner come on. Certainly, North isn't to blame for anything. It's really an unfortunate incident."

Deputies Seek Exhibit Thieves

Thieves broke into the exhibition hall, pried open a chicken wire cage, and chopped off and stole two well nurtured five-foot marijuana plants last weekend.

Under Sheriff Dave Wingfield said "it's fair to say" the same exhibit would not be shown next year.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Pros, Cons Of Licensing Boaters

How to educate the boat operator is the big challenge facing all boating and water safety groups across the nation. All the legislators and safety people involved in boating are unanimous on at least one question: "How do we impart a great mass of knowledge and know-how quickly to several million boatmen?"

Some lean to compulsion. They would force boaters to learn rules and regulations. Then make them pass a test and be licensed before they are permitted to drive a boat. All much like the present system used for licensing automobile drivers.

This group says that there are so few rules and regulations and restrictions on boating . . . there's so little to learn anyway . . . that almost everybody could get a license if they were old enough.

Another, more progressive group rejoices in the fact that there are so few restrictions — and wants to keep it that way. This group deplores the formation of a new bureaucracy, points to the fantastic cost to the taxpayer of testing and licensing boat drivers and the cost of policing the system.

This faction claims that a knowledgeable, educated boating fraternity, voluntarily embracing the precepts of water safety is much better than any licensing, or system of compulsion.

At the present time it's gratifying to find that most of our legislators feel this way too.

A nationwide organization dedicated to teaching boating know-how is United States Power Squadrons. It's 400 local units hold boat piloting classes during the fall and winter all across the continent. Every person who owns a boat should take a Power Squadron course. It's free, fascinating and extremely worthwhile.

Many squadrons are now registering students for the fall classes. Some have already begun the registration and are filled up . . . but there will be more classes early next year.

Most local squadrons announce commencement of classes in their area newspaper. If you missed yours, find the name of the Power Squadron contact man from a yacht club, boating group or a marine dealer. One of them will know him.

Or write to the national headquarters at 50 Craig Road, P.O. Box 345, Montvale, New Jersey 07645. Ask for the name of the training officer of the squadron closest to your home.

The vast uncertainty in this field of boating know-how is shown by some of the questions I've been asked this summer:

Q. Must a man who rents out a boat, supply life jackets along with it?

A. Some state boating laws insist that he must . . . Florida, for example. Other states don't mention it. But even if the law doesn't care who supplies them, there must be one aboard for each passenger.

Q. How close can you come to a boat you are overtaking in a river?

A. There's really nothing stated in any law I've seen. But remember, there's more to passing a boat than not hitting it. After you've passed there's your wake to consider. If it should cause the overtaken boat any harm or damage, every law says you're a dead duck.

Q. Why do some boaters, when they are approaching you always wait until the last second before signifying what they are going to do?

A. It saddens me to see the same aggressive disregard of the other fellow so common on the highway being transferred to the waterway. Boating used to be a gentleman's game. I don't think there is an answer to this question.

Q. They tell me there's a rule you must follow when you turn a boat. What is it?

A. There's no "rule." I think you are referring to the fact that a boat does not turn like a car. A boat turns by swinging its stern and pointing its bow in an new direction, whereas a car turns by swinging its front end. This makes no difference until you drive away from a dock. Then the stern might swing and hit the dock.

Q. Does a seaplane have the right of way over boats?

A. You might find some seaplane landing areas from which boats are banned by a local ordinance, but this is rare. Under international rules, seaplanes or flying boats are ordered to keep out of the way of vessels. But generally speaking, when a seaplane is taxi-ing on water it is classed as a boat and has the same privileges.

Gaters Lose, Still Seek Playoffs

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden Gaters, who need only one win to cinch a World Team Tennis playoff spot, failed to get it Tuesday as Baltimore took the 26-22 win.

Key wins for the Banners were Bob Carmichael's 6-3 win over favored Dick Bohrnstedt in men's singles and a 6-2 surprise in women's doubles by Betty Stove and Joyce Hume over Lesley Hunt and Ilana Kloss.

In other matches, Miss Hunt downed Kathy Kuykendall 7-5 in women's singles and Carmichael and Jay Mukerjea edged Bohrnstedt and Frew McMillen 6-4 in men's singles.

Baltimore had the match iced by the time the mixed doubles came along so the 6-3 win by Whitney Reed and Miss Kloss over Miss Stove and Don Candi means little.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Palmer's Only Interest These Days Is Winning

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Jim Palmer's values have changed and he's only interested in one thing now — but if he helps the Baltimore Orioles in the process, that's fine too.

Palmer, the pitcher with the best-won lost percentage in the majors over the past four seasons but hampered by arm trouble this season, pitched strong six-hit ball for six innings Tuesday night to help lift Baltimore to a 8-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox and end a four-game Oriole tailspin.

Palmer, last year's Cy Young winner, boasts a mark of 83-38 over the past four campaigns but only a 4-8 mark this year and he made his first start since June 16. He was taken off the disabled list just prior to Tuesday's game and has taken medication, undergone heat treatment, done everything possible to get back into winning form and the result has been a changed attitude which he attributes to his surprising won-lost record.

In other games, Kansas City stopped Detroit 6-2, Milwaukee trimmed Texas 5-1 and Boston nipped California 3-0.

In the National League, it was Pittsburgh 14 Cincinnati 3, New York 3 Los Angeles 0, San Diego 2 St. Louis 1, Atlanta 4 Montreal 3 and Houston 3 Chicago 1.

Padres 2 Cardinals 1

Dave Winfield drove in both San Diego runs with a single and a double, leading the Padres over the Cardinals. Winfield singled home Dave Hilton in the first and doubled him home in the fifth in handing Sonny Siebert his seventh setback.

Brewers 5, Rangers 1

John Briggs' two-run single sparked a four-run Brewer eighth inning but the game was interrupted by a near-brawl that emptied both benches.

After Milwaukee had moved in front with its big eighth inning, Brewer shortstop Tim Johnson was injured in the bottom half of the inning when Mike Hargrove slid into him at second base. While a trainer was administering to Johnson, Ranger third base coach Frank Lucchesi, apparently incensed by comments from the Milwaukee bench, walked toward the dugout and immediately became involved in a shoving match with Brewer outfielder Ken Berry.

Red Sox 3, Angels 0

Free-wheeling Luis Tiant picked up his 18th win in 26 decisions with a four-hit shutout to tie Chicago's Wilbur Wood for the major league lead in wins. The triumph gave the AL East-leading Red Sox a four-game lead over idle Cleveland.

Royals 6, Tigers 2

Amos Otis ran his hitting streak to 16 games and drove in two runs with sacrifice flies and Steve Mingori continued his perfect relief pitching in the Royals' victory over Detroit. Mingori took over with one out in the eighth inning and shut out the Tigers the rest of the way to make it 25 1-3 consecutive innings in which he has not allowed an earned run.

Mets 3 Dodgers 0

Jon Matlack pitched a four-hitter for his fifth shutout — tops in the NL — and Jerry Grote hit a two-run homer for the Mets. Matlack struck out eight and walked one in raising his record to 11-9. Al Downing yielded all the Mets' runs in 5 1-3 innings and lost his sixth game.

Braves 4 Expos 3

Dusty Baker drove in two runs with a homer and a single as the Braves stretched their winning streak to five games. Ron Reed went 8 2-3 innings for his eighth victory with ninth-inning relief help from Phil Niekro.

Astros 3 Cubs 1

Cesar Cedeno tripled for his third hit of the game opening the ninth and scored the first two runs in the inning on Milt May's single to give Dave Roberts his seventh win for the Astros. Bill Bonham suffered his 15th loss against 10 victories for the Cubs.

Pirates 14, Reds 3

Richie Zisk went 4-for-6 with three RBIs, and Al Oliver knocked in five with a homer, two singles and a sacrifice fly as Pittsburgh routed Cincinnati, 14-3. It was the 10th straight game in which Zisk has driven in at least one run, leaving him one short of the NL record set by hall of famer Mel Ott in 1929.

Quakes In Dallas For First Playoff

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

DALLAS — The San Jose Earthquakes open North American Soccer League playoff action tonight against Dallas in quarterfinal competition.

San Jose and Dallas ended the regular season with identical 9-8-3 records although the Quakes were second to Los Angeles in the Western Division while Dallas won the Central Division.

Top NASL scorer Paul Child of San Jose was named to the league's all-star team yesterday.

Football

GREEN BAY, Wis. — The Green Bay Packers yesterday acquired all-pro linebacker Ted Hendricks but the price was high and the long term benefits doubtful.

Hendricks, a 6-foot-7, 220-pounder who carries the nickname "Mad Stork" because of his frame, came to Green Bay as part of a deal that saw second-year star Tom MacLeod, the Packers' rookie of the year in 1973, go to the Baltimore Colts.

As a part of the deal, the Packers will get Baltimore's No. 2 pick in the 1975 draft and the Colts will get Green Bay's eighth-round choice.

Golf

HARRISON, N.Y. — U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin accepted an invitation yesterday to play in the eighth annual $250,000 Westchester Classic at the Westchester Country Club.

Irwins joins defending champion Bobby Nichols, two-time winner Jack Nicklaus, British Open and Masters champion Gary Player and Sam Snead, among others, for the Aug. 22-25 benefit golf tournament.

Baseball

DETROIT — Detroit outfielder Willie Horton, who was injured in May when he ran into the Tiger Stadium outfield wall, underwent surgery yesterday for repair of damaged cartilage in his right knee.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The Pittsburgh Pirates are sending pitcher Steve Blass to an eye specialist in California in an effort to determine if eye problems were the cause of his pitching misfortunes.

The former star right-hander will undergo a special visual program and rejoin his former teammates in San Diego later this month in a nonroster capacity to work with pitching coach Don Osborn.

In order to undergo the program, Blass was placed on a temporary inactive list by the Charleston Charlies, the Pirates' International League farm club.

Tennis

APTOS, Calif. — With seeded players sitting out the action, Myron Ramos of San Francisco in Men's 60 and Stan Maloney of Sacramento in Men's 65 stood out in first-round play in the National Senior Hardcourt tennis championships.

Ramos downed Jim Dummond of Aptos 6-4, 6-3 at the Seascape Racquet Club. Maloney dispatched Rogen Holzkamp of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-1.

Wilhelm Productive In Minor Leagues

For Jim Wilhelm of Kentfield, who plays minor league baseball, "That was the week that was."

Wilhelm, one of seven former Marin County stars now in the minors, brought his season average close to .300. He hit at a torrid .371 pace last week for Walla Walla of the Northwest A League, according to statistics compiled by Player Periscope of Novato.

In 35 at bats, Wilhelm collected 13 hits, including two home runs, two doubles and a triple. He scored 10 runs and knocked in six. His season average stands at .297.

Other Marinites saw limited action and performed poorly. Clifford Hall of Marin City, with a season average of .273, Rob Long of Corte Madera (.220) and Tom Olson of Kentfield (.183) failed to get a hit with their respective teams, and Tom Thomas of Novato, Marin's only triple AAA player, went just one for 14 with Charleston of the International League. He's hitting .206 for the season.

Pitcher Dewey Forry of Terra Linda ran his record to 3-5 with a win and a loss for Waterbury of the Class AA Eastern League. Forry, a reliever, received the decisions for only four innings work.

Russ Dillon of Novato absorbed his second loss in a row for Eugene of the Northwest League. The fastballing left-hander has a season record of 8-2, and an earned run average of 2.71.

Casper Comes Home

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Billy Casper comes "home" to Wethersfield trying to forget a poor showing at the PGA and pick up his first tour victory on what must be his favorite golf course.

It won't be easy though, since smiling Lee Trevino will also be on hand to turn on the crowds and add to his sack full of $45,000 in PGA first prize earnings.

Both will tune up today in a pro-am prelude to Thursday's opening round of the $200,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open at the 6,583-yard, par 71 Wethersfield Country Club course.

Casper will tee off with Davis, who lent his name to the charitable Jaycees sponsorship last year in efforts to rate the tournament among the major tour stops. Only six other tournaments pay more than the $40,000 first prize here.

Other celebrities on hand are: Glenn Campbell, Sandy Koufax, Willie Mays, Don Newcombe and actor Gregg Morris.

The tournament, usually held on the Labor Day weekend, drew record crowds last year and was pushed up this year. The final two rounds on Saturday and Sunday will be nationally televised by CBS.

Casper, a San Diego, Calif., native, has won four times at Wethersfield and he could use an unprecedent fifth win to overcome his poor showing in the PGA where he shot a 297 to place in the bottom 10 at Clemmens, N.C.

Casper, without a tournament win this year, could almost double his $42,559 earned so far with a victory on the familiar course where a year ago he scored 264 for 20 under par, edging Bruce Devlin of Australia by one stroke with a 17th hole birdie.

ON BASEBALL

By GARY HUGHES

Changing Scene In Baseball Scouting

Who would watch a 10 a.m. college baseball game in Salt Lake City, follow one of the players to a 5 p.m. softball game, then hop a plane to San Francisco in time to see most of an 8 p.m. high school game at Albert Field in San Rafael?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

Professional baseball begins with the scout. As a group, no one is more dedicated to the game. Their salaries are not large. Their work hours are irregular. Their travel schedule is unbelievable. Many times, their meals consist of only that which happens to be available at a ballpark. And yet they endure all of this simply to remain an importnat part of the game they love.

Who would wake up to a rainy day in California, phone for a weather report in Boise then hop a plane to Idaho just to see a game?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

Prior to 1965, scouting was a wild, exciting business. In the years prior to 1965, any team was able to sign any amateur player provided he had graduated from high school. The scout had to literally wine and dine a young prospect, his family and girl friend as well. A young man, who was deemed worthy of a bonus, might receive offers from every team in baseball. These offers would many times be followed by counter offers. When it got down to signing a player, it was the scout making the best impression who got his man. In 1965, the free agent draft eliminated all this. Only one team is able to negotiate with a player. Scouting became very inpersonal.

Who would drive to Santa Rosa for a noon game, have it postponed by wet grounds, then drive to Woodland, watch three games, wake up the next morning in Woodland, drive to Fairfield for a 10 a.m. game and then be in Santa Cruz that afternoon for a 2 p.m. doubleheader?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

In what has been termed an economy move, professional baseball last week adopted a new centralized scouting system. Seventeen of the 24 major league teams are involved. The Giants are not involved but Oakland is. Each of the 17 teams is allowed to keep up to four of its present scouting staff. The rest of its scouts are let go (fired). Some of theee men will be picked up by the centralized scouting system. In the new system, there will be 40 full-time scouts and 30 part-time men throughout the country. They will make reports to a central office. The reports will be passed on to each of the 17 teams in the system. No longer will the scout have a tie with an individual team. The older men will not be retained. Most of the present part-time help and many of the full-time men have already been released effective either immediately or at the end of their contracts. Some of these men have spent over 20 years with the same club. In many cases there are no pensions or retirement benefits of any kind.

What are they supposed to do with the rest of their lives?

Marin Stars 'Ready Now' For Sonoma

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Two-a-day practices in the dead summer heat at Novato High School have paid off for the Marin County all-star football team as it prepares for the first Marin-Sonoma All-Sar Bowl.

"We're in tremendous condition, and the kids are really pulling together spiritually," says assistant coach Don Lucas of Terra Linda. "As a club, we're ready to play now."

That doesn't mean, however, that you'll see the 27 stars from Marin's eight high schools standing around from now until Saturday night at 8 o'clock, when they will confront their counterparts from 10 Sonoma County schools at San Rafael High. Under the direction of head coach Al Scott of Novato, with Lucas and Redwood's Phil Roark assisting, the Marin squad continues to work, with players going both ways in practice.

"We've been practicing our kids both ways because we had to have depth," says Lucas. "Plus the fact we've been better able to see what these kids do."

Last Saturday, Marin held its first live scrimmage, and, according to Lucas, moved the ball well on the ground. "The running of Fred Adams of Tamalpais and Steve D'Ambra of San Rafael was very encouraging. Richter (Mark, of Redwood), was sick, but we know what he can do." Richter was the third leading rusher last year in the Marin County Athletic League.

Marin will have to establish a strong running attack to offset a somewhat anemic passing game. Quarterback Kevin Kirby of Terra Linda can throw well enough, but a paucity of good receivers will render him ineffective except for short passes.

Sonoma, on the other hand, has a potentially explosive aerial game, with three receivers who run 40 yards in 4.6 seconds. But Lucas has confidence in Marin's defensive backfield, which will consist of Richter, Bob Gelardi of Terra Linda, Rick Herbert of Drake and Dave Brazell of Novato. "They're going to have a tough time throwing against us," says Lucas. "Kirby's having a tough time throwing against us."

Lucas doesn't think the special rules for the game, prohibiting blitzing and forcing both teams to stick to one defense, will be advantageous to one team or the other. "The rules make it simpler to prepare your offense, but I don't think they'll favor either team," he says.

As to the fact that Sonoma's people are on the average bigger than Marin's, and some of them are faster, Lucas waxes philosophically. "As long as the big people aren't fast, we'll be okay."

FIRST ONE'S HARDEST — Bobby Bonds of the Giants collided with Phillies' catcher Larry Cox and scored the first run of the game last night in the first inning at Philadelphia. Bonds came home on a fielder's choice by Tito Fuentes. The Phillies recovered to win the game, 6-5.

FAIRNESS URGED

Owners Warned By Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A dozen congressmen have warned National Football League owners to reach a fair agreement with the players' union or face a complete review of football's antitrust exemptions.

The congressmen, in a letter to John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, also warned the owners against trying to break the players' union.

In their letter, the congressmen said, "We are today calling on both the owners and the players, but ... particularly the owners ... to sit down again Thursday and this time reach a fair compromise agreement.

"If they do not or if the union is significantly injured, we want it known that we will undertake a complete review of the National Football League's antitrust status, and if the facts warrant, introduce appropriate legislation."

Signers of the letter included Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee which deals with restraints of trade, who said several bills are pending which would affect the NFL's antitrust exemptions.

Others signing the letter were Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., Parren V. Mitchell, D-Md., George E. Brown Jr., D-Calif., Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., Walter E. Fauntroy, D-D.C., Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., John Conyers, Jr., D-Mich., Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich., Joe Moakley, D-Mass., and James C. Corman, D-Calif.

The players' decision to suspend their strike and go to training camps for a 14-day cooling-off period was "in the best interests of the NFL and the millions of football fans in the United States," the congressmen said in their letter. "We await a comparable move by the owners demonstrating their good faith in seeking a fair agreement with the players."

In New York, a spokesman for the Management Council said it had not received the letter but added, "We know the record of the negotiations will show that we have bargained in good faith and we would invite Congressman Moss or anyone else to examine it."

The letter added, "While most of the evidence of inadequate bargaining points to the owners as the reticent party, the players are not wholly without responsibility."

The congressmen also warned against the owners trying to break the union even though they "might have the financial muscle to do it."

"That is where the Congress comes in," they added. "One reason why the owners have the financial muscle to refuse to bargain or to damage the players' union is because of the special treatment they have received from Congress."

Giants Bow To Schmidt And Phils

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Third baseman Mike Schmidt said he has found the simple secret to Philadelphia's success this season: "If I hit, we win."

Schmidt proved his point again Tuesday night, pounding two homers and a triple and driving in three runs to lead the Phillies to a 6-5 win over the San Francisco Giants.

Schmidt's display of power moved him into the league lead in RBIs with 91 and tied him with Los Angeles' Jim Wynn for the home run lead with 27. But after the game, he refused to discuss statistics.

"I'll check the figures in October after we win the pennant," Schmidt said. "I mean it. I'm really concerned with winning. If I hit, we win, and everything else will take care of itself.

Schmidt had a two-run homer off Jim Barr in the first inning, then connected again off Barr with none on in the third to help the Phils to a 4-1 lead.

The Phils staked starter Dick Ruthven to a 6-1 lead after four innings but the young righthander couldn't get through the sixth inning. The Giants drew to within two runs in the fifth when Dave Kingman tripled following consecutive singles by Tito Fuentes, Gary Matthews and Chris Speier.

Holtzman Sharp For A's But North Steals Show

The fleet Oakland A's' centerfielder opened Tuesday night's game, which wound up in a 6-1 victory over the New York Yankees, by saving pitcher Ken Holtzman with a great catch and he ended it by driving in one insurance run in the seventh and scoring another.

In between, North almost became involved in a fight with Yankee catcher Thurman Munson, whom he personally humiliated with his base running, but nothing became of their exchange.

George Medich, trying to snap a personal three-game losing streak, had the A's shut out on one hit when North opened the sixth inning by beating out a bunt. He then stole second and when Munson threw wildly into center, North continued to third.

With Sal Bando at bat, Munson tried to pick North off third and again threw wild. North picked himself out of the dirt at third and scored. Munson tried to block the plate even though third baseman Graig Nettles never made a throw. North didn't like it and had words with Munson.

"He had the plate blocked on the outside and I came in on the inside," North explained. "He had no right to block me out since he didn't have the ball and after I went by him, he kicked me. That's what got me upset."

There is no Munson version of the play since he hid from newsmen in the New York dressing room after the game. It's probably just as well because Munson later made a third error and now has 19.

A's' Manager Alvin Dark said he thought Munson made a mistake in blocking off North but that he didn't believe Munson did it on purpose.

"He's too high class a guy to do that," said Dark. "In my opinion, if the same play occured again he wouldn't do what he did. A catcher's job is to block the plate but when he didn't have the ball he should have let the runner come on. Certainly, North isn't to blame for anything. It's really an unfortunate incident."

Holtzman limited the Yan-

Fast Marin Times In Junior Olympics

LINCOLN, Neb. — Posting times which qualified them for the National Long Course championships next week in Concord, Susan Barnard of Mill Valley and Scott Hislop of San Rafael starred for their Marin County clubs in the Junior Olympics swimming competition that ended here Monday.

Both Miss Barnard, of the Tamalpais Swim Club, and Hislop, of the Marin Aquatic Club, turned in their qualifying performances in the 200 yard individual medley. Miss Barnard swam the women's version in 2:32.94, good for eight place and well below the 2:33.8 qualifying time.

Hislop posted his best ever time, 2:17.1 to win the men's consolation. Qualifying time was 2:17.8. He also finished third in the consolation final of the 200 freestyle with at 2:00.98 and contributed to a 400 medley relay effort that earned the MAC 10th place overall.

Two other MAC swimmers turned in stellar performances. Tammy Segondo turned in her best time to finish eighth in the consolation final of the women's 200 breaststroke with a 2:55.9. And Mike Keck, although not a finalist, set a Pacific Association AAU record in the boys' 13-14 200 I.M. with a 2:19.1.

Seals Name McCreary As General Manager

On Tuesday, the Seals named 39-year-old Bill McCreary to succeed Garry Young as Director of Hockey Operations. His appointment came on the heels of the naming of Marshall Johnston as coach succeeding Fred Glover.

Despite his age, McCreary brings wide experience to his new post. He's been a player of quality in the National Hockey League with four teams, served as minor league coach and assistant general manager, and coached both St. Louis and Vancouver on the major league level.

"Bill without question was my No. 1 choice," said Campbell. "He'll go to work immediately and Young has consented to help him get started. We think we got the best man possible to run our club."

The Seals were purchased by the NHL from Charlie Finley last season and are being operated out of a pool of assessments from each team in the league.

Yachts Practice For America's Cup

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI) — Intrepid, the yacht to beat, and three other America's Cup hopefuls sailed round and round a short course in the Atlantic Tuesday, giving their crews a rigorous workout in sail handling.

Intrepid, winner of the cup in 1967 and 1970, sailed at least 25 times around the three-mile course. She was joined by U. S. rivals Mariner and Valiant and French entry France, owned by ballpoint pen maker Baron Marcel Bich.

Laura Cann To Seek Third Champs Tourney Golf Crown

(First in a series)

The only two-time winner of the Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions has been "vacationing on a golf course."

Laura Cann, who won in 1969 and 1970, said "I've been playing at Lake Tahoe and enjoying it. Now I'm practicing, preparing mentally to play in a tournament."

Mrs. Cann will be facing defending champion Tillie Gondak of Marin Country Club, Liz Cole of Peacock Gap, Terry Nichols of Mill Valley, Peg Williams of Indian Valley and Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo. The seventh annual event will be held Aug. 23 at 9 a.m. at Indian Valley.

Laura believes the hilly Indian Valley course will be suited for Mrs. Gapinski's game. "She hits a nice, straight ball."

In seeking her third title, Mrs. Cann will rely on her long hitting. "I hit the woods well." Presently, she is practicing intently for her fifth appearance. Mrs. Cann is a six handicapper.

She has won the Meadow Club title 16 straight years and has been playing golf for "about 20 years." But she is more than a golfer. Mrs. Cann is a fine bowler and tennis player.

Her husband John is an anesthesiologist at St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco. The couple has four children: Jacqueline, Bill, Jane and Robert.

Knievel Shown At Civic Center

Evel Knievel's Snake River jump will be presented via closed circuit television at the Marin County Civic Center auditorium Sept. 8.

In addition to the jump itself, in which Knievel will attempt to fly across the Snake River Canyon in Idaho on a jet-cycle, the two-hour show will include other stunt and daredevil acts. Show time is 1 p.m.

Tickets cost $10 and $7.50 at the Marin Box Office, Macy's in San Rafael, Holiday Box Office and Ticketron.

IN WFL

Birmingham Vs. Hawaii Tonight

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Birmingham Americans, the only undefeated team in the World Football League with a 5-0 record but not noted for their defense, may find the Hawaiians very offensive Wednesday night.

Former Ole Miss star Norris Weese, the league's third-ranked passer with 74 completions in 141 attempts for 950 yards and nine touchdowns, leads the 1-4 Hawaiians to Legion Field and Birmingham Coach Jack Gotta acknowledged that "Weese has proved to be one of the best.

"The fact that they are a passing team is not welcome news to us," said Gotta, whose Americans rank 10th on pass defense among the 12 league teams.

Birmingham has allowed 78 completions in 141 attempts, yielding 925 yards and 4 touchdowns in five games.

In fact, the Americans, who lead the league in total offense, are at the bottom in total defense. Statistics show that the club has allowed opposing clubs to gain 1,778 yards and score 13 touchdowns.

Gotta said his defense has the potential to be good, "but we weren't getting much from our front four." He is hopeful that two recent acquisitions, Larry Estes and Gary Champagne, will help the team.

In other World Football League meetings Wednesday, Portland is at New York, Memphis at Detroit, Philadelphia at Chicago and Jacksonville at Florida.

Unable to win in five attempts in the light, the Portland Storm (0-4-1) will have a go at it in the dark of New York's Downing Stadium.

The Stars (3-2) are trying to improve the lighting in the Randall's Island stadium, but efforts so far have been stymied and the two previous WFL games there have been played in a twilight zone aura.

At Detroit, the Wheels still are seeking their first victory of the season, going against the Memphis Southmen (3-2).

Three Vets Report To 49er Camp

GOLETA, Calif. (UPI) — Three San Francisco 49er veterans reported to training camp Tuesday.

They were defensive tackle Rolf Krueger, offensive lineman Jean Barrett and wide receiver Terry Beasley. Coach Dick Nolan said they might see action in Sunday's NFL tuneup against the Denver Broncos in San Francisco.

Nolan also instructed other veterans to report to St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco for their physical examinations on Thursday and report to camp Friday. He said they would not play in the Bronco game.

The 49ers also announced that in compliance with an NFL directive refunds would be issued by mail to season ticket holders for the Denver game.

Raiders' Brown: Settlement Soon

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) Willie Brown, the Oakland Raiders' player representative, predicts the 44-day suspended players strike soon will be history.

"We'll have an agreement soon," the veteran cornerback said Tuesday. "There are some things we've pretty much come to agreement on except for the signing of legal documents."

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Pros, Cons Of Licensing Boaters

How to educate the boat operator is the big challenge facing all boating and water safety groups across the nation. All the legislators and safety people involved in boating are unanimous on at least one question: "How do we impart a great mass of knowledge and know-how quickly to several million boatmen?"

Some lean to compulsion. They would force boaters to learn rules and regulations. Then make them pass a test and be licensed before they are permitted to drive a boat. All much like the present system used for licensing automobile drivers.

This group says that there are so few rules and regulations and restrictions on boating . . . there's so little to learn anyway . . . that almost everybody could get a license if they were old enough.

Another, more progressive group rejoices in the fact that there are so few restrictions — and wants to keep it that way. This group deplores the formation of a new bureaucracy, points to the fantastic cost to the taxpayer of testing and licensing boat drivers and the cost of policing the system.

This faction claims that a knowledgeable, educated boating fraternity, voluntarily embracing the precepts of water safety is much better than any licensing, or system of compulsion.

At the present time it's gratifying to find that most of our legislators feel this way too.

A nationwide organization dedicated to teaching boating know-how is United States Power Squadrons. It's 400 local units hold boat piloting classes during the fall and winter all across the continent. Every person who owns a boat should take a Power Squadron course. It's free, fascinating and extremely worthwhile.

Many squadrons are now registering students for the fall classes. Some have already begun the registration and are filled up . . . but there will be more classes early next year.

Most local squadrons announce commencement of classes in their area newspaper. If you missed yours, find the name of the Power Squadron contact man from a yacht club, boating group or a marine dealer. One of them will know him.

Or write to the national headquarters at 50 Craig Road, P.O. Box 345, Montvale, New Jersey 07645. Ask for the name of the training officer of the squadron closest to your home.

The vast uncertainty in this field of boating know-how is shown by some of the questions I've been asked this summer:

Q. Must a man who rents out a boat, supply life jackets along with it?

A. Some state boating laws insist that he must . . . Florida, for example. Other states don't mention it. But even if the law doesn't care who supplies them, there must be one aboard for each passenger.

Q. How close can you come to a boat you are overtaking in a river?

A. There's really nothing stated in any law I've seen. But remember, there's more to passing a boat than not hitting it. After you've passed there's your wake to consider. If it should cause the overtaken boat any harm or damage, every law says you're a dead duck.

Q. Why do some boaters, when they are approaching you always wait until the last second before signifying what they are going to do?

A. It saddens me to see the same aggressive disregard of the other fellow so common on the highway being transferred to the waterway. Boating used to be a gentleman's game. I don't think there is an answer to this question.

Q. They tell me there's a rule you must follow when you turn a boat. What is it?

A. There's no "rule." I think you are referring to the fact that a boat does not turn like a car. A boat turns by swinging its stern and pointing its bow in an new direction, whereas a car turns by swinging its front end. This makes no difference until you drive away from a dock. Then the stern might swing and hit the dock.

Q. Does a seaplane have the right of way over boats?

A. You might find some seaplane landing areas from which boats are banned by a local ordinance, but this is rare. Under international rules, seaplanes or flying boats are ordered to keep out of the way of vessels. But generally speaking, when a seaplane is taxi-ing on water it is classed as a boat and has the same privileges.

Gaters Lose, Still Seek Playoffs

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden Gaters, who need only one win to cinch a World Team Tennis playoff spot, failed to get it Tuesday as Baltimore took the 26-22 win.

Key wins for the Banners were Bob Carmichael's 6-3 win over favored Dick Bohrnstedt in men's singles and a 6-2 surprise in women's doubles by Betty Stove and Joyce Hume over Lesley Hunt and Ilana Kloss.

In other matches, Miss Hunt downed Kathy Kuykendall 7-5 in women's singles and Carmichael and Jay Mukerjea edged Bohrnstedt and Frew McMillen 6-4 in men's singles.

Baltimore had the match iced by the time the mixed doubles came along so the 6-3 win by Whitney Reed and Miss Kloss over Miss Stove and Don Candi means little.

The run North scored in the sixth tied the score and before the inning was over, the A's had a 3-1 lead. They added three more in the seventh to complete the scoring.

The victory kept the defending World Champions 6 ½ games ahead of Kansas City in the American League West.

Casper Comes Home

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Billy Casper comes "home" to Wethersfield trying to forget a poor showing at the PGA and pick up his first tour victory on what must be his favorite golf course.

It won't be easy though, since smiling Lee Trevino will also be on hand to turn on the crowds and add to his sack full of $45,000 in PGA first prize earnings.

Both will tune up today in a pro-am prelude to Thursday's opening round of the $200,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open at the 6,583-yard, par 71 Wethersfield Country Club course.

Casper will tee off with Davis, who lent his name to the charitable Jaycees sponsorship last year in efforts to rate the tournament among the major tour stops. Only six other tournaments pay more than the $40,000 first prize here.

Other celebrities on hand are: Glenn Campbell, Sandy Koufax, Willie Mays, Don Newcombe and actor Gregg Morris.

The tournament, usually held on the Labor Day weekend, drew record crowds last year and was pushed up this year. The final two rounds on Saturday and Sunday will be nationally televised by CBS.

Casper, a San Diego, Calif., native, has won four times at Wethersfield and he could use an unprecedent fifth win to overcome his poor showing in the PGA where he shot a 297 to place in the bottom 10 at Clemmens, N.C.

Casper, without a tournament win this year, could almost double his $42,559 earned so far with a victory on the familiar course where a year ago he scored 264 for 20 under par, edging Bruce Devlin of Australia by one stroke with a 17th hole birdie.

Quakes In Dallas For First Playoff

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

DALLAS — The San Jose Earthquakes open North American Soccer League playoff action tonight against Dallas in quarterfinal competition.

San Jose and Dallas ended the regular season with identical 9-8-3 records although the Quakes were second to Los Angeles in the Western Division while Dallas won the Central Division.

Top NASL scorer Paul Child of San Jose was named to the league's all-star team yesterday.

Football

GREEN BAY, Wis. — The Green Bay Packers yesterday acquired all-pro linebacker Ted Hendricks but the price was high and the long term benefits doubtful.

Hendricks, a 6-foot-7, 220-pounder who carries the nickname "Mad Stork" because of his frame, came to Green Bay as part of a deal that saw second-year star Tom MacLeod, the Packers' rookie of the year in 1973, go to the Baltimore Colts.

As a part of the deal, the Packers will get Baltimore's No. 2 pick in the 1975 draft and the Colts will get Green Bay's eighth-round choice.

Golf

HARRISON, N.Y. — U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin accepted an invitation yesterday to play in the eighth annual $250,000 Westchester Classic at the Westchester Country Club.

Irwins joins defending champion Bobby Nichols, two-time winner Jack Nicklaus, British Open and Masters champion Gary Player and Sam Snead, among others, for the Aug. 22-25 benefit golf tournament.

Baseball

DETROIT — Detroit outfielder Willie Horton, who was injured in May when he ran into the Tiger Stadium outfield wall, underwent surgery yesterday for repair of damaged cartilage in his right knee.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The Pittsburgh Pirates are sending pitcher Steve Blass to an eye specialist in California in an effort to determine if eye problems were the cause of his pitching misfortunes.

The former star right-hander will undergo a special visual program and rejoin his former teammates in San Diego later this month in a nonroster capacity to work with pitching coach Don Osborn.

In order to undergo the program, Blass was placed on a temporary inactive list by the Charleston Charlies, the Pirates' International League farm club.

Tennis

APTOS, Calif. — With seeded players sitting out the action, Myron Ramos of San Francisco in Men's 60 and Stan Maloney of Sacramento in Men's 65 stood out in first-round play in the National Senior Hardcourt tennis championships.

Ramos downed Jim Dummond of Aptos 6-4, 6-3 at the Seascape Racquet Club. Maloney dispatched Rogen Holzkamp of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-1.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Palmer's Only Interest These Days Is Winning

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Jim Palmer's values have changed and he's only interested in one thing now — but if he helps the Baltimore Orioles in the process, that's fine too.

Palmer, the pitcher with the best-won lost percentage in the majors over the past four seasons but hampered by arm trouble this season, pitched strong six-hit ball for six innings Tuesday night to help lift Baltimore to a 8-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox and end a four-game Oriole tailspin.

Palmer, last year's Cy Young winner, boasts a mark of 83-38 over the past four campaigns but only a 4-8 mark this year and he made his first start since June 16. He was taken off the disabled list just prior to Tuesday's game and has taken medication, undergone heat treatment, done everything possible to get back into winning form and the result has been a changed attitude which he attributes to his surprising won-lost record.

In other games, Kansas City stopped Detroit 6-2, Milwaukee trimmed Texas 5-1 and Boston nipped California 3-0.

In the National League, it was Pittsburgh 14 Cincinnati 3, New York 3 Los Angeles 0, San Diego 2 St. Louis 1, Atlanta 4 Montreal 3 and Houston 3 Chicago 1.

Padres 2 Cardinals 1

Dave Winfield drove in both San Diego runs with a single and a double, leading the Padres over the Cardinals. Winfield singled home Dave Hilton in the first and doubled him home in the fifth in handing Sonny Siebert his seventh setback.

Brewers 5, Rangers 1

John Briggs' two-run single sparked a four-run Brewer eighth inning but the game was interrupted by a near-brawl that emptied both benches.

After Milwaukee had moved in front with its big eighth inning, Brewer shortstop Tim Johnson was injured in the bottom half of the inning when Mike Hargrove slid into him at second base. While a trainer was administering to Johnson, Ranger third base coach Frank Lucchesi, apparently incensed by comments from the Milwaukee bench, walked toward the dugout and immediately became involved in a shoving match with Brewer outfielder Ken Berry.

Red Sox 3, Angels 0

Free-wheeling Luis Tiant picked up his 18th win in 26 decisions with a four-hit shutout to tie Chicago's Wilbur Wood for the major league lead in wins. The triumph gave the AL East-leading Red Sox a four-game lead over idle Cleveland.

Royals 6, Tigers 2

Amos Otis ran his hitting streak to 16 games and drove in two runs with sacrifice flies and Steve Mingori continued his perfect relief pitching in the Royals' victory over Detroit. Mingori took over with one out in the eighth inning and shut out the Tigers the rest of the way to make it 25 1-3 consecutive innings in which he has not allowed an earned run.

Mets 3 Dodgers 0

Jon Matlack pitched a four-hitter for his fifth shutout — tops in the NL — and Jerry Grote hit a two-run homer for the Mets. Matlack struck out eight and walked one in raising his record to 11-9. Al Downing yielded all the Mets' runs in 5 1-3 innings and lost his sixth game.

Braves 4 Expos 3

Dusty Baker drove in two runs with a homer and a single as the Braves stretched their winning streak to five games. Ron Reed went 8 2-3 innings for his eighth victory with ninth-inning relief help from Phil Niekro.

Astros 3 Cubs 1

Cesar Cedeno tripled for his third hit of the game opening the ninth and scored the first two runs in the inning on Milt May's single to give Dave Roberts his seventh win for the Astros. Bill Bonham suffered his 15th loss against 10 victories for the Cubs.

Pirates 14, Reds 3

Richie Zisk went 4-for-6 with three RBIs, and Al Oliver knocked in five with a homer, two singles and a sacrifice fly as Pittsburgh routed Cincinnati, 14-3. It was the 10th straight game in which Zisk has driven in at least one run, leaving him one short of the NL record set by hall of famer Mel Ott in 1929.

Wilhelm Productive In Minor Leagues

For Jim Wilhelm of Kentfield, who plays minor league baseball, "That was the week that was."

Wilhelm, one of seven former Marin County stars now in the minors, brought his season average close to .300. He hit at a torrid .371 pace last week for Walla Walla of the Northwest A League, according to statistics compiled by Player Periscope of Novato.

In 35 at bats, Wilhelm collected 13 hits, including two home runs, two doubles and a triple. He scored 10 runs and knocked in six. His season average stands at .297.

Other Marinites saw limited action and performed poorly. Clifford Hall of Marin City, with a season average of .273, Rob Long of Corte Madera (.220) and Tom Olson of Kentfield (.183) failed to get a hit with their respective teams, and Tom Thomas of Novato, Marin's only triple AAA player, went just one for 14 with Charleston of the International League. He's hitting .206 for the season.

Pitcher Dewey Forry of Terra Linda ran his record to 3-5 with a win and a loss for Waterbury of the Class AA Eastern League. Forry, a reliever, received the decisions for only four innings work.

Russ Dillon of Novato absorbed his second loss in a row for Eugene of the Northwest League. The fastballing lefthander has a season record of 8-2, and an earned run average of 2.71.

JAMES P. BUCKNER
San Anselman promoted

UPI Names Buckner To Higher Post

James P. Buckner, 45, of San Anselmo, who has been United Press International's Pacific Division business manager in San Francisco for the past six years, has won a promotion that will transfer him to UPI world headquarters in New York in October.

UPI President Rod Beaton announced in New York today that Buckner will be director of North American sales and will report to H.C. Thornton, vice president-marketing. Buckner succeeds Norman A. Cafarell, who was elevated to the post of administrative assistant to the president.

Buckner, his wife Pauline, and their two daughters have lived in San Anselmo since November 1963. A native of York, Pa., Buckner graduated from Allegheny College in Pennsylvania and did graduate work at Penn State University.

He joined UPI in 1957 at Los Angeles and later worked in the Reno, Nev. bureau. In 1968, he became Pacific Division business manager in San Francisco.

Robert E. Page, 38, recently appointed superintendent of bureau operations, was elected a vice president. Page joined UPI in 1960 and served in various executive posts both in the U.S. and abroad. He recently returned to New York after two years in Hong Kong as general manager for Asia.

Richard Shemonoski, 33, was appointed facilities manager. He recently joined UPI after serving as facilities and network manager for UPITN, the television news service.

Boys Picket Bank Over Lost Deposit

Danny Jones says the action was taken because the Bank of America branch in Hayward lost $285.16 in collection receipts that he put in the night depository on July 15.

Danny and another eighth grader, Brian Hernandez, says they were together when the deposit was made.

Bank manager Dwayne Ames said none of the missing checks has been cashed and he ordered a thorough search of the deposit chute and bank records.

To dramatize the loss, young Jones and several friends picketed the branch with signs reading, "Night Deposits Unsafe," and "Honk if You Agree."

A few motorists slowed down and beeped.

Cigarette Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, sponsor of a 1970 bill to stop cigarette advertising on television, has filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking to ban sale of cigarettes in interstate commerce.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 14, the 226th day of 1974 with 139 to follow.

The moon is between the last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

Naturalist Ernest Thompson Seton was born Aug. 14, 1860.

On this day in history:

In 1900, 2,000 American Marines helped capture Peking, China, to end the Boxer Rebellion.

In 1935, the Social Security Act was passed by Congress.

In 1945, President Harry Truman announced that Japan had accepted terms for unconditional surrender, ending World War II.

In 1972, an East German airliner crashed on takeoff from Berlin, killing 156 persons.

A thought for the day: British philospher Herbert Spencer said, "Volumes might be written upon the impiety of the pious."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

Give Your Opponents Credit, And Your Results Will Improve

Most of your opponents at the bridge table know more than enough to come in out of the rain. Give them credit for acting intelligently, and your own results will improve.

East won the first trick with the ace of clubs and thought for a moment. Then he shifted to the jack of diamonds.

South wondered whether or not to finesse with the queen of diamonds. A finesse would indicate a belief that East had shifted from one bad suit to another. It was more likely that an intelligent opponent would continue clubs if his diamonds were headed by king-jack.

South saw an excellent chance to make his contract by stepping up with the ace of diamonds. He then led the king of spades and continued the suit until East took the ace.

East now led the ten of diamonds, and South had the same problem. Should he put up the queen or play low?

Again, the safe decision was to play East not to have the king of diamonds. South therefore played low.

East led the eight of diamonds next, and this time South did put up the queen. West won with the king of diamonds but could not continue the suit. South could surely win four spades, three hearts, one diamond and one club, making his contract.

An early diamond finesse would cost South the game contract. West would win with the king of diamonds and return the suit. The defenders would thus get three diamond tricks and the two black aces.

DAILY QUESTION

Parnter bids one no-trump, and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ - Q J 10 8 3 2
♥ - K Q 6
♦ - 9 6
♣ - J 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades. You can insist on a major-suit contract with a strong 6-card holding. No-trump may well be dangerous since you have two weak doubletons.

Laura Cann To Seek Third Champs Tourney Golf Crown

(First in a series)

The only two-time winner of the Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions has been "vacationing on a golf course."

Laura Cann, who won in 1969 and 1970, said "I've been playing at Lake Tahoe and enjoying it. Now I'm practicing, preparing mentally to play in a tournament."

Mrs. Cann will be facing defending champion Tillie Gondak of Marin Country Club, Liz Cole of Peacock Gap, Terry Nichols of Mill Valley, Peg Williams of Indian Valley and Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo. The seventh annual event will be held Aug. 23 at 9 a.m. at Indian Valley.

Laura believes the hilly Indian Valley course will be suited for Mrs. Gapinski's game. "She hits a nice, straight ball."

In seeking her third title, Mrs. Cann will rely on her long hitting. "I hit the woods well." Presently, she is practicing intently for her fifth appearance. Mrs. Cann is a six handicapper.

She has won the Meadow Club title 16 straight years and has been playing golf for "about 20 years." But she is more than a golfer. Mrs. Cann is a fine bowler and tennis player.

Her husband John is an anesthesiologist at St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco. The couple has four children: Jacqueline, Bill, Jane and Robert.

Knievel Shown At Civic Center

Evel Knievel's Snake River jump will be presented via closed circuit television at the Marin County Civic Center auditorium Sept. 8.

In addition to the jump itself, in which Knievel will attempt to fly across the Snake River Canyon in Idaho on a jet-cycle, the two-hour show will include other stunt and daredevil acts. Show time is 1 p.m.

Tickets cost $10 and $7.50 at the Marin Box Office, Macy's in San Rafael, Holiday Box Office and Ticketron.

Registration Saturday For Tennis Session

Registration for the third session of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department's summer tennis classes will be Saturday, the department announced yesterday.

The session, consisting of two hours of class weekly for four weeks, will be offered at Albert Park and Freitas Park. Registration will be held at both locations from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The cost is $8.

IN WFL

Birmingham Vs. Hawaii Tonight

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Birmingham Americans, the only undefeated team in the World Football League with a 5-0 record but not noted for their defense, may find the Hawaiians very offensive Wednesday night.

Former Ole Miss star Norris Weese, the league's third-ranked passer with 74 completions in 141 attempts for 950 yards and nine touchdowns, leads the 1-4 Hawaiians to Legion Field and Birmingham Coach Jack Gotta acknowledged that "Weese has proved to be one of the best.

"The fact that they are a passing team is not welcome news to us," said Gotta, whose Americans rank 10th on pass defense among the 12 league teams.

Birmingham has allowed 78 completions in 141 attempts, yielding 925 yards and 4 touchdowns in five games.

In fact, the Americans, who lead the league in total offense, are at the bottom in total defense. Statistics show that the club has allowed opposing clubs to gain 1,778 yards and score 13 touchdowns.

Gotta said his defense has the potential to be good, "but we weren't getting much from our front four." He is hopeful that two recent acquisitions, Larry Estes and Gary Champagne, will help the team.

In other World Football League meetings Wednesday, Portland is at New York, Memphis at Detroit, Philadelphia at Chicago and Jacksonville at Florida.

Unable to win in five attempts in the light, the Portland Storm (0-4-1) will have a go at it in the dark of New York's Downing Stadium.

The Stars (3-2) are trying to improve the lighting in the Randall's Island stadium, but efforts so far have been stymied and the two previous WFL games there have been played in a twilight zone aura.

At Detroit, the Wheels still are seeking their first victory of the season, going against the Memphis Southmen (3-2).

Three Vets Report To 49er Camp

GOLETA, Calif. (UPI) — Three San Francisco 49er veterans reported to training camp Tuesday.

They were defensive tackle Rolf Krueger, offensive lineman Jean Barrett and wide receiver Terry Beasley. Coach Dick Nolan said they might see action in Sunday's NFL tuneup against the Denver Broncos in San Francisco.

Nolan also instructed other veterans to report to St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco for their physical examinations on Thursday and report to camp Friday. He said they would not play in the Bronco game.

The 49ers also announced that in compliance with an NFL directive refunds would be issued by mail to season ticket holders for the Denver game.

Raiders' Brown: Settlement Soon

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) Willie Brown, the Oakland Raiders' player representative, predicts the 44-day suspended players strike soon will be history.

"We'll have an agreement soon," the veteran cornerback said Tuesday. "There are some things we've pretty much come to agreement on except for the signing of legal documents."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Dividing Principal Is Wisest Course

By ROGER E. SPEAR
and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I am interested solely in income and would appreciate your recommendations for the investment of $70,000. I would like to realize a 10 per cent return or better in bonds or other vehicles that have at least moderate safety. M.L.

A. You have a number of choices open to you but perhaps dividing your principal among them might be the wisest course.

For instance, some of the new money market funds currently return better than 10 per cent while many long term bonds and some common stocks also yield that amount. The money market funds, because they invest either wholly or heavily in short term debt instruments where interest rates fluctuate dramatically, cannot guarantee that their high return will continue.

Dreyfus Liquid Assets maintains 75 per cent of assets in investments maturing in two years or under. A prospectus may be obtained by writing them at 600 Madison Avenue, New York City, 10022. Fidelity Daily Income Trust at P.O. Box 193, Boston, Mass., 02101 is, like Dreyfus, the only no-load member of their respective mutual fund management groups.

Portfolios turn over rapidly and in some instances consist largely of bank certificates of deposit. Careful reading of a prospectus as to safeguards provided regarding the size and safety of the bank issuing the certificate of deposit is important in this type of fund.

Three NYSE bonds which you might consider are: Georgia Power 8⅛s of 2001, Philadelphia Electric 7½s of 1998 and Virginia Electric & Power 10½s of 1983. The latter a newly issued bond is rated A and sells above par. The other two A rated or better issues are deeply discounted. However, all three provide a 10 per cent current return and interest coverage is adequate.

Common stocks yielding 9 per cent to 10 per cent with safety are primarily within the electric utility, bank and insurance groups which have been squeezed by high interest rates and inflation. Two utilities which are attractive at current levels are Central Maine Power (NYSE) and Cleveland Electric (NYSE).

Two NY-listed insurers yielding 9 per cent or better are INA Corp. and U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty. Marine Midland (NYSE), trading at a historically low P/E, yields 9 per cent.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at $4.470 cents per fine ounce down 5.5 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at $4.470 down 5.5 cents and fabricated silver at $4.582 down 5.6 cents.

Prices Slip On Market, Light Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —The fighting on Cyprus provided additional uncertainty to Wall Street today and prices slipped broadly on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was light.

Analysts said the fighting between Turkey and Greece on Cyprus was negative to Wall Street, although they conceded that the major erosion of prices stemmed from long-standing issues such as high interest rates and soaring inflation.

"Cyprus has added a new dimension to the market," Larry Wachtel, vice president of Bache & Co. said. "Not only does it open the door to the possibility of a 'hot war,' but it is diverting President Ford's attention from domestic problems.

William Nelson, analyst for Moody's Investors' Service, said "Inflation is still the big problem ... but Cyprus certainly doesn't help the situation."

As frequently happens, gold mining issues bucked the market trend and moved higher. Dome Mines rose 2 ¼, ASA Ltd. 3½, Campbell Red Lake 3. Homestake was the second most active issue.

Topping the actives was Western Airlines, which gave up ½ to 8 ½.

Elsewhere in the airlines, American surrendered ¼ while Pan Am rose ⅛. American reported higher earnings and passenger traffic for July compared to July, 1973, while Pan Am said its July traffic declined from the year-earlier period.

Hewlett-Packard, delayed in opening, dipped 3 ¾ to 70 ⅛. An article in the Wall Street Journal was pessimistic about appreciation of the issue.

Other point-size losers in the electronics included Burroughs down 2 ¾ and Sperry Rand off 1 ⅜.

Steels turned lower. Ford led the motors downward with a dip of 1 ½. Chemicals and oils were on the downside, with losers of a point or more including Dupont by 1 ¾, Union Carbide 1, Eastman Kodak 1 ⅝, Atlantic Richfield 1 ¼ and Superior Oil 3 ½.

Rails and aircrafts were on the downside.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange slipped in light trading. Declines topped advances, 277 to 106, while volume totaled 630,000 shares. Most active issue was Giant Yellowknife Mining, up ⅝ to 15 on 29,700 shares.

Golden Egg Omelet House Has Opened In San Rafael

The Golden Egg Omelet House opened last weekend in San Rafael at 85 Woodland Avenue in the Bret Harte Shopping Center where Vicki's Coffee Shop closed in March.

Owners of the Golden Egg are Susan Berges and her mother, Dorothy Berges, both of San Rafael. They have about seven years of experience in food service, having helped at the International Gourmet Delicatessen operated in Terra Linda by Susan's brother, Michael J. Berges.

The Golden Egg Omelet House is open from 6 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. It serves 40 varieties of omelets including cheese, sour cream, spinach, sausage, green chili, ham and fresh mushrooms, natural sandwiches with a variety of grain breads, sandwiches of all types, homemade soups, salads and imported beer and wine.

The owners wanted to call it Mama's of Marin but since Mama's is the name of an existing restaurant in San Francisco, they decided to open as The Golden Egg Omelet House.

THE SCOREBOARD cocktail lounge at 535 Fourth Street in San Rafael, which has been remodeled to feature rock dancing, will hold its grand opening tomorrow with "the largest dance floor in the county."

Owner Shauna Gray announced that the interior has been completely remodeled with an expanded bar, enlarged band stand, a big dance floor 35 feet by 15 feet and a seating capacity of 200. "We want to make this the number one music place in Marin, with name bands playing seven nights a week," said Mrs. Gray.

The Scoreboard discontinued its food service to concentrate on music and drinks. It is open from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., with music starting at 9 p.m.

TAM FENCE GREENERY is the name of a new plant shop that just opened at 4486 Redwood Highway, Lucas Valley Road turnoff, just south of Le Chateau restaurant. It is the same location as Tam Fence Co.

Tam Fence Greenery is owned by Helen Nissen of Terra Linda, who has managed Tam Fence for 12 years, and Debbie Hansen of Larkspur, who has five years of retail nursery experience in Marin County. The shop carries both indoor and outdoor plants, shrubs and trees and will also take customer orders for items not on hand.

"Our indoor plants include all kinds of houseplants, ferns, succulents and planted ceramics," said Mrs. Hansen.

Joining Kay Noah's Kentfield office at 802 College Avenue are Joanne Stokes of Tiburon and Nila Mather, who has been with Home and Land and Cole Jackman Realtors. Ginny Boesel of Belvedere, a new licensee, joined Kay Noah's Tiburon office at 1610 Tiburon Boulevard.

Barbara Egoian, a broker with Kay Noah's Tiburon office, has been appointed by the Marin County Board of Realtors to the College of Marin advisory committee.

CHARLES EVANS DIEHL of Ross has joined Evans-Carruthers Ltd., public relations consultants of New York, as senior vice president, with an office to be established in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Diehl is a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel with an extensive background in public affairs in the United States, Europe and the Far East. He is an active member of the Greater Los Angeles Press Club, the San Francisco Press Club and the San Francisco Public Relations Round Table.

JERRY MILLER of San Rafael was appointed a district representative for Lutheran Brotherhood, Minneapolis-based fraternal insurance society for Lutherans.

Miller graduated from Southwestern Junior College in Chula Vista and served three years in the United States Army.

MABRY ELECTRIC INC. at 154 Mitchell Boulevard in Northgate Industrial Park has moved to 128-B Carlos Drive in the same industrial park.

HFI Laboratories Inc., manufacturer of soaps and toiletries, leased additional space for expansion at 82 Hamilton Drive in Hamilton Industrial Park.

Leases for both Mabry Electric and HFI Labs were arranged by William Hoey Company.

HANDS ON!, a new primary school for gifted youngsters aged 5 to 9, will open Sept. 10 at the United Methodist Church in Mill Valley. A preview and open house will be held this coming Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the church.

Only 20 children will be accepted for the first year's program, according to Jessie Harsham of Tiburon, president of the school's board of directors. The student-teacher ratio will be five students to each teacher. Facilities include a well-equipped science laboratory, play areas, workshops and part-time access to a computer terminal in the classroom.

Tuition for the 1974-75 school year is $1,400 for the first child in a family and $1,200 for each additional child.

ROSEMARIE SILLERY of San Anselmo, president of the San Francisco branch of the Food Service Executives Association, will head a Bay Area delegation to the 73rd annual convention of the International Food Service Executives Association this week in Las Vegas.

Accompanying her will be her husband, Sil Sillery, and Eugene Lackenbach of Eugene's Country Club Restaurant in San Rafael.

Motor Home Sales

CHATSWORTH, Los Angeles County — (BW) — Sportscoach Corp., a builder of luxury motor homes has announced operating results for the first six months of 1974. Sales for the six months ended June 30 were $5,986,000 compared with $13,481,000 for the similar period last year.

Fund Declares Monthly Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO — Montgomery Street Income Securities, Inc., a close-end investment fund, declared the regular monthly dividend of 14 cents per share of common stock and also a special dividend of 4 cents per share.

The combination monthly and special dividend is payable Aug. 15 to shareowners of record on Aug. 2, 1974.

Arthur V. Toupin, president of MSIS, said the special dividend is primarily the result of high returns on short-term and long-term investments realized during recent months.

JAMES P. BUCKNER
San Anselman promoted

UPI Names Buckner To Higher Post

James P. Buckner, 45, of San Anselmo, who has been United Press International's Pacific Division business manager in San Francisco for the past six years, has won a promotion that will transfer him to UPI world headquarters in New York in October.

UPI President Rod Beaton announced in New York today that Buckner will be director of North American sales and will report to H.C. Thornton, vice president-marketing. Buckner succeeds Norman A. Cafarell, who was elevated to the post of administrative assistant to the president.

Buckner, his wife Pauline, and their two daughters have lived in San Anselmo since November 1963. A native of York, Pa., Buckner graduated from Allegheny College in Pennsylvania and did graduate work at Penn State University.

He joined UPI in 1957 at Los Angeles and later worked in the Reno, Nev. bureau. In 1968, he became Pacific Division business manager in San Francisco.

Robert E. Page, 38, recently appointed superintendent of bureau operations, was elected a vice president. Page joined UPI in 1960 and served in various executive posts both in the U.S. and abroad. He recently returned to New York after two years in Hong Kong as general manager for Asia.

Richard Shemonoski, 33, was appointed facilities manager. He recently joined UPI after serving as facilities and network manager for UPITN, the television news service.

Boys Picket Bank Over Lost Deposit

Danny Jones says the action was taken because the Bank of America branch in Hayward lost $285.16 in collection receipts that he put in the night depository on July 15.

Danny and another eighth grader, Brian Hernandez, says they were together when the deposit was made.

Bank manager Dwayne Ames said none of the missing checks has been cashed and he ordered a thorough search of the deposit chute and bank records.

To dramatize the loss, young Jones and several friends picketed the branch with signs reading, "Night Deposits Unsafe," and "Honk if You Agree."

A few motorists slowed down and beeped.

Cigarette Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, sponsor of a 1970 bill to stop cigarette advertising on television, has filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking to ban sale of cigarettes in interstate commerce.

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 14, the 226th day of 1974 with 139 to follow.

The moon is between the last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

Naturalist Ernest Thompson Seton was born Aug. 14, 1860.

On this day in history:

In 1900, 2,000 American Marines helped capture Peking, China, to end the Boxer Rebellion.

In 1935, the Social Security Act was passed by Congress.

In 1945, President Harry Truman announced that Japan had accepted terms for unconditional surrender, ending World War II.

In 1972, an East German airliner crashed on takeoff from Berlin, killing 156 persons.

A thought for the day: British philospher Herbert Spencer said, "Volumes might be written upon the impiety of the pious."

East won the first trick with the ace of clubs and thought for a moment. Then he shifted to the jack of diamonds.

South wondered whether or not to finesse with the queen of diamonds. A finesse would indicate a belief that East had shifted from one bad suit to another. It was more likely that an intelligent opponent would continue clubs if his diamonds were headed by king-jack.

South saw an excellent chance to make his contract by stepping up with the ace of diamonds. He then led the king of spades and continued the suit until East took the ace.

East now led the ten of diamonds, and South had the same problem. Should he put up the queen or play low?

Again, the safe decision was to play East not to have the king of diamonds. South therefore played low.

East led the eight of diamonds next, and this time South did put up the queen. West won with the king of diamonds but could not continue the suit. South could surely win four spades, three hearts, one diamond and one club, making his contract.

An early diamond finesse would cost South the game contract. West would win with the king of diamonds and return the suit. The defenders would thus get three diamond tricks and the two black aces.

DAILY QUESTION

Parnter bids one no-trump, and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ - Q J 10 8 3 2
♥ - K Q 6
♦ - 9 6
♣ - J 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades. You can insist on a major-suit contract with a strong 6-card holding. No-trump may well be dangerous since you have two weak doubletons.

Open Space Plan Wins Novato Nod

The Novato Citizens Open Space Plan was approved last night by the Novato City Council but not before some harsh criticism from some affected property owners.

The vote to approve the concept and general objectives of the plan was 3-1 with Councilman Fred F. Ruegg against.

"It's an overly ambitious plan. The city cannot possibly buy all the land shown on the map as open space. It goes too far," Ruegg said.

William Long, chairman of the committee, explained the plan — which would put much of the bay flood plain, most of the hilltops and other scenic areas into either public or private open space.

"It is not a 'no growth' plan because it leaves a lot of land for development," he said.

Phillip Coady of 747 Bradley Avenue, said it was not a plan at all because it was drawn up by the committee without consulting the owners of the land designated as open space.

Ann Young said her parents' place at 501 Canyon Road had been designated as open space around Canyon Lake against their wishes, and she asked that it be eliminated from the plan.

Joanne Bondoc of 509 Canyon Road asked for more study on the plan before her property was included. She said they have been harassed by people since it was known that their property was designated as open space.

Joseph Sanchez of 2552 Vineyard Road said that since his property was put out as open space, people tear down his fences to get in and let his cattle out, even though it is private property.

Ruegg pointed out that the city had an understanding with Jack Kinney that if he could develop his 1,000 acres near Black Point that he would annex it. Now the plan puts it in open space. He said it makes the city's word seem no good.

Councilman David Milano said the plan had to be flexible so that some of the land could be developed.

After the council approved the plan, it set three classifications for open space: restricted open space with no use whatsoever; general open space for limited activity such as hiking or horseback riding, and special purpose open space suitable for specific recreational uses.

Lester S. Russell, parks and recreation director, said the city someday would have to hire a special person to manage the open space under the parks and recreation department.

Gold Price Up Sharply, Dollar Drops Slightly

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold jumped sharply today but the U.S. dollar sank slightly on most international money markets.

Gold jumped $5 an ounce overnight in Zurich and climbed $3.25 an ounce in London. It opened in Zurich at $156.50 an ounce and in London at $155 an ounce.

Speculation touched off by the renewed fighting in Cyprus pushed gold's price still higher shortly after the London market opened. It moved quickly to $156.50 an ounce, in line with Zurich's price.

The dollar gained marginally in London, but slipped back in most other markets.

The initial London quotation was $2.3575 to the pound, making the pound fractionally cheaper than yesterday's $2.3590 closing rate.

But in Zurich the dollar slipped from yesterday's 2.9895 Swiss francs to 2.9795 francs today. In Paris it slid from yesterday's 4.79125 frances, the highest rate in nearly a month, to 4.79 francs today.

It opened in Milan at 655.50 lire, marginally down from 655.60 lire yesterday.

The dollar also slipped slightly in Frankfurt and Amsterdam.

German dealers priced it at 2.6140 marks today, down from yesterday's 2.6175 marks. In Amsterdam the morning rate of pared with yesterday's 2.6740 pared with Tuesday's 2.6740 guilders.

But two other markets bucked the trend.

Record Tomato

EASTBOURNE, England (UPI) — Charlie Roberts, 62, claimed a world record today for growing a tomato weighing 4 ¼ pounds. Roberts said he encouraged its growth by fitting headphones around it and playing it stereo music daylong.

Veto Of Transit Aid Bill Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI). — House Republican leaders, led by Rep. John J. Rhodes, said today a pending mass transit aid bill tentatively scheduled for floor action today would be inflationary and should be cut in half.

They hinted at a possible veto by President Ford if the measure is sent to him with the present $20 billion figure. Rhodes and other Republicans said they would offer amendments to cut the total federal grant money to $11.2 billion.

Plans Bared For Highway Landscaping

Preliminary plans for landscaping the Highway 101 bypass in Novato were unveiled last night before the Novato City Council.

George E. Juilly, associate landscape architect with the California Department of Transportation, told the council the project would be done in two stages over two years.

The first stage, to be done this fiscal year, would extend from Novato Creek to North of the Atherton Avenue-San Marin Drive interchange. It would include the DeLong Avenue interchange, the main entrance to the city from the freeway. Cost of the first phase would be $400,000.

The second phase would be done next fiscal year from Novato Creek south to Entrada Drive, including upgrading the Highway 37 interchange. It would cost $360,000.

Henry Sumaraga, landscape architect, said the plans call for use of all native plants. These include live oak, black oaks, redwoods, sycamores, redbuds, manzanita, flowering shrubs and wildflowers. The wildflowers would include plantings of California poppies and lupines.

Half of the cost of the project would be in the irrigation system if the state can get water from the Novato Sanitation District treatment plant.

The council approved the tentative plans 5-0 with Mayor David Price Jones absent.

The Novato City Council also:

COMPLAINT — Heard a complaint from several residents on Driftwood Court on the faulty construction of their homes by Debra Homes. Complaints were of such things as cupboards falling off the wall, cement steps pulling away from the house and bathtubs that will not hold water. The council told the staff to look into it.

DEBRA — After hearing complaints against the construction of Debra Homes, introduced an ordinance approving a subdivision of 21 homes on 11 acres at the northwest corner of Seventh Street and Marion Avenue for Debra Homes.

ELECTION — Put the $3 million bond issue for open space on the Nov. 5 ballot.

TRAFFIC — Approved applying the California Vehicle Code to streets within Hamilton Air Force Base housing areas, to permit patroling by Novato police should the Navy so request.

NUISANCE — Voted to abate a nuisance of old buildings and cars on the Edwin W. and George L. Wilson property at 716 Lamont Avenue. The vote was 3-1, with Ruegg against because the Wilsons had started cleaning up the property.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. tomorrow to a joint meeting with the airport land use commission at the Novato Community House.

Export Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved yesterday, 379 to 6, a simple extension of the present export control laws after rejecting a proposal to limit export of materials that are in short supply in this country.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Dividing Principal Is Wisest Course

By ROGER E. SPEAR
and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I am interested solely in income and would appreciate your recommendations for the investment of $70,000. I would like to realize a 10 per cent return or better in bonds or other vehicles that have at least moderate safety. M.L.

A. You have a number of choices open to you but perhaps dividing your principal among them might be the wisest course.

For instance, some of the new money market funds currently return better than 10 per cent while many long term bonds and some common stocks also yield that amount. The money market funds, because they invest either wholly or heavily in short term debt instruments where interest rates fluctuate dramatically, cannot guarantee that their high return will continue.

Dreyfus Liquid Assets maintains 75 per cent of assets in investments maturing in two years or under. A prospectus may be obtained by writing them at 600 Madison Avenue, New York City, 10022. Fidelity Daily Income Trust at P.O. Box 193, Boston, Mass., 02101 is, like Dreyfus, the only no-load member of their respective mutual fund management groups.

Portfolios turn over rapidly and in some instances consist largely of bank certificates of deposit. Careful reading of a prospectus as to safeguards provided regarding the size and safety of the bank issuing the certificate of deposit is important in this type of fund.

Three NYSE bonds which you might consider are: Georgia Power 8⅛s of 2001, Philadelphia Electric 7½s of 1998 and Virginia Electric & Power 10½s of 1983. The latter a newly issued bond is rated A and sells above par. The other two A rated or better issues are deeply discounted. However, all three provide a 10 per cent current return and interest coverage is adequate.

Common stocks yielding 9 per cent to 10 per cent with safety are primarily within the electric utility, bank and insurance groups which have been squeezed by high interest rates and inflation. Two utilities which are attractive at current levels are Central Maine Power (NYSE) and Cleveland Electric (NYSE).

Two NY-listed insurers yielding 9 per cent or better are INA Corp. and U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty. Marine Midland (NYSE), trading at a historically low P/E, yields 9 per cent.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at $4.470 cents per fine ounce down 5.5 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at $4.470 down 5.5 cents and fabricated silver at $4.582 down 5.6 cents.

Prices Slip On Market, Light Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) --The fighting on Cyprus provided additional uncertainty to Wall Street today and prices slipped broadly on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was light.

Analysts said the fighting between Turkey and Greece on Cyprus was negative to Wall Street, although they conceded that the major erosion of prices stemmed from long-standing issues such as high interest rates and soaring inflation.

"Cyprus has added a new dimension to the market," Larry Wachtel, vice president of Bache & Co. said. "Not only does it open the door to the possibility of a 'hot war,' but it is diverting President Ford's attention from domestic problems.

William Nelson, analyst for Moody's Investors' Service, said "Inflation is still the big problem ... but Cyprus certainly doesn't help the situation."

As frequently happens, gold mining issues bucked the market trend and moved higher. Dome Mines rose 2 ¼, ASA Ltd. 3½, Campbell Red Lake 3. Homestake was the second most active issue.

Topping the actives was Western Airlines, which gave up ½ to 8 ½.

Elsewhere in the airlines, American surrendered ¼ while Pan Am rose ⅛. American reported higher earnings and passenger traffic for July compared to July, 1973, while Pan Am said its July traffic declined from the year-earlier period.

Hewlett-Packard, delayed in opening, dipped 3 ¾ to 70 ⅛. An article in the Wall Street Journal was pessimistic about appreciation of the issue.

Other point-size losers in the electronics included Burroughs down 2 ¾ and Sperry Rand off 1 ⅜.

Steels turned lower. Ford led the motors downward with a dip of 1 ½. Chemicals and oils were on the downside, with losers of a point or more including Dupont by 1 ¾, Union Carbide 1, Eastman Kodak 1 ⅝, Atlantic Richfield 1 ¼ and Superior Oil 3 ½.

Rails and aircrafts were on the downside.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange slipped in light trading. Declines topped advances, 277 to 106, while volume totaled 630,000 shares. Most active issue was Giant Yellowknife Mining, up ⅝ to 15 on 29,700 shares.

Golden Egg Omelet House Has Opened In San Rafael

The Golden Egg Omelet House opened last weekend in San Rafael at 85 Woodland Avenue in the Bret Harte Shopping Center where Vicki's Coffee Shop closed in March.

Owners of the Golden Egg are Susan Berges and her mother, Dorothy Berges, both of San Rafael. They have about seven years of experience in food service, having helped at the International Gourmet Delicatessen operated in Terra Linda by Susan's brother, Michael J. Berges.

The Golden Egg Omelet House is open from 6 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. It serves 40 varieties of omelets including cheese, sour cream, spinach, sausage, green chili, ham and fresh mushrooms, natural sandwiches with a variety of grain breads, sandwiches of all types, homemade soups, salads and imported beer and wine.

The owners wanted to call it Mama's of Marin but since Mama's is the name of an existing restaurant in San Francisco, they decided to open as The Golden Egg Omelet House.

THE SCOREBOARD cocktail lounge at 535 Fourth Street in San Rafael, which has been remodeled to feature rock dancing, will hold its grand opening tomorrow with "the largest dance floor in the county."

Owner Shauna Gray announced that the interior has been completely remodeled with an expanded bar, enlarged band stand, a big dance floor 35 feet by 15 feet and a seating capacity of 200. "We want to make this the number one music place in Marin, with name bands playing seven nights a week," said Mrs. Gray.

The Scoreboard discontinued its food service to concentrate on music and drinks. It is open from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., with music starting at 9 p.m.

TAM FENCE GREENERY is the name of a new plant shop that just opened at 4486 Redwood Highway, Lucas Valley Road turnoff, just south of Le Chateau restaurant. It is the same location as Tam Fence Co.

Tam Fence Greenery is owned by Helen Nissen of Terra Linda, who has managed Tam Fence for 12 years, and Debbie Hansen of Larkspur, who has five years of retail nursery experience in Marin County. The shop carries both indoor and outdoor plants, shrubs and trees and will also take customer orders for items not on hand.

"Our indoor plants include all kinds of houseplants, ferns, succulents and planted ceramics," said Mrs. Hansen.

Joining Kay Noah's Kentfield office at 802 College Avenue are Joanne Stokes of Tiburon and Nila Mather, who has been with Home and Land and Cole Jackman Realtors. Ginny Boesel of Belvedere, a new licensee, joined Kay Noah's Tiburon office at 1610 Tiburon Boulevard.

Barbara Egoian, a broker with Kay Noah's Tiburon office, has been appointed by the Marin County Board of Realtors to the College of Marin advisory committee.

CHARLES EVANS DIEHL of Ross has joined Evans-Carruthers Ltd., public relations consultants of New York, as senior vice president, with an office to be established in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Diehl is a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel with an extensive background in public affairs in the United States, Europe and the Far East. He is an active member of the Greater Los Angeles Press Club, the San Francisco Press Club and the San Francisco Public Relations Round Table.

JERRY MILLER of San Rafael was appointed a district representative for Lutheran Brotherhood, Minneapolis-based fraternal insurance society for Lutherans.

Miller graduated from Southwestern Junior College in Chula Vista and served three years in the United States Army.

MABRY ELECTRIC INC. at 154 Mitchell Boulevard in Northgate Industrial Park has moved to 128-B Carlos Drive in the same industrial park.

HFI Laboratories Inc., manufacturer of soaps and toiletries, leased additional space for expansion at 82 Hamilton Drive in Hamilton Industrial Park.

Leases for both Mabry Electric and HFI Labs were arranged by William Hoey Company.

HANDS ON!, a new primary school for gifted youngsters aged 5 to 9, will open Sept. 10 at the United Methodist Church in Mill Valley. A preview and open house will be held this coming Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the church.

Only 20 children will be accepted for the first year's program, according to Jessie Harsham of Tiburon, president of the school's board of directors. The student-teacher ratio will be five students to each teacher. Facilities include a well-equipped science laboratory, play areas, workshops and part-time access to a computer terminal in the classroom.

Tuition for the 1974-75 school year is $1,400 for the first child in a family and $1,200 for each additional child.

ROSEMARIE SILLERY of San Anselmo, president of the San Francisco branch of the Food Service Executives Association, will head a Bay Area delegation to the 73rd annual convention of the International Food Service Executives Association this week in Las Vegas.

Accompanying her will be her husband, Sil Sillery, and Eugene Lackenbach of Eugene's Country Club Restaurant in San Rafael.

Motor Home Sales

CHATSWORTH, Los Angeles County — (BW) — Sportscoach Corp., a builder of luxury motor homes has announced operating results for the first six months of 1974. Sales for the six months ended June 30 were $5,986,000 compared with $13,481,000 for the similar period last year.

Fund Declares Monthly Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO — Montgomery Street Income Securities, Inc., a close-end investment fund, declared the regular monthly dividend of 14 cents per share of common stock and also a special dividend of 4 cents per share.

The combination monthly and special dividend is payable Aug. 15 to shareowners of record on Aug. 2, 1974.

Arthur V. Toupin, president of MSIS, said the special dividend is primarily the result of high returns on short-term and long-term investments realized during recent months.

Open Space Plan Wins Novato Nod

The Novato Citizens Open Space Plan was approved last night by the Novato City Council but not before some harsh criticism from some affected property owners.

The vote to approve the concept and general objectives of the plan was 3-1 with Councilman Fred F. Ruegg against.

"It's an overly ambitious plan. The city cannot possibly buy all the land shown on the map as open space. It goes too far," Ruegg said.

William Long, chairman of the committee, explained the plan — which would put much of the bay flood plain, most of the hilltops and other scenic areas into either public or private open space.

"It is not a 'no growth' plan because it leaves a lot of land for development," he said.

Phillip Coady of 747 Bradley Avenue, said it was not a plan at all because it was drawn up by the committee without consulting the owners of the land designated as open space.

Ann Young said her parents' place at 501 Canyon Road had been designated as open space around Canyon Lake against their wishes, and she asked that it be eliminated from the plan.

Joanne Bondoc of 509 Canyon Road asked for more study on the plan before her property was included. She said they have been harassed by people since it was known that their property was designated as open space.

Joseph Sanchez of 2552 Vineyard Road said that since his property was put out as open space, people tear down his fences to get in and let his cattle out, even though it is private property.

Ruegg pointed out that the city had an understanding with Jack Kinney that if he could develop his 1,000 acres near Black Point that he would annex it. Now the plan puts it in open space. He said it makes the city's word seem no good.

Councilman David Milano said the plan had to be flexible so that some of the land could be developed.

After the council approved the plan, it set three classifications for open space: restricted open space with no use whatsoever; general open space for limited activity such as hiking or horseback riding, and special purpose open space suitable for specific recreational uses.

Lester S. Russell, parks and recreation director, said the city someday would have to hire a special person to manage the open space under the parks and recreation department.

Gold Price Up Sharply, Dollar Drops Slightly

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold jumped sharply today but the U.S. dollar sank slightly on most international money markets.

Gold jumped $5 an ounce overnight in Zurich and climbed $3.25 an ounce in London. It opened in Zurich at $156.50 an ounce and in London at $155 an ounce.

Speculation touched off by the renewed fighting in Cyprus pushed gold's price still higher shortly after the London market opened. It moved quickly to $156.50 an ounce, in line with Zurich's price.

The dollar gained marginally in London, but slipped back in most other markets.

The initial London quotation was $2.3575 to the pound, making the pound fractionally cheaper than yesterday's $2.3590 closing rate.

But in Zurich the dollar slipped from yesterday's 2.9895 Swiss francs to 2.9795 francs today. In Paris it slid from yesterday's 4.79125 frances, the highest rate in nearly a month, to 4.79 francs today.

The dollar also slipped slightly in Frankfurt and Amsterdam.

German dealers priced it at 2.6140 marks today, down from yesterday's 2.6175 marks. In Amsterdam the morning rate of pared with yesterday's 2.6740 pared with Tuesday's 2.6740 guilders.

But two other markets bucked the trend.

Record Tomato

EASTBOURNE, England (UPI) — Charlie Roberts, 62, claimed a world record today for growing a tomato weighing 4 ¼ pounds. Roberts said he encouraged its growth by fitting headphones around it and playing it stereo music daylong.

Veto Of Transit Aid Bill Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican leaders, led by Rep. John J. Rhodes, said today a pending mass transit aid bill tentatively scheduled for floor action today would be inflationary and should be cut in half.

They hinted at a possible veto by President Ford if the measure is sent to him with the present $20 billion figure. Rhodes and other Republicans said they would offer amendments to cut the total federal grant money to $11.2 billion.

Plans Bared For Highway Landscaping

Preliminary plans for landscaping the Highway 101 bypass in Novato were unveiled last night before the Novato City Council.

George E. Juilly, associate landscape architect with the California Department of Transportation, told the council the project would be done in two stages over two years.

The first stage, to be done this fiscal year, would extend from Novato Creek to North of the Atherton Avenue-San Marin Drive interchange. It would include the DeLong Avenue interchange, the main entrance to the city from the freeway. Cost of the first phase would be $400,000.

The second phase would be done next fiscal year from Novato Creek south to Entrada Drive, including upgrading the Highway 37 interchange. It would cost $360,000.

Henry Sumaraga, landscape architect, said the plans call for use of all native plants. These include live oak, black oaks, redwoods, sycamores, redbuds, manzanita, flowering shrubs and wildflowers. The wildflowers would include plantings of California poppies and lupines.

Half of the cost of the project would be in the irrigation system if the state can get water from the Novato Sanitation District treatment plant.

The council approved the tentative plans 5-0 with Mayor David Price Jones absent.

The Novato City Council also:

COMPLAINT — Heard a complaint from several residents on Driftwood Court on the faulty construction of their homes by Debra Homes. Complaints were of such things as cupboards falling off the wall, cement steps pulling away from the house and bathtubs that will not hold water. The council told the staff to look into it.

DEBRA — After hearing complaints against the construction of Debra Homes, introduced an ordinance approving a subdivision of 21 homes on 11 acres at the northwest corner of Seventh Street and Marion Avenue for Debra Homes.

ELECTION — Put the $3 million bond issue for open space on the Nov. 5 ballot.

TRAFFIC — Approved applying the California Vehicle Code to streets within Hamilton Air Force Base housing areas, to permit patroling by Novato police should the Navy so request.

NUISANCE — Voted to abate a nuisance of old buildings and cars on the Edwin W. and George L. Wilson property at 716 Lamont Avenue. The vote was 3-1, with Ruegg against because the Wilsons had started cleaning up the property.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. tomorrow to a joint meeting with the airport land use commission at the Novato Community House.

Export Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved yesterday, 379 to 6, a simple extension of the present export control laws after rejecting a proposal to limit export of materials that are in short supply in this country.

SUPERVISORS REVIEW

Conversion Law Eyed Favorably

A proposed ordinance to regulate the conversion of apartments to condominiums was received favorably yesterday by Marin County supervisors, who returned it to the planning commission for further refinement. (Other supervisors stores, page 10.)

The ordinance, which has been in the works for nearly a year, is intended to protect both existing tenants and future buyers of converted units. It also seeks to maintain a minimum 1-to-3 ratio between rented and owned dwellings in Marin.

The provision presents a legal question of how to keep such units from being resold or rented at the higher "market rate" after first being sold at the reduced rate.

"When selling below market value, there's presently no way of keeping it in that price range beyond the first owner," Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini said. "A fundamental point of law is that a person has the right to freely transfer property . . . and move on."

The question has been discussed for years by county officials who have considered requiring "the right of first refusal" on any sales, among other things.

In referring the document back to the planning commission, supervisors asked County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to research ways of restricting future sales of such units.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere said he opposed proposals "to legislate housing mix" but agreed with the rest of the ordinance.

It protects tenants by establishing guidelines under which the county will approve or disapprove conversion requests.

It says the county can turn down a conversion request if existing tenants "will have substantial difficulty" in finding comparably priced housing in the area. It also gives tenants 90 days before they must move if conversion is approved.

Conversion can be prohibited if the percentage of rental units drops below 25 per cent of the total number of homes in the county, the document says. Currently, rental units make up 30 per cent of the total.

To protect buyers, it proposes that a "condominium conversion report" be required, listing all housing, health and safety code violations — to be corrected prior to sale.

"The value of the ordinance is to protect tenants," Chairman Michael Wornum said at

Tomales Bay Park Funds Move Ahead

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A $2 million appropriation to expand Tomales Bay State Park has cleared its last major legislative hurdle. (See other legislative stories, page 25.)

The bill, AB 3401 by Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Loy Angeles, survived repeated attempts to amend it Monday in the Senate National Resources and Wildlife Committee. Several members of the committee attempted to add pet projects of their own to the bill, but failed.

The Marin portion of the park expansion is included in 28 proposed purchases totaling $25.9 million. The funds for Marin are aimed at purchase of the Herbert H. Angress property and Millerton and Tomasini points.

Priolo's bill went to the Senate Finance Committee, where approval is expected. Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, predicted the bill will be signed by the governor. The list of park projects was drafted by the Department of Parks and Recreation.

Criminal Justice Agency Head Scored By Former Secretary

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A former secretary in the Marin County Criminal-Justice Planning agency, complaining bitterly of her treatment while working for the agency's director, lost a round yesterday in her bid to win reemployment rights.

Marie J. Kniveton, who quit May 31 after more than three years with the agency, accused Director Bella H. Aaron of abusing her position, her employees and county personnel practices.

Her comments came in an appeal to the county personnel commission to override Mrs. Aaron's refusal to grant her reemployment rights with the county.

Reemployment rights, if approved by the department head, allow an employee to be hired by another county department without going through standard testing and interviewing procedures.

The system was set up years ago as a courtesy to employees with good records who have to quit because of some extraordinary situation, such as caring for a sick relative. They are granted for one year.

Commissioners questioned why Mrs. Kniveton had not filed a grievance instead of quitting. Commissioner Robert McCredie said he felt it improper to use the appeal of reemployment rights to raise the charges.

He also said granting the appeal would set a precedent for letting an employee simply quit on two days notice and be assured of reemployment rights. Commissioners John Ralph Thomas and Parnel A. Finn agreed.

Only Commissioner Ben A. Farlatti differed, saying Mrs. Kniveton had been "unjustly treated."

Mrs. Kniveton can appeal the commission's decision to county supervisors.

Mrs. Aaron did not attend yesterday's session. She had earlier told commissioner Farlatti she refused to, and Farlatti, on Monday, issued a subpoena. It was not served, and Farlatti commented yesterday that she had successfully "ducked" sheriff's officers.

Mrs. Kniveton, who had received high ratings from Mrs. Aaron over the years, said she quit on two-days notice because "conditions had deteriorated and our relationship had become intolerable."

The short notice led to Mrs.

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical storm Alma crossed the Calypso island of Trinidad today with 55 mile-an-hour winds and heavy rains. Forecasters said the season's first storm was expected to brush Venezuela later today.

Alma, which grew from a depression into a storm yesterday, made its landfall on the northeastern coast of Trinidad shortly after 9 a.m..

Forecasters at the San Juan, P.R., Weather Bureau said Alma was expected to make a three-hour march across Trinidad, then emerge into the Caribbean Sea and brush the Paria Peninsula of Venezuela.

Turks In Massive Attack On Cyprus

Agreement Reported On Cease-Fire Pact

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Turkey overran much of eastern Cyprus today with massive air, artillery and tank attacks. The United Nations announced a cease-fire had been agreed between Greek Cypriot and Turkish forces in the capital of Nicosia tonight, but firing continued for an hour after it went into effect.

The Turkish forces surrounded U.N. troops holding the Nicosia airport, leveled much of the industrial area of Nicosia with heavy bombing attacks. They also drove to within five miles of the big eastern port of Famagusta and to within eight miles of the southeastern port of Larnaca.

The offensive which brought Turkey and Greece close to war meant the Turks controlled most of the northeastern third of Cyprus in what the Greek Cypriots said was a move to slice the eastern Mediterranean Island into Greek and Turkish Cypriot areas. Greece pulled its troops out of NATO in protest, threatening to collapse NATO's southern flank.

U.N. spokesman Rudolph Stadjuhar said the proposed cease-fire went into effect at 6:15 p.m. (12:15 p.m. EDT).

"We hope that tonight there is going to be a cease-fire in Nicosia city," Stadjuhar told newsmen.

One hour after the cease-fire went into effect, rifle fire could still be heard crackling through the city but by 7:15 p.m. (1:15 p.m. EDT) it had died down and the city was relatively quiet after the daylong bombing and strafing raids by Turkish warplanes.

Cyprus' acting president Glafkos Clerides protested to the U.N. over the Turkish offensive, said the Turks were extending the area under the control and called on the Security Council to intervene.

Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit announced a series of Turkish victories but said, he believed the attacks would not bring a Turko-Greek war.

The 14 other members of NATO pleaded with Greece to reconsider its action — which could mean the removal of U.S. nuclear deterrents from Greece — and called on Turkey to respect the cease-fire ordered by the U.N. Security Council. The pleas had no effect.

In Washington the State Department threatened to cut off military aid to both Greece and Turkey if war breaks out between them. A statement said the United States deplores the Turkish use of force and that Washington supports the U.N. call for a cease-fire.

The Geneva talks collapsed early today and Britain called an urgent session of the Security Council in New York at 3:30 a.m. EDT. The council required

Second Spot Choices To President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With conservatives and liberals campaigning hard for their favorites, members of Congress "voted" for the nation's vice president yesterday and sent President Ford their choices in sealed envelopes.

Ford's final decision had been expected this weekend, but the White House said his attention had been diverted to the new Cyprus crisis and his selection might be delayed beyond that point.

Presidential press secretary Jerry terHorst said Ford's secretaries took custody of the congressional envelopes, listing the selections of contributors in one-two-three order, and began opening them for Ford's perusal. No one else would see them, terHorst said.

A conservative vs. liberal campaign pushed two men — George Bush for the conservatives and Nelson A. Rockefeller for the liberals — well to the forefront of Capitol Hill sentiment.

But there was no indication Ford would be swayed toward either man and the White House said only that his decision may come sometime this weekend.

Ford set today as the deadline for Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott and House GOP leader John J. Rhodes to bring the sealed nominations down from Congress.

On Capitol Hill, Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., urged Ford to delay selection of a vice president until after the November elections provide a better guide to "the will of the people."

House Speaker Carl Albert and the Democratic whip, Rep. John McFall of California, opposed the delay.

A White House official said the President was leaning toward Bush, the Republican Party chairman, former New York Gov. Rockefeller and Sen. Howard Baker, R.-Tenn. But Ford has said nothing and his wife, Betty, told reporters she still has hopes he might choose a woman.

Ford, Kissinger Discuss Newest Crisis On Cyprus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, facing the first major international problem of his administration, discussed the renewed crisis over Cyprus with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other top aides today while Japan disclosed Ford would visit that nation later in the year.

In a day when Ford's attention to major domestic problems including the economy was temporarily disrupted, there were these developments.

The Japanese embassy said the new President had accepted an invitation to visit Japan "before the end of the year at the earliest opportunity." One Japanese official speculated the trip would come after the November congressional elections.

—Ford unexpectedly met with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. There was speculation the Russian envoy brought a message of congratulations from Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

An hour-long morning meeting between Ford and Kissinger followed Turkish air, ground and sea attacks on Greek Cypriot positions soon after the breakdown of peace talks in Geneva.

Jerry terHorst, Ford's press secretary, stressed the two leaders saw Cyprus as a diplomatic problem, not a military one, as far as the United States was concerned. TerHorst said Ford is "concerned but very hopeful" that further pressure could be exerted through diplomatic channels to get Greek and Turkish diplomats back to the conference table.

Announcement of the Japan trip was made through the embassy and the Japanese Foreign Ministry in Tokyo. Former President Richard M. Nixon had planned to visit Japan and the trip presumably will be Ford's first out of the country as president.

The meeting with Dobrynin — also a first for Ford as president —was not announced on the public schedule. Dobrynin was in the Soviet Union when Nixon resigned last week. He returned to Washington during the weekend. He met with Kissinger Monday.

TerHorst said Ford was giving Cyprus "urgent priority" and had to reshuffle his schedule, which included meetings with governors and mayors, to meet the situation.

There was no immediate White House comment on the announcement by Greece that it was withdrawing its armed forces.

Alan Bruce Is Named San Anselmo Manager

Former Marin County Administrator Alan Bruce was chosen last night to be the next city administrator and controller of San Anselmo. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 3.)

The 3-2 decision was made in an open session which followed lengthy discussion on the merits of closed sessions and a 3-2 vote that the council continue to meet in closed session when permitted by the Ralph M. Brown Act.

(The act — either directly or by court interpretation — allows the council to meet behind closed doors to decide whom to hire or appoint to a vacant position, to hear charges against an employee or appointed official, to consider firing someone, to instruct its representative in salary negotiations with employees, to discuss with counsel litigation contemplated or in progress, to discuss its bargaining position in the sale or purchase of property, to decide on emergency security measures for imperiled public buildings.)

Despite having decided to keep the option of having closed sessions, councilmen voted 4-to-1 (Kenneth Anderson dissenting) to make the city administrator choice in public.

In the 3-2 vote, Bruce beat John W. De Weerd, former city manager of Cerritos in Los Angeles County, who was favored by Mayor Martin G. Blinder and Councilman Pieter Toal.

Councilmen held no discussion among themselves, but opened the floor to citizens comments. Two spoke. One called Bruce an "excellent but arrogant administrator" who conducted his administration "like the Pope in Rome," and opposed his appointment. The other commented inconclusively on the merits of choosing employees publicly.

Blinder in a letter last week to the Independent-Journal said Bruce "would prove too aggressive and high-powered for a small town like San Anselmo," but after last night's voting said "I am behind him now, and we will work as a team."

Bruce, 51, has been a San Anselmo resident for 14 years. He was county administrator from 1960 to 1971, earning a reputation as a controversial

Congress Acts On Ford Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress moved swiftly today to provide President Ford the first weapon he sought to combat inflation — a stripped-down agency to monitor, rather than control, wages and prices.

Top administration aides stressed at congressional hearings that mandatory controls would not be revived and that no effort would be made by the new administration either to raise or lower taxes as a means of coping with economic problems.

Ford told Sen. Russell Long, D-La., during an informal picture-taking session at the White House that he was convinced he took the right action when he criticized General Motors Corp. for its planned 10 per cent price hike on 1975 models.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Evers Accused Of Tax Evasion

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Veteran civil rights leader Charles Evers was charged yesterday with three counts of evading federal income taxes amounting to more than $50,000.

Evers

The Fayette, Miss., mayor was served a criminal summons in Jackson.

The three-count indictment charges Evers filed false income tax statements for 1969, 1970 and 1971. His former wife, Nannie Laura Evers, was charged in two counts for filing with him in 1969 and 1970.

The charges said Evers had income totaling more than $179,000 for the three years and should have paid taxes totaling $56,236. Instead, it was charged that income of only $20,219 was reported and taxes of only $3,632 were paid for the three years.

Abortion Death

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — A former wife of President Idi Amin was found dead from an incomplete abortion in the trunk of a car belonging to a doctor who died of poisoning Monday, police said.

Police said an autopsy on Amin's ex-wife, Kay Adroa, showed she was three to four months pregnant when she died from bleeding caused by the faulty operation.

The spokesman said they suspected the doctor, Eter Mbaru, committed suicide by poison after performing the illegal and fatal abortion.

Saxbe To Stay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe says he has told President Ford he will continue to serve, and that the President has promised not to involve himself in day-to-day operations of the Justice Department.

After a meeting with Ford yesterday, Saxbe said the President told him he wanted the department, shaken by controversy and personnel upheavals from the Watergate scandals, to be run "clean and fair."

"He said he wanted it understood that he was not going to intefere in any manner, nor any of his people, with the orderly law enforcement and litigating activities of the Justice Department," Saxbe said.

Guerrillas Chased

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Agrentine army units chased fleeing Marxist guerrillas into the mountains near Tucuman province today in a drive to wipe out the highly organized underground band.

The fighting marked the first time the army was authorized to join police against guerrillas since a civilian government came to power last year after seven years of military rule.

On the political front, President Maria Estela Isable Peron presided over the first cabinet shake-up of her six-week-old administration, replacing the ministers of defense, interior and education.

FDA Raps Legislation On Vitamins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation designed to overturn government regulation of vitamins is a "charlatan's dream" that could legitimize consumer fraud, the Food and Drug Administration charged today.

FDA Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt said if Congress gives in to pressure from special interest groups on the issue it will have sanctioned the sale of "ingredients of unknown safety" and allowed "the fraudulent promotion of just about any article as long as it is labeled as a 'food supplement'."

Schmidt's attack came in testimony prepared for a Senate hearing on bills to limit the agency's regulation of vitamins. The FDA has already put high-concentration doses of vitamins A and D on a prescription-only basis because it said such doses are dangerous.

Beginning next year it wants to place in the drug category any vitamin, food supplement or food product containing more than 150 per cent of the recommended daily allowance of any one vitamin. The FDA also wants to outlaw certain combination vitamins it considers useless.

Classification as a drug would subject vitamin products involved to review for effectiveness and could result in their being put on a prescription basis, although the FDA contends that won't happen.

No Laird Post

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Melvin Laird, former Secretary of Defense and a close friend of President Ford, says he will serve Ford as a friend but will not hold a post in the Ford administration, according to a Milwaukee newspaper.

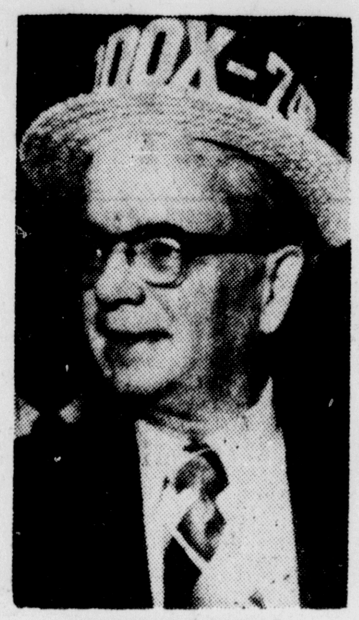
Lester Maddox In Runoff For Governor Nomination

ATLANTA (UPI) — Fiery Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox, trying to become Georgia's first repeat governor in 30 years, easily won a plurality of votes in the Democratic primary last night, but was forced into a runoff by the 12-man field.

The one-time ax-handle foe of desegregation held a commanding lead over his nearest challenger but failed to win the necessary 50.1 per cent of the votes to avoid a second race.

Maddox, 58, will face Georgia House Majority Leader George Busbee, 46, in the Sept. 3 runoff. Busbee beat out former State Transportation Director Bert Lance, who had the support of outgoing Gov. Jimmy Carter, in a fight for the second spot.

With more than 80 per cent of the votes counted, Maddox had 251,630 votes, or 34.8 per cent. Busbee had 157,609 votes to 106,736 for Lance. Former Sen. David Gambrell, D-Ga., was a distant fourth with 57,304.



LESTER MADDOX
Wins plurality

The Republican race for governor also went into a runoff. Macon Mayor Ronnie "Machine-gun" Thompson, a law-and-order advocate who ordered his policemen to "shoot to kill" felons, led the four-man chase, with converted Democrat Harold Dye his probable opponent in the second primary.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, easily won renomination to a fourth term over political newcomer Carlton Myers. Talmadges faces another newcomer, Republican Jerry Johnston, in the general election in November.

In the congressional races, the only incumbent in trouble seemed to be veteran Rep. John Davis, D-Ga., who was trailing Dr. Larry McDonald, an Atlanta urologist whom he beat by 3,000 votes in 1972.

Maddox, who sold ax handles as a weapon against desegregation in the 1960's, said he was not disappointed in being forced into a runoff, despite his campaign predictions that he would win in a landslide.

"I just think it's miraculous. We're more than double the next man," said Maddox, who served as governor from 1966-1970 and is seeking to become the first two-term governor since the late Gene Talmadge, father of Herman, in 1941.

Nixon's Private Beach Taken Over By Surfers

The beach below the Nixon oceanside villa was closed to the public whenever the Nixons were in residence while he was President. The Coast Guard kept two cutters stationed offshore to prevent boats from coming closer than a mile to the beach.

Although all beaches are automatically open to the public under California law, the President's security overrode the state law. Nixon liked to walk on the beach, relaxing and thinking.

When Nixon was not there, the beach was open. The surfers who favor the beach complained over the weekend that with Nixon no longer president, there should be no restrictions on their using the beach, which was closed when he arrived last Friday.

The Coast Guard patrol boats were withdrawn Monday, and lifeguards yesterday told bathers and surfers they could use the Nixon beach, by walking about three quarters of a mile south from San Clemente State Beach.

Nixon remained in seclusion. An aide said he went to his office on the Coast Guard station adjoining the estate early yesterday morning and met for a while with former Press Secretary Ron Ziegler, who has become his chief aide.

Nixon is accompanied by his wife, his daughter Tricia and her husband, Edward Cox.

Midwest Is Drenched By Showers

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Midnight thundershowers drenched Kansas, bringing small hail and heavy winds. More thundershowers hit from Idaho to Kansas and in the Texas Panhandle.

Earlier in the night, strong winds whipped Nelson, Neb., in the south central part of the state. Heavy winds snapped six-inch limbs from trees and hail the size of golfballs pelted the area.

Hail also struck Rosebud, S.D., and Lewistown, Mont.

Another line of thundershowers washed down the area from eastern Texas and Louisiana into southeast New York state.

Dense fog shrouded portions of northern Ohio, where extensive flooding washed out wires and downed trees yesterday. Police said the storm at Oberlin, Ohio, knocked out telephone service and similar damage was reported at Willington. In Parma, two girls were slightly injured when lightning struck a tree under which they were sitting.

Complaints On Market Are Shelved

The San Anselmo City Council last night put off until its Nov. 12 meeting any action on citizen complaints about the around-the-clock operation of a local food market. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 1.)

Councilmen heard several citizens say that the situation has improved markedly at the Stop 'n Go Market at 807 San Anselmo Avenue.

Citizens complained July 10 that crowds of rowdy, beer-drinking juveniles gathered there after dark. A spokesman for the market said a guard had been hired in the meantime, and Mayor Martin G. Blinder noted, "many of your foes are impressed with the changes."

The San Anselmo City Council also:

MAILING — Appropriated $500 to cover increased costs of mailing copies of the general plan to residents and property owners.

PARTY — Granted permission to Carl Majesky to close a portion of Alder Avenue for a block party Sept. 1.

DELAYS — Put over until its next meeting Aug. 27 at 8 p.m. the appeal of the planning commission's denial of a use permit for Winchell's Donut House and the request for a rate increase by Tele-Vue Systems, Inc., the cable television firm.

HEARING — Put over until Sept. 10 a public hearing on a resolution vacating a portion of Anchor Vista Avenue.

INTERTIE — Adopted 4-to-0 (Capurro abstaining) a resolution expressing "serious concern" about the Marin Municipal Water District's plans to build the North Marin intertie to import water from the Russian River.

KNOX — Voted 4-to-1 (Toal dissenting) to withdraw its previous support of the Knox Bill establishing a Bay Area Planning Agency.

PARKS — Announced that it had two vacancies on the parks and recreation commission following the resignations of Gerald A. DeVore and Laura Cann.

BOND ISSUE — Approved 3-to-2 (Capurro and Colteaux opposed) the Parks and Recreation department proposals to spend the $36,460 which will be available July 1, 1975, due to voter approval of the State Park Bond Issue. Dissenting councilmen objected to spending the money on seven small projects instead of one large one.

Reporter In Plane Crash

SHIDLER, Okla. (UPI) — A light plane crashed in tree-covered hills of North Central Oklahoma yesterday injuring two persons, including a Los Angeles Times reporter.

Tom Campbell, 32, of Arvada, Colo., the pilot and Bella Marie Stumbo, 30, of Los Angeles, were listed in good condition today at the Ponca City Hospital Inc. Miss Stumbo suffered a fractured right heel and a cut on her right ear lobe.

Highway Patrolman said the plane was en route to Harrison, Ark., from Garden City, Kan. Miss Stumbo was working on a series for the Times called "The American Mood."

Scouts Find Body Of Missing Socialite

HALF MOON BAY (UPI) — Boy Scouts, using ropes to lower themselves into a canyon in the chaparral-covered Coast Range Mountains, have found the body of a socialite who disappeared mysteriously.

The body of Mrs. Lois J. McNamara, 53, was discovered yesterday in a 170-foot deep canyon cut by Tunitas Creek, which during the rainy season flows into the Pacific Ocean 10 miles southeast of Half Moon Bay.

A divorcee whose ex-husband was dead, Mrs. McNamara vanished July 12 from her $140,000 home in Hillsborough, a swank suburb of San Francisco.

The search for her remains was concentrated along the Tunitas Creek Road because the body of a recently discharged sailor was found there Aug. 4.

Barry A. Brown, 21, of nearby Menlo Park, and his girl friend, Carol Campbell, 27, have been charged in San Mateo County with both the slayings.

Evans Feels VP Chances Slim

Evans hinted yesterday that if he was offered the job, however, he would probably accept.

"I really don't want to cross that bridge unless the question is asked," Evans said. "And I think the chances that the question will be asked are pretty remote."

But Evans added, "it would be pretty tough to turn down."

Whale Count

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — A new high has been reported in the gray whales counted during migration off Yankee Point near here.

A ROUND BUILDING?

Aaron's refusal to sign the reemployment rights document.

Mrs. Kniveton said she normally would agree that two-days notice is not adequate but she appealed to the commission to look at her working conditions.

"You may not be aware of the conditions . . . such as verbal abuse to which employees are subjected, the harassment and humiliation, the use of four and seven letter words, countermanding of instructions, changing of systems, etc."

She also accused Mrs. Aaron of using her employees for personal business, "such as hair appointments, usually for Friday mornings, medical and dental appointments, some correspondence pertaining to her former private legal private and contacting outsiders to promote the candidacy of some of her favored county office holders."

Mrs. Kniveton said she threatened to quit last December and was told by the director she would never work for the county again. She later said she requested a transfer and "after that, life was unbearable."

The verbal abuse from Mrs. Aaron was applied across the board to other employees and resulted in some resigning, Mrs. Kniveton said.

She also charged that Mrs. Aaron's work-day averages only six and a half hours and that two months out of the year she is on a leave of absence. (Mrs. Aaron's leaves are approved by supervisors.)

"I suppose everyone reaches a breaking point and I must admit that mine came when I tendered my resignation on May 29."

Her comments were supported by Jack Atkins, who formerly worked in the county personnel office and later with Mrs. Aaron. He said he lasted six months and now works as a private management consultant.

Don Manion, a consultant to Mrs. Aaron, told the commission "the atmosphere" created by Mrs. Aaron was in part due to the pressures of her job.

Another employee, Nadia Gillespie, a part-time secretary, supported Mrs. Aaron saying the director works long hours. "If a job is not well done, she tells it very bluntly . . . in four-letter words," she said, adding its not unusual for department heads to use secretaries for personal business.

The proposal to shun the protective mantle of the Brown Act and meet in public on matters involving hiring and salary discussion was made by Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro, but drew support only from Blinder.

"The business that belongs to you people should be held up here in public," Capurro told the audience.

The council majority, however, accepted Anderson's view that "there are certain limited, good and valid circumstances when a closed session is valuable."

Toal argued that Capurro's proposal was inconsistent because it would not make public the discussions involving firing of employees. "This should be not halfway, but everything," Toal said.

He offered an amendment to include firing. Capurro initially agreed, but then rejected the amendment following persuasive argument by Anderson. Toal voted against the unamended proposal.

Anderson contended: "When you're talking about firings, accusations are made, and the council doesn't know if they're valid. You have rumors, cross-rumors, false accusations. It's beyond my comprehension that we can consider doing this in public."

Opposition to Capurro's proposal also came from Councilman John H. Colteaux, who argued, "Some things just should not be said in public. None of us here wants to hide anything, but we need the flexibility to discuss these matters as a group.

"If this passes, discussion will take place by telephone or memorandum instead of in a group. It's ironic, it's too bad, but it's inevitable."

Blinder, supporting the proposal, argued that public discussion would defuse any hostility the citizens might have toward local government. He said he was willing to let the discussions be public despite his fear of being misrepresented in the Independent-Journal.

Later, the council did go into closed session to discuss other ongoing salary negotiations with city employees.

Hospital Release Seen For Burns

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian George Burns, 79, who underwent open heart surgery last Friday, will be released from Cedars of Lebanon hospital in about 10 days, his doctors said.

Burns teamed for many years with his late wife, Gracie Allen. He was reported in good condition yesterday, able to move around and was busy reading the entertainment trade papers.

only 10 minutes to pass a unanimous resolution asking for a cease-fire. So far the cease-fire has been ignored.

Turkish troops were moving eastward from the Kyrenia area toward the port of Lefka and eastward toward the more important port of Famagusta. The twin moves there and in the Nicosia area would effectively partition Cyprus by military force.

Beginning at dawn, wave after wave of American-made Phantom fighter-bombers of the Turkish air force streaked out of the sun to bomb and strafe the capital while Turkish artillery hammered Greek Cypriot positions in the Kyrenian mountain range about 15 miles to the north.

Radio Nicosia, monitored in Israel, also said Turkish planes bombed Famagusta.

Bombs burst through the industrial section at the east end of Nicosia. It burned for hours, sending up a tower of black smoke into the clear blue sky, and industrialists who took refuge in a hotel said the damage will cripple the island's economy for years.

The heaviest fighting centered at Mia Milea, two miles northeast of Nicosia, and near the airport about five miles southwest of the capital where strong Turkish forces cut off two vital road junctions and encircled the damaged installation, a U.N. spokesman said.

The eruption of renewed warfare following the July 22 cease-fire wounded 20 U.N. soldiers, including six Finns who have been under a constant mortar barrage at their camp near the airport, the spokesman said.

"The Turks are encircling the airport, which is still under U.N. control, while strong Turkish forces supported by heavy armor and artillery are pushing east of Nicosia toward the vital port of Famagusta," the spokesman said.

He said U.N. troops did not enter combat and they would not fire unless attacked at the airport, where four British U.N. troops have been wounded in Turkish bombing runs. U.N. forces took control of the airport following the three-day July war and said they would defend it even if attacked.

The Greek Cypriot government headed by President Glafkos Clerides filed a complaint to the United Nations describing the outbreak of fighting as a "dastardly, unprovoked aggression and indiscriminate bombing of Nicosia and its suburbs," the spokesman said.

Turkey had invaded the eastern Mediterranean island on July 20 in a move that almost brought war with Greece.

It said it did so to protect the approximately 125,000 Turkish Cypriots from the more than 500,000 Greek Cypriots following the Greek-led Cypriot National Guard coup.

PLAN

one point while Roumiguiere maintained the value is "to protect buyers."

After several minor revisions, the ordinance drew support from the county real estate board, construction industry and League of Women Voters, among others.

A sister ordinance to legalize "mother-in-law apartments" in single-family residential areas, under certain conditions, was discussed briefly and postponed until Sept. 24.

The ordinance would permit homes to be remodeled or small cottages built provided the landlord accepts rent controls and leases only to moderate-income families.

If the landlord is of moderate income, the rent control provisions would not apply to either the main home or the "second unit." Nor would they apply when renting to a relative.

Such dwellings would be permitted under a county use permit, requiring adequate parking, utilities, protection of privacy for adjoining lots and similar concerns.

One speaker yesterday urged the matter be given wider publicity by the county. Supervisors responded by ordering copies of the document sent to various homeowners' associations.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Myron Leavitt, Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives, has called for an audit of the Internal Revenue Service.

THEY SAY GOODBYE

After a six-week stay in the Midwest to get away from the violence of their native Northern Ireland, 120 children from Belfast have left Minneapolis for home. As they departed yesterday many of them seemed to have become "Americanized." Their new headgear (above) included a baseball cap, a coon skin hat and a cowboy hat plus new sunglasses.

The Fords Tour Their New Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and his wife Betty toured the White House yesterday, making plans for moving in.

"It's a great place," said Ford, standing on the Truman balcony with its view of the Washington Monument, the Jefferson Monument and the tidal basin.

He dodged other questions, saying "I'm not going to make any comment until I talk to my wife."

Mrs. Ford had a two-hour tour of the executive mansion yesterday with chief usher Rex Scouten as her guide. New first ladies are usually conducted through the White House by the departing presidential wife, but because of former President Nixon's resignation and the Nixons' sudden departure, that custom could not be observed.

"It's pretty nice to me," Mrs. Ford said after her tour. "I really don't consider it my house. I consider it the home of the people of the United States.

"I think it's a beautiful house and I am looking forward to moving in. It's in excellent condition. There is no one more delighted than I am."

The family is selecting the rooms they will use in the living quarters on the second and third floors of the executive mansion. Susan, the President's 17-year-old daughter, has decided to move into the room occupied by Julie Nixon Eisenhower. She plans to have the room painted bright yellow.

Susan turned down a pink second-floor room formerly occupied by Tricia Nixon Cox, saying she wanted to stay on the third floor with her brothers. The President's three sons will have rooms on the fourth floor of the living quarters, but since they are all grown, they'll only use them on visits.

The Fords plan to move into the White House by Monday. They are still living in the suburban Alexandria, Va., home they stayed in for 18 years, and, in a promise to their children, plan to keep the Alexandria house and rent it out. Mrs. Ford said much of her time was in getting the family's property ready for the move.

Mrs. Ford was asked whether the President could continue to cook his own breakfasts —a habit that has become well known since he was sworn into office Friday. She laughed and said he will because "all he needs is a toaster."

She ducked the questions on how many years she would like to live in the White House, saying, "that's a leading question."

Summer Camp Sign-Ups Set

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sign-ups for the Sonoma County Young Men's Christian Association annual summer camp in the Santa Cruz mountains still are available, Executive Director James T. Bland said yesterday.

The camp Aug. 24-30 is for boys and girls 8 to 12 years old. Each of the camp's 10 cabins will be overseen by a counseler and a counselor trainee, Bland said.

A question-and-answer session for prospective campers and their parents will be held at the YMCA, 1111 College Avenue, at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Fee for Y members will be $58; for nonmembers $64.

Community Band Schedules Sign-Ups

Sign-ups for the College of Marin Community Band will be held at its first rehearsal of the 1974-75 season next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in room 75 in the Fine Arts Building on the college's Kentfield campus.

Membership is open to musicians of all ages. Rehearsals are held each Wednesday evening in the Fine Arts Building and the fall concert will be held Dec. 14 in the Fine Arts Theater.

The Perfect Host

Almaden Grenache Rose, 5th
Almaden Mt. Nectar Vin Rose, 5th

Frequently called an "anytime wine", a Rose wine would be a superb host to the silver salmon or Foster Farms Fryers that are featured this week.

Almaden Grenache Rose (pronounced Grenash Ros-A) is more dry than Almaden Mt. Nectar Vin Rose. Grenache Rose is a younger wine with just a trace of fruit taste. Mt. Nectar Vin Rose, on the other hand, has a subtle sweetness and a more pronounced fruit flavor. Both should be chilled three hours before serving.

Removal Of Drydock Walls Approved By Supervisors

The Sausalito drydocks, which arrived in Richardson Bay for "a temporary stay" in 1966, may soon be leaving for that Great Shipyard in the Sky.

Marin County Supervisors, who have considered even firebombing the huge structures to remove them, yesterday opted for a more conventional way of getting rid of them. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

They voted unanimously to accept a $15,950 bid from Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael to remove the drydock walls.

That will, of course, leave the docks' understructure, below the waterline, intact.

But supervisors, after eight years of trying to figure out what to do with the docks, apparently have decided that half a drydock is better than one.

They rejected a proposal from Claus Von Wendel who said he could remove the walls, refloat the rest of the docks (which now are mired in the mud) then tow them away for about $7,000.

But supervisors expressed skepticism about Von Wendel's scheme and decided to go along with the Ghilotti bid. "We have to have someone with the financial base and the equipment to get the job done," said Supervisor Michael Wornum.

Wendel submitted a bid in March to remove the docks free in exchange for salvage rights but the county public works department recommended against it because Wendel lacks a contractor's license.

Instead, the county accepted a bid of $2 from Howard H. Hanley Co. of Covina but that firm failed to provide the necessary insurance.

So the county readvertised the demolition project.

A spokesman for Ghilotti Bros. said that work will begin in the next few weeks. He estimated it will take between three and four weeks to complete.

Supervisors also asked County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to take curt action against the Hanley company to recover the costs of the drydocks removal since the firm failed to perform on its promise to do the work for $2.

Supervisors Angry With Hospital Board

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday reacted angrily to news that a representative will not be allowed to appear on the agenda of the next Marin Hospital District board meeting to discuss the relocation of Bon Air Road.

County Administrative Asst. Tracy Friedman told supervisors he had spoken to an assistant administrator at Marin General Hospital, asking that the matter be placed on the hospital board's agenda.

Friedman reported he was told "no" and it was suggested he write a letter to the hospital board's attorney.

(The hospital district has filed suit to force the county to proceed with realignment of Bon Air Road, which serves the hospital.)

Friedman told supervisors that the hospital district official also said there is no "open time" on the board's agenda for members of the public to bring up matters.

"I don't think their legal virginity would be affected" if hospital officials discuss the road matter with the supervisors, Michael Wornum, chairman of the board of supervisors, said angrily yesterday.

Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini agreed, saying "never has this board been treated this way."

It was decided to write to the hospital district board, requesting time on the board's agenda for supervisors to appear.

Meeting Notice Policy Approved By Supervisors

Marin County supervisors agreed unanimously yesterday to give advance notice to the press of meetings by its various standing and special committees.

Adoption of the policy statement followed the bluepenciling of one paragraph dealing with "study groups, negotiating teams and similar assemblages of (two) supervisors."

The policy contains a disclaimer that announcement of committee meetings does not mean the meetings must be conducted publicly and open to the press.

Koreans Sentenced

SEOUL (UPI) — A military court sentenced another 36 persons to prison today in the latest series of mass trials to punish opponents of President Park Chung-hee, a government spokesman said.

Ordinance Approved To Slow Growth

An emergency ordinance to slow the pace of growth in the Black Point area was approved swiftly yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The ordinance, which covers ridges but not flatlands, received the required four votes to go into effect immediately. It will stay in force four months.

During that time, newly created building sites must be either two or five acres in size, depending on slope. Two-acre lots are required on lands of 25-per-cent slope or less, and five-acre sites on lands of more than 25-per-cent slope. Existing smaller lots are not affected.

County planning officials said the ordinance was needed to protect ridgelands which are listed as greenbelt-open space in the county general plan.

The Black Point Community Planning Group has proposed that the general plan be amended to show Black Point open space as the low-lying agriculture and flood plain lands but not the ridges.

Planning Director Werner von Gundell said he will recommend such a change later this year.

Until supervisors decide on the change, he added, the ridge should be protected from the large number of land divisions being sought. The ridgelands are generally zoned for half-acre home sites.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

AVIATION — Authorized Marin Aviation to land an airplane on the fairgrounds parking lot at Civic Center. The plane will be part of the firm's fair exhibit.

GRANT — Requested $60,000 from the North Bay Regional Planning Council for funding the county's Treatment Alternatives to Street Crime project, a drug diversion program.

ASSESSMENT — Tabled a proposal to allow reassessment of property damaged due to any calamity not the fault of the property owner. State law, allowing the reassessments during the year, is vague and creates a number of problems, supervisors said.

INSURANCE — Increased the county's liability insurance from $5 million to $10 million at a cost of $6,500.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $16,304 contract to Maggiora and Ghilotti of Corte Madera for road-related repair work in the Kentfield and Sleepy Hollow area.

LANDO — Rejected the appeal of Ellis A. Lando that he not be required to finance an environmental impact report as part of his application to divide a seven-acre site above Mill Valley into two homesites. The Marin Conservation League and others urged an environmental report be required because the site is on the face of Mount Tamalpais off Fern Canyon Road.

AUDUBON — Heard a request from the Marin Audubon Society that the county take steps to preserve the marsh lands in San Pablo Bay from China Camp to the mouth of Novato Creek.

HEAD START — Granted Marin Head Start $4,240 to pay for more health care for youngsters, including handicapped children, in the agency's program. The money will make it possible for a half-time health coordinator to become full-time. But the board refused to give the federal educational program an additional $20,000 it had asked to provide its employees a 10 per cent raise.

FIRE TRAILS — Agreed to ask the federal government to permit existing fire trails to remain in an area of the Point Reyes National Seashore which has been designated as wilderness area, a designation prohibiting roads or fire trails. County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli said such a prohibition would create extreme fire danger in the area since it would make transporting fire equipment difficult or impossible. It also could be a threat to Marin Municipal Water District watershed lands near the seashore, he said.

REZONING — Rezoned ridgelands in the upper Ross Valley and Corte Madera Creek watershed to conform with the countywide plan and to allow fewer dwellings than under previous zoning. The plan approved by the county planning commission was accepted by the supervisors with only a few changes on individual parcels.

Large Claim Rejected By Supervisors

Marin County yesterday rejected a $4.9 million claim which alleges inverse condemnation of the 48-acre Strawberry Spit and the 20-acre Strawberry Point.

The claim, filed by American Savings and Loan Association, maintains the county supervisors' recent action to rezone the land "drastically reduced" the value of Strawberry Point "and reduced to no value" Strawberry Spit.

The spit was rezoned in May to reduce the number of possible homesites from 109 to about nine. The point was "downzoned" from 160 homesites to about 80.

Such claims are routinely rejected by county supervisors but must be filed before courts will consider a case.

Julie Keeps Silent

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower, younger daughter of former President Richard Nixon, flew to Indianapolis yesterday to attend an editorial board meeting of Curtis Publishing Co., but declined to talk to newsmen about her father's resignation.

San Rafael Pharmacy Robbed Of $450 Worth Of Drugs

A bandit with little interest in money entered a San Rafael pharmacy last night, pulled a cocked revolver from his belt and forced the firm's owner to hand over $450 worth of drugs.

San Rafael police said the man walked into the Medico-Dental Pharmacy at 711 D Street at 7 p.m. and confronted owner Elvus D. Regalia as he was counting the day's receipts.

The man waved a gun and handed Regalia a list of various drugs, telling him to put the pills in the bag, according to police.

Regalia loaded the bag with various quantities of valium, percodin, dexedrine, demerol and other drugs and was then handcuffed and bound by the bandit, police said.

The robber, saying he wanted drugs only, left about $150 in cash receipts lying on the pharmacy counter but about $40 was later discovered missing, police said.

The man was described as in his early 20s, having an olive complexion, weighing about 165 pounds and wearing a white helmet, blue coat, dark slacks and tan boots, according to police.

Police, alerted to the situation by an anonymous tipster, arrived on the scene moments after the bandit fled but could find no trace of him.

Non-Watergate Tapes Are Ruled As Private Property

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Nixon's taped conversations that are not relevant to the Watergate inquiry are his personal property, a White House spokesman said today.

President Ford's press secretary, Jerry terHorst, said the White House legal counsel's office, in consultation with the special prosecutor and the Justice Department, made the judgment.

Ford played no role in the decision but concurs with the ruling, terHorst said.

Specifically, terHorst said "the tapes not subpoenaed and not relevant to the Watergate inquiry belong to the President" meaning Nixon. The statement left unclear the status of tapes that have been subpoenaed and deemed relevant.

At the same time, terHorst said Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, had left the White House legal counsel's office as of today and had returned to Boston.

St. Clair has been taken off the White House payroll, terHorst said. St. Clair went on the payroll last January to help Nixon in his battle against impeachment at an annual salary of $42,500.

TerHorst said St. Clair left on his own initiative and he expects other members of Nixon's Watergate defense team will be leaving in a week or two after they wind up their affairs.

The subpoenaed tapes are in the hands of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who is reviewing them for relevancy in the Sept. 9 Watergate cover-up trial, or, in the case of those Sirica thinks relevant, with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Bids Are Cheap On Span Cable

Nostalgia comes cheap these days, judging from eager bidders who offered yesterday to buy the original suspender ropes from the Golden Gate Bridge for a cent a pound.

That comes out to about $6,000 for nearly eight miles of steel cables that supported the roaddeck from its opening in 1937 until last year, when they were replaced.

By contrast, new cables cost $1.36 a pound.

The bridge's senior engineer, Daniel E. Mohn, nevertheless said he will recommend the bids be accepted. "We just don't have room to store them," he said. The bridge board will consider the matter at 10 a.m. on Aug. 30 in toll plaza offices.

Five bids were received by yesterday's 2 p.m. deadline, including identical ones, those for a penny a pound, from Gene E. Shipps of Fairfield and Kalman Steel Products Co. of San Francisco. Mohn said the two may have to split the cable or draw straws to see which gets most of it.

Two other successful bids were by John A. Williford of Novato, who offered $82.50 for a 201-foot section of cable, and Les Scarlett of Cypress, Orange County, who bid $299 for a 965-foot section, the longest for sale. It weight 11,580 pounds.

M. J. Hughes of San Francisco bid $2.01 for a 201-foot piece, thus was outbid by Shipps and Kalman.

Mohn said Shipps plans to cut the cables into small pieces for sale as souvenirs, and that Williford intends to use his for some purpose at home.

Bidders are required to arrange their own delivery.

Pilot Error Blamed For Airplane Crash

Pilor error was blamed today for the crash of a light plane near Novato on Monday in which a student pilot died.

A Federal Aviation Administration investigator said there was no mechanical failure in the single-engine Cessna being flown by James Sappington, 31, a Redding contractor.

Sappington was certified to fly solo across country but it is unclear if his student license permitted him to fly at night without an instructor, the investigator said.

"However, I doubt if it did," he added.

Sappington's wife, Marsha, said her husband telephoned her from Sacramento Monday evening and said he was headed home.

"We assume he was lost" when he crashed, the investigator said, despite the fact that Marin is nowhere near the flight path from Sacramento to Redding. "That's well within the realm of error."

Sappington's body was returned to Redding today for burial.

Full-Time Attorney Sworn In

Matthew L. Hudson has moved into Petaluma City Hall as the city's first full-time attorney.

Hudson, 30, was sworn in for the $21,000 a year post Monday. He has moved from Stockton where he was San Joaquin County deputy county counsel.

He is a graduate of Boalt Hall, University of California at Berkeley, and a veteran of six years' service in the Navy. He was born in Pasadena.

Hudson and his wife, Kate, have a son and a daughter. He was active in Stockton softball play.

The new city attorney said he will be legal adviser to the city council and all city commissions and will represent Petaluma in all suits filed by or against the city. He said he did not know what role he will play in Petaluma's continuing litigation over the growth limit policy adopted last year. Former City Atty. Edourd E. Robert and an Oakland attorney have been handling that suit and may continue, Hudson said.

Hudson's arrival coincides with extensive switching of office spaces in the city hall, with the city clerk, recreation, police investigator and other offices relocating.

Hudson now has a full-time secretary, Marjorie Irving, who formerly worked parttime in Robert's private law office.

The new city attorney also will have a new law library, to be shared with Municipal Court Judge Alexander J. McNamara, whose court is in city hall.

Session Tonight

The Marin County Disaster Council will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the board of supervisors chambers in the Marin Civic Center, to discuss a recent visit by council members to emergency operating centers in Santa Cruz and San Mateo counties. Also to be discussed will be a proposed emergency mobile command post.

$276,726 Budget Is Approved

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District last night adopted a 1974-75 budget of $276,729, up over last year's spending plan of $221,084.

The fiscal program will require a tax rate of 38 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, a six-cent hike over last year.

The budget reflects general across-the-board increases in spending by all departments due to an 8.2 per cent salary raise for district employees and higher costs for materials and services, according to Director Richard A. Drever Jr.

Board members also hiked sewer service charges from $45 to $50 per household per year, a result of increased costs for processing sewage by the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, Drever said.

Amid opposition from about 13 residents in an audience of 50, directors declared that development of Eastwood Park would have no significant effect on the environment, Drever reported.

Plans for the park include construction of a grassy playfield and two tennis courts.

Interest Is Hiked On Federal Home Mortgages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development raised interest ceilings to 9½ per cent on federally guaranteed home mortgages, effective today.

It was the fifth increase this year in the maximum rate on home loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration.

In a parallel action, the Senate voted 84 to 0 yesterday to approve an $11.1 billion housing and community development bill. The measure, a compromise between differing House and Senate bills, went to the House for expected approval.

Among the bill's provisions are a new housing subsidy program to replace one frozen by former President Nixon in January, 1973. It would also raise the ceiling on FHA-VA mortgages from $33,000 to $45,000.

FHA and VA were the primary sources of home mortgages until recent years when their share of the market fell to about 20 per cent. The government program, which allowed millions of Americans to buy homes in the 1940s, 1950s and 1960s, has failed to keep pace with home prices that have soared 14 per cent this year alone.

HUD Secretary James T. Lynn said the new 9.5 per cent interest ceiling on FHA-VA guaranteed mortgages should reduce closing costs —the money for down payment, insurance, title search and other charges a home buyer pays when he takes possession.

Lynn said some home buyers had been paying "penalties" as high as $2,640 on a $33,000 home because FHA-VA guaranteed mortgages at 9 per cent were substantially below the rate for conventional mortgage loans. The effect of the higher rate will be to spread the expense over the life of the mortgage.

The 9-½ per cent ceiling is a reflection of realities in the mortgage money market. The FHA-VA rate was 7-¾ per cent on Jan 1.

It was raised to 8-¼ on Jan. 8, to 8-½ on April 15, to 8 ¾ on May 13 and to 9 on July 8 to encourage money lenders to provide mortgages for home buyers able to pay the rate.

The effect of inflation on the home cost coupled with the rising interest rates has been to increase the monthly payment for the average house from $205 per month to $278 in the past 14 months.

Nixon's Disbarment Before State Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Whether Richard M. Nixon is criminally prosecuted for Watergate offenses, he may be disbarred from practicing law in California.

Seth M. Hufstedler, State Bar president, says the Nixon case is in the hands of an informal, preliminary committee which can state charges to be heard by a formal committee.

"It is conceivable the (former) president might urge that he is exempt," Hofstedler said recently. "However, our counsel has advised us it is his opinion he is not immune from disciplinary proceedings."

Nixon need not be convicted by a court to be disciplined by the State Bar of California. All that is needed is a finding of moral turpitude.

This would result from "clear and convincing evidence" of actions "in the nature of a crime" — standards substantially less than required before a jury and a judge.

Nixon began his law practice in California as a young man. He has treasured his membership in the California bar enough to have paid $100 a year in dues while president.

Voluminous material, some sent by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, has been collected in the cases of Nixon and six others licensed to practice law in California.

They are John Ehrlichman, Robert Mardian, Gordon Strachan, Frank DeMarco Jr. and Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach. Kalmbach already has been suspended from practice.

Since the California Supreme Court issues licenses to practice law, the court has the power to suspend or revoke licenses of persons of moral turpitude, and who therefore are not trusted to handle clients' funds and secrets.

Short of disbarment, an attorney can be subjected to suspensions or public or private reprisals.

If Nixon is formally charged, he could avoid possible penalties by resigning from the bar. However, such resignations must be approved by the State Bar Board of Governors and the court, and the charges would remain pending in the event that Nixon applies for reentry.

Beef Situation Is Played Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials, in a campaign to reduce the emotional effect of reports that the price of meat will be going up in 1975, are saying that supplies will be plentiful for the rest of this year.

However, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, says the reports indicate a critical situation.

The reports are based on the latest estimates on the corn crop, a livestock feed which directly affects the price of meat. On Monday, the Agriculture Department said the Midwest drought means the corn crop would be 12 per cent lower than last year.

Yesterday, another government report called the outlook for livestock feeds "critical," predicting that producers would use 3.7 to 3.8 billion bushels of corn in the year beginning Oct. 1 instead of the 4.3 to 4.4 billion bushels in earlier estimates.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz called a news conference and admitted the crop report was "disappointing." But, he said, "this is no time for panic about the food situation." He said rains in the Midwest this week helped many corn crops — but in some areas the rains came too late and farmers are using their corn crop for silage.

"We have plenty of livestock for the rest of the year," Butz said. "We'll get a larger percentage raised on grass or small amounts of corn. We'll have an adequate supply of beef, probably at somewhat lower prices toward the end of the year than now."

An Iowa meat producer, Glenn Gregg of Hawarden, says many Midwest meat producers will be feeding their animals hay and silage because of the drought. This will mean there will be a lesser grade of beef, good for pot roast but not for steaks and roasts, he said.

"If the consumer will settle for something a little less tender, we can give her all she wants at prices she can afford," Gregg said in a telephone interview. "And besides, it won't have as much fat."

Butz pointed to the wheat crop as one of the successes of this year's harvest. Most winter wheat had been harvested before the drought began.

"The wheat crop is nearly 200 million bushels above a year ago and way beyond domestic needs," he said. "We're going to be able to meet a substantial share of the export demand."

The Agriculture Department also issued a dairy report today which said the July milk output was slightly higher than the 1973 figures — but that the dairy farmer's cost-to-profit ratio was 7 per cent higher than last month and 5 per cent higher than a year ago.

The report said 10.1 billion pounds of milk were produced in July, 17 million pounds more than the 1973 figure.

Talmadge, was not as optimistic as Butz. "The situation has to be labeled critical," he said yesterday in a Senate speech. "The potential to contribute to spiraling inflation is tremendous. The crop situation has forced us into a corner from which there is no easy exit."

He said meat producers were losing money when corn was $3 a bushel and said "the prospects of $5 or $6 a bushel is catastrophic."

Talmadge has supported export controls on crops to keep more of them in the country.

"We must put the people of this country first," he said. "It is imperative that we begin now to monitor more closely the stocks of wheat, feed grain and soybeans. Before it is too late we must considerable equitable measures to meet domestic needs without doing irreparable harm to our friendly trading partners abroad."

Quake Hits Southern California

SYLMAR (UPI) — An aftershock of the devastating 1971 earthquake that killed 65 persons rumbled across a wide area of Southern California today, swaying tall buildings and rattling dishes but apparently causing no damage.

The quake struck at 7:46 a.m. and had a magnitude of 3.7 on the open-end Richter scale, according to preliminary estimates by the Caltech Seismological Laboratory in Pasadena. The seismographic station at the University of California in Berkeley said the quake had a magnitude of 4.5.

Caltech said today's aftershock was centered in the same area as the Feb. 9, 1971, quake which had a magnitude of 6.4, caused widespread damage and left 65 dead.

Today's quake was noticeably felt in the UPI news bureau on the eighth floor of an office building in downtown Los Angeles 15 miles from here and also was felt along the coast from Santa Monica south to Long Beach and in Sherman Oaks and Pasadena.

A resident of this San Fernando Valley town said the quake was a rumble, not a jolt, and that it rattled dishes. Preceding the quake was the roar which is frequently heard just before strong quakes.

"It was not very big although I felt it here at my home in Pasadena," said a spokesman for Caltech.

Sadat Says Egypt Set For Clash

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said today his country was prepared for a new outbreak of Middle East fighting if Israel stepped up its military preparations.

"We are preparing just as they are preparing, and the day Israel declares general mobilization we will do the same," Sadat said in an interview with the Beirut's Al Sayyad news magazine one day after an Israeli naval raid against the Lebanese coast.

Asked about Arab press reports of Israeli troop concentrations and an imminent Israeli offensive, Sadat said, "It is a mere show of muscle intended for domestic consumption."

One person was killed and five injured in an Israeli gunboat attack yesterday near the refugee camp of Al Rashidiyeh, Lebanese government and guerrilla officials said.

The Beirut defense ministry said one of the attacking Israeli vessels was hit by shore fire, but the Tel Aviv military command said all its boats returned safely after destroying an Arab guerrilla naval headquarters building nine miles north of the Israeli-Lebanon border.

Sadat said in the magazine interview former President Richard Nixon did for Israel more than any other American president by preventing its defeat in the October war.

"But afterward, he changed American policy," he said. "Nixon did not become biased in the Arabs' favor, but in favor of an honorable peace settlement.

"When I say Nixon, I mean the entire American system. If Nixon's successor changes what Nixon did, then we will have to make new calculations."

MORE ON MELONS

Recently, I gave you some information on selecting mixed melons. I couldn't give you all the details because of limited space, so here are more. Some people select mixed melons by smell. Cantaloupes have a full, mellow aroma when ripe, and the Cranshaw melons have a more spicy odor.

Here in the West where the melons are grown, we don't have to worry too much about the maturity of the melons. Ours are picked at their best. Easterners have to look carefully at the stem end to decide whether melons have a "full slip." This is where the stem scar is perfectly smooth, indicating that the melon was mature and pulled easily from the vine. Jagged edges would mean the melon wasn't ready when picked and wouldn't have the best quality.

Melon season is far too short as far as our family is concerned. The melons provide good nutrition (good source of Vitamins A and C) and are very filling and satisfying with few calories. Half a medium cantaloupe has about 60 calories.

We can make a meal of this favorite summer salad:

Chicken-Melon Salad
(Serves 6)

1 large cantaloupe	¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts
2 cups diced cooked chicken	(toasted almonds or walnuts)
½ cup diced celery	½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup seedless grapes	lettuce leaves

Remove the rind from cantaloupe, leaving it whole. Slice crosswise into 8 rings. Remove seeds. Cut the two end pieces into cubes. Mix cantaloupe cubes, chicken, celery, nuts, grapes and mayonnaise. Chill chicken mix and rings. When ready to serve, arrange cantaloupe rings on lettuce leaves and fill with chicken salad. Garnish with mint or watercress.

Expansion Of Bar Offices Is Opposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A legislative audit committee recommended yesterday that a proposed $2 million expansion project by the State Bar Association be scrapped because additional space is necessary.

The 40,000-member bar earlier proposed an addition of 42,985 square feet of office space in its San Francisco building at an estimated cost of $2 million.

"Based on the combined existing space in the San Francisco and Los Angeles office buildings owned by the State Bar. . .the expansion is necessary," said Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, chairman of the Joint Legislative Audit Committee.

The report said the State Bar's existing staff and projected needs do not justify the additional staff.

The report, prepared by State Auditor Harvey Rose, said the bar's existing rental facilities in San Francisco —providing space for 25 employees at an annual rental cost of $31,000, is also unnecessary.

The bar association is an official part of the judiciary branch of government and primarily serves as the professional regulatory agency for the legal profession.

The report also found:

That the bar has still not developed the specific workload standards and statistics needed not only to evaluate performance, but also to determine future personnel needs.

That the legal duties of nine staff attorneys of the bar could be handled by four attorneys, and their nonlegal duties could be assigned to five legal secretaries for a salary and benefits reduction of about $65,000.

Recommended that the legislature not grant the bar permission to raise annual dues from $100 to $145 for veteran members.

State's Gas Consumption Dips In June

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gasoline consumption in California was lower in June than it was a year ago, the seventh straight month that motorists used less fuel than in the previous year, the state Board of Equalization said yesterday.

The agency said the June consumption of 854 million gallons was 2.6 per cent lower than June, 1973, and down 1.3 per cent from May this year. The consumption figures are based on the volume of the state's gasoline tax receipts.

Gasoline consumtpion for the second quarter of this year was up 14.2 per cent over the first quarter, but it was 4.1 per cent less than the second three months of 1973.

The board also said the number of gasoline stations has dropped sharply in the past year. In July, 1974, the state had 19,265 stations, down 1,753 from the 21,018 in existence in July, 1973.

Since consumption was down in June, revenue from the gasoline tax declined from $61.4 million in May to $59.8 million in June, the agency said.

California's monthly decline in gasoline consumption began in December, 1973.

No Grumman Loan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has told the Navy it cannot lend $100 million to the Grumman Aerospace Corp. of Bethpage, N.Y., builder of the Navy's new F14 jet fighter. The vote yesterday to kill the loan was 55 to 35.

HOME CANNING is as satisfying as it is practical when summer produce is plentiful. Be sure to read an authoritative guide to canning to insure successful results.

Urban Homemakers Have Tie To Rural Farm Wife

For the country wife of days gone by, the pantry shelf held the pride and satisfaction that comes from a season of hard labor and a successful harvest.

Although the canning process eventually became commercialized, canning food at home has regained its importance. What was both a necessity and a source of satisfaction to the rural farm wife and gardener is now providing urban homemakers with the same sense of accomplishment.

Canning fresh fruits and vegetables captures the natural tastes of summer and allows you to enjoy them long after the growing season is over. Whether you harvest your own or rely on the local farmers market, canning food is a do-it-yourself project to be proud of.

Home canning is foolproof if a few simple techniques are followed:

When choosing ingredients for canning remember to select only the firmest fruits and vegetables free from bruises.

It's easier to can a few pounds of fruits and vegetables at a time rather than attempting to do a farmhouse batch.

Wash and rinse canning jars or sterilize 10 minutes if the jars are not to be processed in a water bath.

To insure that fresh jams and jellies are kept free from mold, seal with paraffin or process in a water bath for 10-15 minutes.

When processing canning jars in a water bath, be sure to follow the indicated recipe times carefully.

After processing, the jars should be cooled then checked to test the seal. (Press the center of the lid down firmly and if it does not pop up, the jar is sealed.)

After carefully following these steps, your complete home canning job has been accomplished and you can store your preparations (at 70 degrees or lower in dark, dry place) knowing that your family can enjoy fresh natural foods all through the year.

CALICO CARROT RELISH

4 large sweet green peppers, quartered and seeded
4 large sweet red peppers, quartered and seeded
6 large onions, peeled and quartered

2 cups cider vinegar

Using a coarse disc, grind carrots, peppers and onions with a food grinder. Place ingredients in electric boiling pot or boiling water. Add remaining ingredients. Heat to boil at 225 degrees. Cover and bring to a boil, then simmer 20 minutes. Ladle into hot canning jars, leaving 1/8" headspace; seal. Process in a boiling water bath 15 minutes.

Yield: Six pints

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB JAM

2 thick stalks rhubarb, about 18" long
1 quart strawberries, hulled and washed
2 tbls. lemon juice

12 drops red food coloring

Using a coarse disc, grind rhubarb and strawberries with a food grinder. Place ingredients in electric boiling pot or boiling water. Add lemon juice, salt and pectin. Heat to 225 degrees. Cook and stir until boiling. Add sugar and food coloring. Stirring constantly, boil one minute. Turn off. Stir and skim five minutes. Ladle into hot canning jars, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Using a coarse disc, grind pears with a food grinder. Place ingredients in electric boiling pot or boiling water. Add lemons and sugar. Heat to 225 degrees. Cook and stir until boiling. Reduce heat to simmer, cover and cook until thickened and clear, about 40 to 50 minutes. Ladle into hot canning jars, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Seal. Process in a boiling water bath 10 minutes.

Yield: Six and one-half pint jars.

Mushrooms Are Ideal For Summer Menus

Since mushrooms are as high in flavor as they are low in calories they are ideal in summer menus.

Add them to your own tried-and-true recipes for meats, poultry and seafood dishes, too, and to salads, cheese, egg and vegetable dishes. Mushrooms can make a dish fancy at plain and thrifty prices.

EASY MARINATED MUSHROOMS

Slice one pound medium-sized fresh mushrooms; place in plastic bag. Combine three-fourths cup salad oil; one fourth cup fresh squeezed lemon juice; one and one-half teaspoons fresh grated lemon peel; one teaspoon each oregano leaves, crushed and garlic salt; and one-eighth teaspoon ground white pepper.

Pour over mushrooms; seal bag. Marinate for several hours in refrigerator, turning bag occasionally. Drain marinade and save for use as salad dressing or for marinating other foods. Serve mushrooms on lettuce leaf. Makes appetizers for 12.

GOURMET PEACHES

Drain well one can (one pound) cling peach halves. Stir together one-half cup sliced fresh mushrooms, one-fourth cup each softened cream cheese and dairy sour cream, one tablespoon bacon bits and dash of liquid pepper sauce. Place peach halves, cut side up, in shallow baking pan. Spoon mushrooms mixture into each cup. Broil. Serve as salad or meat accompaniment.

MUSHROOMS IN SOUR CREAM

Saute one pound fresh mushrooms in three tablespoons butter. Add one teaspoon onion salt, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon ground white pepper and one-fourth cup dry sherry or chicken stock. Heat one minute. Stir in one can (eight ounce) imitation sour cream with chives and three tablespoons shredded cucumber; heat until hot. Serve with main dishes. Makes: four to six portions.

CRISPY MUSHROOM APPETIZERS

Mix together three-fourth cup corn flake crumbs and two teaspoons onion salt. Beat two egg whites until foamy. Stir in one-fourth cup water. Pour about one quart corn oil into heavy, sturdy, flat bottomed three-quart saucepan or deep fryer, filling utensil no more than one-third full. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees. Dip about one-half pound sliced fresh mushrooms in egg mixture and then coat with crumbs.

Carefully add to oil in single layer. Fry one to two minutes or until crisp and lightly browned. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot. Makes about 45 appetizers.

Advice For Corn Buyer

Good quality corn-on-the-cob is tender and sweet. Kernels may be yellow or white, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Look for kernels that are plump, but not too large, and that cover the cob well. Yellow corn of bright (not deep) color and white corn that is really white is best.

Husks that look fresh and have a good green color, not dried or yellow, is also a goodness tip. Be sure that silk ends are free from decay or worm injury.

Keep fresh corn cold and moist. Use it within one or two days.

Plums Are A Natural In Dessert

A Japanese setting is a culinary natural for the plum; for while it is a native of China, the plum was domesticated in Japan. Today, California plum orchards produce more than 90 percent of the nation's plum supply.

They're all marvelous in Tempura Plums — a refreshingly unique dessert idea to serve as a do-it-yourself party or family special. It's a triple treat: easy to prepare, a delight to the eye, and delicious to eat.

TEMPURA PLUMS

3 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
1⅓ cups flour
½ tsp salt
2 tbsp melted butter
12 fresh California plums, pitted and quartered
Oil for frying
Powdered sugar

In mixing bowl, beat egg yolks with milk; beat in flour, salt and butter. In separate bowl, beat egg whites until stiff; fold into batter. Dip plums into batter; deep fry in hot oil (375 degrees) 1 or 2 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Roll in powdered sugar; serve warm. Makes six servings.

Use Imagination In Sandwiches

A dash of imagination is a required ingredient for sandwich making. Use old stand-by favorites in different combinations, slip under broiler and serve open face style.

For example, combine diced bologna, grated cheddar cheese and chopped California prunes with mayonnaise. Spread on split hamburger buns and broil until bubbly.

Fancy Dessert

Stir drained canned dark sweet cherries and roasted diced almonds into whipped cream or non-dairy topping flavored with brandy or rum; garnish with chocolate curls.

Lemon Juice Can Be Used For Quick Salad

Use real or bottled lemon juice to make these quick salad ideas.

TOMATOES WITH LEMON DRESSING

4 medium size firm tomatoes
Dressing:
⅔ CUP SALAD OIL
1 tbsp. dried basil
½ cup lemon juice
½ tsp. pepper
2 tbsp. parsley

Slice tomatoes into wedges. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over tomatoes.

CUCUMBER SALAD

2 medium cucumbers, pared and sliced (4 cups)
2 tbsp. horseradish
1 cup sour cream
¼ tsp. dill weed
2 tbsp. lemon juice.

Place cucumbers in a small bowl. Combine horseradish, sour cream, dill and lemon juice. Combine sauce with cucumbers and chill to blend flavors. At serving time, toss.

LETTUCE WITH DRESSING

1 head of iceberg lettuce
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
3 tbsp. lemon juice
1 egg yolk (beaten)
¼ tsp. curry powder.

Cut head of lettuce into wedges. Combine remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Stir constantly over low heat until thick. Cool and serve dressing over lettuce wedges.

GREEK CHEESE PIES (TRIANGLES)
(Tyropitakia)

Recipes through the courtesy of Chef Louis Gundunas of the Balkan Village, Los Altos.

½ lb. feta cheese
½ lb. midjithra or ricotta or large curd, creamed cottage cheese
3 eggs
1 tbs. dill or fennel leaf pepper, to taste
1 lb. Filo (strudel dough, available from delicatessen)
1 cup melted butter

Crumble cheese by hand, then pour in eggs, dill or fennel and pepper and mix well.

Open sheets of Filo and brush butter fat on strips of dough with pastry brush. Put teaspoon of cheese mixture on end of each dough strip and fold into triangles.

Lay in buttered pan and bake in preheated oven (325 degrees) until golden brown (about 30 minutes.)

Makes about 40 bite size cheese triangles.

GREEK HONEY/NUT PASTRY
(Baklava)

1 lb. Filo (strudel dough, available from delicatessen)
1 lb. sweet butter
1 lb. chopped almonds or walnuts, or mixture of both
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 lemon
2 lbs. sugar
3 cups water
½ pt. honey
1 tbsp. whole cloves

Butter 10 inch by 15 inch pan, one inch deep. Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. Lay ⅓ lb. Filo in pan, cut to size. Melt and draw butter. Brush pastry with fatty part of butter. Lay ⅓ lbs. of Filo on top of first layer and brush with butter, then sprinkle nuts over. Top with last ⅓ of Filo, baste with generous amount of butter. Using an electric knife, or very sharp instrument, cut pastry (layered) into diamond shapes of desired size. Bake for 45-60 minutes, until top layer turns a golden brown. Cool in pan.

Baklava may be served with topping of honey or hot syrup.

To make hot syrup: Pour 3 cups of water into sauce pan and add 2 lbs. of sugar. Stir. Add ½ pint of honey, tsp. of cinnamon and cloves. Squeeze lemon juice into syrup mixture and then throw in rind of lemon. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat to simmer. Simmer for short while, until spices are blended, or until ready to serve.

Freezing Peaches Is Simple

Winter doesn't mean that you can't have the summer taste of peaches with your meals.

Freezing peaches is simpler than canning. There's no hot stove to stand over, no stirring, and no sterilizing. A great way to freeze peach halves for use later for individual servings is to dip peeled, halved peaches into syrup, and freeze on a cookie sheet. When frozen, pop the peaches in plastic bags, then they're ready for use one at a time as you need them. Peaches frozen in a syrup or other liquid will keep for about a year in the freezer and up to three months in your refrigerator frozen food compartment.

Sun-dried peaches are best if allowed to mellow about 2 weeks before eating. When stored in the refrigerator or freezer, they'll keep for at least a year.

CHICKEN BREASTS with artichoke sauce provide delicate, tasteful, yet simple French fare. The chicken is coated with French biscotte crumbs, baked with a winey cream sauce and canned French artichoke bottoms.

Elaborate Looking Classic That A Novice Can Make

This dish begins with its sauce . . . saute shallots, stir in flour and gradually add French dry white wine and cream. Stir in the canned French artichoke bottoms — fresh tarragon if you can find it, and salt and pepper. Pour into a baking pan and prepare the chicken breasts.

The rest of the meal can be as simple, and just as French. A green salad may accompany the chicken or be served, French style, as a separate course to follow. Of course, you will need a loaf of crusty French bread. For dessert, fruit and an assortment of fine French cheeses wind up the meal in rousing fashion.

SUPREMES DE VOLAILLE AUX ARTICHAUX
(Makes 6 servings)

Sauce:
6 tbsp butter or margarine
6 shallots, minced
6 tbsp flour
1 cup French dry white wine
Salt and pepper

Chicken:
6 boneless and skinless chicken breast halves
1 egg, well beaten
¼ cup butter
1 pint (2 cups) heavy creamy
2 cans (14-oz. each) artichoke bottoms drained and quartered
1 tbsp minced fresh tarragon or 1 tsp dried tarragon
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1½ cups French biscottes, crumbled
Salt and pepper

In saucepan melt butter and saute shallots. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in wine and cream. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Stir in artichokes, tarragon and salt and pepper to taste.

Pour mixture into a shallow greased 9x13x2-inch baking pan. Sprinkler chicken breasts with salt and pepper. Dip chicken into egg and then into crumbs, pressing to make crumbs adhere. Heat butter in a skillet and brown on all sides.

Place browned chicken on top of sauce. Pour over pan juices. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve on platter garnished with sprigs of fresh tarragon.

AFTER THREE YEARS

Book About River Done

By BETTY FROST

After more than three years of research and writing, Margaret Sanborn of Mill Valley has completed "The American River of El Dorado," the 64th volume in the Rivers of America series published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.

Much of the research for it was done in the Marin County Civic Center Library. Librarian Virginia Borland obtained additional material through the Bay Area Library Cooperative.

Miss Borland and the author's daughter, Catherine Sanborn, who accompanied her mother on many excursions to the three-pronged Northern California river, are honored in the book's dedication.

A SECOND GENERATION Californian, Mrs. Sanborn has strong Marin ties, dating from her childhood when she spent summers in Mill Valley or Sausalito. She is a graduate of the College of Marin.

Mrs. Sanborn traveled to Virginia to prepare for the two-volume work on Robert E. Lee which first brought her prominence as an historian. In 1968 she was awarded the California Literature Medal for nonfiction for the series by the Commonwealth Club. Such awards are given annually to California writers.

When the Mill Valley writer was asked to write the new book for the Rivers of America Series, "It was much more of a challenge than I realized. There were so many fields that I would have to investigate. I had to learn about anthropology, geology, botany, the whole natural history of the area, as well as biography and history," she said.

MUCH OF CALIFORNIA'S history took place along the banks of the American River, including the Gold Rush of 1849 and unification of the United States by railroad, Mrs. Sanborn said. Captain John Sutter, John C. Fremont, Kit Carson, Mark Twain, and the Donner party who played major roles in California's history, are closely associated with the river.

Lotta Crabtree, the singer and dancer who entertained miners camped along the gold-rich river is a favorite character of Mrs. Sanborn. "My grandfather was the first one to tell me about the men in the audience who admired her, showering her with gold pieces. He had come to California in the early days and recalled seeing Lotta's mother pick up all the gold pieces very carefully," she reminisced.

Of her working habits, Mrs. Sanborn said, "Writing is organized work, just like anything else. You have to discipline yourself. I leave the breakfast dishes in the sink and begin writing in the morning, working until midafternoon. Then I try to get outdoors, to walk or work in the garden."

THE NEXT SIX weeks are peppered with important dates for the writer. Aug. 19 is the official publication date of the American River book. Sept. 19 she will talk about her book at a program on California in the Supervisors Chambers of the Civic Center. Sept. 21 a champagne reception will be given for her in the California Room of the Civic Center Library.

Her husband, Francis Sanborn, an accountant, is also a history buff, with emphasis on his native New England. They have a son, David Sanborn, who is a San Anselmo resident. Their daughter Catherine, who lives at the family home, is an artist. Mrs. Sanborn hopes that one day they will be able to work together, as author and illustrator of a book.

Having opened the rich vein of California history, Mrs. Sanborn is considering mining it further. Although plans are tentative, her next book will probably also have a western setting.

The Sense (Cents) In Grocery Coupons

By ROBERT EDWARDS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Some shoppers would rather just pay less for food than fuss with "cents off," cash refund, or merchandise offer coupons.

Others seize these opportunities. An organized coupon clipper and boxtop swapper may earn $30 to $40 a week — either in cash, coupons exchangeable for free food, or merchandise. Retired persons with ample time and fixed incomes may supplement pension payments through refunds. (Cash from coupons does not count against Social Security earnings.)

WHETHER YOU ARE for or against coupons, they are likely to continue. Projections reported in a supermarket trade magazine forecast a 50 per cent increase in coupon offers.

Coupons appear in newspapers, magazines, through the mail, and on store bulletin boards. Even a vending machine to sell coupons is being tested; a quarter yields coupons worth $3 — if you use them all.

Progressive coupon offerings increase in value with number: 25 cents for one, $1 for four, and $2 for eight labels — possibly only six labels. Since progressive offers are mail-ins, try to get the most out of your 10-cent stamp — if it is a product you normally use anyway.

NOT ALL COUPON offers make sense. The Federal Trade Commission requires that "cents off" promotions provide a legitimate reduction from a normal price — not a price inflated specifically for the promotion. But if you could still pay more for a product with a coupon discount than for a comparable product at full price.

For example, a newspaper coupon offers 7 cents off a 24-ounce bottle of a nationally advertised corn oil, but a store brand sells regularly for 12 cents less.

Regular coupon fans concentrate on cash refund offers. A company may offer to send you the full purchase price or some flat amount, such as $1 or $2.50, in exchange for a coupon and a boxtop. Almost as good are store coupons for another package of the product for free.

ONCE YOU ORGANIZE your refunding activities, you will save boxtops, proofs of purchase, inner seals from bottles, can lids, and sometimes the entire package from products distributed by companies known to be big in refunding. The same companies continue to offer cash and/or discount coupons year after year. When a new offer appears, you can sort through your proof-of-purchase file and send for cash immediately.

A textbook on coupon strategy, "The Coupon Way to Lower Food Prices," by Carole Kratz and Albert Lee, lists names and addresses of the many newsletters and sources of further information on coupon refunding. The paperback sells for $1.95 and may be ordered direct from Workman Publishing Company, 231 East 51st Street, New York, NY 10022.

In Central Park, On Aug. 1 Non-Parents Had Their Day

By JO ANN LEVINE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — The National Organization for Non-Parents (NON) called it National Non-Parents Day. In Central Park Aug. 1 Isaac Asimov, as father of "Non-Parents Day," crowned author Stephanie Mills "Non-Mother of the Year," and author Dan Wakefield, "Non-Father of the Year."

The audience was made up of many women who had already decided not to have children; some who were questioning, and a number of older women, still looking for answers to give themselves and others as to why they had not had children. The topic of the day — "Pronatalism: threat to personhood and planet" — served them up ammunition as well as fortification.

PRONATALISM, a word used over and over in this group, is defined by NON as "any policy or belief that encourages reproduction, that exalts the status of parenthood." The word, maintains the organization, is slanted with a pronatalist bias.

ISAAC ASIMOV
Wat is bestial?

Dr. Alvin Toffler, author of "Future Shock," said, "Just as we are going to have to redefine technology, we are going to have to reconceptualize the notion of family . . . The decision to bear a child is a decision which has very large consequences. It is an ethical, moral, ecological, and political decision."

DR. DENNIS Meadows, author of "The Limits to Growth," enumerated some of the myths that society has developed against those who have planned on not having children. The myths include:

1. It is not necessary to desist from having children because the U.S. is already at zero population growth.
2. Without a continuing supply of new babies, the U.S. would have a distorted age structure — the would country would look like Miami Beach.
3. Innovation would decrease.
4. It should be done in India, not here.
5. It would be demaning to human life.

Dr. SUZANNE KELLER
It's "a social habit"

DR. MEADOWS countered these myths by saying that in the United States, population will increase 40 to 60 million people in the next 50 years and that many argue the country is overpopulated now; that the nation is going to have to deal with the problems of a more conservative, slowly changing population — and an older population; that the idea "if there are 10 times as many people, there will be 10 times as many Beethovens and Einsteins," has not proven itself out; that it is not in Indian but the United States where 30 percent of the world's resources are consumed."

He concluded by noting that "nothing is more demeaning to human life in my mind than an unwanted child. I should think a significant movement toward nonparenthood would enhance human life."

DR. SUZANNE Keller of Princeton University, who is also author of "The Future Status of Women in America," said in the 15 minutes alloted for her talk, there would be born "3,600 babies . . . four babies every second, 350,000 a day." These figures, she said, still shock her.

Dr. Keller said that she considered having children a "social habit in a large part . . . For some individuals children constitute the prime reason for living; for others, major obstacles for lives they would like to live . . ."

Dr. Robert Gould, professor of psychiatry at New York Medical College, noted that children once knew they had an important place in society in the family.

"Children today don't have the same feeling. They are not

Off-Campus Child Care Center To Aid College Student Parents

An off-campus child care center for student parents at the College of Marin and Indian Valley Colleges will open Aug. 19 at West End School in San Rafael.

Forty-five children aged 2½ to 4 years 9 months can be enrolled in the program with a capacity load of no more than 25 children per hour. The center will open at 7:30 a.m. and the child's schedule will correspond to that of the parents.

Teh center is open to parents meeting financial eligibility requirements and enrolled as full-time students at either college. The facility is a combined, though separate, effort of the college and the Marin County Schools which will transfer its child care center from the Bahia Vista Elementary School to West End school Sept. 10.

The program will be staffed by students in the Early Childhood Education work-study program. A certificated teacher will supervise the center.

The College of Marin also sponsors an on-campus center with a 45-child capacity. Indian Valley Colleges is currently working on plans for a center open later in the year.

The decision by the college Board of Trustees to open a second child care facility came after reviewing a survey of women wishing to return to school. Of the 936 women surveyed recently through the efforts of the Women's Educational Re-Entry Program at the college, it was found that there were 280 children of prospective students who would need some sort of child care.

Inez d'Arcy Heckman of the re-entry program said the number has risen since the survey was taken.

To enter the child in the center, parents must qualify in terms of income, said Mrs. Heckman. Many of those interested in the program are single heads of the family, or the "working poor," she said, who work 40 hours a week at a salary of approximately $100 a week.

Most of the "working poor," she added, are women, and finding child care is the "biggest problem" when they're planning to return to school.

"The college is going to try and respond" to this need, she said, adding that they're already talking to women about child care for the spring semester.

For those on welfare or in extreme financial difficulty, the re-entry program will process their applications immediately.

Applicants are approved by the county schools using social welfare guidelines.

For the working single parent, Mrs. Heckman said they are attempting to "track them into night classes" until the child is older. Four-fifth of the women who fall into this category, she added, said they have to continue working to support their family.

Parents who are able to afford some sort of child care are being urged to form cooperative child care program with geographic divisions. The college is not taking part in the formation of the cooperative program but gives names of parents needing some sort of child care to those interested in the idea. "This is up to the women," said Mrs. Heckman.

The college also gives the names of licensed child care centers in the county to those able to afford the service.

Applications for the program may be obtained at the College of Marin.

New Jewish Women's Leader Looks Ahead

Members of the four-year-old section will study juvenile justice, laws and practices in Marin as their major endeavor for the year. Two parties are planned — a fund-raising theater party in November and a Ship-A-Box party in December at which members contribute clothing and educational materials for child care centers in Israel. The section also holds monthly legislation workshops, Mrs. Auslen said.

Purpose of the organization is community service, social and legislative action and education in the United States and Israel.

Better Business Bureau Backs Stand On Weight Reducer Shot

DEAR HELEN:

Your stand regarding "HCG" (Human Chorionic Gonadotropin) shots for weight reduction parallels ours at the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco. Don Schwartz, our BBB president, advises prospective clients to use caution in these types of weight reduction programs. He suggests that they should consider consulting their own physicians before entering into an HCG weight loss treatment.

The (San Francisco) Better Business Bureau recently completed an investigation of such plans using HCG injections, the latest fat-fighting fad.

In the past few months, more than 100 "medical weight loss" clinics have sprung up in California alone. Advertised as doctor-owned and doctor-operated, they treat patients with injections of HCG and a 500-calories-a-day diet. Officials emphasize that HCG is approved by the Food and Drug Administration. However, they do not further qualify that it is not approved for a weight loss program.

Both the American Medical Association and the California Medical Association have published position papers in opposition to the use of HCG in the treatment of obesity. According to Dr. John Kane, University of California Medical Center, several controlled medical studies have been made in this field, which showed that HCG was no more effective than an injection of saline (salt) solution, a placebo, in weight loss. A properly applied diet would accomplish the same loss and obviate the expense to the patient of the questionable services of the drug program. — K. W., BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU OF SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR HELEN:

I pity the poor foreigner who comes to our country and tries to learn our language. Consider this:

A flock of ships is called a fleet. A fleet of girls is called a bevy. A bevy of wolves is called a pack. A pack of thieves is called a gang. A gang of angels is called a host. A host of porpoises is called a shoal. A shoal of fish is called a school. A school of buffalo is called a herd. A herd of seals is called a pod. A pod of whales is called a gam. A gam of lions is called a pride. A pride of children is called a troop. A troop of partridge is called a covey. A covey of beauties is called a galaxy. A galaxy of ruffians is called a horde. A horde of rubbish is called a heap. A heap of oxen is called a drove. A drove of blackguards is called a mob. A mob of worshippers is called a congregation.

A congregation of theatergoers is called an audience. An audience of peacocks is called a muster. A muster of doves is called a flight. A flight of larks is called an exaltation. An exaltation of starlings is called a murmuration. A murmuration of bees is called a swarm.

And finally, back to the beginning, a swarm of sheep is called a block. — QUOTER FROM THE THATCHER COLLECTION

DEAR QUOTER:

And what it adds up to, is a bunch of confusion for a stranger in a strange land. — H.

PERSONAL TO "HOW CAN I FORGIVE AND FORGET?"

G. K. Chesterton said, "Forgiving means pardoning that which is unpardonable or it is no virtue at all." You can, if you truly want to save your marriage! — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca.

School Training Open To Parents

Parents may take part in the training program usually offered exclusively to teachers and aides of the Sausalito School District.

Supt. Donald W. Johnson said the district's in-service training program had been opened to all persons in the community as an opportunity to update their knowledge.

The workshops will be held Monday afternoons beginning Sept. 23. Children will have minimum day ending at 2 p.m. on Mondays. Some sessions will be given at Martin Luter King School and others at Bayside School. Staff from both schools will instruct.

Subject areas will include the metric system, language arts, science, social studies, mathematics, individualized instruction, and use of audio visual materials.

A course in human relations, to be given in cooperation with Dominican College and the College of Marin, will also be given.

"Many parents are involved in a volunteer program and work in the classroom. Participation in the in-service program will better prepare them for the classroom work. Other parents may wish to update their knowledge so they can help their children at home," Johnson said.

"For example, by 1976, we will be teaching the metric system, and are already working on the transition. In the beginning this may be as confusing for parents as the 'new math' was," he added.

The sessions will be open to Sausalito Women's Club members to fulfill their pledges of volunteer hours of service to the city and their schools.

necessary in order for the family to survive . . . They really don't fill any political, economic, or social need . . . The agrarian/hunting society doesn't really exist, but what we have carried over is the heritage of childbearing as a natural and necessary part of our living today."

Dr. Gould said "It is no coincidence that so many famous people — Churchill, Roosevelt — have done so badly in bringing up their children. In order to be excellent in some aspects of living, you must give up others."

ISAAC ASIMOV, author of 155 books, said that throughout history "childlessness is considered with the greatest possible reverence — on one condition — that it be accompanied by complete chastity. . . ."

For every animal species, he said, sex is only for procreation; that in humanity alone sex became part of a kind of interpersonal relationship and it is only in man that you can make out of it something transcending. "To think of sex only in connection with children is to be literally bestial," he concluded.

Rohnert Park Group To Present Simon Comedy

The newly formed Rohnert Park Stage Guild will give its first performance Friday, opening a four-night run of "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," a comedy written by Neil Simon.

The play, which had a successful season on Broadway in 1971, will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and Aug. 23 and 24 at Rancho Cotate High School on Snyder Lane.

The six performers in the theater group's debut will be Robert Lester, Jane Lyons, John Maynard, Maris Robinson, Mary Lynn TeSelle and Alice Wells. Director is William Wender.

The play deals with the serio-comic troubles of an urban cliff dweller living next to an apartment filled with partying stewardesses, his cactus garden polluted to extinction and his job abolished.

Tickets are on sale at several Rohnert Park and Cotati stores and will be available at the door, according to Mrs. TeSelle, publicity chairman.

The California Division of Mines and Geology estimates that earthquake damage will reach $21 billion in California between 1970 and 2000.

Sonoma Wins Partial Victory In Property Assessment Battle

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County has won a partial victory over a state ruling on the county's property assessment roll, according to County Assessor Ernest L. Comalli.

The State Board of Equalization, which earlier said Sonoma County was improperly assessing private property at only 22.8 per cent of fair market value, revised the figure to 23.4 per cent after Comalli was given an appeals hearing last week.

The seemingly trivial technicality means a saving of about $354,000 this year to local property owners because the ratio change means the state must pay a larger share of local education costs under the so-called Collier formula. The state's goal is to have all counties assess property at 25 per cent of market value.

Had the county achieved this, the state would have had to pump even more equalization money into school district coffers, Comalli admitted. He said he doesn't know exactly what the extra amount would have been under the complicated Collier formula.

The theory is that counties that are assessed too low let the local taxpayer off too lightly unless the state reduces its subventions and forces local agencies to hike their property tax rates, Comalli explained.

Statewide average for county assessments this year is 24.1 per cent of fair market value, he reported.

Comalli successfully challenged a sampling of Sonoma County market values by the state board's aides, showing their figures failed to consider unusual economic conditions including relatively large unemployment insurance collections by county residents, a large number of students in first through eighth grades and other economic indices affecting market value.

Comalli said one of his most telling arguments was that since 1969 the county assessment rolls have increased by 77 per cent including a record 18 per cent this year. At the same time, the state assessed rolls of public property in the county have increased only 17 per cent, with more than half the gain — 9.8 per cent — in the utility roll just now being compiled in Sacramento, due to reach the county late this week.

Any county that misses the statewide nonutility roll average by more than 4 percentage points is arbitrarily reassessed by the state, Comalli said. This would apply to any county assessing less than 20 per cent or more than 29 per cent of fair market value.

State board of equalization member William M. Bennett of Kentfield moved successfully to revise the Sonoma County rating and give local taxpayers their break, Comalli reported.

HIS OWN FIGHT REMAINS

No More War For Israeli

By BARBARA HOSMER

A husky Israeli soldier who was blinded last October in the war with Egypt is learning to walk with confidence again on city streets in San Rafael, a black Labrador leading the way.

On Saturday at 2:30 p.m., he will be among the 15 members of class no. 297 to graduate from Guide Dogs School for the Blind in San Rafael.

Reuven Perach, 29-year-old former truck driver, is the first Israeli and one of few foreigners to train at the school on Los Ranchitos Road. Walking with his dog Kirby he finds simple, but speaking English instead of his native Hebrew makes him stumble.

Perach spent two months in a Tel Aviv hospital.

"Doctor operated, took out many pieces in my eyes," he said haltingly. "Now doctor no can help."

Perach could walk tapping a white cane for the rest of his life or choose to come to the United States to train with a guide dog. The Israel government paid the travel bill for him and his wife.

The Israeli said that his government helps all blinded soldiers who want guide dogs but previously all have gone to New York or Michigan schools for training.

"Some people said, 'Go with the cane.' I said, 'Yes, to be good with the cane will take 10 years. With dog — one month'," he said.

Perach is confident that after graduation he will feel quite comfortable walking in busy Tel Aviv with his dog.

He and his wife, whom he met on his home kibbutz near Tiberias in northern Israel, flew to San Francisco three weeks ago.

She is staying with the Gideon Sorokins, who speak Hebrew, at their Novato home while Peruch lives at the training school. The two Perach daughters, aged 4 and 3, are cared for by Perach's mother and friends on the kibbutz.

TO ISRAEL — Reuven Perach, an Israeli soldier blinded in the October war with Egypt, trains with his guide dog Kirby in San Rafael. Perach will return to his home kibbutz with his wife and Kirby after graduation Saturday at Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael.

Perach, too, said he feels a little isolated. Blind for just 10 months, he must rely on his ears, straining to make out a foreign tongue which he began to study just before his trip to San Rafael.

"It is very hard now. I must listen good. Others not see for five, 10, 20 years," he said, indicating the other more experienced blind trainees seated nearby. The guide dog training lectures are another hurdle to him.

Training with Kirby to walk in traffic doesn't worry the former soldier but he fears having to ask questions of strangers in his halting English if he makes mistakes crossing streets. The dog readily responds to his commands in English over in the Middle East for Perach.

"For me the finish, the end," he said, indicating his eyes. "But for my friends and all people in Israel not finished."

Of the cease-fire agreement, he said, "I think it is better now from fighting, but not best."

Perach wanted to talk about ex-President Nixon's resignation. "Not good," he said. "Nixon very good for Israel. Nixon gave more to Israel than the other government."

The government also gave him a car and telephone, rarities on the kibbutz.

"My dog is compact, not very big, but much strong," he said. "I have a little car and he can go in. I buy special food for the dog from England."

Perach looks forward to returning home with Kirby but holds some apprehension for his future. Totally blind, he can no longer drive trucks on the kibbutz where he has lived since birth. Nor does he expect to be able to work in its cotton fields or orange or banana groves anymore.

He thinks he may study piano tuning or perhaps work at a small machine in the kibbutz factory mornings and study something new in the afternoons.

"Tune piano," he mused. "I do not know."

Schulte To Appear On Felony Court

John T. Schulte, administrative officer of the Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on felony charges of drunken driving and hit and run.

Schulte is accused of being drunk when his car and one belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hynes of Lagunitas collided head-on on White's Hill June 1.

According to testimony at a preliminary hearing yesterday before Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas, Schulte and his wife, Lita, drive from the accident scene to the Ross police station before stopping.

Judge Thomas ordered Schulte, 48, of San Rafael, to appear Aug. 27 in Superior Court.

Bureau Sets Marin Opening

The Marin branch of the Better Business Bureau will reopen its San Rafael office on Monday.

The office, at 1010 B Street, Room 310, has been closed for several months, according to Donald W. Schwartz, president of the San Francisco bureau.

It will be open Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The telephone number is 453-9442.

Police Credit Two Men With Helping Catch Robbery Suspect

Two men came to the aid of a woman friend outside a Sausalito nightspot early today and helped disarm a Novato man said to have robbed her at gunpoint.

Morgan McVickar of Kentfield and Roger Watson of Sausalito, both 30, are credited by police with assisting in the arrest of Douglas Lamar Woodard, 21, of 1000 Ignacio Boulevard.

Arresting officer Stephen Willis gave this account of the incident:

At 1:30 a.m., Beverly Rodgers, 30, of Sausalito, left the Boathouse restaurant and bar at 300 Turney Street and got into her car parked nearby.

Two men approached the auto and one, identified as Woodard, pulled a pistol and demanded the woman's purse while his accomplice snatched it off the passenger seat.

McVickar and Watson were walking through the parking lot during the holdup and rushed to her aid, McVickar grabbing the man with the purse.

That bandit also pulled a pistol, then ran off into the darkness as McVickar hurried back inside the bar and telephoned police.

Police said that meanwhile Woodard, still armed, then slid into the car alongside Miss Rodgers and told her to drive him from the scene. Watson reportedly punched Woodard in the side of the head and pulled him from the auto with assistance from McVickar, who had returned.

Willia then arrived and wrestled the gun from Woodard after a brief scuffle. Woodard was booked into county jail on suspicion of armed robbery and held in lieu of $10,000 bail. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

In Miss Rodger's purse, taken by the second suspect, was $10.

Santa Rosa Youth Booked On Counts

A 17-year-old Santa Rosa youth was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall today on suspicion of auto embezzlement and petty theft, Cotati police reported.

The youth was arrested when police responded to an alarm at 1:37 a.m. at Ray's Arco Station, 8505 Gravenstein Highway, where a soft drink machine change box had been pried open and an undetermined amount of money taken. The youth had driven to Cotati in a car he had taken from a used car lot in Santa Rosa to test drive late yesterday, police said.

New Study Of Inmate Unrest Hit

A group of prison reform organizations today criticized a new study of inmate violence in California prisons as recommending "the same old carrot and stick."

In a press conference in San Rafael, the organizations scored the recently released report of the Department of Corrections' Task Force To Study Violence for failing to recommend abolishing the indeterminate sentence.

The spokesmen for the groups said that the indeterminate sentence and the state's parole structure are among the "amjor causes of violence," a conclusion not reached in the study.

The organizations called for an ombudsmen's office for prisoners, which would be responsible to a board composed of exconvicts, retired prison officials and private citizens appointed by the state Legislature.

Organizations represented at the press conference were Prisoners Union Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice, Prisoners Union, Prison Vistors, Vacaville Prison Project and Volunteers Legal Desk.

Pay Hikes Approved In Petaluma Schools

The Petaluma Board of Education last night quickly approved an advisory committee's recommendation that all Petaluma High School District employees receive an 8 per cent pay raise now and up to 2 per cent more later this year if the district receives more income than predicted in the budget.

The initial raise will add $520,000 to the payroll. The latter raise could add another $130,000 to the paychecks of the district's teaching and nonteaching staff, according to Supt. Lesly H. Meyer.

Open Space Plan Loses In Sausalito

A $1.5 million open space bond issue proposed for the November ballot in Sausalito failed again last night to receive the required four votes from the four-member city council, which launched a last ditch effort for a compromise measure.

Councilman Sally Stanford, who successfully blocked approval of the measure last week, continued her opposition to the proposal, which would give councilmen a $1.5 million "blank check" to buy any of the 20 parcels recommended for purchase by a citizens' open space committee.

"I think it's wrong," Miss Stanford declared. She said she will not vote for a bond issue unless it lists all the specific properties proposed for purchase, along with their estimated costs.

This will give residents the chance to choose the pieces of property they want to buy, she said.

Councilmen Robin Sweeny and Violeta Autumn were asked to find out the estimated prices for the land recommended for purchase in an effort to hammer out a compromise proposal which will be considered next Tuesday.

But city hall observers held little hope that a compromise could be worked out in such short time. And so it appears that an open space ballot measure will have to wait until elections next March.

Opposing the "shopping list" plan recommended by Miss Stanford is Mrs. Autumn. She said last night that a measure in such form would divide votes and result in none of the properties gaining the two-thirds majority needed for passage.

In addition, she said, to change the open space proposal at this point would be to undo the months of work by two citizen committees. "I don't think that would be wise," she said.

Supporting Miss Stanford's position was the Sausalito Citizens' Council. Representative Robert Squires reported that the group's board of directors has unanimously opposed an open space measure that would leave to the council's discretion the properties to be bought.

Saying that "we are a highly divided and bitter community," former Councilman Stephen Fraser suggested that the council limit the November bond issue to one parcel, Cypress Ridge, which a majority of residents seem to support for open space.

"Then we would no longer have open space purchases spread throughout the city," replied Mrs. Autumn, declining to endorse Fraser's suggestion.

The Sausalito City Council also:

CASA MADRONA — Asked for an ordinance designating the aged Casa Madrona Hotel a historical landmark. Discussion of a committee recommendation that the earthslide-threatened building be vacated by Sept. 15 was continued until next Tuesday.

VIDEO — Agreed to consider a proposal by the Marin Community Video Association that council sessions, or portions of council sessions, be videotaped for broadcast in the community via cable television.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers.

Child-Care Nursery Is Approved

Approval for a child-care nursery in a residence in Greenbrae was granted unanimously last night by the Larkspur Planning Commission after some 50 persons turned out to endorse or protest the proposal.

A permit was given to Barbara Zackhour to operate the center for six children at her home, according to John E. Roberto, planning director.

He said some neighbors had objected because of possible noise and increased traffic.

In other action last night, the commission agreed to ask the city attorney to draw up an ordinance which will require landscaping on a varying scale in the city's commercial districts.

Roberto said that the ordinance will call for landscaping anywhere from 3 to 23 per cent of a commercial parcel, depending on its size.

Old Ship Will Ride Anchor At Petaluma Adobe Fiesta

The historic hay scow "Alma," which often sailed to Petaluma at the turn of the century, will revisit its former port of call this weekend as one highlight of the annual Old Adobe Fiesta.

The sailing vessel's crew, volunteer maritime buffs from all over the bay area, will mingle with thousands of Petalumans and other visitors in the daylong celebration Sunday at the Old Adobe built by Gen. Mariano G. Vallejo in the 1830s.

The Alma is the last of hundreds of flat-bottomed sturdy little sailing craft that were the freight trucks of the bay area in the days before highways and bridges. Rebuilt, she is now owned by the State Maritime Museum, and is being used more and more at civic celebrations such as the San Rafael Centennial earlier this year, and now Petaluma's annual tribute to the area's long and colorful past.

The Old Adobe Fiesta will feature a traditional deep pit barbecue much like those the Spanish and Mexican dons lavishly staged for their guests. There will also be displays of pioneer arts and crafts, Indian dancing and even a wedding in 19th Century costumes.

Special permission had to be obtained from state park officials for the wedding, only the second held inside the 140-year-old landmark in its history.

Fiesta-goers who wear 19th Century costume may mingle with the wedding party in the courtyard: modern-garbed celebrants will have to watch from the balconies, fiesta officials said.

The costume wearers also may participate in special judging for awards. There also will be horseshow pitching contests for men and women and races and eating contests for adults and youngsters, as well as a whiskerino contest.

Dozens of service clubs, youth groups and charitable organizations in the Petaluma area will set up booths featuring food, games and sale items in the Eucalyptus grove opposite the Old Adobe.

The Alma will arrive Saturday evening in downtown Petaluma and will remain there all day Sunday, sailing in the evening back to the Maritime Museum at the Hyde Street Pier in San Francisco.

Admission and parking will be free at the Old Adobe Fiesta.

Peculiar Water Taste Is Harmless

A peculiar taste in Marin Municipal Water District water in Southern Marin and part of the Ross Valley is both harmless and temporary, a district spokesman said today.

The "musty, moldy, earthy" taste is caused by blue-green algae, known as Arthrospira Jenneri, growing on the sides of the district's Bon Tempe reservoir, according to James T. Farnkopf, manager of water treatment and distribution.

He said the district is working to eliminate the algae by treating the reservoir with copper sulfate. The unpleasant flavor should be gone in about a week.

The plants and the treatment will not make the water undrinkable, Farnkopf said.

Affected by the algae-flavored water are all district customers in Southern Marin and those in Kent Woodlands, Ross and parts of San Anselmo.

Petaluma To Review Park Plans Tonight

Designers' proposals for a park only 10 to 30 feet wide but more than half a mile long will be shown to the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission at 7:30 p.m. today in city hall.

The so-called Washington Creek Linear Park is a narrow strip of land dedicated to the city on both sides of a flood control channel running from Eli Street to Washington Street. City recreation director James R. Raymond explained that three architects have been proposing plans for the stringbean-shaped park.

The land was deeded by neighborhood developers and will be improved with funds from the "bedroom tax" the city collects to finance parks and recreation.

If commissioners and city councilmen approve, one bank of the channel will be a bicycle path more than 4,000 feet long. The other bank will be landscaped for park and play use, in a strip 10 feet to 30 feet wide.

Commissioners tonight also will try to revise policy for reserving picnic spaces for groups. Raymond said disputes have arisen over small groups monopolizing facilities suitable for much larger groups.

Petaluman Is Hurt In Crash

A Petaluma woman was injured yesterday when her car caromed between the railings of the Petaluma Bridge on Highway 101 near the Lakeville Highway turn.

Clifford Haynes Harris, 32, of 728 South McDowell Boulevard was reported in fair condition today with a broken left ankle at Letterman Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco, where she underwent surgery.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Mrs. Harris was driving west of the bridge at 10:40 a.m. when her car hit the west rail of the bridge, bounced off the east rail and hit the west side again. Cause of the accident was undetermined.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

There Are Politicians —And Few Statesmen

There are politicians, and there are a few statesmen.

Politicians look out for themselves. Statesmen look out for what they believe to be the public interest.

We may differ violently with the views of statesmen; but we respect them. Self-serving politicians forfeit our respect.

ONE WHO FALLS in the class of statesman — though we have often differed with him — is Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona. Not for nothing is Goldwater known as "the conscience of the Senate."

The other day, he proposed a direct attack on inflation that would set an example for the nation.

Cut all federal salaries 10 per cent, beginning with the president's and going right on down the line, suggested Goldwater. This would include senators' salaries, and even the pay of what Goldwater referred to as "my pet, the military."

Since salaries represent a large share of the federal budget, such a cut would help to bring the budget into line. And until the federal government quits overspending its income, there is little hope of curbing inflation.

SENATOR GOLDWATER'S proposal, however, is not likely to get far, because most of the lawmakers in Washington are mere politicians rather than statesmen — just like most of those in our state Senate in Sacramento.

A majority of state senators proved it last week by reversing a former vote to pass a bill (SB 1745) by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, raising the salaries of the top seven elected state officials by approximately 20 per cent.

When he introduced this bill last February, Carpenter justified it by pointing out that pay of some non-elected state officials had been allowed to overtake salaries of the governor, secretary of state, etc. His "solution" was not to cut the salaries that had risen too high. It was to raise the pay of the elected officers.

Carpenter's "solution" drew some sharp calldowns from taxpayers and editors. The state Senate backed off. But last Friday, it put through the hikes.

"What's the matter with us?" oracularly demanded politician Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena. "We run for cover because a few newspaper guys have nothing to write about. Vote 'aye' and teach them a lesson."

THIS INTELLECTUAL appeal won over enough politician-senators to pass the bill 27 to 9. Among those who switched from their former opposition was politician Sen. Peter H. Behr of Marin.

Of course, the politicians in the state Senate felt some obligation to do a bit of backscratching. Governor Reagan had put politics before statesmanship in signing a bill which raised the senators' pay, beginning next year.

There are many politicians, and very few statesmen.

Who's To Blame?

Who's to blame? How often we hear the refrain! For what? It's not important. We must find someone to blame. It's the American way.

Take the price of milk. It's one of Marin's biggest industries and like almost everything its price has been rising. Ask any ten people why and eight of them will probably fix the blameon some favorite scapegoat — the big corporations, labor unions, the government, food stamps, the farmers, the Russians or whatever.

But why is it always necessary to fix blame? Maybe it is inexorable fate that things change and no group is to blame. A look back at the economic history of the United States shows most problems have more than one cause. It is worth remembering when we become too passionate in blame fixing.

This Lush Land

Marinites sometimes live amid such a glut of lush vegetation that their sense of it becomes dulled. Often, when we return from a trip, we are struck by the massed green of flowers, trees and shrubs, a jungle-like quality.

Then, just last week, we took a roll of colored photos in what we considered our rather plain garden. And when we received the prints back, we were struck once again by the lushness which prevails in parts of Marin.

CHP Will Not Crack Down Quickly On Smog Devices

By ROBERT STUDER
Copley News Service

SACRAMENTO — Even after Oct. 1, when thousands of California motorists already should have nitrous oxide exhaust emission control devices installed on their cars, the California Highway Patrol plans to be lenient about enforcing the new antipollution law.

Commissioner Walter Pudinski says the patrol will take no enforcement actions on the devices until Oct. 1, the date when all vehicles of 1966 to 1970 vintage with license plates ending in the figure "1" are required to be equipped with the additional smog control device.

And even then, Pudinski adds, offenders will receive written warnings allowing them 15 more days to comply.

UNDER STATE LAW, autos with the final digit "1" must install the new smog device no later than Sept. 30. Those with a final digit of "2" have until Oct. 31. The pattern will continue on a monthly basis until June 30, 1975.

California Air Resources Board regulations require not only installation of the nitrous oxide smog device. The owner also must obtain a certificate of compliance.

The document can be obtained only from an installer licensed by the state Bureau of Automotive Repair. He will fasten a sticker to the car's windshield that will notify CHP officers that the work has been done.

BUT DON'T, Pudinski warned, put it off.

Later in the year, after car owners have received information on the new program from the Department of Motor Vehicles, which will mail it along with renewal forms for 1975 vehicle registrations, the CHP will crack down.

And tickets issued then will require an appearance in court.

DRUMMOND: Healing Will Come Quickly

FURGURSON: Chance To Make Politics Clean

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Have no doubt about it, the recovery of the nation's poise and peace is going to come faster than anyone dared hope.

The great danger was that Richard Nixon would remove himself from the presidency in the image of an injured martyr who had done no wrong and that, without a Senate trial and verdict, the divisive turmoil over Watergate would continue to poison the political life of the country.

But that which many feared most — that resignation would continue a lacerating controversy rather than terminate it — is not, it appears, going to come upon us.

These are the reasons:

1 — Mr. Nixon resigned with grace and without bitterness, and it is amply evident that the Congress and the country want to close the book without further ado over impeachment.

2 — There is no basis for bitter-end Nixon supporters to claim or to feel that he was unjustly, unfairly or peremptorily hounded out of the White House on unproved charges. There is no valid basis for continued debate on this score because Mr. Nixon himself has admitted enough responsibility for his own downfall so that the issue is settled with finality.

3 — The country is fortunate to have President Gerald Ford as Mr. Nixon's successor because his transcendent forte is reconciliation. He is the very embodiment of reconciliation and goodwill and decency. The leaders of Congress are responding to that spirit of unity with evident sincerity. Most Americans will respond the same way.

I BELIEVE that Richard Nixon has done his part in stepping down in a manner which sufficiently accepts the verdict of Congress to vote for his removal if he had not removed himself.

That's enough. He doesn't have to grovel — and he didn't. He wouldn't know how.

But he did affirm that he had committed "wrong" acts. He did affirm that he decided to resign because he had "lost so much of his political base" in Congress that he could not govern effectively. This was only another way of saying that his defense against impeachment had crumbled and that his resignation was just one step ahead of the verdict the Senate was about to bring in.

He did more than that. In the statement released by the White House after making public the June 23 tapes, Mr. Nixon admitted that he had committed acts cited in the articles of impeachment. He affirmed that he had acted to abort the Watergate investigation six days after the break-in and that, as the first step toward coverup, he had directed that the FBI not go further into the case.

THIS ASSESSMENT of Mr. Nixon's Watergate role is not the subjective judgment of some reporter nor is it the interpretation of the special prosecutor or of the House Judiciary Committee. It is Mr. Nixon's own assessment of what he did.

Because this is Mr. Nixon's verdict, the Senate does not need to render its verdict. It is a verdict which can and should be accepted as final.

Now we can begin to bind up the wounds of the nation by looking ahead, not backward.

Health, Human Services Victims Of Bureaucracy

I am writing to express my appreciation for the considered attention that your paper has given the issue of health and human services and the difficulties this organizational structure creates for service providers and clients.

I feel certain that the articles and editorials that have appeared in your paper over the past two weeks have had significant impact on the public as well as the board of supervisors. At the heart of the matter, as you well know, is the tendency of bureaucracies to become more bureaucratic and for public administrative structures to perpetuate and expand themselves. My own interest in this matter goes beyond the area of mental health. It is a more general concern with the nature of public administration. Cognizant of the increasing growth of government and its impact on our own lives, it is disheartening, to say the least, to experience the inefficiencies, the waste, and the rigidity in the public sector and the resulting impact on taxpayers and people who need services.

I hope, with your continued efforts and the efforts of the public that a reversal can be effected, at least in Marin County, in the expansion of government and bureaucracy, particularly in the human services field.

We Must Abolish Political Cynicism

Now that the Nixon fiasco has reached a doubtful finality, it is fitting for all Americans to do some soul-searching in order to circumscribe the lessons we must cling to for the good of America's future. We who put men in high office must never call a halt to our responsibilities. To be always vigilant, to keep ourselves politically sophisticated, to remind our politicians of their obligations to those who voted for them — these are the criteria for endowing democracy with a true meaning.

The political cynicism of "keeping your options open," of deceit and artifice, of financial enrichment at the expense of all Americans, of the poolroom ideology that "if you can get away with it, do it," brought to a fine art by the Nixon administration, must be permanently banished to the sewer which bred this thinking. . .

I am somehow sick at heart at the saccarine maudlinity which attended Nixon's resignation. Our elected representatives decided that he had (1) obstructed justice, (2) abused his authority, (3) subverted the Constitution by impeding the impeachment process. Why the tears? Why not a vast sense of relief?. . .

Not Much Worth Praising In Review

I dragged my husband to the Sunset Players' production of "Mame" because a young friend was to play the part of Patrick.

When my husband sat down in the theater to await the start of the play, the corners of his mouth were turned down. They remained down until after about the first five minutes of the play had passed, at which time they turned up and remained up the whole remainder of the production.

There was magic in the theater that night, coordination, energy and a smoothness I didn't dream possible in such a young cast.

Such a jaded, negative criticism of what was a delightful production, regardless of a few rough spots, shows a lack of maturity and callowness and not much worth praising about this particular critic's review.

Candidate Differs On Campaign Receipts

I missed the story your newspaper ran several weeks ago which reported on the campaign contributions and expenditures of candidates in the June primary.

I have now read it and want to state that I did not receive a campaign contribution from the Real Estate Board for $250 or any other amount.

The county elections department has on file for public record my declaration that my campaign contributions and expenses did not exceed $500.00. I received $425.00 in contributions from eleven individuals and one civic organization and spent $476.66 in campaign expenses.

In announcing my candidacy for the water board last spring, I stated that I intended to run a low budget campaign and I did just that.

BETTY FORRY

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — In all the oratory of these past weeks, the homespun William Hungate may have laid out the situation best for his own constituents in the Little Dixie bottom lands of Missouri and for voters in the country at large.

"Suppose," he said as the House Judiciary Committee began that fateful week of impeachment proceedings," . . .suppose your mayor approved a plan by which the chief of your city's police department could illegally tap your phone, open your mail, and burglarize your apartment. Suppose your mayor withheld knowledge of a burglary from a local judge trying a case in which that knowledge was crucially important . . ." He supposed a couple more times, and his point was strong and clear: The President of the United States should be held to moral and legal standards at least as high as those binding a small-town politician.

NOW THAT THAT particular President is no longer in office, the corollary to Hungate's point could be an equally important, unintentional contribution by the Nixon administration to the nation's future: Small-town politicians should be held to standards just as high as those set for presidents.

However, there is a series of ifs to be crossed before either of those lessons is burned deeply enough into the national consciousness.

If our recently so-highly-praised system functions properly, it will follow through to hold Mr. Nixon accountable for his misdeeds just as objectively as if he were a county executive caught taking contractors' payoffs, or a juvenile delinquent who lied in an auto theft case.

If the first reaction of many congressmen and others here to his farewell remarks is any determinant, he will not be allowed to retire unrepentant to the San Clemente sunshine, to sit protected by the taxpayers' Secret Service agents in his resort improved with taxpayers' money, drawing $60,000 of that money yearly while others on the near periphery of his scandals are somewhere serving time.

So if he goes unprosecuted while hundreds of thousands of other Americans who never stood on the steps of the capitol and took the solemn constitutional oath from the chief justice are indicted and tried for their obscure private offenses, it will not be by any overwhelming national consensus.

Nor will this whole long and painful experience have served the purpose we expected from it when we said that the agony would make us more self-respectful afterward.

IF, ON THE OTHER hand, our system proceeds on the information already gathered and still to be produced under subpoena, it will serve notice that obstruction of justice, abuse of power and contempt of lawful authority are not to be tolerated in our country, at the White House or the county seat.

In that case, we will have responded effectively to the Italian official quoted amid last week's events, who said: "It is an interesting switch in the mentality of America. Before, no one dreamed of expecting that politicians would be completely honest. Now, with Watergate, they are suddenly supposed to be lily-white."

That response is: Why not?

Ford's Moves Quickly Clear Atmosphere Of White House

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor)

The transfer of power from Richard Nixon to Gerald Ford has been no less than extraordinary. The dignity and orderliness of the transition should quicken the faith of all Americans — and the world — in the viability of America's democratic system.

A new brand of leadership is now needed. Above all this means restoring that openness and directness that will enable all branches and agencies of government to function according to law.

"Our great Republic is a government of laws and not of men," Mr. Ford said eloquently and assuringly after taking the oath of office. "Here the people rule." . . .

FRESH BREEZES already are wafting through the White House. By his humility and simplicity, President Ford has begun to change the atmosphere and image of the presidency and the tone of openness he has struck comes as a great relief after the atmosphere of clandestine maneuverings that characterized the Nixon years.

It is important that the president is moving swiftly to build a broad base of support. He made clear he wants to work together with the nation's lawmakers. For instance, he is asking Republican officials in Washington and around the country, as well as Democratic leaders in Congress, to make suggestions about a new vice-president.

We realize, of course, that there is bound to be an early euphoric period of accommodation with the new president and before long the normal, competitive play of political forces will resume. But the lively political battles that lie ahead can now take place in a context of national unity . . .

WE WELCOME, TOO, Mr. Ford's approach to the press. He has instructed cabinet members to be "affirmative" in their relations with the Fourth Estate and for the first time in many years now journalists can perform their role of critical watchdog on the presidency without that unfortunate atmosphere of mutual bitterness and recriminations.

In short, the nation stands now on the threshold of possibility for real leadership. Not a leadership which reads the public opinion polls and then determines how to act on a given issue or play a certain policy. But a leadership that formulates policies on the basis of the highest conceived good and then seeks to enlist all segments of society in an understanding and execution of those policies.

President Ford may well provide that leadership.

Marin Attorney Remembers Belief In Nixon — Bitterly

"You know, I'm a black Republican."

The longtime Marin County attorney spoke facetiously but sadly.

"I supported Richard Nixon all those years — clear back to 1952," he continued.

The year 1952, when the former president ran for the Senate against Helen Gahagan Douglas, brought back a fond memory to the local man.

THE LAWYER told how he had headed Nixon's campaign in Marin County and how one day "Dick and Pat," as he called them, came to San Anselmo to shake hands with leaders there.

"It was a warm day," the attorney remembered, and so, while he took Nixon around the city hall, Mrs. Nixon and the attorney's wife went to a nearby soda fountain to have a cold drink.

"Pat decided to call home from the soda fountain to check on her little girls who were with a baby sitter in Whittier," the attorney remembered. When she called, he said, there was no answer at her Southern California home.

Alarmed, she called a neighbor, he related, who informed her the baby sitter "had walked out," leaving the youngsters alone. The girls were being cared for by the neighbor, but Mrs. Nixon "hopped the next plane home," ending her part of the campaign trip early.

AFTER HE TOLD the little anecdote about a worried mother of more than 20 years ago, the attorney's face turned hard.

"I believed him. I defended him. I thought he was telling the truth. I worked for him all those years," he said.

"Then Monday, I finally realized he had lied all along.

"I felt like just one of the many suckers," he said bitterly.

LIKE MANY a friend who has seen his trust betrayed, the attorney now envisions the worst.

"I'll bet he has accounts in six Swiss banks . . . He doesn't care about any pension," he speculated.

"Well," he finally said, "it was sure hard to learn that someone you trusted had been lying all the time . . . "

One can only wonder how often the Marin conversation has been repeated elsewhere in the country in the past few days.

Arrigoni No Longer Interested In Special Pension Measure

Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. yesterday said he no longer is interested in special state legislation to qualify him for a 40 per cent boost in retirement pension. (See another legislative story, page 1.)

The legislation is on the governor's desk awaiting his signature into law, but Arrigoni said he belatedly discovered it would cost him almost $8,000 to buy the extra pension.

The special provision for Arrigoni was tacked onto AB 3275 by Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-San Bernardino, at the request of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. The measure apparently will become law anyway, since the rest of it deals with other retirement matters.

Present law prohibits Arrigoni from getting retirement benefits from his four years on the Fairfax city council because it was an unpaid position when he held it. The Lewis bill will abolish this restriction.

Bagley's office has said Arrigoni apparently was the sole beneficiary of the bill in the state.

BART Tax Measure Gets By Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to bail out the troubled Bay Area Rapid Transit District by extending a local one-half cent sales tax until 1978 passed an Assembly committee yesterday.

The compromise bill (SB1966) has the endorsement of a majority of Bay Area lawmakers. It was approved by the Transportation Committee on a 15-0 vote and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Senate President Pro-tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, said his bill was a "stop-gap" to prevent BART from shutting down in October without funding.

But, Mills said long-term financing must be studied by the legislature to help BART, which has run up a $12.3 million deficit this year.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said, "If you don't do this (enact this bill), it's pretty clear BART will have to shut down by October."

With a sales tax guarantee, BART would be able to raise $16 million immediately in revenue bonds. The sales tax would be imposed in San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

If Mills' measure does not become law, the tax would be removed in 1976, with much of the revenue used to pay off existing bonds.

Committee chairman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, said he was not happy with the tax, but the prospect of shutting down the sleek transit system was worse.

Legislators should realize it was impossible to operate transit systems on fare revenue alone, Meade said.

Delay Asked On Offshore Oil Leases

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A resolution urging the federal government not to issue leases for some 5,000 oil wells off the California coast has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The resolution, AJR 120, calls upon the Interior Department to refrain from issuing the leases until completion of a pending Federal Energy Administration study of a national energy policy.

Until such a policy is developed, Bagley said, it is impossible to tell how much offshore drilling is needed.

The demand for energy has leveled off, the assemblyman said, and with the anticipated flow of oil from Alaska the need for massive offshore drilling is uncertain.

Bill Amended To Limit Sewer Plan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that will empower the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency to build a sewage system in Stinson Beach has been amended to limit such a system so it serves only "existing development."

The measure, AB 3860 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, is pending in the Assembly. Present law permits the agency to build only treatment facilities in communities that fail to clean up sewage pollution. This does not cover the situation in Stinson Beach, which depends on septic tanks and thus has no sewers at all.

The Knox bill would empower the agency also to build sewers. The agency is moving toward an order that could force the community to build a sewage sytem without voter approval.

The Regional Water Quality Control board asked the agency to step in after Stinson Beach voters last March rejected a $2.5 million sewage system. Septic tanks are failing and causing health dangers, according to the board's staff.

The community's primary objection to a standard sewage system is that it would encourage growth. The new amendment limits the facilities to those "necessary to provide service to existing development."

License Law For Police Is Defeated

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to require licensing police officers has been killed by a Senate committee.

The proposal, SB 2408 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was iced Monday by the finance committee after objections from some police officials and the California League of Cities.

A spokesman for the senator said similar legislation probably will be introduced by him next year.

The bill was requested by the Police Officers Research Association of California (PORAC), which represents some 17,000 rank and file policemen throughout the state. It was opposed by the state's other major police organization, the California Peace Officers Association, which generally represents police brass.

It objected to having the state set hiring standards, claiming the result would be a state police force. The bill would have required applicants for a state license as a peace officer to pass tests and have earned increasingly higher education credits.

Ford Will Meet The Press Often

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Jerry terHorst said today he hopes President Ford will hold a news conference "at least once every other week," far more often than did President Richard M. Nixon.

TerHorst said Ford always had been friendly toward reporters, adding: "I would hope that the fact he is President would not keep him —and I don't think it will — from being the same easy going, affable, relaxed human being that he's always been all his life. I think he would find it uncomfortable to be something else."

TerHorst said Ford "is his own best press sectetary" because the President "just feels at home" with reporters.

Fair Will Sponsor Sale Of Produce

A sale of home-grown produce will be held the last night of the Marin County Fair, Sept. 2 from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. at the horticultural exhibit area at the Civic Center fairgrounds.

Only those home gardeners who have entered produce for competition, however, will be allowed to bring in their surplus fruits and vegetables for sale, according to Marcelle McCoy, fair manager. The fair begins Aug. 29.

Ford Gets The News On His Own

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford likes to get the news on his own and reads several newspapers each day even though White House aides continue to prepare summaries of the day's news.

"He likes to get it on his own," said one aide, who added that there were no immediate plans for the White House communications staff to prepare daily news summaries as it has in the past.

But the communications office said the daily news summaries are still being prepared, although there is no word on whether Ford actually reads them.

Several past presidents, including President Nixon, preferred to have their communications staffs highlight the news for them in an abbreviated daily summary.

Ford now scans morning newspapers in his limousine on the 15-minute drive from Alexandria, Va., to the White House.

At least three newspapers are delivered directly to his doorstep.

The aide said the President doesn't have much time to watch television because he is working when the morning and evening news shows are on.

Ford is said to be most interested in the Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, The Washington Post, the Washington Star-News and two Michigan newspapers, the Grand Rapids Press and the Detroit News.

A Company That Gives Feature Films Second Commercial Life

By RON WELLS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Have you ever wondered what happens to motion pictures after they've been shown in theaters and before they're sold to television?

Do they languish in some dark, dusty studio film library until such time as they're redistributed as a co-feature or readied for the mass television audience?

No way! After playing the first- and second-run theaters, feature films are reduced from 35mm theater-size prints to 16mm suitable for the smaller screen, and begin a new life that can go on virtually forever.

The rental and-or sale of these 16mm films has become a $100-million-a-year business which serves such diverse areas of the American society as public schools, prisons, convalescent homes, hospitals, libraries, tuna fleets, colleges, Distant Early Warning (DEW) line stations, churches, retirement homes and private homes.

"Motion pictures are a true American art form," said Allen Green, head of marketing for Films, Inc., the largest distributor of 16mm feature films in the United States.

"By having them available in 16mm, films can be used in a lot of different ways and for a variety of different situations early film makers never dreamed of," Green said in an interview. "Movies are fantastic entertainment. Where television is passive an uninterrupted feature film is stimulating."

According to Charles Benton, president of Films, Inc., the firm has 50,000 prints of 16mm feature films ranging from D.W. Griffith's epic 1916 silent film, "Intolerance," to that gangster masterpiece, "The Godfather." In addition, Films, Inc., also has 15,000 short subjects in its library.

"Films, Inc., has the entire enventory of films from the now defunct RKO studios in addition to having contractual agreements with Twentieth Century Fox, MGM and Paramount studios to distribute everything they produce," Benton said. "We also distribute many theatrical and television films produced by the other major studios as well as good moneymaking films of independent producers.

Benton said David L. Wolper, president of Wolper Productions, has contracted with Films, Inc., to distribute some of his past productions and most of his present and future products to the nontheatrical and educational market.

Benton estimates that Films, Inc., which was founded in 1927 by Orten Hicks and later acquired by the Encyclopaedia Britannica (E.B.), currently has 40 per cent of Hollywood's film backlog.

Feature films can be rented from Films, Inc., for anywhere from $25 to $250 and $350 for such films as "Lady Sings The Blues" and "The Poseidon Adventure."

Flournoy Names Campaign Chairman

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Los Angeles businessman has been named co-chairman of Republican Houston Flournoy's campaign for governor.

John P. Guerin, chairman of the Pacific Stock Exchange, was named to the position yesterday.

Oregon Governor Gives VP Choices

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Gov. Tom McCall has recommended that President Ford choose former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield, or Washington Gov. Dan Evans as vice president.

"All three men have had long experience as governor," McCall said yesterday, "and I believe it's vital that the President get on his team someone who has been out where government is truly close to the people."

Snake On Auto Taken To Zoo

He placed the snake in a plastic bag and brought it to the Highland Park Zoo.

Salt Lake Scout Suit Ruling Is Extended

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — Both sides in a civil suit alleging racial discrimination in Mormon-sponsored Boy Scout Troops have agreed to an indefinite extension of a court order halting such discrimination.

The Salt Lake chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Boy Scouts of America agreed Monday a U.S. district court temporary restraining order should remain in effect until a final decision is reached in the case.

No trial date has yet been set since both sides hope to work out an agreement outside court.

Chief Federal Judge Willis Ritter extended the restraining order he issued Aug. 2 when the suit was filed by the Salt Lake chapter of the NAACP on behalf of two 12-year-old Boy Scouts who were allegedly denied the highest leadership post in their troops because they were black.

The suit, filed against the Boy Scouts' National Council, Great Salt Lake Council and Troop 58, alleged the post of senior patrol leader in Mormon-sponsored troops could be held only by a deacon's quorum president.

Since church doctrine forbids blacks from holding its priesthood, the policy bans them from the scout post, the suit charged.

Minutes before the suit was filed, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints issued a policy change, saying senior patrol leaders would be chosen in the future solely on the basis of their qualifications and not their church position.

But the NAACP went ahead with the suit, claiming the policy change did not alter basic discriminatory practices within the church.

Edward W. Clyde, attorney for the Boy Scouts, told a court hearing Monday he did not mind extending the temporary restraining order until the case is concluded.

"The Boy Scouts of America have always had a non-discriminatory policy," said Clyde.

NAACP attorneys also said they had no objections to the extension but asked for more specific language dealing with alleged practices by the Scouts than was in the temporary order.

The extended order restrains the Scouts from approving funds from programs operated on a racially discriminatory basis; maintaining any policy or custom which deprives the plaintiffs from all advantages of the Boy Scouts; making any other discriminatory distinction; and selecting persons for leadership posts in a racailly discriminatory manner.

Nixon Envelope Sales Stopped

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 officials have ordered a fair concessionaire to stop selling resignation commemorative envelopes, which feature pictures of both Richard Nixon and President Ford and a Washington, D.C., postmark.

An estimated 5,000 envelopes were printed up, flown to the nation's capital to be cancelled, and then brought back to the Expo site and sold for $5 each.

One Expo official said the envelopes were selling Monday for as much as $10.

SPANISH CASTLE COUNTRY LIVING

Our only regret is that a picture of the home can't accompany this ad. An authentic Spanish style home in every detail. A level, ⅓ acre with a gigantic oak tree 8 feet in circumference, towers majestically in the front garden. A 9 room, 2 story custom designed residence with 2800 sq. feet of living area. Exposed beams throughout. Completely insulated. Spanish arches with balconies turn-styled balustrades, teak parquet flooring, all interior framing of clear kiln dried redwood, solid oak counter tops. There are 4 bdrms., 2½ baths, a 14x24 ft. family room with 2nd fireplace. Master bdrm. suite with dressing rm. and skylight over vanity. Ultra modern kitchen with all custom appliances including: compactor, disposal, dishwasher, self cleaning dbl. ovens with automatic thermostat and large brkfst. area. A 16x27 ft. liv. rm., and dining area. A fabulous home.

Teamsters Vote Thumbs Down Over Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Teamsters Union members voted last night to continue their 15-day strike against Airporter, Inc., a bus firm operating between the city and San Francisco International Airport.

For the second time, the strikers rejected labor contracts which had been negotiated with the help of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

The proposed pact would have raised the pay of drivers by $4 daily, to a total of $48.

Baggage handlers, also members of the union, had been offered $3 more a day, for a total of $36.

Airporter, Inc., is a subsidiary of the Yellow Cab Co.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

A Mother Is All Steamed Up Over Advice About Husbands

Women are more health-conscious than men, and wives are more concerned about the health of their husbands than the husbands are about themselves. This is why I am more inclined to write about keeping husbands healthy than vice versa. Some women object to this and never hesitate to let me know. One of our readers offered some excellent alternatives.

"I am writing to blow off some steam regarding the column in which you warned women on the proper care of husbands. I am a 27-year-old mother of two who loves her husband and children and is not a frustrated liberationist. The life-style I have chosen suits me perfectly.

"HERE COMES the gripe! Why doesn't someone write an article on the care of women's emotions? Your article really topped it. Men are out all day and that in itself is a great distraction. As mothers of little ones, we know only the house, the children and the Cookie monster on Sesame Street.

"When is someone going to address themselves to the emotional needs of mothers? Mothers are supposed to be much more emotional than fathers — mothers who get periods, worry when the periods will come or if they will come at all. And we not only have the monthly "curse," we have to keep that fact from the children so they won't be upset. Now we are supposed to keep it from our husbands so they won't be bothered. How about a few kind words for us?

"I always regarded you as a friend, but that particular column of yours seemed unfair. Let's try to write some good words about everyday, hard working mothers. A faithful reader I will continue to be, but you'll have a happier audience if you give us some attention."

THE WOMAN who wrote this letter must be a wonderful wife and mother. Her constructive criticism was well taken. However, in defense of my comments, let me say that the column was aimed at what women can do to keep their husbands. It will take another column to tell husbands what they should do to keep their wives. I wrote what I did because physically, men are the weaker sex and die sooner than women. But since they are a good investment, they are worth taking care of.

STOPS SMOKING

A reader writes: Since I gave up smoking I have an abnormal desire for candy. I also have developed a rotten disposition. How can these discomforts be alleviated?

REPLY

Willpower and more willpower. Keep repeating, "One puff and I'm hooked again, etc." Many people have found effective substitutes, but all substitutes depend on the individual. Time ends these discomforts.

NEPHRITIS, HEPATITIS

A reader writes: Are nephritis and hepatitis one and the same?

REPLY

No. Nephritis is inflammation of the kidney; hepatitis, inflammation of the liver.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in this column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Soviet Dance Troupe Is Protested

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two dozen demonstrators in black and white striped prisoner-type uniforms walked out to protest the performance of a noted Russian dance troupe yesterday.

Meanwhile, an estimated 500 pickets marched in front of the Shrine Auditorium protesting the "harassment, intimidation, and imprisonment" of Soviet Jews.

Police watched as persons filed into the auditorium to see the Moiseyev troupe, whose opening performance was delayed for 30 minutes due to tight security, apparently stemming from Monday's bomb blast which did minor damage to the front of the auditorium. An anonymous caller later took responsibility for the bombing, saying it was to protest Soviet treatment of Jews.

Zev Yaroslavsky, head of the Southern California Council for Soviet Jews, called for a boycott of the performance by the Russian troupe. He said only half of the auditorium's seats were sold.

First Husband Of First Lady Still A Friend

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The new First Lady's first husband says he still is a good friend of both President and Mrs. Gerald Ford, but not too close.

Asked yesterday by San Francisco Chronicle columnist Herb Caen whether he had sent congratulations when the new president was sworn in, William C. Warren replied:

"Well, we're not that good friends."

Warren married the former Betty Bloomer in Grand Rapids, Mich., "back in the late 30s, or maybe it was the early 40s ... you know how time flies ... I was fresh out of U. of Michigan."

"We were married, oh, about seven years," he was quoted as saying by Caen.

Warren, remarried, lives in both San Francisco and Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, and represents "several furniture lines."

15.50.010 PURPOSE. Condominium ownership of property creates a unique distribution and/or aggregation of property rights and responsibilities among a number of persons which is not inherent in other types of property ownership. It is recognized that the distribution and aggregation can result in a diminution of the rights and responsibilities. The purpose of this Chapter is to set forth condominium development standards to insure that such a diminution does not occur and to:

A. Encourage quality development which will not contribute to the deterioration of the neighborhood.

B. Encourage the provision of a variety of ownership types.

C. Encourage a development pattern based upon good land planning principles.

D. Insure that the conversion of existing developments to condominium ownership be consistent with the protection of the health, safety and general welfare of the future occupants of the condominium.

15.50.020 DEFINITIONS. As used in this Chapter, terms are defined as follows:

A. Condominium shall mean any project or development as defined by the State of California Civil Code Sections 783 and 1350 and as defined by the State of California Business and Professions Code Section 11004.

B. Residential condominium shall mean a condominium providing dwelling units.

15.50.050 COMPLIANCE WITH ZONING. All condominiums shall comply with the provisions of Title 14, Zoning, for the zoning district in which the condominium is located. In the event that development standards stated in Title 14 conflict with the development standards stated in this Chapter, the more restrictive standard shall apply.

15.50.060 PROPERTY OWNERS ASSOCIATION.

A. For all condominiums, a property owners association shall be established by recordation of the following:

(1) Articles of Incorporation of the association;

(2) Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions;

(3) By-laws of the association.

B. Included in the recorded documents specified in "A" above shall be provision for, at least, but not limited to, the following:

(1) Any amendment or modification to the documents, as approved by the City, must have the approval of the City prior to completion of the amendment or modification.

(2) Except where maintained by a public utility agency, all on-site property improvements, including common areas, vehicular accessways, sewers, storm drains, street lighting, and fire prevention water systems, shall be maintained at the expense of the Association. The City will be responsible for maintenance of only those facilities located within a public right-of-way which have been accepted by the City.

(3) During a one year minimum warranty period, commencing from the date of the last building occupancy permit issued by the City, the developer shall fulfill all responsibilities of the association for maintenance of all facilities which may require maintenance during the warranty period. The expiration of the warranty period shall not limit or relieve the developer from satisfactory performance of any agreements executed with the City.

(4) In the event that the maintenance responsibilities of the association are not fulfilled, the City shall have the power to enforce such maintenance. In so doing, the City may enter and/or repair accessways and other improvements when necessary to protect the health, safety and general welfare of the citizens. The City shall have the right to recover all costs incurred by collection as a property tax assessment shared on a pro rata basis by all parcels.

(5) A sinking fund shall be established to the satisfaction of the City Engineer for the maintenance and repair of all commonly owned structures, mechanical equipment, open space and landscaped areas.

Public Notice

(6) The purchaser of a unit shall be informed in writing, prior to purchase, of insurance which is unavailable as a result of condominium ownership. The Association shall be responsible to facilitate insurability when necessary.

(7) Each buyer shall sign an ackowledgment stating he has read the Articles of Incorporation, the By-Laws of the Property Owners' Association and the Conditions, Covenants and Restrictions applying to the development.

15.50.070 PRIVATE VEHICULAR ACCESSWAYS.

A. The maximum overall length of any deadend private vehicle accessway shall be 250 lineal feet. Private vehicle accessways shall be loops rather than cul-de-sacs wherever possible.

B. The minimum curb to curb width for private vehicular accessways shall be 24 feet. Where right angle parking occurs off the accessway, a minimum stall length of 24 feet shall be provided.

Not dedicated for public use or maintained by the City of San Rafael."

L. Backfill of all trenches in private vehicular accessway areas shall meet City public street standards for trench backfill. All work done within private vehicular accessways by a utility company shall be inspected by the responsible utility company to a point six inches over the top of their facility. All other work in the private vehicle accessway shall be inspected by the Public Works Department.

15.50.080 EASEMENTS. A public utility easement (P.U.E.) shall be established over the entire private vehicle accessway. No subdivision map, entitling conversion to condominiums shall be approved unless the Commission finds that the development meets all standards of the current codes and ordinances as they apply to new construction, except for such requirements which, by the provisions of Chapter 15.52 EXCEPTIONS, the Commission deems unnecessary to fulfill the objectives of this chapter.

B. All developments proposed for conversion to condominiums shall be subject to preconversion and postconversion inspections by the City of all physical improvements. The findings of the preconversion inspection shall be written into a report to the Planning Commission. The report shall evaluate and compare the condition of the physical improvements to the requirements of all current codes and ordinances. Physical improvements to be inspected shall include but not be limited to the following: foundations, walls, ceilings, roofs, electrical systems, domestic and fire prevention water systems, sanitary sewer systems, storm drainage systems, vehicular accessways, public utilities, landscaping and irrigation systems, and the condition of all exterior building materials. Committee To Vote On No-Fault

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — No-fault automobile insurance, a controversial proposition affecting millions of motorists, will be lifted from legislative limbo and put to a do-or-die committee vote next week, a key lawmaker said today.

After 9 months, Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, said the no-fault vote will come Aug. 20.

That is the last scheduled hearing of the committee before adjournment of the Legislature Aug. 31, and the final chance for the most widely supported no-fault bill in the Capitol, a measure (AB50) by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello.

Since the session began in 1973, the committee has heard and rejected other no-fault proposals, but taken no action on Fenton's bill because of a lack of votes for approval.

Song gave no indication of any shift in committee support, but told newsmen, "We can't let it die like this."

Under the no-fault concept, a motorist is reimbursed for costs and damages by his own insurance company regardless of who is at fault in an accident.

Fenton's bill limits the cases where a person can go to court and sue for higher damages in accidents, and would guarantee a reduction in insurance premiums for the 13 million licensed California drivers.

Comedian Ordered To Appear In Court

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Comedian Paul Lynde of the television program "Hollywood Squares" was summoned to appear in suburban Perrysburg Municpal court today on a charge of public intoxication.

FAMILY FARE TO STRIPPERS

Japanese View TV Contrast

TOKYO (UPI) — Now that summer vacations are here, Japanese parents have difficulty getting children to bed before the racy late-night television programs come on.

That's when three channels usually turn blue.

Bare-breasted women dressed as Indians and cowgirls prance around the stage doing square dances. On a typical night recently, one channel featured a kind of erotic ballet performed by a man and woman dressed in brief g-strings.

Earlier in the evening, an innocent young songstress, dressed in white knee socks and a short dress with a little white collar, sang about first love.

On one of the most popular late night shows, guests drink whisky, tell off-color stories and watch excerpts from pornographic films which they later discuss. The talk is interspersed with strip tease performances and gambling games.

Another channel showed a film of a man caressing a model attired in a black slip, followed by a discussion about the sexiness of black slips.

On a third channel, a man interviewed a woman in a topless bathing suit (held up by suspenders). When the interview was over everyone called out "show time!" and a stripper dressed in silver danced slowly out of her clothes.

These risque programs generally include one or two well-endowed women as set decorations. They sit around giggling at the offcolor stories, much like the hostesses in Tokyo's bars and night clubs.

These shows are a far cry from dinnertime TV.

Early evening viewers prefer Agnes Chan, 18, a student and pop music idol from Hong Kong who dresses as a 12-year-old and sings in a quivering childish voice while brushing tears from her cheek with one finger.

Also popular are the "Finger Five," four brothers and a sister ranging in age from eight to mid-teens who dress alike and sing Japanese rock tunes.

The child cult reaches absurd proportions in the family song contest shows. Here, celebrities bring their entire broods to "compete" with the families of other celebrities. More often than not, the cutest three-year old with the highest voice carries his family to victory.

Sinatra Is Ordered To Give Deposition

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frank Sinatra has been ordered to answer questions at a deposition hearing later this month in a $5 million damage suit filed against the singer by a Salt Lake businessman.

U.S. District Court Judge Manuel Real told Sinatra's attorney at a hearing Monday that the singer would have to answer questions concerning his drinking the night the businessman claims he was beaten up in a Palm Springs cocktail lounge and dining room.

Frank J. Weinstock claimed in his suit against Sinatra that the singer, restauranteur Billy Rizzo and Jerry Arvenitas assaulted him in the Trinidad Hotel May 5, 1973.

Weinstock said that when his wife went to the ladies room he was asked to leave. He said he refused to do so and went to the men's room where he was allegedly beaten.

Rizzo, Arvenitas and the hotel also were named in the suit.

The deposition hearing will be held at Lake Tahoe on Aug. 24, according to Weinstock's attorney, Marvin E. Lewis.

Two Palm Springs police officers were scheduled to give depositions yesterday in Palm Springs and other depositions will be taken before the trial begins Sept. 10.

Tiburon Street Group Is Named

The Tiburon City Council has appointed a committee to work with city engineer Stanley M. Bala on possible improvements on Tiburon Boulevard between Stewart Drive and the downtown area, according to City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert.

The committee, picked Monday, will include planning commissioners Alvin R. Kuhn and William M. Lukens; parks and recreation commissioner Peter Hoyt Berg; board of design review member James Wilson, councilman E. Bruce Ross, and planning director Robert E. Fosnot.

Kleinert said the committee will not discuss widening of the road but will consider items like improving shoulders, building stacking lanes at intersections and changing lane sizes.

Rhode Islanders Back Rockefeller

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller emerges as the top choice among Rhode Island Republicans as the man they want to see President Ford select as his vice president.

GOP State Chairman Thomas E. Wright believes Rockefeller is the best choice among the available party members who have national status.

Wright said yesterday he mailed a list of three picks to the White House. "In fact I just put them in the mail today," he said.

Changing Scene In Baseball Scouting

Who would watch a 10 a.m. college baseball game in Salt Lake City, follow one of the players to a 5 p.m. softball game, then hop a plane to San Francisco in time to see most of an 8 p.m. high school game at Albert Field in San Rafael?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

Professional baseball begins with the scout. As a group, no one is more dedicated to the game. Their salaries are not large. Their work hours are irregular. Their travel schedule is unbelievable. Many times, their meals consist of only that which happens to be available at a ballpark. And yet they endure all of this simply to remain an importnat part of the game they love.

Who would wake up to a rainy day in California, phone for a weather report in Boise then hop a plane to Idaho just to see a game?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

Prior to 1965, scouting was a wild, exciting business. In the years prior to 1965, any team was able to sign any amateur player provided he had graduated from high school. The scout had to literally wine and dine a young prospect, his family and girl friend as well. A young man, who was deemed worthy of a bonus, might receive offers from every team in baseball. These offers would many times be followed by counter offers. When it got down to signing a player, it was the scout making the best impression who got his man. In 1965, the free agent draft eliminated all this. Only one team is able to negotiate with a player. Scouting became very inpersonal.

Who would drive to Santa Rosa for a noon game, have it postponed by wet grounds, then drive to Woodland, watch three games, wake up the next morning in Woodland, drive to Fairfield for a 10 a.m. game and then be in Santa Cruz that afternoon for a 2 p.m. doubleheader?

ANSWER: a baseball scout.

In what has been termed an economy move, professional baseball last week adopted a new centralized scouting system. Seventeen of the 24 major league teams are involved. The Giants are not involved but Oakland is. Each of the 17 teams is allowed to keep up to four of its present scouting staff. The rest of its scouts are let go (fired). Some of theee men will be picked up by the centralized scouting system. In the new system, there will be 40 full-time scouts and 30 part-time men throughout the country. They will make reports to a central office. The reports will be passed on to each of the 17 teams in the system. No longer will the scout have a tie with an individual team. The older men will not be retained. Most of the present part-time help and many of the full-time men have already been released effective either immediately or at the end of their contracts. Some of these men have spent over 20 years with the same club. In many cases there are no pensions or retirement benefits of any kind.

What are they supposed to do with the rest of their lives?

Fast Marin Times In Junior Olympics

LINCOLN, Neb. — Posting times which qualified them for the National Long Course championships next week in Concord, Susan Barnard of Mill Valley and Scott Hislop of San Rafael starred for their Marin County clubs in the Junior Olympics swimming competition that ended here Monday.

Both Miss Barnard, of the Tamalpais Swim Club, and Hislop, of the Marin Aquatic Club, turned in their qualifying performances in the 200 yard individual medley. Miss Barnard swam the women's version in 2:32.94, good for eight place and well below the 2:33.8 qualifying time.

Hislop posted his best ever time, 2:17.1 to win the men's consolation. Qualifying time was 2:17.8. He also finished third in the consolation final of the 200 freestyle with at 2:00.98 and contributed to a 400 medley relay effort that earned the MAC 10th place overall.

Two other MAC swimmers turned in stellar performances. Tammy Segondo turned in her best time to finish eighth in the consolation final of the women's 200 breaststroke with a 2:55.9. And Mike Keck, although not a finalist, set a Pacific Association AAU record in the boys' 13-14 200 I.M. with a 2:19.1.

Seals Name McCreary As General Manager

On Tuesday, the Seals named 39-year-old Bill McCreary to succeed Garry Young as Director of Hockey Operations. His appointment came on the heels of the naming of Marshall Johnston as coach succeeding Fred Glover.

Despite his age, McCreary brings wide experience to his new post. He's been a player of quality in the National Hockey League with four teams, served as minor league coach and assistant general manager, and coached both St. Louis and Vancouver on the major league level.

"Bill without question was my No. 1 choice," said Campbell. "He'll go to work immediately and Young has consented to help him get started. We think we got the best man possible to run our club."

The Seals were purchased by the NHL from Charlie Finley last season and are being operated out of a pool of assessments from each team in the league.

Yachts Practice For America's Cup

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI) — Intrepid, the yacht to beat, and three other America's Cup hopefuls sailed round and round a short course in the Atlantic Tuesday, giving their crews a rigorous workout in sail handling.

Intrepid, winner of the cup in 1967 and 1970, sailed at least 25 times around the three-mile course. She was joined by U. S. rivals Mariner and Valiant and French entry France, owned by ballpoint pen maker Baron Marcel Bich.

Marin Stars 'Ready Now' For Sonoma

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Two-a-day practices in the dead summer heat at Novato High School have paid off for the Marin County all-star football team as it prepares for the first Marin-Sonoma All-Sar Bowl.

"We're in tremendous condition, and the kids are really pulling together spiritually," says assistant coach Don Lucas of Terra Linda. "As a club, we're ready to play now."

That doesn't mean, however, that you'll see the 27 stars from Marin's eight high schools standing around from now until Saturday night at 8 o'clock, when they will confront their counterparts from 10 Sonoma County schools at San Rafael High. Under the direction of head coach Al Scott of Novato, with Lucas and Redwood's Phil Roark assisting, the Marin squad continues to work, with players going both ways in practice.

"We've been practicing our kids both ways because we had to have depth," says Lucas. "Plus the fact we've been better able to see what these kids do."

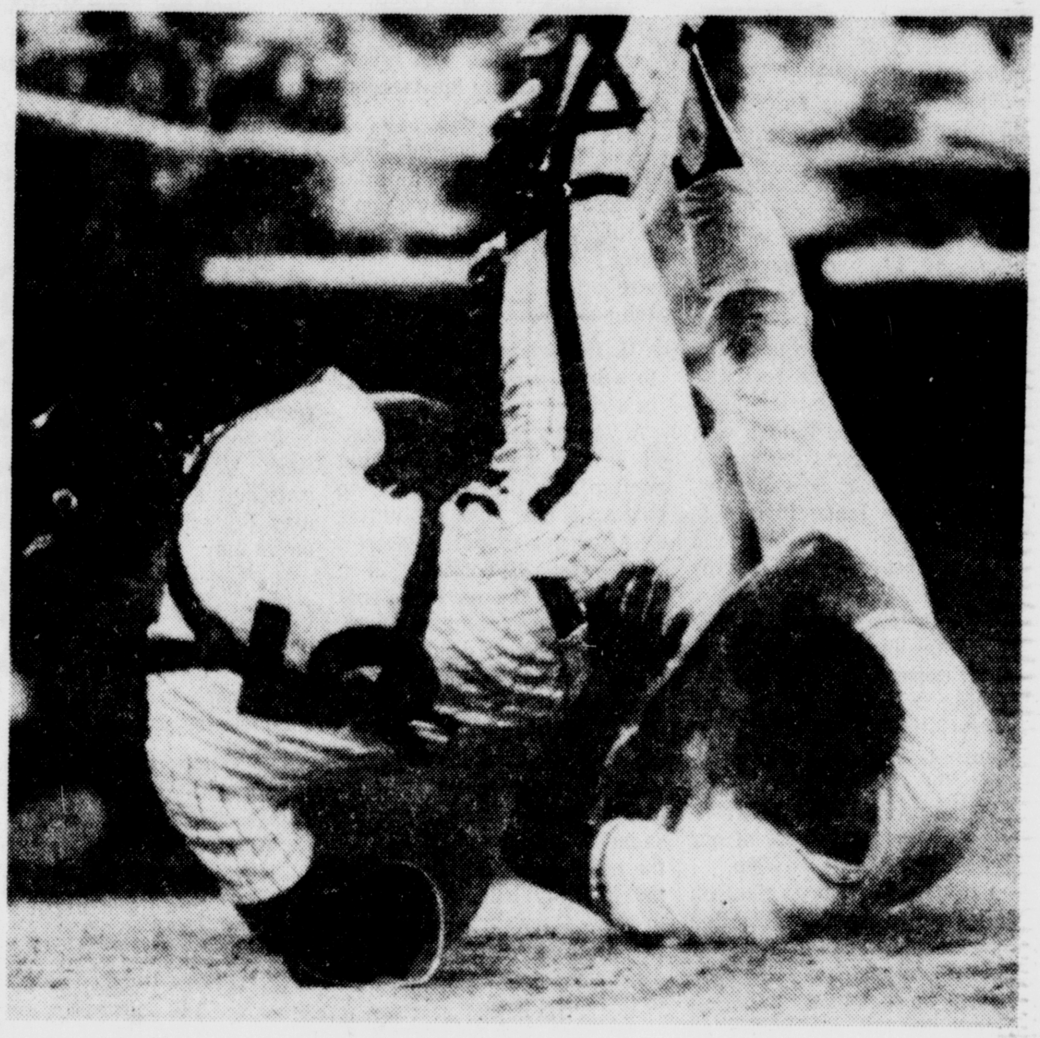
Last Saturday, Marin held its first live scrimmage, and, according to Lucas, moved the ball well on the ground. "The running of Fred Adams of Tamalpais and Steve D'Ambra of San Rafael was very encouraging. Richter (Mark, of Redwood), was sick, but we know what he can do." Richter was the third leading rusher last year in the Marin County Athletic League.

Marin will have to establish a strong running attack to offset a somewhat anemic passing game. Quarterback Kevin Kirby of Terra Linda can throw well enough, but a paucity of good receivers will render him ineffective except for short passes.

Sonoma, on the other hand, has a potentially explosive aerial game, with three receivers who run 40 yards in 4.6 seconds. But Lucas has confidence in Marin's defensive backfield, which will consist of Richter, Bob Gelardi of Terra Linda, Rick Herbert of Drake and Dave Brazell of Novato. "They're going to have a tough time throwing against us," says Lucas. "Kirby's having a tough time throwing against us."

Lucas doesn't think the special rules for the game, prohibiting blitzing and forcing both teams to stick to one defense, will be advantageous to one team or the other. "The rules make it simpler to prepare your offense, but I don't think they'll favor either team," he says.

As to the fact that Sonoma's people are on the average bigger than Marin's, and some of them are faster, Lucas waxes philosophically. "As long as the big people aren't fast, we'll be okay."



FIRST ONE'S HARDEST — Bobby Bonds of the Giants collided with Phillies' catcher Larry Cox and scored the first run of the game last night in the first inning at Philadelphia. Bonds came home on a fielder's choice by Tito Fuentes. The Phillies recovered to win the game, 6-5.

FAIRNESS URGED

Owners Warned By Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A dozen congressmen have warned National Football League owners to reach a fair agreement with the players' union or face a complete review of football's antitrust exemptions.

The congressmen, in a letter to John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, also warned the owners against trying to break the players' union.

In their letter, the congressmen said, "We are today calling on both the owners and the players, but ... particularly the owners ... to sit down again Thursday and this time reach a fair compromise agreement.

"If they do not or if the union is significantly injured, we want it known that we will undertake a complete review of the National Football League's antitrust status, and if the facts warrant, introduce appropriate legislation."

Signers of the letter included Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee which deals with restraints of trade, who said several bills are pending which would affect the NFL's antitrust exemptions.

Others signing the letter were Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., Parren V. Mitchell, D-Md., George E. Brown Jr., D-Calif., Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., Walter E. Fauntroy, D-D.C., Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., John Conyers, Jr., D-Mich., Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich., Joe Moakley, D-Mass., and James C. Corman, D-Calif.

The players' decision to suspend their strike and go to training camps for a 14-day cooling-off period was "in the best interests of the NFL and the millions of football fans in the United States," the congressmen said in their letter. "We await a comparable move by the owners demonstrating their good faith in seeking a fair agreement with the players."

In New York, a spokesman for the Management Council said it had not received the letter but added, "We know the record of the negotiations will show that we have bargained in good faith and we would invite Congressman Moss or anyone else to examine it."

The letter added, "While most of the evidence of inadequate bargaining points to the owners as the reticent party, the players are not wholly without responsibility."

The congressmen also warned against the owners trying to break the union even though they "might have the financial muscle to do it."

"That is where the Congress comes in," they added. "One reason why the owners have the financial muscle to refuse to bargain or to damage the players' union is because of the special treatment they have received from Congress."

Giants Bow To Schmidt And Phils

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Third baseman Mike Schmidt said he has found the simple secret to Philadelphia's success this season: "If I hit, we win."

Schmidt proved his point again Tuesday night, pounding two homers and a triple and driving in three runs to lead the Phillies to a 6-5 win over the San Francisco Giants.

Schmidt's display of power moved him into the league lead in RBIs with 91 and tied him with Los Angeles' Jim Wynn for the home run lead with 27. But after the game, he refused to discuss statistics.

"I'll check the figures in October after we win the pennant," Schmidt said. "I mean it. I'm really concerned with winning. If I hit, we win, and everything else will take care of itself.

Schmidt had a two-run homer off Jim Barr in the first inning, then connected again off Barr with none on in the third to help the Phils to a 4-1 lead.

The Phils staked starter Dick Ruthven to a 6-1 lead after four innings but the young righthander couldn't get through the sixth inning. The Giants drew to within two runs in the fifth when Dave Kingman tripled following consecutive singles by Tito Fuentes, Gary Matthews and Chris Speier.

Olympian Hopes For Comeback

MONTREAL (UPI) — Olympic gold medallist Niels Fredborg hopes the road to recovery ends for him on the winner's podium today, the opening day of the 1974 World Cycling Championships.

The 27-year old captain of Denmark's cycling team, Fredborg is trying to make a comeback at this year's championships after being sidelined for the latter part of 1973 with severe head injuries.

Holtzman Sharp For A's But North Steals Show

The fleet Oakland A's' centerfielder opened Tuesday night's game, which wound up in a 6-1 victory over the New York Yankees, by saving pitcher Ken Holtzman with a great catch and he ended it by driving in one insurance run in the seventh and scoring another.

In between, North almost became involved in a fight with Yankee catcher Thurman Munson, whom he personally humiliated with his base running, but nothing became of their exchange.

George Medich, trying to snap a personal three-game losing streak, had the A's shut out on one hit when North opened the sixth inning by beating out a bunt. He then stole second and when Munson threw wildly into center, North continued to third.

With Sal Bando at bat, Munson tried to pick North off third and again threw wild. North picked himself out of the dirt at third and scored. Munson tried to block the plate even though third baseman Graig Nettles never made a throw. North didn't like it and had words with Munson.

"He had the plate blocked on the outside and I came in on the inside," North explained. "He had no right to block me out since he didn't have the ball and after I went by him, he kicked me. That's what got me upset."

There is no Munson version of the play since he hid from newsmen in the New York dressing room after the game. It's probably just as well because Munson later made a third error and now has 19.

A's' Manager Alvin Dark said he thought Munson made a mistake in blocking off North but that he didn't believe Munson did it on purpose.

"He's too high class a guy to do that," said Dark. "In my opinion, if the same play occured again he wouldn't do what he did. A catcher's job is to block the plate but when he didn't have the ball he should have let the runner come on. Certainly, North isn't to blame for anything. It's really an unfortunate incident."

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Pros, Cons Of Licensing Boaters

How to educate the boat operator is the big challenge facing all boating and water safety groups across the nation. All the legislators and safety people involved in boating are unanimous on at least one question: "How do we impart a great mass of knowledge and know-how quickly to several million boatmen?"

Some lean to compulsion. They would force boaters to learn rules and regulations. Then make them pass a test and be licensed before they are permitted to drive a boat. All much like the present system used for licensing automobile drivers.

This group says that there are so few rules and regulations and restrictions on boating . . . there's so little to learn anyway . . . that almost everybody could get a license if they were old enough.

Another, more progressive group rejoices in the fact that there are so few restrictions — and wants to keep it that way. This group deplores the formation of a new bureaucracy, points to the fantastic cost to the taxpayer of testing and licensing boat drivers and the cost of policing the system.

This faction claims that a knowledgeable, educated boating fraternity, voluntarily embracing the precepts of water safety is much better than any licensing, or system of compulsion.

At the present time it's gratifying to find that most of our legislators feel this way too.

A nationwide organization dedicated to teaching boating know-how is United States Power Squadrons. It's 400 local units hold boat piloting classes during the fall and winter all across the continent. Every person who owns a boat should take a Power Squadron course. It's free, fascinating and extremely worthwhile.

Many squadrons are now registering students for the fall classes. Some have already begun the registration and are filled up . . . but there will be more classes early next year.

Most local squadrons announce commencement of classes in their area newspaper. If you missed yours, find the name of the Power Squadron contact man from a yacht club, boating group or a marine dealer. One of them will know him.

Or write to the national headquarters at 50 Craig Road, P.O. Box 345, Montvale, New Jersey 07645. Ask for the name of the training officer of the squadron closest to your home.

The vast uncertainty in this field of boating know-how is shown by some of the questions I've been asked this summer:

Q. Must a man who rents out a boat, supply life jackets along with it?

A. Some state boating laws insist that he must . . . Florida, for example. Other states don't mention it. But even if the law doesn't care who supplies them, there must be one aboard for each passenger.

Q. How close can you come to a boat you are overtaking in a river?

A. There's really nothing stated in any law I've seen. But remember, there's more to passing a boat than not hitting it. After you've passed there's your wake to consider. If it should cause the overtaken boat any harm or damage, every law says you're a dead duck.

Q. Why do some boaters, when they are approaching you always wait until the last second before signifying what they are going to do?

A. It saddens me to see the same aggressive disregard of the other fellow so common on the highway being transferred to the waterway. Boating used to be a gentleman's game. I don't think there is an answer to this question.

Q. They tell me there's a rule you must follow when you turn a boat. What is it?

A. There's no "rule." I think you are referring to the fact that a boat does not turn like a car. A boat turns by swinging its stern and pointing its bow in an new direction, whereas a car turns by swinging its front end. This makes no difference until you drive away from a dock. Then the stern might swing and hit the dock.

Q. Does a seaplane have the right of way over boats?

A. You might find some seaplane landing areas from which boats are banned by a local ordinance, but this is rare. Under international rules, seaplanes or flying boats are ordered to keep out of the way of vessels. But generally speaking, when a seaplane is taxi-ing on water it is classed as a boat and has the same privileges.

Gaters Lose, Still Seek Playoffs

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden Gaters, who need only one win to cinch a World Team Tennis playoff spot, failed to get it Tuesday as Baltimore took the 26-22 win.

Key wins for the Banners were Bob Carmichael's 6-3 win over favored Dick Bohrnstedt in men's singles and a 6-2 surprise in women's doubles by Betty Stove and Joyce Hume over Lesley Hunt and Ilana Kloss.

In other matches, Miss Hunt downed Kathy Kuykendall 7-5 in women's singles and Carmichael and Jay Mukerjea edged Bohrnstedt and Frew McMillen 6-4 in men's singles.

Baltimore had the match iced by the time the mixed doubles came along so the 6-3 win by Whitney Reed and Miss Kloss over Miss Stove and Don Candi means little.

Casper Comes Home

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Billy Casper comes "home" to Wethersfield trying to forget a poor showing at the PGA and pick up his first tour victory on what must be his favorite golf course.

It won't be easy though, since smiling Lee Trevino will also be on hand to turn on the crowds and add to his sack full of $45,000 in PGA first prize earnings.

Both will tune up today in a pro-am prelude to Thursday's opening round of the $200,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open at the 6,583-yard, par 71 Wethersfield Country Club course.

Casper will tee off with Davis, who lent his name to the charitable Jaycees sponsorship last year in efforts to rate the tournament among the major tour stops. Only six other tournaments pay more than the $40,000 first prize here.

Other celebrities on hand are: Glenn Campbell, Sandy Koufax, Willie Mays, Don Newcombe and actor Gregg Morris.

The tournament, usually held on the Labor Day weekend, drew record crowds last year and was pushed up this year. The final two rounds on Saturday and Sunday will be nationally televised by CBS.

Casper, a San Diego, Calif., native, has won four times at Wethersfield and he could use an unprecedent fifth win to overcome his poor showing in the PGA where he shot a 297 to place in the bottom 10 at Clemmens, N.C.

Casper, without a tournament win this year, could almost double his $42,559 earned so far with a victory on the familiar course where a year ago he scored 264 for 20 under par, edging Bruce Devlin of Australia by one stroke with a 17th hole birdie.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Palmer's Only Interest These Days Is Winning

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Jim Palmer's values have changed and he's only interested in one thing now — but if he helps the Baltimore Orioles in the process, that's fine too.

Palmer, the pitcher with the best-won lost percentage in the majors over the past four seasons but hampered by arm trouble this season, pitched strong six-hit ball for six innings Tuesday night to help lift Baltimore to a 8-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox and end a four-game Oriole tailspin.

Palmer, last year's Cy Young winner, boasts a mark of 83-38 over the past four campaigns but only a 4-8 mark this year and he made his first start since June 16. He was taken off the disabled list just prior to Tuesday's game and has taken medication, undergone heat treatment, done everything possible to get back into winning form and the result has been a changed attitude which he attributes to his surprising won-lost record.

In other games, Kansas City stopped Detroit 6-2, Milwaukee trimmed Texas 5-1 and Boston nipped California 3-0.

In the National League, it was Pittsburgh 14 Cincinnati 3, New York 3 Los Angeles 0, San Diego 2 St. Louis 1, Atlanta 4 Montreal 3 and Houston 3 Chicago 1.

Padres 2 Cardinals 1

Dave Winfield drove in both San Diego runs with a single and a double, leading the Padres over the Cardinals. Winfield singled home Dave Hilton in the first and doubled him home in the fifth in handing Sonny Siebert his seventh setback.

Brewers 5, Rangers 1

John Briggs' two-run single sparked a four-run Brewer eighth inning but the game was interrupted by a near-brawl that emptied both benches.

After Milwaukee had moved in front with its big eighth inning, Brewer shortstop Tim Johnson was injured in the bottom half of the inning when Mike Hargrove slid into him at second base. While a trainer was administering to Johnson, Ranger third base coach Frank Lucchesi, apparently incensed by comments from the Milwaukee bench, walked toward the dugout and immediately became involved in a shoving match with Brewer outfielder Ken Berry.

Red Sox 3, Angels 0

Free-wheeling Luis Tiant picked up his 18th win in 26 decisions with a four-hit shutout to tie Chicago's Wilbur Wood for the major league lead in wins. The triumph gave the AL East-leading Red Sox a four-game lead over idle Cleveland.

Royals 6, Tigers 2

Amos Otis ran his hitting streak to 16 games and drove in two runs with sacrifice flies and Steve Mingori continued his perfect relief pitching in the Royals' victory over Detroit. Mingori took over with one out in the eighth inning and shut out the Tigers the rest of the way to make it 25 1-3 consecutive innings in which he has not allowed an earned run.

Mets 3 Dodgers 0

Jon Matlack pitched a four-hitter for his fifth shutout — tops in the NL — and Jerry Grote hit a two-run homer for the Mets. Matlack struck out eight and walked one in raising his record to 11-9. Al Downing yielded all the Mets' runs in 5 1-3 innings and lost his sixth game.

Braves 4 Expos 3

Dusty Baker drove in two runs with a homer and a single as the Braves stretched their winning streak to five games. Ron Reed went 8 2-3 innings for his eighth victory with ninth-inning relief help from Phil Niekro.

Astros 3 Cubs 1

Cesar Cedeno tripled for his third hit of the game opening the ninth and scored the first two runs in the inning on Milt May's single to give Dave Roberts his seventh win for the Astros. Bill Bonham suffered his 15th loss against 10 victories for the Cubs.

Pirates 14, Reds 3

Richie Zisk went 4-for-6 with three RBIs, and Al Oliver knocked in five with a homer, two singles and a sacrifice fly as Pittsburgh routed Cincinnati, 14-3. It was the 10th straight game in which Zisk has driven in at least one run, leaving him one short of the NL record set by hall of famer Mel Ott in 1929.

Quakes In Dallas For First Playoff

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

DALLAS — The San Jose Earthquakes open North American Soccer League playoff action tonight against Dallas in quarterfinal competition.

San Jose and Dallas ended the regular season with identical 9-8-3 records although the Quakes were second to Los Angeles in the Western Division while Dallas won the Central Division.

Top NASL scorer Paul Child of San Jose was named to the league's all-star team yesterday.

Football

GREEN BAY, Wis. — The Green Bay Packers yesterday acquired all-pro linebacker Ted Hendricks but the price was high and the long term benefits doubtful.

Hendricks, a 6-foot-7, 220-pounder who carries the nickname "Mad Stork" because of his frame, came to Green Bay as part of a deal that saw second-year star Tom MacLeod, the Packers' rookie of the year in 1973, go to the Baltimore Colts.

As a part of the deal, the Packers will get Baltimore's No. 2 pick in the 1975 draft and the Colts will get Green Bay's eighth-round choice.

Golf

HARRISON, N.Y. — U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin accepted an invitation yesterday to play in the eighth annual $250,000 Westchester Classic at the Westchester Country Club.

Irwins joins defending champion Bobby Nichols, two-time winner Jack Nicklaus, British Open and Masters champion Gary Player and Sam Snead, among others, for the Aug. 22-25 benefit golf tournament.

Baseball

DETROIT — Detroit outfielder Willie Horton, who was injured in May when he ran into the Tiger Stadium outfield wall, underwent surgery yesterday for repair of damaged cartilage in his right knee.

Horton's physician, Dr. Donald Mitchell, said the operation was successful.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The Pittsburgh Pirates are sending pitcher Steve Blass to an eye specialist in California in an effort to determine if eye problems were the cause of his pitching misfortunes.

The former star right-hander will undergo a special visual program and rejoin his former teammates in San Diego later this month in a nonroster capacity to work with pitching coach Don Osborn.

In order to undergo the program, Blass was placed on a temporary inactive list by the Charleston Charlies, the Pirates' International League farm club.

Tennis

APTOS, Calif. — With seeded players sitting out the action, Myron Ramos of San Francisco in Men's 60 and Stan Maloney of Sacramento in Men's 65 stood out in first-round play in the National Senior Hardcourt tennis championships.

Ramos downed Jim Dummond of Aptos 6-4, 6-3 at the Seascape Racquet Club. Maloney dispatched Rogen Holzkamp of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-1.

Wilhelm Productive In Minor Leagues

For Jim Wilhelm of Kentfield, who plays minor league baseball, "That was the week that was."

Wilhelm, one of seven former Marin County stars now in the minors, brought his season average close to .300. He hit at a torrid .371 pace last week for Walla Walla of the Northwest A League, according to statistics compiled by Player Periscope of Novato.

In 35 at bats, Wilhelm collected 13 hits, including two home runs, two doubles and a triple. He scored 10 runs and knocked in six. His season average stands at .297.

Other Marinites saw limited action and performed poorly. Clifford Hall of Marin City, with a season average of .273, Rob Long of Corte Madera (.220) and Tom Olson of Kentfield (.183) failed to get a hit with their respective teams, and Tom Thomas of Novato, Marin's only triple AAA player, went just one for 14 with Charleston of the International League. He's hitting .206 for the season.

Pitcher Dewey Forry of Terra Linda ran his record to 3-5 with a win and a loss for Waterbury of the Class AA Eastern League. Forry, a reliever, received the decisions for only four innings work.

Russ Dillon of Novato absorbed his second loss in a row for Eugene of the Northwest League. The fastballing left-hander has a season record of 8-2, and an earned run average of 2.71.

Birmingham Vs. Hawaii Tonight

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Birmingham Americans, the only undefeated team in the World Football League with a 5-0 record but not noted for their defense, may find the Hawaiians very offensive Wednesday night.

Former Ole Miss star Norris Weese, the league's third-ranked passer with 74 completions in 141 attempts for 950 yards and nine touchdowns, leads the 1-4 Hawaiians to Legion Field and Birmingham Coach Jack Gotta acknowledged that "Weese has proved to be one of the best.

"The fact that they are a passing team is not welcome news to us," said Gotta, whose Americans rank 10th on pass defense among the 12 league teams.

Birmingham has allowed 78 completions in 141 attempts, yielding 925 yards and 4 touchdowns in five games.

In fact, the Americans, who lead the league in total offense, are at the bottom in total defense. Statistics show that the club has allowed opposing clubs to gain 1,778 yards and score 13 touchdowns.

Gotta said his defense has the potential to be good, "but we weren't getting much from our front four." He is hopeful that two recent acquisitions, Larry Estes and Gary Champagne, will help the team.

In other World Football League meetings Wednesday, Portland is at New York, Memphis at Detroit, Philadelphia at Chicago and Jacksonville at Florida.

Unable to win in five attempts in the light, the Portland Storm (0-4-1) will have a go at it in the dark of New York's Downing Stadium.

The Stars (3-2) are trying to improve the lighting in the Randall's Island stadium, but efforts so far have been stymied and the two previous WFL games there have been played in a twilight zone aura.

At Detroit, the Wheels still are seeking their first victory of the season, going against the Memphis Southmen (3-2).

Three Vets Report To 49er Camp

GOLETA, Calif. (UPI) — Three San Francisco 49er veterans reported to training camp Tuesday.

They were defensive tackle Rolf Krueger, offensive lineman Jean Barrett and wide receiver Terry Beasley. Coach Dick Nolan said they might see action in Sunday's NFL tuneup against the Denver Broncos in San Francisco.

Nolan also instructed other veterans to report to St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco for their physical examinations on Thursday and report to camp Friday. He said they would not play in the Bronco game.

The 49ers also announced that in compliance with an NFL directive refunds would be issued by mail to season ticket holders for the Denver game.

Raiders' Brown: Settlement Soon

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) Willie Brown, the Oakland Raiders' player representative, predicts the 44-day suspended players strike soon will be history.

"We'll have an agreement soon," the veteran cornerback said Tuesday. "There are some things we've pretty much come to agreement on except for the signing of legal documents."

Laura Cann To Seek Third Champs Tourney Golf Crown

(First in a series)

The only two-time winner of the Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions has been "vacationing on a golf course."

Laura Cann, who won in 1969 and 1970, said "I've been playing at Lake Tahoe and enjoying it. Now I'm practicing, preparing mentally to play in a tournament."

Mrs. Cann will be facing defending champion Tillie Gondak of Marin Country Club, Liz Cole of Peacock Gap, Terry Nichols of Mill Valley, Peg Williams of Indian Valley and Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo. The seventh annual event will be held Aug. 23 at 9 a.m. at Indian Valley.

Laura believes the hilly Indian Valley course will be suited for Mrs. Gapinski's game. "She hits a nice, straight ball."

In seeking her third title, Mrs. Cann will rely on her long hitting. "I hit the woods well." Presently, she is practicing intently for her fifth appearance. Mrs. Cann is a six handicapper. She has won the Meadow Club title 16 straight years and has been playing golf for "about 20 years." But she is more than a golfer. Mrs. Cann is a fine bowler and tennis player.

Her husband John is an anesthesiologist at St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco. The couple has four children: Jacqueline, Bill, Jane and Robert.

Knievel Shown At Civic Center

Evel Knievel's Snake River jump will be presented via closed circuit television at the Marin County Civic Center auditorium Sept. 8.

In addition to the jump itself, in which Knievel will attempt to fly across the Snake River Canyon in Idaho on a jet-cycle, the two-hour show will include other stunt and daredevil acts. Show time is 1 p.m.

Tickets cost $10 and $7.50 at the Marin Box Office, Macy's in San Rafael, Holiday Box Office and Ticketron.

Registration Saturday For Tennis Session

Registration for the third session of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department's summer tennis classes will be Saturday, the department announced yesterday.

The session, consisting of two hours of class weekly for four weeks, will be offered at Albert Park and Freitas Park. Registration will be held at both locations from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The cost is $8.

JAMES P. BUCKNER
San Anselman promoted

UPI Names Buckner To Higher Post

James P. Buckner, 45, of San Anselmo, who has been United Press International's Pacific Division business manager in San Francisco for the past six years, has won a promotion that will transfer him to UPI world headquarters in New York in October.

UPI President Rod Beaton announced in New York today that Buckner will be director of North American sales and will report to H.C. Thornton, vice president-marketing. Buckner succeeds Norman A. Cafarell, who was elevated to the post of administrative assistant to the president.

Buckner, his wife Pauline, and their two daughters have lived in San Anselmo since November 1963. A native of York, Pa., Buckner graduated from Allegheny College in Pennsylvania and did graduate work at Penn State University.

He joined UPI in 1957 at Los Angeles and later worked in the Reno, Nev. bureau. In 1968, he became Pacific Division business manager in San Francisco.

Other new assignments at UPI world headquarters in New York are:

Robert E. Page, 38, recently appointed superintendent of bureau operations, was elected a vice president. Page joined UPI in 1960 and served in various executive posts both in the U.S. and abroad. He recently returned to New York after two years in Hong Kong as general manager for Asia.

Richard Shemonoski, 33, was appointed facilities manager. He recently joined UPI after serving as facilities and network manager for UPITN, the television news service.

Boys Picket Bank Over Lost Deposit

Danny Jones says the action was taken because the Bank of America branch in Hayward lost $285.16 in collection receipts that he put in the night depository on July 15.

Danny and another eighth grader, Brian Hernandez, says they were together when the deposit was made.

Bank manager Dwayne Ames said none of the missing checks has been cashed and he ordered a thorough search of the deposit chute and bank records.

To dramatize the loss, young Jones and several friends picketed the branch with signs reading, "Night Deposits Unsafe," and "Honk if You Agree."

A few motorists slowed down and beeped.

Cigarette Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, sponsor of a 1970 bill to stop cigarette advertising on television, has filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking to ban sale of cigarettes in interstate commerce.

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 14, the 226th day of 1974 with 139 to follow.

The moon is between the last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

Naturalist Ernest Thompson Seton was born Aug. 14, 1860.

On this day in history:

In 1900, 2,000 American Marines helped capture Peking, China, to end the Boxer Rebellion.

In 1935, the Social Security Act was passed by Congress.

In 1945, President Harry Truman announced that Japan had accepted terms for unconditional surrender, ending World War II.

In 1972, an East German airliner crashed on takeoff from Berlin, killing 156 persons.

A thought for the day: British philospher Herbert Spencer said, "Volumes might be written upon the impiety of the pious."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Give Your Opponents Credit, And Your Results Will Improve

Most of your opponents at the bridge table know more than enough to come in out of the rain. Give them credit for acting intelligently, and your own results will improve.

East won the first trick with the ace of clubs and thought for a moment. Then he shifted to the jack of diamonds.

South wondered whether or not to finesse with the queen of diamonds. A finesse would indicate a belief that East had shifted from one bad suit to another. It was more likely that an intelligent opponent would continue clubs if his diamonds were headed by king-jack.

South saw an excellent chance to make his contract by stepping up with the ace of diamonds. He then led the king of spades and continued the suit until East took the ace.

East now led the ten of diamonds, and South had the same problem. Should he put up the queen or play low?

Again, the safe decision was to play East not to have the king of diamonds. South therefore played low.

East led the eight of diamonds next, and this time South did put up the queen. West won with the king of diamonds but could not continue the suit. South could surely win four spades, three hearts, one diamond and one club, making his contract.

An early diamond finesse would cost South the game contract. West would win with the king of diamonds and return the suit. The defenders would thus get three diamond tricks and the two black aces.

DAILY QUESTION

Parnter bids one no-trump, and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ - Q J 10 8 3 2
♥ - K Q 6
♦ - 9 6
♣ - J 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades. You can insist on a major-suit contract with a strong 6-card holding. No-trump may well be dangerous since you have two weak doubletons.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Dividing Principal Is Wisest Course

By ROGER E. SPEAR
and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I am interested solely in income and would appreciate your recommendations for the investment of $70,000. I would like to realize a 10 per cent return or better in bonds or other vehicles that have at least moderate safety. M.L.

A. You have a number of choices open to you but perhaps dividing your principal among them might be the wisest course.

For instance, some of the new money market funds currently return better than 10 per cent while many long term bonds and some common stocks also yield that amount. The money market funds, because they invest either wholly or heavily in short term debt instruments where interest rates fluctuate dramatically, cannot guarantee that their high return will continue.

Dreyfus Liquid Assets maintains 75 per cent of assets in investments maturing in two years or under. A prospectus may be obtained by writing them at 600 Madison Avenue, New York City, 10022. Fidelity Daily Income Trust at P.O. Box 193, Boston, Mass., 02101 is, like Dreyfus, the only no-load member of their respective mutual fund management groups.

Portfolios turn over rapidly and in some instances consist largely of bank certificates of deposit. Careful reading of a prospectus as to safeguards provided regarding the size and safety of the bank issuing the certificate of deposit is important in this type of fund.

Three NYSE bonds which you might consider are: Georgia Power 8⅛s of 2001, Philadelphia Electric 7½s of 1998 and Virginia Electric & Power 10½s of 1983. The latter a newly issued bond is rated A and sells above par. The other two A rated or better issues are deeply discounted. However, all three provide a 10 per cent current return and interest coverage is adequate.

Common stocks yielding 9 per cent to 10 per cent with safety are primarily within the electric utility, bank and insurance groups which have been squeezed by high interest rates and inflation. Two utilities which are attractive at current levels are Central Maine Power (NYSE) and Cleveland Electric (NYSE).

Two NY-listed insurers yielding 9 per cent or better are INA Corp. and U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty. Marine Midland (NYSE), trading at a historically low P/E, yields 9 per cent.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at $4.470 cents per fine ounce down 5.5 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at $4.470 down 5.5 cents and fabricated silver at $4.582 down 5.6 cents.

Prices Slip On Market, Light Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) --The fighting on Cyprus provided additional uncertainty to Wall Street today and prices slipped broadly on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was light.

Analysts said the fighting between Turkey and Greece on Cyprus was negative to Wall Street, although they conceded that the major erosion of prices stemmed from long-standing issues such as high interest rates and soaring inflation.

"Cyprus has added a new dimension to the market," Larry Wachtel, vice president of Bache & Co. said. "Not only does it open the door to the possibility of a 'hot war,' but it is diverting President Ford's attention from domestic problems.

William Nelson, analyst for Moody's Investors' Service, said "Inflation is still the big problem ... but Cyprus certainly doesn't help the situation."

As frequently happens, gold mining issues bucked the market trend and moved higher. Dome Mines rose 2 ¼, ASA Ltd. 3½, Campbell Red Lake 3. Homestake was the second most active issue.

Topping the actives was Western Airlines, which gave up ½ to 8 ½.

Elsewhere in the airlines, American surrendered ¼ while Pan Am rose ⅛. American reported higher earnings and passenger traffic for July compared to July, 1973, while Pan Am said its July traffic declined from the year-earlier period.

Hewlett-Packard, delayed in opening, dipped 3 ¾ to 70 ⅛. An article in the Wall Street Journal was pessimistic about appreciation of the issue.

Other point-size losers in the electronics included Burroughs down 2 ¾ and Sperry Rand off 1 ⅜.

Steels turned lower. Ford led the motors downward with a dip of 1 ½. Chemicals and oils were on the downside, with losers of a point or more including Dupont by 1 ¾, Union Carbide 1, Eastman Kodak 1 ⅝, Atlantic Richfield 1 ¼ and Superior Oil 3 ½.

Rails and aircrafts were on the downside.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange slipped in light trading. Declines topped advances, 277 to 106, while volume totaled 630,000 shares. Most active issue was Giant Yellowknife Mining, up ⅝ to 15 on 29,700 shares.

Golden Egg Omelet House Has Opened In San Rafael

The Golden Egg Omelet House opened last weekend in San Rafael at 85 Woodland Avenue in the Bret Harte Shopping Center where Vicki's Coffee Shop closed in March.

Owners of the Golden Egg are Susan Berges and her mother, Dorothy Berges, both of San Rafael. They have about seven years of experience in food service, having helped at the International Gourmet Delicatessen operated in Terra Linda by Susan's brother, Michael J. Berges.

The Golden Egg Omelet House is open from 6 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. It serves 40 varieties of omelets including cheese, sour cream, spinach, sausage, green chili, ham and fresh mushrooms, natural sandwiches with a variety of grain breads, sandwiches of all types, homemade soups, salads and imported beer and wine.

The owners wanted to call it Mama's of Marin but since Mama's is the name of an existing restaurant in San Francisco, they decided to open as The Golden Egg Omelet House.

THE SCOREBOARD cocktail lounge at 535 Fourth Street in San Rafael, which has been remodeled to feature rock dancing, will hold its grand opening tomorrow with "the largest dance floor in the county."

Owner Shauna Gray announced that the interior has been completely remodeled with an expanded bar, enlarged band stand, a big dance floor 35 feet by 15 feet and a seating capacity of 200. "We want to make this the number one music place in Marin, with name bands playing seven nights a week," said Mrs. Gray.

The Scoreboard discontinued its food service to concentrate on music and drinks. It is open from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., with music starting at 9 p.m.

TAM FENCE GREENERY is the name of a new plant shop that just opened at 4486 Redwood Highway, Lucas Valley Road turnoff, just south of Le Chateau restaurant. It is the same location as Tam Fence Co.

Tam Fence Greenery is owned by Helen Nissen of Terra Linda, who has managed Tam Fence for 12 years, and Debbie Hansen of Larkspur, who has five years of retail nursery experience in Marin County. The shop carries both indoor and outdoor plants, shrubs and trees and will also take customer orders for items not on hand.

"Our indoor plants include all kinds of houseplants, ferns, succulents and planted ceramics," said Mrs. Hansen.

KAY NOAH and Associates announced the addition of three new sales staff members.

Joining Kay Noah's Kentfield office at 802 College Avenue are Joanne Stokes of Tiburon and Nila Mather, who has been with Home and Land and Cole Jackman Realtors. Ginny Boesel of Belvedere, a new licensee, joined Kay Noah's Tiburon office at 1610 Tiburon Boulevard.

Barbara Egoian, a broker with Kay Noah's Tiburon office, has been appointed by the Marin County Board of Realtors to the College of Marin advisory committee.

CHARLES EVANS DIEHL of Ross has joined Evans-Carruthers Ltd., public relations consultants of New York, as senior vice president, with an office to be established in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Diehl is a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel with an extensive background in public affairs in the United States, Europe and the Far East. He is an active member of the Greater Los Angeles Press Club, the San Francisco Press Club and the San Francisco Public Relations Round Table.

The student-teacher ratio will be five students to each teacher. Facilities include a well-equipped science laboratory, play areas, workshops and part-time access to a computer terminal in the classroom.

Tuition for the 1974-75 school year is $1,400 for the first child in a family and $1,200 for each additional child.

Open Space Plan Wins Novato Nod

The Novato Citizens Open Space Plan was approved last night by the Novato City Council but not before some harsh criticism from some affected property owners.

The vote to approve the concept and general objectives of the plan was 3-1 with Councilman Fred F. Ruegg against.

"It's an overly ambitious plan. The city cannot possibly buy all the land shown on the map as open space. It goes too far," Ruegg said.

William Long, chairman of the committee, explained the plan — which would put much of the bay flood plain, most of the hilltops and other scenic areas into either public or private open space.

"It is not a 'no growth' plan because it leaves a lot of land for development," he said.

Phillip Coady of 747 Bradley Avenue, said it was not a plan at all because it was drawn up by the committee without consulting the owners of the land designated as open space.

Ann Young said her parents' place at 501 Canyon Road had been designated as open space around Canyon Lake against their wishes, and she asked that it be eliminated from the plan.

Joanne Bondoc of 509 Canyon Road asked for more study on the plan before her property was included. She said they have been harassed by people since it was known that their property was designated as open space.

Joseph Sanchez of 2552 Vineyard Road said that since his property was put out as open space, people tear down his fences to get in and let his cattle out, even though it is private property.

Ruegg pointed out that the city had an understanding with Jack Kinney that if he could develop his 1,000 acres near Black Point that he would annex it. Now the plan puts it in open space. He said it makes the city's word seem no good.

Councilman David Milano said the plan had to be flexible so that some of the land could be developed.

After the council approved the plan, it set three classifications for open space: restricted open space with no use whatsoever; general open space for limited activity such as hiking or horseback riding, and special purpose open space suitable for specific recreational uses.

Lester S. Russell, parks and recreation director, said the city someday would have to hire a special person to manage the open space under the parks and recreation department.

Plans Bared For Highway Landscaping

Preliminary plans for landscaping the Highway 101 bypass in Novato were unveiled last night before the Novato City Council.

George E. Juilly, associate landscape architect with the California Department of Transportation, told the council the project would be done in two stages over two years.

The first stage, to be done this fiscal year, would extend from Novato Creek to North of the Atherton Avenue-San Marin Drive interchange. It would include the DeLong Avenue interchange, the main entrance to the city from the freeway. Cost of the first phase would be $400,000.

The second phase would be done next fiscal year from Novato Creek south to Entrada Drive, including upgrading the Highway 37 interchange. It would cost $360,000.

Henry Sumaraga, landscape architect, said the plans call for use of all native plants. These include live oak, black oaks, redwoods, sycamores, redbuds, manzanita, flowering shrubs and wildflowers. The wildflowers would include plantings of California poppies and lupines.

Half of the cost of the project would be in the irrigation system if the state can get water from the Novato Sanitation District treatment plant.

The council approved the tentative plans 5-0 with Mayor David Price Jones absent.

The Novato City Council also:

COMPLAINT — Heard a complaint from several residents on Driftwood Court on the faulty construction of their homes by Debra Homes. Complaints were of such things as cupboards falling off the wall, cement steps pulling away from the house and bathtubs that will not hold water. The council told the staff to look into it.

DEBRA — After hearing complaints against the construction of Debra Homes, introduced an ordinance approving a subdivision of 21 homes on 11 acres at the northwest corner of Seventh Street and Marion Avenue for Debra Homes.

ELECTION — Put the $3 million bond issue for open space on the Nov. 5 ballot.

TRAFFIC — Approved applying the California Vehicle Code to streets within Hamilton Air Force Base housing areas, to permit patroling by Novato police should the Navy so request.

NUISANCE — Voted to abate a nuisance of old buildings and cars on the Edwin W. and George L. Wilson property at 716 Lamont Avenue. The vote was 3-1, with Ruegg against because the Wilsons had started cleaning up the property.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. tomorrow to a joint meeting with the airport land use commission at the Novato Community House.

Export Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved yesterday, 379 to 6, a simple extension of the present export control laws after rejecting a proposal to limit export of materials that are in short supply in this country.

Gold Price Up Sharply, Dollar Drops Slightly

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold jumped sharply today but the U.S. dollar sank slightly on most international money markets.

Gold jumped $5 an ounce overnight in Zurich and climbed $3.25 an ounce in London. It opened in Zurich at $156.50 an ounce and in London at $155 an ounce.

Speculation touched off by the renewed fighting in Cyprus pushed gold's price still higher shortly after the London market opened. It moved quickly to $156.50 an ounce, in line with Zurich's price.

The dollar gained marginally in London, but slipped back in most other markets.

The initial London quotation was $2.3575 to the pound, making the pound fractionally cheaper than yesterday's $2.3590 closing rate.

But in Zurich the dollar slipped from yesterday's 2.9895 Swiss francs to 2.9795 francs today. In Paris it slid from yesterday's 4.79125 frances, the highest rate in nearly a month, to 4.79 francs today.

The dollar also slipped slightly in Frankfurt and Amsterdam.

German dealers priced it at 2.6140 marks today, down from yesterday's 2.6175 marks. In Amsterdam the morning rate of pared with yesterday's 2.6740 pared with Tuesday's 2.6740 guilders.

But two other markets bucked the trend.

In Brussels the American currency opened slightly higher, at 39.80 Belgian francs, compared with yesterday's 39.77 francs close. In Tokyo the dollar edged up, closing at 302.68 yen after starting the day at 302.30 yen.

Record Tomato

EASTBOURNE, England (UPI) — Charlie Roberts, 62, claimed a world record today for growing a tomato weighing 4 ¼ pounds. Roberts said he encouraged its growth by fitting headphones around it and playing it stereo music daylong.

Veto Of Transit Aid Bill Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican leaders, led by Rep. John J. Rhodes, said today a pending mass transit aid bill tentatively scheduled for floor action today would be inflationary and should be cut in half.

They hinted at a possible veto by President Ford if the measure is sent to him with the present $20 billion figure. Rhodes and other Republicans said they would offer amendments to cut the total federal grant money to $11.2 billion.
